V[illegible]44. NO. 1 NEW YORK, FRIDAY, JULY 1, 1938 TEN CENTS

Operators Who Locked Booths Win Jobs Back

Back Pay, Raises, Local 306 Pact Included

Six operators who went on a sit-down strike in five theatres of the United Long Island Theatres Corp. and barricaded themselves in the booths will be reinstated and the circuit will sign an agreement with Local 306, under an agreement reached yesterday.

The agreement brings to a close a fight which started with the sit-down last August and dragged through various stages in the State Labor Relations Board. A stipulation of settlement has been filed and the circuit's appeal in the Appellate Division will be dismissed.

The six operators are to return to their old jobs on Sunday and will receive an increase of 50 per cent over their wages at the time they left the circuit's employ. The agreement,

CBS 6-Month Total Put at $15,500,000

Preliminary estimates for January through June, 1938, show the CBS cumulative business total for the period to be well over $15,500,000, about five per cent better than the first six months of last year, and further ahead of any other half-year in the company's history.

New business, over and above renewal and resumption contracts, totals nearly $2,500,000 on CBS books now. According to CBS, the network within the past three weeks has signed contracts for future business representing a 175 per cent gain over the same period a year ago.

All the Fighting on Fight Pictures Isn't on Screen

Back not so long ago the stuff right off the boat or right out of the bathtub crossed state lines and found its way into the hands of retail dealers and the stomachs of the ultimate consumers. It was illegal, but it happened.

In those days—and in these, too—fight films cross state borders and find their way into exchanges and into theatres. This also is illegal, but it happens. The ultimate consumers see them and enjoy them, but the men who get them into theatres and get them out have their troubles.

It seems there's such a thing as "bicycling"; it also seems that making duplicate prints in laboratories here and there can be done, and is. It may be only a coincidence, but black eyes develop while fight films are still popular. Occasionally bandages appear. Quite frequently a husky fellow delivers the film to a theatre and stays there with it and collects in advance. Just as frequently exhibitors discover they are showing the wrong print and somebody lets them know with something less than Chesterfieldian gentility that they had better get rid of it, or else.

Circuits are not bothered. They get their prints and play them and return them to exchanges, but the subsequent runs who try to cut the clearance encounter odd difficulties.

In New York the copyright is good. Showing the films is legal in this state. It's also legal to export them to Canada and other countries, but crossing state lines is something else. There's no court protection.

At Denver the other day four film men were hailed into court and released in $500 bond for a hearing July 8 on charges of assault and battery. It is understood the film was hijacked and a duplicate made.

Louis and Schmeling settled their little argument in two minutes, four seconds. Before the gross is tallied on the film record of their encounter the Marquis of Queensbury rules will have been discarded for catch-as-catch-can style in many widely scattered places.

Portland Theatres Told to Stop B. N.

PORTLAND, June 30.—District Attorney James R. Bain today notified 20 Portland suburban theatres that they must cease violating the state's lottery statute by holding Bank Night.

Adding coals to the fire, the Hamrick-Evergreen circuit last night inaugurated Bank Night at its large east side suburban Oriental Theatre and planned another tonight at its leading suburban, the Hollywood.

Since 1933 Portland houses have had a gentleman's agreement that they would not use Bank Night or any

Conciliators May Disregard Legal Opinion

Importance Overshadows Trust Law Fear

The usually conservative attitude toward conciliation and related industry matters displayed by the legal representatives of the major film companies is expected to be encountered in the development of new plans for industry cooperation, but the attitude is expected to receive scant attention.

It is felt in many quarters that whereas the attorneys generally have taken the stand that such plans as are expected to be given consideration may subject the companies to charges of violating the Federal antitrust regulations, in this instance, with the exhibition interests of the country cooperating in the movement, there would be little danger of such construction put on the action by major distributors. It is believed that ◆ Travelers returning from Paris bring news of preparations there of great political significance. The French Government has spent $7,000,000 on decorations for the visit on July 14 of the King and Queen of England. Lalique fountains of exquisite beauty and various other important and impressive trimmings mark the boulevards and squares of Paris. If Mussolini could put on a show for Hitler, the French are going one better for their allies across the Channel.

◆ One of the nicest, most touching of the show-must-go-on stories comes from London. Noel Coward, long-time friend of Peggy Wood, wrote "Operette" especially for her and put a large share of his own money into the John C. Wilson production in London. Miss Wood, frantic over the cabled news that her husband, John V. A. Weaver, could not recover, played through two weeks of daily messages which told he was getting worse all the time. The show had not been doing very well up to this time, and Coward, out of sympathy for Miss Wood, wanted to close it.

◆ However, simultaneously with receipt of the hopeless message about Weaver's condition, two weeks before his death, business began to pick up. Miss Wood, theatre-wise, insisted on the show's remaining open so that Wilson and Coward could get their money out of the production, even make a profit, because they had helped her when she needed it. She played brilliantly night after night. As the cables came in telling her Johnny was a little worse, she rose to new heights. More and more the show took hold.

◆ Americans came into town and went first thing. It was a sellout. The night that Weaver died was the best night the show had had since opening. Old-timers said Miss Wood knew Johnny was dying and played as she never had before, although her heart was breaking. All London is applauding her courageous heart and those who know the story have a new respect for Coward.

◆ Mrs. Walt Disney wears two charm bracelets, both anniversary gifts from her husband commemorating not only their successful marriage but the success of his ideas. One bracelet dangles French enamel and gold charms of Mickey, Minnie, Donald, the three little pigs and the wolf, and other Disney characters. The second is a Snow White and seven dwarfs dingle-dangle. The little figures are exact replicas, in color, of the characters, exquisite in workmanship and design.

◆ Feed-Bag Dept.—Lunching at "21"—Jock Whitney and one; Orson Welles and Marc Blitzstein; Former Secretary of War Pat Hurley; Phil Reisman of RKO, Ralph Rolan, also of RKO. At the Tavern—Charley Bonn and Bill Garman, with Lowell Calvert of Selznick International.

Warners Lose Move In "Adeline" Suit

N. Y. Supreme Court Justice Peter Schmuck yesterday overruled the objections made by M. Witmark & Sons, Inc., Warner Bros. Pictures, Inc. and Warner Bros. Production Corp. to the cross interrogatories filed by Harry Armstrong and Richard H. Gerard, composers of the song, "Sweet Adeline," and plaintiffs in a $250,000 damage suit against Warner Bros. and M. Witmark & Sons.

The cross interrogatories will be used by the plaintiffs in an examination before trial of F. Hugh Herbert, Erwin Gelsey, Jerome Kern, Oscar Hammerstein, II, Hal Wallis and Mervyn LeRoy in Los Angeles.

The plaintiffs have brought suit claiming that the film, "Sweet Adeline," plagiarized their song of the same name.

Orders Loach Testimony

T. P. Loach, vice-president and secretary of Pathe Film Corp., was ordered yesterday by N. Y. Supreme Court Justice Peter Schmuck to submit to an examination before trial on the application of John F. O'Keefe, who is suing for $5,940 on an alleged judgment recovered against Pathe Studios, Inc., in California.

O'Keefe charged that Pathe Exchange controlled Pathe Studios and that it effected a transfer of all the assets of Pathe Studios to RKO "in fraud of creditors." He seeks an adjudication with Pathe Films as successor to Pathe Exchange as equally responsible with Pathe Studios for the payment of the judgment.

N. Y. Reviewers Have Mixed 'Tropic Holiday' Reactions

New York daily newspaper critics viewed "Tropic Holiday" with mixed reactions. Excerpts from their reviews follow.

Herald-Tribune— . . . The arena scenes have a pace and a flavor which are wanting in the rest of the film.

Journal American— . . . An amiable little warm-weather entertainment (highlighted by) melodious Mexican music and a burlesque bullfight.

Mirror—Most beautifully mounted and tastefully produced of the recent Paramount musicals. . . . Robust entertainment. . . . Delightful.

News—Its appeal is to the young and giddy. . . . One grand comedy sequence. . . . The direction is smooth.

Sun— . . . Designed as summer entertainment, light, undramatic and pleasing to eye and ear . . . technically perfect.

negotiated with Joseph D. Basson, president of Local 306, also provides that on Nov. 1 a new agreement will be signed granting another 50 per cent increase, which, according to the union, will bring the theatres' scales up to the level of other similar houses.

Though the Appellate Division ordered the circuit to pay the total amount of back salaries, amounting to $4,000, this was compromised at $2,000, to be paid in 40 weekly installments of $10 per projectionist, starting Oct. 1.

On June 6 the circuit asked for a stay of the enforcement decree given by Judge S. I. Rosenman. The labor board agreed to a stay provided the circuit would post $10,000 bond. This was refused and the settlement thereupon was negotiated.

The case was the first in the local industry to come before the labor board for adjudication and is regarded as setting a precedent. The theatres involved, operated by the Interboro Circuit, are the Island, Hollis; St. Albans and Linden, St. Albans, the Laurelton and Little Neck.

Members of the Empire State union have been employed in the theatres since the Local 306 men struck 10 months ago. The operators to be reinstated are Fred Metzger, John McGrath, Thomas Bennett, Lloyd Ford, Franklin Royal and Edmund Balsdon.

Hollywood Preview

"Meridian 7-1212"

(20th Century-Fox)

HOLLYWOOD, June 30.—"Meridian 7-1212" is the initial picture in the "Roving Reporter" series. In theme, it follows an established idea. Melodrama, romance and comedy are the standby ingredients. It is the story of a newspaper man who turns detective to solve a crime. While mystery and suspense have their place in the general scheme, a couple of novel twists have been inserted to give the film a degree of difference. Although there is considerable dialogue and a lot of comic gagging, there is no lack of action and several times the film attained a point of excitement that had the preview crowd sitting on the seat edges.

The principal new features introduced are the facts that the title is the number New Yorkers dial when they wish the correct time and in this instance the murderer contrives to have it serve as his alibi. The girl who helps the reporter solve the mystery is a bill collector by avocation.

With framed circumstantial evidence putting Robert Kellard on the spot for a murder he did not commit, thus bringing sorrow to his phone operator sweetheart, Jean Rogers, who announces the time, Michael Whelan, accompanied by his cameraman stooge, Chick Chandler, leaps into the case with the idea of righting a wrong, showing up the cops and trapping the real killer. Shortly he has Gloria Stuart on his neck attempting to collect a bill, but he quickly wheedles her into helping him. Chasing a complicated chain of clews, Whelan eliminates Douglas Fowley, gangster, from suspicion, saves Lester Matthews, a banker, who had a motive for killing the girl, and in the climax leads the police to the murderer, Peter Lynn. Thereafter there is time for romance with Miss Stuart.

The film is generally well acted. Though some of the gagging is repititious, the melodramatic mystery content has a fresh quality. Jerry Cady adapted from Irving Reis' original story and H. Bruce Humberstone directed.

Running time, 60 minutes. "G."

The I.T.O.A. has issued a warning to member theatres to be careful in signing for merchant tieup schemes. A number of theatres have recently participated in a bicycle giveaway stunt.

in view of the accepted fact that the conciliation plans under way are obviously in the interest of betterment of the entire industry, there would be no question of violations of statutes.

Sidney R. Kent, president of 20th Century-Fox and chairman of the distributor committee just formed to proceed with conciliation plans, once remarked that if anything constructive were to be done, it would have to be without the services of the attorneys. He referred to their rigidly conservative attitude.

Indicative of the reactions of attorneys on the matter is the opinion of Tryree Dillard, who was counsel for the NRA film code administration, and who, since the invalidation of the NRA, has been a member of Loew's legal staff, in charge of adjudicating exhibitor contractual matters.

M-G-M Ready, Says Dillard

Mr. Dillard pointed out that M-G-M executives are ready and willing to adopt a conciliation program, but so far no formula has been found which, in the opinion of attorneys, will protect the company against lawsuits by aggrieved exhibitors.

The danger, said Mr. Dillard, arises from the fact that if company representatives serving on a board act concertedly in any matter, the complainant, if he feels the decision has injured him, may go to court with a conspiracy suit. At least, that is the advice of interested counsel and the point which has not yet been answered to their satisfaction.

"Since the NRA was held unconstitutional by the Supreme Court three years ago, the industry has been seeking a formula which would solve many of the problems which constantly need adjudication," Mr. Dillard declared.

Small Exhibitors Complainants

The majority of the complaints come from small exhibitors whose business means little to a major company but who, collectively, may influence the course of legislation through their local Congressmen, Mr. Dillard pointed out. It is this type of grievance which the industry seeks to avoid, he added.

He also pointed out that the two major causes of complaints are not within the distributors' power to remedy. These are overbuying and unfair clearance, which, Mr. Dillard said, are both exhibition practices and can be remedied by the exhibitors concerned. With regard to clearance and zoning, it is Mr. Dillard's belief that if a board should set up a plan which in its operation imposes a hardship on any exhibitor, he might attempt to find a solution through a lawsuit with possible conspiracy implications.

Vickerey Is Promoted

PITTSBURGH, June 30. — Chester Vickerey has just been named assistant to Michael J. Cullen, managing director of Loew's Penn.

Milwaukee Shortage Aids Revival Spread

Milwaukee, June 30.—Shortage of product and poor business are current headaches of local exhibitors. As a result of the former, reissues have put in their appearance with Fox's Palace, first run house, currently dualing "The Count of Monte Cristo" and "I Cover the Waterfront," and the Riverside showing "Son of the Sheik" with its regular vaudeville show.

Rumblings of further requests for a cut from the projectionists are heard with various houses reported having issued ultimatums to the union that unless they receive relief within the next two weeks they will close.

Indications are that there will be more closings in this area this summer than last. Fox is operating its Grace and Riviera on weekends only. Reports are that other neighborhood houses may be conducted on similarly curtailed schedules or blacked entirely until fall.

Conn. MPTO Plans August Golf Tourney

New Haven, June 30.—The Connecticut M.P.T.O. is planning a third annual industry golf tournament at Racebrook Country Club Aug. 2. E. Hoffman, Irving C. Jacocks, Jr., Adolph G. Johnson, Edward G. Levy, Arthur Lockwood, Sam Rosen, Harry F. Shaw, Max Tabackman, William Vuono, Robert Cobe, Morris Joseph, Abe Mattes, Morris Nunes, Barney Pitkin, Edward Ruff, Philip Sherman, Ben Simon, Lester Tobias, Lou Wechsler and N. C. Wrisley.

Tickets at $5 will include luncheon, dinner, and golf, as well as non-golfers' activities, with prizes for all.

Thomas Dixon Busy On New Film Story

Charlotte, June 30. — Thomas Dixon, author of "The Clansman," upon which the "Birth of a Nation" was built, is working on a new full-length sound version of the famous picture.

Dixon, who is serving as clerk of the Federal Court for the Eastern District of North Carolina, is completing "The Flaming Sword," a sequel to "The Clansman" and "The Leopard's Spots." He is now editing the copy in his office at Raleigh.

To Mr. Dixon, the New Deal is anathema, but after his fire and brimstone campaign in behalf of Alf Landon for president, he received an appointment under Judge I. M. Meekins, a holdover from Republican days, to be clerk of the Eastern District Federal Court.

Movietone News

Vol. 20, No. 84

(20th Century-Fox)

War is graphically pictured in the opening clip of this reel, with Japanese naval vessels shelling Anking from the Yangtze River, planes bombing the city, a landing party disembarking at night, and parts of the city aflame as Japanese troops advance over open country and through the streets.

Real interest and entertainment is to be found in the race on the Sacramento River between a new and an old river steamer. A group of American sailors disembark to see the sights of Paris, and in Cincinnati mothers stage a child-calling contest. The latest bathing suit styles occupy the fashion footage, and a group of Army bombers wing their way high above Mt. Lassen in the west.

Lew Lehr has verbal fun at the expense of the world's tiniest man, seen in a boardwalk chair and on the beach. The Massachusetts race in which War Admiral lost badly to Menow, and an exhibition of American Olympic diving champions hold the sporting spotlight and complete a good reel. Running time, 10 mins. A.

News of the Day

Vol. 9, No. 282

(M-G-M)

A pictorial method of presenting important news is employed in the opening sequence. The news is the current flare in England concerning the bombing of English ships off Spain, presumably by Italian planes for Franco. The method is a verbal description of the situation, with pictures of Prime Minister Chamberlain, ex-Prime Minister Lloyd George, the signing of the Anglo-Italian pact recently, threats at Gibraltar, Premier Mussolini, and the recent bombing exhibition in Italy.

The entertaining race between old and new river steamers on the Sacramento River is well pictured, the aged Civil War veterans are seen converging on Gettysburg, prospective life guards compete for posts in Chicago, shots of a U. S. Army bombing squadron flying over Mt. Lassen offer beautiful mountain scenery, and Crown Prince Gustav Adolph of Sweden speaks briefly in faultless English.

The sporting division pictures the annual college crew race at Poughkeepsie, and the Suffolk Downs race in which War Admiral is soundly beaten by Menow. Running time, 10 mins. A.

Issue No. 95

(Paramount)

Youth opens this reel, age closes it. The mighty navy crew clipping 14-3/5 seconds from the four-mile record, ends Western supremacy in the Intercollegiate Regatta on the Hudson at Poughkeepsie. New York City, playing host to 15,000 educators in convention here, shows gigantic exhibits of modern school crafts.

Names and events in the headlines pick up Crown Prince Gustaf Adolf of Sweden, en route to a New York hospital; Aunt Sarah Stevens, born in slavery in 1807, making claims in her native Georgia to title of oldest person in the United States; and men in the New Mexico mountains seeking trace of lost Chicago heir Medill McCormick.

Menow's eight-length victory at Suffolk Downs and Sir Hubert Wilkins' announcement from New York of his contemplated trip under polar ice in a submarine bring the reel up to its last clip. At Gettysburg for the last time are survivors of the Blue and the Grey of the Civil War gathered together on the battlefield of 75 years ago. Running time, 9 mins. I. K.

RKO Pathe News

Vol. 9, No. 99

(RKO)

John Montague's performance on the links with a baseball bat, a shovel and a rake instead of the conventional golf irons will create plenty of stir among the devotees of the game. This clip is perhaps the high spot of the issue.

The topics include: Search for John Medill McCormick in the Sandia Mountains; Sweden's Crown Prince Gustav Adolf rushed to a New York hospital while his son acts for him in the Tercentenary celebration; Mussolini's Bersaglieri, crack regiment, celebrates its 100th anniversary with some fancy gymnastics; a 34-mile surf board race at Catalina Island; greyhounds chasing a live rabbit in Australia; interiors of the palatial Bermuda-New York airliners in flight; Menow winning the $50,000 handicap at Suffolk Downs racetrack. Running time, 8½ mins. F.

Universal Newsreel

Vol. 10, No. 680

(Universal)

Veterans of the blue and gray Armies in tents at Gettysburg are shown in the opening clip of this reel. The activity of some of these men 75 years after the historic battle is amazing. It's a fine human interest number.

The son of the Crown Prince of Sweden is an attractive individual. He is shown leaving the Kungsholm and participating in other exercises observing the 300th anniversary of the landing of the Swedes in Delaware. A new 16-inch coast defense gun is shown under construction. An Argentine training ship arrives at New Orleans. Some shots of new hats are presented.

Considerable fast movement is included in the four other subjects—the Poughkeepsie regatta, a track meet at Evanston, Ill., a steamboat race on the Sacramento River, and Menow winning the Massachusetts handicap at Suffolk Downs. Running time, 9 mins. J.

Canada Drive Opened For Reduced Rentals

Toronto, June 30.—The latest move on the part of the Independent Theatres Association of Ontario is to launch a campaign for reduced film rentals for the coming season, the agitation having been started prior to the signing of contracts for 1938-'39 product by independent exhibitors. The reason advanced by Harold secretary of the association, is that general falling off in business justifies a demand for lowered cost of film for next year.

"Bad box-office due to general conditions cannot be remedied by us," declared Mr. Kay in a statement on the subject, in which he called on exhibitors to work together for mutual protection. "We should be in a position to get price reductions on pictures for next year's product. There have been drastic cuts in production cost Much of the product now being delivered is below the expected and advertised standard. Distributors are seeking to make an iron-clad contract even more rigid through alteration of certain clauses where small glimmerings of exhibitor rights still exist."

"Prison Farm"

(Paramount)

While the cast boasts no outstanding screen names and the story, in the main, is rather grim and production detail, in several instances, realistically accentuates the brutality of prison life, "Prison Farm" is, nevertheless, an interesting picture. It is capably directed by Louis King and played to the hilt of its spirit by Shirley Ross, Lloyd Nolan, John Howard, J. Carroll Naish, Esther Dale, Porter Hall, May Boley, Marjorie Main, Anna Q. Nilsson and John Hart. As melodrama carries the brunt of the action, there is comparatively little that savors of lightness or gayety, but well constructed romance balances the heaviness.

The main plot follows the career of a girl who has gotten into police difficulties unwittingly. Happiness seems to lie ahead for Miss Ross as she elopes with Nolan, unaware that he is a murdering robber. Following a fight with Naish, who attempts to force himself on the girl, Nolan accepts a six-month prison farm sentence for assault rather than have his finger prints taken. Miss Ross is similarly sentenced as an accomplice. Hard labor is her lot and, though Nolan tries to buy his way out, he is continually the victim of guard Naish's vengeance. As prison doctor, Howard, becomes sympathetically interested in the girl, the flaming enmity between Nolan and Naish culminates in the former's wounding during an attempted break. Prior to dying, Nolan clears Miss Ross of any complicity in his crimes. As she leaves the prison, Howard resigns to be with her. The film has a strongly melodramatic quality.

Running time, 65 minutes. "A."

"Riders of the Black Hills"

(Republic)

There is no dearth of the type of western action that audiences desire in this account of the further adventures of The Three Mesquiteers. Bob Livingston, Ray Corrigan and Max Terhune are cast in the sort of roles they fit and the story upon which much riding, shooting, joking and scrapping hangs is an interesting tale.

When Black Lightning, a thoroughbred race horse, is kidnapped the trio is arrested for having an animal that resembles it. They are locked up in Sheriff Roscoe Ates' jail. Ann Evers, niece of Maude Eburn, the nag's owner, comes for the animal and the boys face a jail term. Terhune manages a humorous escape and they set about to clear themselves. Pursuing this end they are ultimately absolved of the crime and, learning of Miss Eburn's philanthropic bent, they lend their aid. Mesquite, their horse, is entered in a race and wins. The kidnappers of Black Lightning decide to play their hand threatening to tell of the ringer. The required ransom is delivered and the criminals fall into the Mesquiteers' hands after an exciting bit of equine pursuit. The prize money goes to a children's hospital and Livingston, the most romantic of the trio, is still single at the conclusion. There are a few loose ends to the yarn which are left hanging when the plot has run out, but they can be overlooked.

The performances measure up satisfactorily. Camera work is William Nobles' usual first-rate job. George Sherman directed.

Running time, 55 minutes. "G."

"South Riding"

(Korda-United Artists)

This film, produced by Alexander Korda's London Film under the hand of Victor Saville, is typically an English story, at least insofar as content, setting and people are concerned. That being the case, and in view of the pronounced English cast, it is possible that the exhibitor will be under the necessity of bearing that in mind in selling the film.

"South Riding," which is the fictitious name of a small, agricultural English county, tells a human story, but tells it much in the fashion of its people, slowly, with a tendency to "plod its homeward way." Only toward the conclusion does the pace perceptibly quicken. The performances are capable, headed by those of Edna Best, who may be known in this country; Robert Carne and Edmund Gwenn.

The exhibitor in this case might better offer for the attention of patrons the film's story, since the title will mean but little to the average American who has not read the novel by Winifred Holtby from which the film is taken, and the players' names are not too familiar on this side.

As adapted by Ian Dalrymple, the story comes close to being a series of character sketches. As a matter of fact, the screen credits call the picture "a landscape." Typically English is the background about which the tale of the individual members of the County Council is told, each with his actions reflecting the person, and centering about the new school head and the master of the county's estate.

Running time, 84 minutes. "G."

State Warners Will Join in Industry Move

Point Out Albert Warner Was at White House

Warners will support an industry trade practice reform program, it is learned from an authoritative source. The company's stand has been a matter for speculation for a long time. It was the only company which failed to reply to the M.P.T.O.A. 10-point program last year.

Avoiding comment on any specific proposal, a spokesman declared that the fact Albert Warner attended the film executives' conference with President Roosevelt at the White House recently should be sufficient indication that Warners are going along with the other major distributors to arrive at a program of self-regulation.

It is declared that Will H. Hays is taking a deep personal interest in the move and is urging quick action. It was because of his insistence on action that distributor opinion shaped up sufficiently to have a committee

Loew's Attacks Use Of Propaganda Film

Loew's Circuit has voiced a policy in opposition to the use of the theatre screen for propaganda films, in an advertisement in the Catholic organ, The Tablet, which has criticized "Blockade" for being pro-Loyalist propaganda.

"We do not believe the motion picture theatre is the place for political propaganda and we have carefully avoided showing pictures of the 'propaganda' type. We feel that as purveyors of popular entertainment, we

Gain in Free Shows Stirs Up Exhibitors

Midwest, South Portable Outfits Spreading

Exhibitors' complaints regarding non-theatrical exhibitions put on by merchants in the midwest and south are increasing this summer and the distributors are on the lookout for copyright violations it was said by Jack Levin, head of the Copyright Protection Bureau.

Exhibitors regard free shows sponsored by merchants in halls or outdoors as stiff competition, particularly since they are put on in or near small towns with a limited population draw.

The distributors have received a number of complaints from exhibitors in the northwest and from the Independent Theatres Protective Association of Wisconsin and Upper Michigan. While the distributors are blamed for permitting the spread of the practice, the home offices say that as a general policy the exchanges are not permitted to service non-theatrical

Compromise Studied On Ohio Relief Tax

COLUMBUS, July 4.—The House of Representatives is considering a compromise agreement for the financing of poor relief, which includes a proposal to extend the three per cent admissions tax through 1941.

A deadlock was reached last week, when the Senate and House disagreed over the amount political subdivisions should be permitted to borrow on anticipated revenues from excise taxes.

Leaders said the Senate will agree to a provision of the tax-extender bill which would permit political subdivisions to borrow up to 80 per cent on anticipated revenues, while the

French Triples

Paris, July 4. — Three French theatres here have adopted a regular policy of triple bills, the three features shown for an admission of four francs (about 11 cents). A recent bill at one of the houses required four hours and 30 minutes.

French trade organizations are considering methods of halting the practice.

Japan Delays On Easing of Import Rules

Little progress has been made in negotiations looking to a relaxation of the strict restrictions on the importation of American pictures into Japan and the embargo on the withdrawal of any money from that country, it was indicated yesterday in informed distributor circles here.

The problem is scarcely nearer to a solution than it was many months ago, it was indicated, despite reports some time ago that the matter had been satisfactorily compromised and that American product once more would be able to enter Japan.

The inactivity with reference to the problem is seen here as especially interesting in view of the three-cornered agreement among Germany, Italy and Japan, for the exchange of "cultural" films. The Foreign Office has concluded the arrangement in cooperation with the Society for the Promotion of International Culture. Specific terms have been concluded already between Japan and Italy, and a detailed arrangement is expected to be worked out with Germany in the near future.

It was pointed out that the recent Cabinet shakeup in Tokyo, which included the replacement of the Minister

Month's Holdovers in Keys Reach Total of 650 Weeks

A total of 24 leading features of major companies have played approximately 650 weeks of holdovers in the first run theatres of 23 key cities scattered about the country, according to a compilation from MOTION PICTURE DAILY'S records of holdover attractions taken from its box-office reports. The period covered is from approximately the last week in May until July 1.

The large totals are seen as indicative of two factors of importance in the current film situation. One, that the public will not fail to offer strong support at the box-office to strong attractions, and two, that im-

Selznick-U.A. Talks Await Silverstone

Negotiations Have Been Held via London

A decision on David O. Selznick's future affiliation with United Artists will be reached following the return of Maurice Silverstone, U. A. general manager, from England next Monday.

Negotiations are in progress for the release of a number of Selznick films through U. A. during 1938-'39, says George J. Schaefer, general distribution head. The probability that "Gone with the Wind" will be an M-G-M release will have no bearing on the renewal of the releasing agreement with U. A., it was said. Mr. Schaefer pointed out that the contract for the one picture has not been signed as yet with M-G-M.

Though Mr. Silverstone is occupied with many other matters during his present stay in London, the Selznick deal is very much in his mind, it was said, and it is understood the negotiations have been proceeding from there.

The U. A. directors' meeting which was scheduled for today, under the company's by-laws, will be deferred until Mr. Silverstone's return. The forthcoming meeting is to dispose of several important matters, including a new long term contract for Mr.

My Word!

By Irene Kuhn

◆ Exhibitors with Shirley Temple pictures scheduled for showing next week are lucky. The little star arrived in New York yesterday and J. P. McEvoy, who did the dialogue for her latest picture, has a story about her in the latest Saturday Evening Post.

◆ Some columnists undoubtedly will comment on the Post's lucky "timing" again, for many times within the past year they've run articles which broke simultaneously with big news or promotion that tied in directly with the articles.

◆ Selznick has shelved "Earl of Chicago" temporarily and is seeking a story for Edward G. Robinson which will give him a chance at a new characterization. Gangster roles, in which Robinson rose to fame and fortune are done. They're no go any more in the foreign market.

◆ Conscious of a demonstrated box-office pull of great musicians on the screen, Hollywood has signed Violinist Jascha Heifetz and is angling for Jose Iturbi. . . . Stokowski showed his stuff with Deanna Durbin and Paderewski's appearance in "Moonlight Sonata" has been widely acclaimed. Both Heifetz and Iturbi are considered excellent picture bets. Both are photogenic and have a great following which picture moguls think can be even larger.

◆ Iturbi has been conducting the Stadium concerts and will fly west the second week in July to conduct the Hollywood Bowl concerts July 14, 15, 21 and 22. He'll settle film offers while on the coast.

Coxe, made March 28, dismissing Clancy's complaint.

Suit was brought charging plagiarism by the defendants in "A Day at the Races" of the plaintiff's play, "Nuts to You," and asked the court for an injunction, accounting of profits and $250,000 damages.

Japan Delays On Easing of Import Rules

of Finance, may have had considerable to do with delay in the negotiatio[illegible] a settlement of the American [illegible] problem. This naturally is under jurisdiction of the Finance Ministry.

As the matter stands now, importation is non-existant, as it has been since October of 1937, when the prohibiting legislation became effective. With regard to the withdrawal of money from the country, a request from American interests some time ago that they be permitted to withdraw cash from Japan met with a flat and unequivocal refusal from the Japanese authorities. The cost of the Japanese hostilities in China make such restrictions virtually a necessity. However, an arrangement was struck whereby American film interests could take their money from Japan in the form of three-year notes.

Roxy Gets Income Order

Federal Judge Francis G. Caffey has ordered the U. S. Collector of Internal Revenue for the Third District to file any claim which he may have against the Roxy Theatre Corp. by August 1 or else be barred from filing his claim.

The order was granted in response to the request of Roxy Theatre, which expressed a desire to finally wind up the affairs of the reorganization, but found it owned internal revenue for the year of Oct. 29, 1936, through Oct. 28, 1937, and from Oct. 29, 1937, to date.

SHOWMEN'S TRADE REVIEW

Paramount Comes Through

Paramount, undoubtedly, could strengthen its next season line-up by holding to its original schedule on which three pictures in particular were set for the new season release as follows: "Give Me A Sailor," "The Texans," and "Spawn of the North." All three are strong box office pictures.

Instead Paramount has announced that these three pictures will be included in the group to be released during the summer months and as part of the company's 1937-38 product.

Exhibitors who bought Paramount product this season have much to rejoice over in this announcement. It not only strengthens the season's average from Paramount but comes to the exhibitor's aid just at the time when he needs help.

As a forerunner of goodwill, this gesture from Paramount will go a long way toward cementing the fine relations it has been building up with its exhibitor customers and augurs well for a successful season in 1938-39.

Mr. Levin says he has made a survey of the situation and has found that 90 per cent of the films involved in itinerant exhibitions are from independent exchanges. Many of the others use 16 mm. films. There are instances, he says, where pictures from the major distributors make their way illegally into these channels and prompt steps are taken upon their discovery.

Investigation has proved, says Mr. Levin, that films may disappear without explanation from exchanges, being stolen or "lost." They come into the possession of "bootleg" distributors who have a ready market among the itinerant circuit operators. A usual practice is to strip the titles in order to prevent identification and it is difficult in such instances for the agents of the Copyright Protection Bureau to spot the contraband.

Exhibitor Cooperation Asked

Mr. Levin said that the legitimate distributors are doing everything possible to prevent the spread of illegal exhibitions and the cooperation of exhibitors would go a long way to prevent them. He suggests that where any case of illegality is suspected or known, that exhibitors communicate immediately with the Copyright Protection Bureau, which will put an agent on the case. The bureau is located in the RKO Building, New York.

The free show situation has been aggravated in the last two years by the economy and mobility of 16 mm. projection equipment. A large number of films are available from 16 mm. libraries which, though quite old, are suitable for showing in outlying communities.

Itinerant exhibitors using illegal methods are reported to be on the increase in South Carolina, Indiana and Kentucky.

The three distribution department heads on the committee, W. F. Rodgers, M-G-M; Ned E. Depinet, RKO, and Abe Montague, Columbia, are charged with the duties of exploring the views of all companies and exhibitor groups. To them will fall the brunt of the work. Mr. Kent, as chairman, or the alternates, Nicholas M. Schenck and Leo Spitz, will coordinate activities.

A call for a meeting with exhibitor spokesmen may go out late in July, according to present anticipation.

W. Ray Johnston, Monogram president, declares that his company "does not plant to participate in any conferences with exhibitors' representatives which are intended to solve problems that certain companies are confronted with."

"This statement is being written at the suggestion of Mrs. James Looram, chairman of the Motion Picture Department, International Federation of Catholic Alumnae, who is familiar with our policies and our situation in this instance."

Schaefer as head of distribution in the United States and Canada.

With the transfer of the company's executive headquarters to New York, the coast directors either have resigned or will do so shortly. In the absence of the owner principals, New York directors have been designated to represent them at board meetings. James Mulvey will speak for Samuel Goldwyn, Dennis F. O'Brien for Mary Pickford, Ed Raftery for Douglas Fairbanks and Charles Schwartz for Charlie Chaplin. These four, with Mr. Schaefer, constitute the eastern board members. Emanuel Silverstone, American representative for Alexander Korda, will act for the latter, but is not a board member.

It is confirmed that the five-year contract given Maurice Silverstone as general manager contains sweeping powers and that he will exercise the functions of the company's chief executive officer in all respects. He is winding up his affairs in Great Britain and will arrive here with his wife and two children who have lived in England for years.

Miss Pickford is due here about Aug. 1. It was said that her trip may not have much to do with U. A. affairs since she is interested in the development of a cosmetics company and the Film Treatizor Corp., which is marketing a device to prevent projector fires.

"Going to Be Rich" Is Now at the Globe

"We're Going to be Rich," 20th Century-Fox film produced in England and starring Gracie Fields, opened at Harry Brandt's Globe on Saturday. A run of three weeks is looked for by the management.

There was possibility that the picture would go into the Roxy, but the release of "The Rage of Paris," currently, and "Alexander's Ragtime Band," on Aug. 5, prevented the booking, it is understood. "We're Going to be Rich" is the first "A" film to play the Globe in many months.

The Brandt circuit plans to return the Gaiety to burlesque late in August. The house has been devoted to films since Commissioner Paul Moss's crusade against burlesque last year.

Book Bernie, Nelson For Shows at Strand

In accordance with its new policy to book "name" entertainers as stage attractions in conjunction with the film show at the Strand, Warners have completed the schedule for 12 weeks with Ben Bernie slated to open Aug. 15. "Boy Meets Girl," featuring James Cagney and Pat O'Brien, will be the screen fare.

The Old Maestro will be followed by Ozzie Nelson and his orchestra, assisted by Harriet Hilliard and a number of specialty artists. They will stay two weeks, the run of "Women Courageous," starring the Lane sisters and Claude Rains.

Artell Dixon, who plays one of the characters in "Pretty Kitty Kelly," the air series on CBS, arrived in the studio about 10 minutes before air time, then strolled away. Came air time, and with Dixon still absent the show went on without him, Bud Collyer, another cast member, doubling in two roles. With the broadcast about over, Dixon came rushing into the studio and just did manage to read his final line.

It being one of the sunshiny days in a week marked by rain, he had gone up to the roof of the building to catch himself a bit of old sol, and reclining on a beach cot, he had promptly dozed off.

The "Pretty Kitty Kelly" players, incidentally, have been dropping dimes into a box for every "muff" they make on the air. The fund has now reached $20.10, and the players plan to keep up the stunt until Christmas, when the money will be used for a party.

Ward Baking Co., sponsoring the "Jane Arden" series on NBC, recently tested the players in the show to see if they could pick out a slice of Ward bread from among samples a half-dozen competitive brands. After smelling, tasting and studying the bread samples, six players of the cast of eight successfully picked out the sponsor's bread. One of those who flunked the test was Allan Kent. He's the lad who tells the listeners why they should buy Ward bread in preference to the others.

Joan Edwards, featured vocalist in the Whiteman series is being deluged with mail from railroad brotherhoods around the country, requesting that she sing a song written by a railroad brakeman, "On a Blind Date With You." The railroading songwriter, it seems wrote to all the chapters of the brotherhood, asking the membership to help out in the cause.

"Poetry on the Spot," a new idea in audience participation shows, was being tested at WHN the other night. Jingles, with the last words of each line omitted, are provided, and the audience is asked to contribute the missing words, which of course must rhyme. The test was coning along fine until a member of the audience contributed the word "orange," stopping the rhyming cold. The kibitzer was Al Simon, WHN's publicity director.

NLRB Plea at Republic

Hollywood, July 4.—The jurisdictional dispute smoldering between Studio Utility Employes, Local 724, and the I.A.T.S.E. and which started as an aftermath of last year's studio strike, reached the National Labor Relations Board offices today when Local 724 filed a petition to be certified as the collective bargaining agency for laborers at the Republic studios. Included in the petition filed by L. C. Helm was the statement that Victor Clarke, producer labor contact man, had told members of Local 724 to join the I.A.T.S.E. in order to get studio work.

The I.A.T.S.E. last year took more than half the Local 724 members by the establishment of the new classification of utility men known as Class B Grips following the Federated Motion Picture Crafts strike in which Local 724 was active. Local 724, whose international is the General Building and Construction Laborers of America, claims a majority of the 75 laborers working at Republic at the present time.

editorial and office workers, the guild has given Local 702 assurance that it will not attempt to take over other branches of newsreel operation, which are vested in the I. A. T. S. E.

Local 702 is deferring negotiations with newsreel laboratories until present discussions with Warners' laboratories, Malcolm and H. E. R. are ended. The union hopes to have contracts signed with these laboratories in two weeks. Negotiations with De Luxe, which have reached a stalemate, will be resumed later.

No Decision Made on Studio Union Talks

Pat Casey is still not certain whether a conference will be held this year on revisions on the basic agreement with the studio unions. So far no request for such a conference has been received from the crafts, he said.

It is Mr. Casey's understanding that the unions are canvassing opinion among themselves on the need for a conference this year.

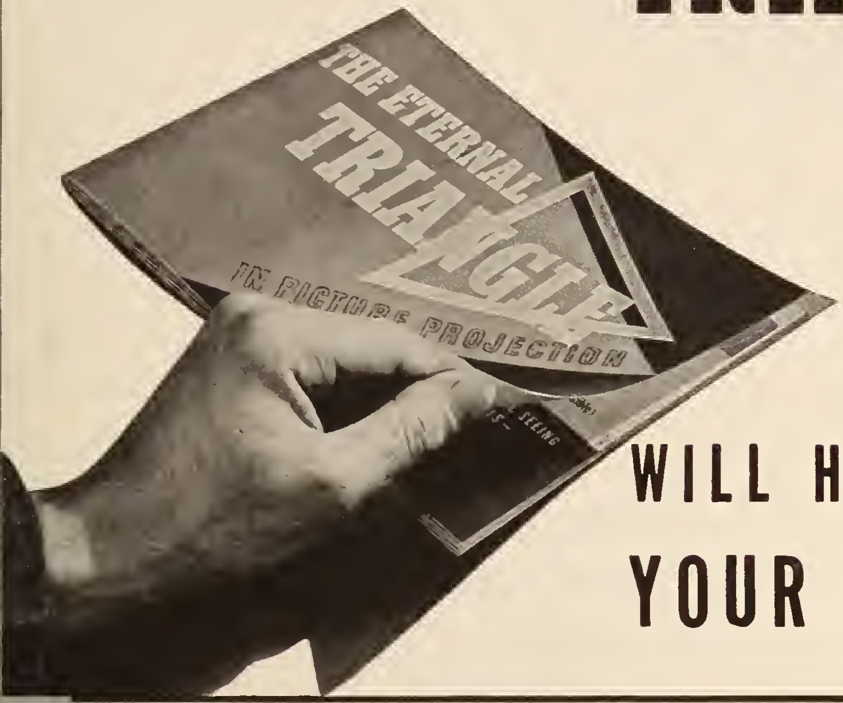
Production Set on L. I.

Milton Schwarzwald, producer and director of Nu-Atlas and Mentone short subjects will shortly begin production at the Eastern Service Studios in Long Island City on two series of musical films to be released by Universal and RKO.

Capra Signs H. B. Warner

Hollywood, July 4.—H. B. Warner, who was featured in Frank Capra's "Mr. Deeds Goes to Town" and "Lost Horizon" for Columbia, has been signed for Capra's "You Can't Take It with You," now in production.

A STUDY OF THE TRIANGLE



WILL HELP SOLVE YOUR PROBLEM

The solution of a difficult geometric problem is accomplished simply and easily by reducing it to terms of the triangle. Many problems of the theater can likewise be solved by reduction to the Triangle of Vision.

The basis of this method of solution has been worked out for you in the booklet, "The Eternal Triangle in Picture Projection." In clear, simple language, supplemented by explanatory illustrations, this little book tells how Simplified High Intensity projection solves the problems of the theater through the triangle of vision.

Monogram to Build Studio, Weeks States

Location for New Plant Not Revealed

HOLLYWOOD, July 5.—Monogram will build its own new studio in Hollywood, it was stated here today by George W. Weeks, Monogram director of sales, who declared:

"Exhibitor reaction to such of our pictures as 'Boy of the Streets' and 'Girl of the Limberlost,' recently released, makes this move necessary. We have aimed to reach the man in the street. It has been proved that the man who rides the street car must be served. Our policy is to please him."

Speaking of double bills, Mr. Weeks said, "it has often been demonstrated that the second picture is the dessert of the dinner. When the first course is undigestible the dessert frequently makes the whole meal enjoyable."

Mr. Weeks will leave here Friday for New York. Location and other details concerning the new studio were not divulged.

Many Places Seeking 10% Operator Cut

Circuits Want Chicago Example Extended

A 10 per cent reduction in wages accepted by the Chicago operators' union for July and August is indicative of efforts being made by circuits and exhibitors generally in the larger cities to obtain concessions during the summer slump, it was said here yesterday by circuit spokesmen.

The Chicago cut was effective July 1 and will save $50,000 for exhibitors in that city.

Balaban & Katz, Paramount affiliate, and RKO are the major circuits benefiting by the Chicago concession. RKO circuit headquarters here yesterday said that similar reductions have been requested nationally.

Negotiations are being conducted locally by the circuits' zone or district managers, and some theatre managers are acting collectively.

New York operators and stagehands' unions have not as yet taken any move toward a reduction, although exhibitor representatives asked for relief during the summer. The local unions have had the circuits' request before them since last March.

Interstate Motions Overruled by Court

DALLAS, July 5.—All defense motions to modify findings of fact and conclusions at law in the Interstate Circuit anti-trust case recently sent back from the Supreme Court today were overruled by Judge W. H. Atwell. He gave his findings and conclusions on the case, as requested by the high court. George S. Wright, attorney for Interstate, now has 90 days in which to perfect the appeal.

In his rulings Judge Atwell held, as before, that in fixing prices on subsequent runs and the time to elapse before re-running Interstate and several major distributors acted in violation of the monopoly laws.

KENNEDY APPEALS FOR COOPERATION

England, U. S. Need Each Other, He States at Silverstone Party

By AUBREY FLANAGAN

LONDON, July 5.—A pointed and dramatic appeal for collaboration between the film interests of Great Britain and the United States was made here today by Joseph P. Kennedy, American Ambassador to England, following an unexpected appearance at the farewell testimonial luncheon given Murray Silverstone, who, as executive head of United Artists, has given up his post as managing director of the company in England, and will make his permanent headquarters in New York.

The luncheon was sponsored by the Cinematograph Exhibitors' Association and the Kinematograph Renters' Society (distributors), and apparently it was not generally anticipated that the Ambassador, who had just returned from a visit to the United States, was to appear. The American Ambassador, once concerned in, and always considered a friend of the motion picture business, made his appearance when the luncheon was almost over, accompanied by Fayette

German Rules Apply

Berlin, July 5.—All regulations covering the German film industry and the importation of foreign films have been extended by official decree to Austria.

Says British Plants Need U S. Producers

English studio activity depends on the stimulus to be given British production by American companies under the new quota act, but one thing is certain, that cheap quota "quickies" are a thing of the past, it is reported by James A. FitzPatrick, who returned Monday from London.

Mr. FitzPatrick went over with the intention of winding up FitzPatrick Productions, Ltd., which made quota films for M-G-M last year. Shortly after his arrival there, he was asked by a major company to defer liquidation of the company pending the discussion of a production deal.

He cut his London stay short and returned here to negotiate the deal, which provides for four double quota films, two of which may be in color. Mr. FitzPatrick's studio is at Sound City.

He credits M-G-M's "A Yank at Oxford" with setting an example for other American companies in the production of films in England.

Equity Turns Down Request from Pathe

Pathe News was refused authorization by the council of Actors Equity yesterday to photograph Equity members at work without paying such actors. The newsreel's request was made in anticipation of including in its future news productions shots from several plays whose authorship and casts might make news events of their presentation.

The established Equity rate for photographing members at work is one week's pay for every day or part of a day the members work.

The Equity council made consideration of the regulations to end ticket speculation on Broadway plays a special order of business for its next meeting, July 19. Joseph Vitale and Hugh Rennie were named temporary delegates to the Associated Actors & Artistes of America in the absence

◆ Walter Winchell almost succumbed to the surburban lure of Connecticut, but settled finally on a home in the vicinity of Bronxville, N. Y., because it was more convenient for his 6 A. M. homecomings from his all-night's work every night.

◆ Donald Deskey, industrial designer, who yearns to be a producer, is negotiating with George Bye, agent; Ursula Parrott, writer, and Warners, for a picture based on the World's Fair setting. Miss Parrott is working on a love story with the Fair as a background, somewhat in the "State Fair" manner. Warners are interested in seeing the script, for they believe a World's Fair picture released while the Fair is on, would have general interest all over the country.

◆ Greatest unplanted publicity story for manufacturers this season is in Warners "White Banners." The theme of the story revolves around a young man who tried hard to make a perfect refrigerator using electricity and who gave up and made his invention run by gas.

◆ There is only one gas refrigerator on the market, Electrolux, which is made by Servel, Inc. Warners, unwilling to make any technical errors, asked Servel to lend them one of their engineers for technical guidance. Electrolux had nothing to do with the story idea, nor did it subsidize the production in any way, but are the directors happy! Louis Ruthenburg, president of Servel, Inc., saw the film in New York and celebrated at a luncheon in the Chatham for some friends and his sister, Mary Ruthenburg, of Selznick International.

Ann Sheridan to Star

Hollywood, July 5.—Warners have elevated Ann Sheridan to stardom, it was stated today by Hal B. Wallis, associate executive in charge of production. The move, said Mr. Wallis, resulted from a nationwide poll which revealed Miss Sheridan as the most promising of the younger Warner actresses.

New York's Critics Praise Danielle Darrieux in Debut

New York's daily newspaper film critics liked "The Rage of Paris," and, even more, they liked its star in her Hollywood debut, Danielle Darrieux. They said so along the following lines:

Herald-Tribune—Danielle Darrieux, as enchantingly lovely as ever, makes an auspicious Hollywood debut. . . . Refreshing and delightful entertainment.

Mirror—America has no star as devastatingly "cute." . . .She is ravishingly pretty. . . There's little doubt of America's immediate surrender to Danielle Darrieux.

News—(She) has captured American audiences. . . Light and sparkling warm weather entertainment.

Post—Will prove itself enticing comedy. . . The entire picture shares in this perfection in small matters. (As) light comedy there will be nothing better on the local theatre screens.

Sun—. . . "The Rage of Paris" is frothy but cheery for a summer day. . . . It serves to introduce Danielle Darrieux to American audiences.

Times—One of the more pleasant events of the current season. Miss Darrieux's charm and talent are enough. . . If she doesn't become one of America's most popular stars in the next year we'll eat this column.

World-Telegram—. . . A gay, brisk, nifty bit of alert nonsense. . . Charming and delightful entertainment. . . I can hardly imagine a movie-goer who will not enjoy it thoroughly.

Holiday Increases Takes on Broadway

The Fourth of July holiday helped Broadway theatres with strong attractions, these houses reporting better business than last year's holiday. The Roxy, which had a weak attraction last year, claims a 65 per cent increase over the weekend and a gross of $30,000 for Saturday, Sunday and Monday, with indications that "The [illegible]ge of Paris" will wind up at $52,000 for the week.

The Paramount, with "Tropic Holiday," also reported better business, with a take of $40,000 for the week. The film is being held.

The second week of "Holiday" at the Music Hall appears likely to hit $72,000. As usual, this showhouse was a magnet for out-of-town visitors over the holiday.

The Strand ended the second week of "White Banners" with $14,000.

Warners Holding Companies Dropped

WASHINGTON, July 5.—Dissolution of the personal holding companies of the three Warner brothers was completed in May, it is disclosed by the semi-monthly report of the Securities and Exchange Commission.

The last 500 shares of Warner Brothers preferred stock held by each of the companies was transferred to direct ownership, wiping them out with the exception of Albert Warner's holding company A, which still retained 5,460 optional debentures.

The only transactions in Warner Brothers stocks reported for the month were the disposition by Albert Warner of 20,000 optional debentures and the acquisition by Morris Wolf, Philadelphia director, of 200 shares of common, raising his holdings to 950 shares direct and 167 in a trust.

As a result of dissolution of the holding companies, each of the three Warners at the close of the month held 14,884 shares of preferred; in addition, Albert Warner held 59,648 shares of common and 1,739,000 optional debentures, H. M. Warner held 62,860 shares of common and 1,379,000 debentures, and Jack L. Warner held 88,060 shares of common and 1,183,000 debentures.

The Newsreel Parade

Movietone News
Vol. 20, No. 85
(20th Century-Fox)

Good material, skillfully edited and interestingly narrated, contribute to the making of another good release of this reel. President Roosevelt's address at the Gettysburg veterans' gathering and dedication of the peace monument there has the lead position, followed by a review of the British fleet by King George VI and the induction into office of President Hyde of Ireland.

Barbara Hutton's domestic troubles receive attention from the camera and commentator. There are spectacular shots of German troops in mass parachute jumps from planes during manuevers, and a good picture and description of the running of the Grand Prix at Auteuil. Helen Wills Moody's victory at Wimbledon is reported and a Detroit baseball school for youngsters contributes an amusing chapter to the sports section. A fashions contribution and Lew Lehr's newsette complete the reel.

Running time, 10 mins. K.

News of the Day
Vol. 9, No. 283
(M-G-M)

President Roosevelt's dedication of the peace monument at the Gettysburg battlefield receives the lead position in this interesting and lively release. In reporting the event the camera captured some striking character studies among the aged veterans who attended the Gettysburg reunion. The reel also features a second Presidential address, that at the N. E. A. convention at the New York World's Fair grounds.

A review of Britain's sea power by King George VI includes an interesting demonstration of naval marksmanship in the scoring of a direct hit on a radio controlled sea plane. The running of the Grand Prix at Auteuil with its accompaniment of new Paris fashions on display makes a good subject. A youngster's marble tournament at Wildwood, N. J., the American men's team victory at Wimbledon, a diving show at Los Angeles and the A. A. U's 50th championship games at Buffalo, make up the sports section, completing the reel.

Running time, 10 mins. K.

Paramount News
(Paramount)

The lead position of this issue is given to a review of the British fleet off Weymouth by King George. The story is becomingly filmed and in addition to splendid views of the ships it also offers anti-aircraft gunnery practice—a plane is shot down in eight minutes—and later the ship's crew gives a comical show for its royal guest. Another event handled in fine style is the recent Gettysburg reunion of Civil War veterans. There is much material, all of it attention-holding, as the 75th anniversary of the famous battle is celebrated.

The first Indian trade commissioner arrives on the Queen Mary and voices his hopes for continued and prosperous business relations with his country; Dr. Douglas Hyde, Ireland's president, takes the oath of office; the recovery of the bodv of Medill McCormick from a New Mexico mountain is documented; the Barbara Hutton-Count Haugwitz-Reventlow marital upset accounts for a number of library scenes which bear interestingly on the "live" quality of the affair; Glenn Cunningham runs away with another race at an A.A.U. championship meet in Buffalo; Helen Wills Moody at Wimbledon; the National Aquatic Show at Los Angeles with this country's Olympic bets performing and the Gettysburg celebration with President Roosevelt making his highly publicized speech round out the reel. Running time, 9 mins. P.

RKO Pathe News
Vol. 9, No. 100
(RKO)

This issue is led by President Roosevelt's address before the National Education Association on the World's Fair site in New York, characterized by the usual Roosevelt emphasis. Pictures of Barbara Hutton, planning a divorce, and her young son, are of news interest. The National Aquatic Show in Los Angeles pictures divers in action.

Ireland parades and cheers as Dr. Douglas Hyde, president, goes to assume his office. Of real pictorial value and general interest are the pictures made from a plane flying the new Sydney-New Guinea air route, including jungles, mountains and the crater of a huge volcano. King George VI boards a British battleship to review his fleet in maneuvers. The reel ends with pictured highlights of the National A.A.U. track meet at Buffalo. A generally interesting, if unexciting reel. Running time, 8 mins. A.

Universal Newsreel
Vol. 10, No. 681
(Universal)

The Gettysburg celebration takes the spotlight in this post Fourth of July release and short shots of the various doings on the hallowed ground, including the President's visit and military parade, make up a good clip.

Another interesting clip is King George attending fleet maneuvers, as a preview of Britain's war might. The balance, made lively by Graham McNamee's narration, includes the testing of a new Lockheed plane; festivities at the opening of a Colorado highway; a quaint Moravian wedding Ralph Guldahl and Denny Shute fighting it out on the links; the marble championship finals; A. A. U. track meet, which provides some fast running, and Nearco winning the Pari Grand Prix sweepstakes, which ha plenty of action. Running time, mins. F common stock and $4,485,550 face amount of debentures held by RCA for $5,500,000 up to July 1. With no action being taken by that date, Atlas may obtain a six-month extension by acquiring one-twelfth of the remaining holdings for $500,000 during July. This action would increase the Atlas investment in RKO to more than $6,000,000 and would increase its holdings of RKO securities to approximately 700,000 shares of common and $5,700,000 face amount of debentures.

Negotiations for the extension will be begun in about three weeks. The delay is due to the absence of Floyd B. Odlum, head of Atlas, who is in Europe.

CEA Protest Brings Theatre Plan Delay

London, July 5.—The report urging upon the London County Council the adoption of a new rule restricting price changes at film houses and the designation of seats will be held up for the time being, it was indicated today, following vigorous opposition voiced by the Cinematograph Exhibitors' Association.

Sir Josiah Stamp declared he is anxious to preserve happy relations with the trade and will hear exhibitor views. He insists nevertheless that he will do his duty and protect the public. He will meet with C.E.A. representatives on Thursday.

The proposed legislation follows alleged complaints and an investigation. The regulations would prevent the exhibitors from adapting their seat supply to the demand. It would require posting in the lobby of the theatre's seating plan and prices.

Future plans for the site have not been set.

Tarkington Starts Suit Over "Penrod"

granted exclusive talking picture rights on 28 stories, including "Penrod" and "Penrod and Sam." He asserted that Warner Bros. in filming "Penrod and His Twin Brother," which was allegedly not written by Mr. Tarkington, violated the contract and infringed upon his exclusive right to use the literary figure and name of Penrod.

Mr. Tarkington further charged that the defendant had advertised the picture as based on his story, although it was "widely divergent" from his work, and that this had caused "irreparable injury" to his reputation.

The complaint, in addition to an injunction, asks for damages to be determined on trial, and for an order directing Warners to surrender the negatives of the picture.

Arguments Started On "Lynton" Award

Federal Judge Vincent Leibell heard the opening argument yesterday of John W. Davis, attorney for M-G-M Pictures Corp., in the hearing to determine whether the report of Referee Gordon Auchincloss awarding $587,000 damages to Margaret Ayer Barnes and Edward Sheldon in their suit against M-G-M Pictures Corp., M-G-M Distributing Corp., Loew's, Inc., and Culver Export Corp. for plagiarism of their play, "Dishonored Lady" in "Letty Lynton" should be confirmed.

Judge Leibell during arguments, in referring to the claim of the plaintiffs that the law provided for a judgment from the profits of the picture, remarked that "it does seem a harsh doctrine, but I can't see where the court has much latitude in this matter under the law."

In response to a statement made by Mr. Davis that the award should be limited to $30,000 damages, and that profits should be excluded, Judge Leibell said: "As a matter of justice, I agree with your decision, but I am afraid the law is pretty well established on this." The defendants seek to justify their stand on the assertion that the plagiarism was not deliberate, and cited the prior opinion of Circuit Court Judge Learned Hand as substantiating their claim. They argued that under Section 25 of the copyright law it was discretionary with the judge to determine whether damages for profits should be assessed. Judge Leibell will continue the hearing today to allow the plaintiffs an opportunity to argue for an increase of the award to more than $1,000,000.

Mayflower Independent

Mayflower Productions is an independent British producing company in which Associated British Picture Corp., Ltd., owns a substantial interest, and is not an affiliate of G. B., as was erroneously reported in Motion Picture Daily recently.

'The Story of Dr. Carver'
(M-G-M)

Pete Smith in a serious vein again. Here he vocally accompanies an interesting pictorial resume of the life of the Negro scientist who did much to aid the South with his researches in agriculture and the by-products of the peanut. The cinematic biography covers Dr. Carver's life from the time he was a baby in the slave era up to the present day in which he is working on applying the lowly peanut toward the erasure of infantile paralysis. This is an exceptional short worthy of being brought to the attention of the audience. Running time, 10 mins. "G."

"Stranger Than Fiction No. 52"
(Universal)

This number of a series that has been constantly improving offers a tasteful selection of items which aptly convey the meaning of the title. It has satisfaction-giving potentialities. Running time, 9⅓ mins. "G."

"Porky, the Fireman"
(Vitaphone)

Warners' contribution to the cartoon field is a laughable and exciting account of the porcine character's adventures as a smoke-eater. The animation and execution are well done. The plot strews gags at every opportunity for hilarious effect. Running time, 6 mins. "G."

"Picketing for Love"
(RKO)

What might be described as a vocal comedy, since its chief purpose appears to be affording an opportunity for Joe Morrison and Betty Jane Rhodes to exercise their talents. They meet at a summer camp, and after a misunderstanding, he woos her with song via a loudspeaker system. It is average material. Running time, 17 mins. "G."

"The Soul of a Heel"
(Columbia)

Andy Clyde has his usual quota of pre-marital and romantic difficulties in this comedy. The humor will no doubt find appreciation in Clyde's following. Bud Jamison and Gertrude Sutton help out. Fair. Running time, 16½ mins. "G."

"Queens of the Air"
(Paramount)

In this subject, the audience will be able to see its favorite radio songbirds in person singing a familiar number. The girls are presented in fine photography and Vincent Lopez' orchestra supplies the music. Jean Ellington, Benay Venuta, Hollace Shaw, Betty Hutton and Nan Wynn appear. Running time, 11 mins. "G."

"The Lost Kitten"
(Fleischer-Paramount)

Pudgy, Betty Boop's pup, becomes involved with a starving kitten. He takes it in, feeds it, and then, later, finds it monopolizing his food, bed and Miss Boop's affection. Ultimately he clears the situation, but not before a bit of humorous animation takes place. Running time, 7 mins. "G."

"Little Miss Broadway"

Hollywood, July 5.—Across America and around the world people of high and low estate, in common with the far more numerous and profitable in-betweens, have come to expect a peculiarly definite kind of entertainment from Shirley Temple and to value it above any other celluloid thing. "Heidi" was a mild departure from the pattern. "Rebecca of Sunnybrook Farm" veered slightly in another direction. "Little Miss Broadway" is in the groove. If Darryl Zanuck had set out to produce for the young lady's grandchildren one film which they could regard in reverent awe as the "typical Shirley Temple picture" this would be it. Maybe he did. Or maybe he tried only to give recession-ridden showmen the nearest possible thing to a box-office life-saver.

This story by Harry Tugend and Jack Yellen gives Miss Temple's public a chance to see her do again all the things they have liked best to see her do in all the situations in which they have liked best to see her do them. She is a cheerful, tearful tot in an orphanage. She is the precocious idol of a theatrical boarding house. She is persecuted by a rich old spinster in black alpaca. She cajoles a judge on the bench and she fixes things for a romantic couple. And she sings a lot and dances a lot and spends all her screen time being just Shirley Temple.

Associate Producer David Hempstead and Director Irving Cummings have conspired faithfully with the authors to preserve the Temple tradition inviolate. They have allowed none of the individually important members of the cast to get between the star and the customer. They have disregarded time and space in the interests of the prime personality. They have given her her head and let her go.

She sings six songs, admirably written to her measure by Walter Bullock and Harold Spina, and she dances with George Murphy in a type of number that compares directly to the Rogers-Astaire product. She brings sunshine into a number of lives, including her own, and suffers convincingly in plot crises not overlong or overserious. She gives, as if in conspiracy with producer, director, writers and all hands, a typical Shirley Temple performance.

In addition to Mr. Murphy, who plays the romantic lead when not dancing, Miss Temple's support includes Edna May Oliver, Jimmy Durante, El Brendel, Phyllis Brooks, Donald Meek, George Barbier, Edward Ellis, Jane Darwell, Patricia Wilder, Claude Gillingwater, George and Olive Brasno, the Brewster Twins, a hotelful of vaudeville actors and many more. The place is New York City and the time is the present.

The picture is, as somewhat insistently asserted above, a typical Shirley Temple picture. There is, if Miss Temple's continued occupancy of first place in the box-office star lists of the past three years be admissible evidence, no better screen merchandise.

Running time, 70 minutes. "G" WILLIAM R. WEAVER

"Gold Mine in the Sky"
(Republic)

Here is one of the better Gene Autry vehicles. Great improvement is to be noticed in the musical content and the production is all that can be desired. The title is drawn from the current popular song and should be a potent selling point. The story is a coherent, modern affair that embraces the "must" angles of western films in an exciting style. Smiley Burnette has a solo song number that should increase his comedy following. Autry sings in his familiar style and the support delivers what is expected of them.

Autry is the foreman of a ranch who takes over when the owner dies. As executor of the estate he thwarts Carol Hughes, the owner's daughter, when she attempts to marry a wastrel and dispose of the prosperous cattle holdings. Craig Reynolds, the villain in the case, hires gangsters to do away with Autry, but is foiled and later uncovered. Craig, to cover expenses, kidnaps Miss Hughes and gets away with ransom money. But Autry catches up, trounces him to within an inch of disaster and brings the disordered affairs to rights. All this is liberally sprinkled with comedy, musical interludes and a good amount of riding against scenic backgrounds.

Joe Kane directed. Charles E. Ford is listed as associate producer. The cast also includes Cupid Ainsworth, Le Roy Mason, Robert Romans and the Stafford Sisters.

Running time, 60 minutes. "G." JOSEPH PRIORE

Short Subjects

"Datelines"
(Lenauer International)

This short is novel. It is classified as a newsreel. The material uses re-enactments of human interest and comical stories that appear often in newspapers with light treatment. Actual locations are used and the sound track has a vocal freedom rarely heard on the screen. This first issue offers stories concerning a man who, finding his wife in a fireman's arms, turns in an alarm; a pair of elderly women shoplifters in action and a woman driver who told a policeman to go to hell. She was upheld by the court. Running time, 8 mins. "A."

"Cebu"
(P. P. Devlin)

Cebu is reputedly the oldest city in the Philippine Islands. That is evident in this film. Shown are various sites connected with Magellan, shipping activities, historical facts narrated as the various pictorial locations are seen; churches, statistics and informative trivia. The photography ranges from average to stunning cloud-strewn compositions. Running time, 9½ mins. "G."

"Czechoslovakia on Parade"
(FitzPatrick-M-G-M)

In the pleasant FitzPatrick style this Technicolor effort covers the country that is now the focus of international attention, depicting its historical points of interest, the customs of the people and the other required and colorful coverage incidental to travelogues. Running time, 9 mins. "G."

"The Awful Tooth"
*(Roach-*M-G-M)

Mediocre "Our Gang" shenanigans, but the kids will like it. The story, done in the usual manner, concerns the youngsters' efforts to get baseball equipment. They visit a dentist and demand to have all their teeth extracted in the belief that they will receive a dime for each tusk. The kindly dentist scares them a bit but also contributes gloves and baseballs. Running time, 10 mins. "G."

"Good Scouts"
(Disney-RKO)

Boy Scouts and their activities are kidded by "Uncle" Donald here to the extent that they should have the audience howling. The high spots are when Donald sits on the cap of a geyser and when he is chased by a bear over a boulder that is being spun by the column of steam from the geyser. Running time, 8 mins. "G."

"Trailing the Jaguar"
(J. H. Hoffberg)

This is the film record of two men who went hunting in Mexico with bow and arrow. They shot a number of animals and the climax of their trek was the killing of a jaguar. The chief excitement occurs when the men score hits. Mexican scenery is interesting. The film lends itself to exploitation. It is different entertainment. Running time, 28 mins. "G."

Resources Unit Asks Films Contribute to Relaxation

Washington, July 5.—A "real contribution to human spontaneity, relaxation and imagination, and a measure of fidelity to the characters and events portrayed" was demanded of the motion picture industry tonight by the National Resources Committee in a report to President Roosevelt on the problems of changing population.

Foreseeing that the United States within 50 years will reach its peak population of approximately 158,000,000, the committee, in its report, discussed the sociological, economic, cultural and other problems which must be met within that time to assure the best level of living and culture for the generations to come.

The cultural significance of motion pictures and radio at present is obscure, the report stated, but "there appears to be a strong trend toward standardization, more or less at a dead level of artistic production, but there is also clear evidence of important movements in the direction of experimentation and diversity."

The major development in the history of the picture has been the perfection of technique, it was said, but "one thing that the commercial cinema has almost never done is to experiment in the realm of ideas.

"The path established as successful is the one the industry seeks to follow. It is perhaps better that the major emphasis in film-making should continue to be the purveying of entertainment, rather than that a conscious effort should be made to mold public opinion. Nevertheless, experiment with ideas and concepts is possible, and might be financially successful."

The cultural significance of the radio is in many ways more complex than that of motion pictures, the committee commented. So far the major cultural force has been for the most part developed and directed as an instrument of sales promotion, but its cultural values have not been wholly neglected, and have been accepted by the industry as "an important, though necessarily secondary, consideration."

"The radio has, to be sure, recognized diversity and to some extent furthered it; but this development is somewhat impeded by the sheer magnitude of the audiences reached," it was pointed out. "The cinema is much more clearly a force tending toward cultural standardization. Both are instruments of mass communication, with primary emphasis on immediate entertainment. They may not crush individual initiative and spontaneous group enterprises, but they cannot be relied upon to bring new perspectives, or to provide for harmonious individual development."

Billboard Regulation Seen Likely in N. Y.

Albany, July 5.—Growing belief that the constitutional convention will adopt an amendment restricting highway billboards was strengthened tonight with publication of a letter directed by Robert Moses, chairman of the highways, parkways, and grade crossings convention committee, to William E. Beehan, counsel to the General Outdoor Advertising Co. Sharply worded, the letter adjudged bill board companies had made a "serious mistake" in their fight against regulatory statutes. Chairman Moses stated to Beehan that "long experience in public work" convinced him "regulation by agreement, and if necessary by law," is advisable.

Stating that the industry should exhibit "a little statesmanship," Moses said "if, in the not distant future, there is really drastic regulation of bill boards, you will only have yourselves to blame."

Four amendments providing for regulation of advertising along public highways are pending in the convention.

Demand B&K End Duals in Chicago

Renewed demands that Balaban & Katz Chicago theatres eliminate double features and accept reduced clearance over competing houses were made yesterday to Paramount home office officials by Joseph Rosenberg of the Chicago law firm of Rosenberg, Toomis & Stein, representing unaffiliated theatres in that city.

Mr. Rosenberg last week indicated that legal action would be instituted in the near future unless the double feature and clearance complaints of the Chicago independent operators were satisfactorily adjusted. Ed Silverman of the Essaness Circuit and Aaron Saperstein, head of Allied Theatre Owners of Illinois, accompanied Mr. Rosenberg to New York. It is understood that they conferred

Operator Cuts Held Unlikely In This Area

Local 306 Men Against Making Concessions

Relief for New York exhibitors from theatrical unions this summer, as has been granted in Chicago and other cities, went aglimmering yesterday.

The theatres' proposal for a wage reduction to Sept. 1 was not discussed at a membership meeting of operators' Local 306, it was said, although it had been scheduled to come up. A union spokesman said that "there will be no cuts."

Operator sentiment was canvassed prior to the meeting, and with reference to the request for a temporary reduction, it was said that "for the first time in history Local 306 is unanimous in its sentiment." As a result of the feeling, union officials deemed it wiser not to bring up the matter.

The same sentiment is said to be strong among members of Local 1, Manhattan stagehands, and Local 4, Brooklyn stagehands, and those unions likewise will reject wage cuts, a union representative said.

Local 1 recently voted "to go along" with the theatres in their request for concessions to stave off summer clos-

Myers Seeks Trust Probe Of Industry

Congress-Executive Body Gets Letter from Him

Washington, July 6.—Investigation of the activities of the motion picture "trust" has been asked of the Congressional - Executive Monopoly Committee by Abram F. Myers, general counsel of Allied States, it was disclosed today by Representative Edward Eicher (Dem.) of Iowa, a member of the committee.

The Congressman revealed that he had received a letter from Mr. Myers, outlining the situation in the industry from the independents' point of view and the efforts which Allied and other independent groups have made to secure Department of Justice or legislative solution of their troubles, asking for an investigation of the "organization, financing, policies and practices," of the major producing and distributing companies.

"The degree of regimentation imposed by the motion picture trust on the theatres and the effects, both actual and potential, on the theatre-going public are a challenge to government itself," the Allied official charged.

Congressional and Administration members of the monopoly committee will meet tomorrow to work out further details of their plans. Mr. Myers' letter will be turned over to the committee for consideration in the drafting of a schedule of the industries to be investigated.

Shirley Temple Interviews Her Would-Be Interviewer

By IRENE KUHN

If Hollywood could inject the diplomacy, cooperation and business acumen of Shirley Temple, aged nine, into its adult personnel, the motion picture business could cease worrying from now on.

Miss Temple, the people's choice at the box-office, is now illuminating New York with her bright, blonde smile, after a cross-country tour which for sheer showmanship on her part makes everything Barnum did look amateurish.

The wonder child of the films was a toddler of four on the Fox lot five

Herald Barred To "Protect" German State

The Licht Bild Buhne, Berlin film trade daily, in its issue of June 15, received here this week, publishes the official order of the banning of Motion Picture Herald in Germany and Austria.

Under a headline declaring that the Herald is verboten, the notice says:

"The Reichs Fuhrer (Hitler) and the Chief of the German Police in the Reichs Ministry of the Interior announce:

"'In accord with the Reichs Minister of Culture and Propaganda (Dr. Joseph Goebbels), the diffusion of the Motion Picture Herald, which is published in New York, is forbidden in the interior of the Reich on the basis of Paragraph 1 of the decree of the Reichs President for the Protection of the People and the State from Feb. 28, 1933, to Dec. 31, 1938, inclusive.'"

No Explanation Given

Publication of the order in the German trade paper followed by a day its appearance in the Deutscher Reichsanzeiger und Preussischer Staatsanzeiger, the official Government gazette. No explanation for the ban is given.

Covering half the front page of the issue of Licht Bild Buhne which announces the Herald "verboten," there is reprinted an article from the Herald, in German translation, of course, with a three-column head declaring: "American Censors Under Police Protection." The story relates to threats against Mrs. Margaret F. Palmer, a member of the Pennsylvania state censor board, which banned a Russian film. The Berlin trade paper characterizes the threat as "carried out on orders from Moscow."

Compliments Self

Elsewhere in the same issue is the report of an attack by Minister Alfieri of Italy, at the International Newspaper Publishers' Congress in Vienna, upon "false reporting" in the foreign press, with demands that the situation be corrected forthwith. The article says that "only the Nazi and Fascist press reports the truth" and recalls frequent injunctions to foreign newspapers, including the trade press, to do likewise.

In another recent issue of Licht Bild Buhne a functionary of the official press bureau is quoted as saying, in a speech, that "the press, in fulfilling its responsibility, must also be able to keep silent."

"Holiday" Grosses $70,000 2nd Week

"Holiday" came through with a strong $70,000 for the second week at the Music Hall, ending last night, following the first week's $89,000.

The holiday influx of visitors had little effect at the Capitol, which did about $20,000 with "Lord Jeff."

Maxwell-Ostrer Suit Postponed to Oct. 18

By AUBREY FLANAGAN

London, July 6.—On the application of the plaintiff, the hearing of the suit of John Maxwell and Associated British Pictures Corp. against the Ostrer Brothers, who head Gaumont British, was postponed today by Lord Hewart until Oct. 18, both parties agreeing to dispense with a jury.

The plaintiffs in the action, based [illegible] alleged misrepresentation in the sale of a G.B. interest to Mr. Maxwell and A.B.P., pleaded the illness of a material witness essential to the case. The court declared it an unfortunate state of affairs, saying that the case was instituted in March, 1937, and that delay is unfair to the defendants.

Valentine Holmes, for the plaintiff, said that Mr. Maxwell, becoming a director of G.B., received information from the Ostrers that G.B. had made a profit of £700,000 during the year ended in March, 1936. Later, the witness said, he discovered the company's balance sheet to be inaccurate. It was indicated that the plaintiff's key witness is familiar with the G.B. financial statements which are an important point at issue in the action. The court reserved decision on the question of costs.

New Orleans Shows Gains For Quarter

ained business generally are given as reasons for continued good business.

Retail store sales have been consistently above 1937 levels in New Orleans, exchange executives say, citing reports of the Federal Reserve Bank system. While a few weeks may have shown drops below 1937 levels, most weekly showings have been one to 12 per cent higher.

This condition is illustrated by Paramount's recent contest for exchanges when the New Orleans exchange led the entire nation in exceeding its quota.

There has been no closing of theatres in the territory, prices have not been lowered for the summer in New Oreans except in a single instance and are the exception in smaller communities.

Cuts, Closings Few Around New England

Boston, July 6.—Although business is admittedly down among New England theatres, probably as much as 25 per cent below the spring level, grosses at this time are practically the same as those at the same period last year.

M. & P. has closed a few, but on the other hand houses dark last summer along the circuit are open this year. Summer situations which had been getting into lights about this time for year after year are again on the opening list this year.

Admission scales remain the same. The only changes in Boston, for instance, are with policy changes. Where the RKO Boston dropped first runs and shows, prices dropped to 15 cents and 25 cents. Where the RKO Memorial quit stage shows, admissions were scaled lower at the same time, a situation also prevailing at the Metropolitan.

Closings Are Normal Around Connecticut

New Haven, July 6.—Theatre closings are about the same as those of last year in this territory. Of about 35 Warner houses under the New Haven office jurisdiction, four will be closed for the summer. The Tremont, Ansonia, is dark during the summer as usual, while the Capitol, Danbury, has been closed for the first time in eight years. The Alhambra, Torrington, reopened last summer after a long dark period, was once more closed this spring. Similarly the Capitol, New Britain, has been closed after being open for a few months.

Of the 13 Loew-Poli houses, the Poli, Meriden, is closed as usual, and the Palace, Hartford, also kept dark during the summer, is still running along, but expected to close soon. The Lyric, Bridgeport, is also closed as usual. The State, Hartford, Harris Brothers house, is operating part time this summer, although closed last year. The Cameo, West Haven, will be kept dark by the Tabackmans for several months as usual.

Warners will close the Cameo, Bridgeport, July 10 for a remodeling job, under supervision of the E. & F. Construction Co., the work to extend through the next six weeks.

The Tower, Walnut Beach; Strand, Sound View, and Casino, Grove Beach, summer theatres, will be operating this summer as usual.

Slight reductions in children's admissions have been noted in Hartford, Torrington and a few other spots, but no appreciable reductions have thus far been placed in effect, nor do exhibitors appear to be contemplating such moves. The search is rather for new premium deals, especially since the ban on all money giveaways, made final in the past few weeks.

"Algiers" Debut July 13

Hollywood, July 6.—The world premiere of Walter Wanger's "Algiers" will take place July 13 at the Four Star Theatre in Los Angeles. The film will continue thereafter as a standard engagement.

Shirley Temple Interviews Her Would-Be Interviewer

years ago and I used to exchange hellos with her there in a patronizing adult way.

Yesterday, she turned the tables on me in the lobby of the Waldorf-Astoria when I ran into her shopping with her mother.

"I suppose you're going to tell me that you know all the exhibitors by their first names," I said.

"Well, not all; I meet too many of them," she answered. "But I can tell you the names of most of the ones I met on this trip."

"Go on, honey," I challenged her.

"Well, there was Mr. Joseph M. Cohan in Washington. And Mr. Sam Wheeler. Only they weren't exhibitors exactly. They are Fox exchange men. And I remember them because they arranged a sneak preview of 'Little Miss Broadway' for me. I hadn't seen it before I left the studio."

She said she liked it. She likes all her pictures.

"You know what happened in Colorado? Craig, Colorado?" she quizzed.

"Tell me," I invited.

"Well, we were eating in a cafe. It was about half past eight at night. And there was a big bunch of people outside."

"The town's entire population, 800," supplied Mrs. Temple.

Speaking of Competition

"Well, while we were eating the theatre man came into the cafe and shook his finger at me and said 'it's unfair competition. I've got a theatre down the street with a good picture and I can't get anybody to come in and see it while you're here.'

"He wanted us to drive past the theatre. I said sure. So we all got in the car and I beckoned the people to come on and when we got to the theatre I said 'Now everybody go in this nice man's theatre because it's a swell picture."

"It was 'Snow White,' added Mrs. Temple.

"No, mom, excuse me," said Shirley. They were advertising that 'Snow White' was coming because, remember, I said I wished we could stay and see it again."

"That's right, dear," said Mrs. Temple, vaguely surprised, as who wouldn't be?

"Well, anyway, the theatre man came to see me the next day and thank me and I said I was glad to do it."

Shirley doesn't know much about double features, and zoning and exploitation. But just ask her if she has a message for the 20th Century-Fox sales force.

"I hope they like my pictures. I hope all the people like my pictures."

Young Miss Temple makes three pictures a year now.

"It might be better if it were two," Mrs. Temple thought.

"Oh, mom, I could do lots more. I'd love it," offered Shirley.

Autographs in Stride

"Ever get sick of signing autographs, Shirley?" I asked.

"Nope," she said. "That's part of the job."

That's what she said. I take my oath.

"Have you met Mr. Kent?" I asked. "Mr. Sidney Kent, you mean? Oh yes. I met him in Washington. I guess I met him in Hollywood before, but I was too young to remember it. He gave me these," and she stuck out a small old-fashioned bouquet.

"It's kind of wilted," she said. "What's the blue flower?" "Delphinium," I told her.

"Bet you can't spell it. Go on."

I obliged.

"Well, I wouldn't know if it's right or wrong," she said calmly. "I'll take your word for it.

"Do you have to go?" she asked, for I was saying goodbye now. She was just as likely to start quizzing me about zoning problems, the SWG and SP row in Hollywood, and whether Darryl Zanuck's pictures weren't better box-office than Samuel Goldwyn's.

It's always well to know when to quit. I said goodbye and left. Miss Temple had won all rounds.

Alexander to Make Ad Films for India

Arrangements have been completed by Alexander Film Co., to produce advertising films in Hindustani for exhibition in India, as the result of the opening of an office in Calcutta. Herbert Cooper has been appointed Indian territorial representative by Charles Light, export manager, and will leave today for Calcutta on the Ile de France.

Mr. Light said that Alexander's short ad films are now made in 14 foreign languages, with distribution in 30 countries. An office was recently opened in Johannesburg.

Starts Musical Shorts

Milton Schwarzwald, producer and director of "New Atlas" and "Mentone" musical shorts, will start production this week at Eastern Service studios on the first of several releases to be made there under contract.

Goodman to Set Up Europe Sales Deals

European distribution deals for the next year will be set up in London by Morris Goodman, Republic vice-president in charge of foreign sales, who sailed yesterday on the Queen Mary. He expects to return in seven weeks.

A majority of the existing distribution arrangements will continue, including that with British Lion in the United Kingdom, which is on a long term basis, but new distributors will be named for Belgium and Norway, Mr. Goodman said. He plans to confer with most of the European representatives in London and will screen several films. Mrs. Goodman is accompanying him.

Eddie Cantor sailed to further the rehabilitation of 300 Jewish children of Germany, Austria and Poland in Palestine, and while abroad will confer with influential government officials to this end. He will remain in London 16 days and return Aug. 1 he said. Accompanying him are his wife and young daughter, Janet. The Cantors' daughter and son-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Metzger, saw them off.

Don Ameche, who arrived yesterday morning from the coast and sailed on the Queen Mary with his wife, was mobbed at the pier by a large crowd, predominantly admiring young girls. Earl Wingart of the 20th Century-Fox publicity department had his hands full acting as bodyguard.

The Ameches plan a six-week tour of England and the Continent.

Foreign Market Is Firm, Says Hummel

seven-months' globe circling trip. He approved Warners' program of "action pictures" for next year since everywhere he went he found that audiences want action on the screen and that films with much dialogue are inferior draws.

Mr. Hummel visited about 12 countries, making stops in Australia, New Zealand, Java, Singapore, Manila, Shanghai, Hong Kong, Egypt, Italy and France. He said that theatre business in Shanghai and Hong Kong is booming despite the war in the interior.

Edward Dowling, stage producer, returned after several weeks in London during which he put on "Happy Returns" for C. B. Cochran. He said that in addition to this show the biggest stage hits in London are the American productions, "Idiot's Delight," "Amphitryon" and "Golden Boy." He added that Beatrice Lillie, star of "Happy Returns," is due to return here late in September for a new Broadway musical. Mr. Dowling is not to be confused with the producer of the same name who staged "Shadow and Substance."

Lily Darvas, wife of Ferenc Molnar, Hungarian playwright, arrived to appear in American stage and screen productions.

Leonard Palumbo to Wed

Leonard Palumbo of the Warner home office foreign publicity department will be married on Sunday at the Church of the Assumption, Bronx, to Terry Boscia. They will leave Monday for a two-week motor tour of Canada.

Republic N.L.R.B. Hearing on July 18

complaint alleged, the workers had been notified they must join the I. A. T. S. E. by July 2.

The Nylander decision followed a conference between L. C. Helm, signer of the petition; Harland Holmden, international vice-president of I. A. T. S. E., and Harold Smith, I. A. T. S. E. business representative.

Asserting that "the idea of the I. A. T. S. E. trying to take over all studio workers has been greatly exaggerated in press reports," Mr. Holmden said only eight of the 75 studio utility employes employed at Republic had been referred to in the I. A. T. S. E. manifesto and these only because in the course of their work they had overstepped boundaries occasionally and performed services properly in the province of I. A. T. S. E. men on the lot.

Mr. Helm reminded those at the conference that he is a former I. A. T. S. E. member and assured Dr. Nylander of his belief that the existing differences can be adjusted amicably in round table discussion. Dr. Nylander then set July 18 as the date for a hearing on the application or motion for dismissal of the action.

Although invited to attend today's session, George Browne, president of the I. A. T. S. E., did not appear.

Laboratory Closed Shop Seen by Union

The resolution calling for an I.A.T.S.E. label on all films, adopted at the union's convention in Cleveland recently, "will lead to a closed shop situation throughout the laboratory industry in a short time," it is declared by officials of Motion Picture Laboratory Technicians Unions, Local 702.

For the first time, the I.A.T.S.E. went on record as declaring that "film bearing the I.A.T.S.E. label be processed only in laboratories under the jurisdiction of the I.A.T.S.E." This provision was added to the "label" resolution at the request of the laboratory union.

While officials of the Alliance agreed to invite Local 702 to negotiate contracts with the major companies at the basic agreement conferences which may be held this year, the union is proceeding with negotiations on its own before basic agreement revisions are discussed.

Decision Reserved On "Lynton" Award

Federal Judge Vincent Leibell reserved decision yesterday after terminating the hearing to determine whether the report of Special Master Gordon Auchincloss awarding $587,000 damages to Margaret Ayer Barnes and Edward Sheldon against M-G-M Pictures Corp., M-G-M Distributing Corp., Loew's, Inc., and Culver Export Corp. should be confirmed, and ordered briefs to be filed no later than July 15.

Judge Leibell indicated that he would not reach a final decision for at least two months and stated that he intended to consider the question during his vacation. The hearing yesterday, which was a continuation of the one held on Tuesday, was devoted to the contentions of the plaintiffs that the award should be increased to over $1,000,000. Judge Leibell indicated that he would uphold the full amount of the award if he found that the plaintiffs were correct in their argument of the law. However, he stated, if he upheld the defendants' contentions he would exercise his own discretion as to the amount which he would allow.

The hearing to fix the amount of the award is based on a previous decision of the court which ruled that the defendants had plagiarized the plaintiffs' play, "Dishonored Lady" in "Letty Lynton."

Court Stays Suit by Loew's Stockholder

N. Y. Supreme Court Justice Peter Schmuck yesterday granted the application of Loew's, Inc., to restrain Edward M. Grossman from prosecuting his stockholder's suit against The Bank of America, the National Trust & Savings Association, Loew's and 32 directors and officers of Loew's, pending the final determination of eight similar consolidated stockholders' suits previously instituted.

Justice Schmuck, in granting the application, agreed with the contention of Loew's that the multiplicity of suits was a "great and unnecessary burden and expense" and ruled that "the rights of the plaintiff are adequately protected by actions now pending."

Bankrupt Ruling Upheld

The Circuit Court of Appeals yesterday unanimously upheld a ruling of Federal Judge Robert P. Patterson, which expunged a claim in bankruptcy of the Electrical Products Corp. of California for $8,015 against the Orpheum Circuit, Inc. The order of Judge Patterson, made on March 30 of this year, reversed a decision of Referee Oscar W. Ehrhorn, which allowed Electrical Products' claim in full, and ruled that any right to a claim had been forfeited by the claimant.

Clancy Gets Hearing

Clancy from a dismissal of his suit for $250,000 damages and an injunction against M-G-M Pictures Corp. and Robert T. Pirosch. Clancy had brought suit claiming the plagiarism by the defendants of his play, "Nuts to You," in "A Day at the Races."

Radio Again Target Of a Connery Blast

WASHINGTON, July 6. — Congressman Lawrence J. Connery (Dem.) of Massachusetts fired another blast at the radio industry in the closing days of Congress by having his remarks "extended" in the Congressional Record.

In the final issue of the Record, Representative Connery extolled the services of F.C.C. Commissioner George H. Payne, who supported his resolution for a probe before the House Rules Committee, and denominated Chairman Frank R. McNinch as the "Charley McCarthy" of the radio "Pied Pipers," dancing to the music of the radio monopoly and pleading for an opportunity for the commission to "investigate its own activities."

"How ridiculous this is can best be considered when we find two of the three or, at least, two of the four members of the commission he has assigned to investigate the actions of the Federal Communications Commission in creating the radio monopoly are in great part responsible for the many complaints uttered against the commission," Connery charged.

Summer Replacement Shows Bow in Over the Networks

A coterie of summer replacement shows, some of which are no strangers to the networks, bowed in this week, with results as variable as the weather. Those heard included: "Column Quiz," substituting for Walter Winchell; "Win Your Lady," replacing the Tyrone Power dramas; "Hobby Lobby," filling in for Jack Benny, and "Passing Parade," taking the place of Phil Baker.

"Column Quiz," with Ben Grauer serving up the queries, will neither increase nor lose for the Jergens Co. the audience drawn to the loudspeaker by Mr. Winchell. The queries, most of which are ridiculously easy, are drawn from statements appearing in Mr. Winchell's columns, with a $25 cash prize to the winner, $15 to the loser, and several $5 consolation prizes for the also-rans. Worse audience shows have been heard before, but so have better ones. Lennen & Mitchell is the "Column Quiz" agency.

Jim Ameche Unfortunate

"Win Your Lady," also sponsored by Jergens, is a woebegone attempt at drama, with Jim Ameche, brother of Don, and Betty Lou Gerson struggling vainly to overcome a deadly, down-at-the heels plot. Ameche plays the part of a rich lad who desires to marry an as yet unidentified young lady named Muriel, a ward of the same lawyer who handles the Ameche inheritance. Whereupon the attorney goes to see Mr. Ameche's aunt. It then develops that the attorney and Auntie are old sweethearts who, having fallen out years ago, still carry the torch for each other. All this has a familiar ring, but bear with us. The worst is yet to come.

Auntie and the lawyer then make a pact—if the lawyer succeeds in keeping nephew Ameche apart from ward Muriel, she, Auntie, will forget the cause of the argument that broke up her romance with the lawyer, and marry him. After careful thought the lawyer then hits upon a scheme which he believes will make it impossible for Ameche to win Muriel. "You'll have to win your lady," he tells Ameche, "by undergoing a series of tests."

"Test" Is Unique

The first test is this: A Mrs. Hetherington Weagel, a society dowager who has offended Auntie, must be spanked by Ameche and more, she must thank him for being spanked. The lawyer's secretary, a Miss Suzy Quinn, is assigned to accompany Ameche to verify the outcome of the tests. But there's little sense in going on. Ameche spanks Mrs. Weagel, is thanked for the job, and it'll go on with tests like that for 13 weeks, whereupon we'll bet that Ameche won't marry Muriel after all, but will learn that his true and great love is for Suzy Quin. Wanna bet?

Dave Elman's "Hobby Lobby" is a consistently entertaining show. Dave brings hobbyists to the microphone to lobby for their hobbies, and among those he offered in the first show was a bubble blower who blows square bubbles, a coin collector, a lad who tap dances with his tongue and another who terpsichores with his tongue and lips, the inventor of the lie detector, and a collector of inanimate giraffes. Harry Salter's orchestra provides the musical background.

John Nesbitt's "Passing Parade" is another dependable show which can always be counted upon to entertain whosoever tunes it in. Nesbitt provides colorful commentary about unusual persons and unusual events, and his speaking job is a first rate one.

Demand B. & K. End Chicago Dual Bills briefly with Austin Keough, Paramount vice-president, yesterday and that the conversations will be resumed today, possibly with Barney Balaban, Paramount president, participating.

The independents contend that that B. & K. houses using duals receive eight to 10 weeks clearance over competing theatres under exisiting [illegible]cago schedules. Charging that the situation is inequitable, Mr. Rosenberg has said that unless relief is granted actions will be filed charging violations of the consent decree entered into by B. & K. in 1931. Indications are that the Chicago delegation will protest the Chicago clearance situation to all national distributors while here.

Backers of Gambling Bill Show Strength

ALBANY, July 6.—The strength of the movement to abolish present prohibitions against gambling from the state constitution was apparent Wednesday as debate on the proposal of District Attorney Henry Hirshberg began. The rest of the arguments were put over until tomorrow when the Constitutional Convention will ballot on the question of advancing the amendment to the order of final passage.

Indications of a break in the ranks of upstate delegates were apparent when several members, including some from Buffalo, confided their intentions of voting for the bill, which by elimination, would leave regulation of gambling entirely to the state legislature. The support of Al Smith also was announced.

Mr. Hirshberg, pleading for passage of his amendment, claimed that 61 per cent voted approval in a recent straw poll for a similar measure and asserted gambling should be licensed.

War on Bingo Games Discussed by Allied

Ways and means of combatting Bingo games in places other than theatres were discussed at a meeting of Allied of New Jersey at the Berkeley-Carteret, Asbury Park, yesterday. The consensus was that the "non-theatrical" Bingo games are cutting in heavily on theatre attendance.

Irving Dollinger, president, appointed a committee to investigate the situation in the state. Cooperation in eliminating the competition, where practiced illegally, may be requested of local authorities.

Tentative plans were discussed for the unit's 19th annual convention to be held Oct. 19 to 21 at the Ritz Carlton, Atlantic City. As usual, this will also be an eastern conference of exhibitors, with representatives from other Allied groups attending. The New York state unit may hold its first annual convention jointly with New Jersey.

Indict Two for B. N.

BRAZIL, Ind., July 6.—The Clay County Grand Jury today branded Bank Night as a lottery scheme in returning indictments against Stanley Cooper and Harold Reese, theatre operators here. The two men were among 14 accused in an anti-gambling cleanup.

Four Holdouts End Battle of "Snow White"

Heading for Record with 7,000 Contracts

The battle of "Snow White and the even Dwarfs"—one of the industry's ig conflicts between buyer and seller –is practically over. And the first eature length cartoon is on its way) an all-time high domestic gross ith 7,000 contracts and a billing of pproximately $3,400,000.

Seldom if ever has a picture presented so many possibilities for a test f selling skill and buying resistance. Produced independently, with exhibition contracts subject to the producer's approval, "Snow White" was free of distribution entanglements and went out entirely on its own.

The battle started with the announcement that the picture would be distributed on fifty-fifty terms and under other stipulations. "Precedents" were involved.

The publicity campaign which preceded release crystallized in a record-breaking run at the Music Hall in

Allied Denies It Refused to Consider Plan of Conciliation

Washington, July 7.—Pointing out that its petition for investigation of the alleged film trust was ordered by the Pittsburgh convention held prior to the announcement that the producer-distributors were initiating a conciliation movement, Allied States Association, in a formal statement, today denied charges that it had refused to "go along" with other interests in the industry.

"When and if a concrete program is evolved by the distributors, it will receive the consideration of the board," it was declared. "Meantime, idle speculation as to what Allied's attitude may or may not be cannot be productive of any good, and may do harm."

B & K Talk Delayed By Keough Absence

The Chicago delegation which is here to complain of alleged inequitable clearance of Balaban & Katz Chicago theatres over competing houses was unable to resume its discussions with Paramount home office officials yesterday because of the absence from the city of Austin C. Keough, vice-president, to whom the matter has been referred.

A published report that the delegation was prepared to waive projected law suits against B. & K. and distributors in the event the Chicago circuit abandoned double featuring was

Federal Precedent Set in Film Deal for 'One Third'

When the cameras start grinding shortly on "One Third of a Nation" at Eastern Service Studios, the first experiment in what is really indirect Government partnership with the film business will get under way.

Triple A Productions, the new independent company headed by Harold Orlob, discovered when it became interested in the Federal Theatre Project's play that there was no existing precedent for purchase of Government property for individual profit-making enterprises.

Negotiations for purchase were begun through the Guild's Committee for Federal Writers' Publications, Inc.,

Production in Italy Studied By Atlas Corp.

Means of Using Frozen Assets, Says Odlum

Atlas Corp., which has appreciable investments in Paramount and RKO, has considered the advisability of engaging in film production in Italy in conjunction with the Italian government in order to utilize its blocked financial resources in that country, it was indicated yesterday by Floyd B. Odlum, president of Atlas, on his arrival in New York aboard the Europa.

Without giving any particulars, Mr. Odlum, in reply to direct questions admitted that "there may have been some negotiations along this line." He added, however, that "nothing had been finalized."

The Atlas investments in Italy, Mr. Odlum said, were his principal concern while abroad. His company is an equal partner with the Italian government in IRI, which, he said, is the Italian Reconstruction Institute, and corresponds, roughly, to the Reconstruction Finance Corp. in this country. IRI, however, has investments in a variety of private enterprises and

20th-Fox Quotas Are Approved by Wobber

Quotas for 20th Century-Fox branches for the 1938-'39 selling season have been set by Herman Wobber, distribution head, who has approved figures submitted by Division Managers William Sussman, W. J. Kupper and W. C. Gehring.

The company assigned the job of quota fixing to the field, under the division managers' supervision, and it was said that this is the first time in the history of distribution that such a direct divisional survey has been made. The branches have been given quotas that are based on past performance and actual conditions, plus potential earning power of films and investment taken into consideration.

A total of 117 circuit deals for next season's product were in work early this week, it was said at the home office. Twenty-nine of the 31 exchanges in the United States will end the second quarter of 1938 ahead of revenue delivered in the corresponding period last year, it is reported.

Hollywood Letter

Dear Editor:

The recurrent observation that "nothing is the matter with the business that good pictures won't cure" may be paraphrased to read, "Nothing is the matter with Hollywood that a full production schedule won't correct." A persistent pessimist scouting the town can dig up scare stories about labor trouble in the offing, governmental interrogation of the status quo, summer grosses and allied matters. But Hollywood gives scant ear to these matters when the payrolls are loaded as at present and the prospect is for more loading rather than less. The state of the community at this midpoint in a late summer is promissful of some right smart motion pictures come Autumn.

C.E.A. Fight Brings London Plan Change

By AUBREY FLANAGAN

LONDON, July 7.—The London County Council disclosed late today that a new plan for restrictions on the operation of London theatres with respect to admissions and seat designations will be submitted to the entire council next Tuesday.

The decision followed a storm of opposition to the proposed new p[illegible] by the Cinematograph Exhibitors Association. A deputation representing the London theatres early today met Reginald Stamp of the council and presented their case against the new plan. They suggested an alternative plan which had been tried voluntarily by the London Odeon.

The council's attitude was one of concern at the belligerancy of the C.E.A. in the matter. Mr. Stamp declared that the council was anxious to maintain the good will of the theatre men, but that failing of a new suggestion, the original council scheme would have to go through. The exhibitors were adamant and warned the official that evasions are inevitable.

The Newsreel Parade

Movietone News
Vol. 20, No. 86
(20th Century-Fox)

An aviation story is the lead for this issue. Also included are a number of other events of high caliber—in the newsreel sense. The photography and editorial handling of the subjects are in keeping with the reel's standard.

Howard Hughes takes off from Burbank and arrives at Floyd Bennett Field to pose with Grover Whalen before his projected flight to Paris. Montana mustangs and Brahma steers throw cowboys all over the landscape. The Zachini brothers are fired from a cannon—the both of them. The exploration division offers camera-eye views of the turbulent Colorado River where a party of six scientists are feared lost. Summer fashions by Vyvyan Donner and Helen Claire show the latest in dirndls and sport and country wear. Lew Lehr has a time with Wilbur and his seal family at the Central Park Zoo. Co-eds frolic in the Rocky Mountains, above the snow line, where they find an aid to keeping cool in a frigid lake. Ed Thorgersen's sport department covers the scoring plays and baseball personalities involved in Wednesday's all-star game at Cincinnati. Running time, 10½ mins. P.

News of the Day
Vol. 9, No. 284
(M-G-M)

The emphasis on the assortment of events offered here is on interesting variety. Subjects range from scientific experiment to the war in Spain and the well known American pastime.

The Mammoth Cave in Kentucky is the scene of the opening sequence. Two scientists of Chicago University are seen emerging after a study of sleep and time in the underground spot. The unique experiment invites puns but is given quite serious treatment. Howard Hughes' plane arrives in New York in the course of a trans-Atlantic flight. Italian troops are shown in battle on the Barcelona front with plenty of fireworks in the action. The Zachini brothers are fired from a cannon at Atlantic City. The film is reversed and shows them going back into the gun. Adelaide Hawley comments on the first cruise of the St. John's Guild for underprivileged children and mothers. The Sporting Page has that newsreel standby—motorcycles climbing hills and the important plays of the recent all-star baseball game of the National and American Leagues. Running time, 9 mins. P,

Paramount News
No. 97
(Paramount)

The all-star baseball game between teams of the National and American Leagues comes close to being the only real piece of pictorial news in this issue of the reel. The closest the editors could come to spot material was a group of shots of celebrities leaving for Europe, including Don Ameche and his wife, Eddie Cantor and part of his family, Medill Patterson and his bride, and American Ambassador to Belgium Davies and Mrs. Davies.

Two other routine items cover the dedication of a tablet in Minnesota which is said to record a visit to the area of Vikings in 1362, and the performance of 1,000 players of string instruments, in convention at St. Joseph, Mo.

A feature sequence pictures three adventurers, Lincoln Ellsworth, who plans a new plane dash to the Antarctic; Captain Eyston, auto racer, who will attempt a new assault on his own speed record, and Howard Hughes, planning a world flight in a flying laboratory. Running time, 9 mins. A.

Universal Newsreel
Vol. 10, No. 682
(Universal)

There's a nice choice of material and some excellent editing in this release.: Five cameramen collaborated on the departure of Howard Hughes from the coast and his arrival at Floyd Bennett Field, and he is also shown with Grover Whalen.

Italian soldiers advancing and seeking shelter and scenes of the Loyalists' abandoned positions in Spain make this sequence better than some of the recent coverage. A novelty is a dog using wheels under his hind legs so that he can run and walk in spite of paralysis.

Other subjects are the training of girl drum majors, an auto race at Le Mans, France; an historical football game at Florence, Italy; a diving show with comedy stunts at Los Angeles, the victory of War Minstrel at Chicago and the Fourth of July celebration at Havana. Running time, 9 mins. K.

RKO-Pathe News
Vol. 9, No. 101
(RKO)

The reel was reviewed prior to the arrival of footage on the major leagues' All-Star baseball game played at Cincinnati Wednesday. Approximately 150 feet on this subject will be sent out to subscribers.

The contents of the reel, otherwise, comprise shots of Howard Hughes' arrival in New York preparatory to his projected trans-Atlantic flight, the convening of the Administration's new monopolies investigating committee, a marathon race to the summit of Pike's Peak, notable passengers on the Queen Mary on her last sailing from New York, an archery tournament in Los Angeles, and construction work in New Mexico on one of the world's largest smelters.

With the addition of the footage on the All-Star game the running time of the reel will be approximately 7½ minutes. K.

New York. Then the battle was on in earnest. RKO, distributing, with Hal Horne as Disney's representative sitting in on contracts, stood pat. Individual theatre owners and small circuits bought. Most big buyers waited.

Finally, there were compromises both ways. The picture continued to roll up new highs in theatre after theatre. The compromises took the form principally of concessions on percentage terms, sliding scales upward, in exchange for extended and more favorable playing time.

Concessions on one side or the other resulted ultimately in deals in all but four important situations.

The Saenger circuit, with headquarters in New Orleans, and operating in Louisiana and Mississippi, stood out to the finish. E. V. Richards insisted on a flat rental and RKO sold away from the circuit.

Griffith Balks

The Grffith Circuit, Oklahoma and Texas, controlling a majority of the towns in which it operates, refused to play percentage terms and RKO sold where there was opposition. The Long circuit, in New Mexico, which has since become part of the Griffith circuit, bought the picture before the consolidation.

The Mullin & Pinanski circuit, in New England, held out against RKO's single bill stipulation. M. & P. played the picture in its 14 single feature houses, but RKO sold away in the rest of the territory.

The St. Louis Amusement Co., operating second and subsequent runs in St. Louis, refused to buy the picture on anything except flat rental. RKO sold around them, although Fanchon & Marco played the picture first run in St. Louis.

Stipulations Listed

Except for concessions on the base percentage in exchange for a better split or extra favorable dates, "Snow White" has been sold generally, on terms which included the following stipulations:

Single feature restrictions; double playing time; weekend dates; minimum admission of 15 cents; minimum guarantee of $50.

"Snow White" is billing at the rate of approximately $100,000 rentals per week. Although it is nearing the 26th week of release, at which time high billings normally drop off sharply, the delay in closing many important situations will extend its period of active revenue beyond the average. Subsequent run engagements started July 1 in Los Angeles, and the neighborhood theatres in Detroit have still to show the picture. The subsequent run situation in Chicago has been delayed by exhibitor resistance to the demand for Saturday and Sunday playing time, but dates are now being set in that area.

The conflict between seller and buyer has terminated in remarkably few casualties and a minimum of ill-will in a situation which was loaded with possibilities for trouble.

"We're Going to Be Rich"

(20th Century-Fox)

Gracie Fields is the leading comedienne of England, and in "We're Going to be Rich," she demonstrates her ability in comedy and song. The picture, as far as the American audience is concerned, features Victor McLaglen and Brian Donlevy to bolster an otherwise English cast for this market.

The film was made by the 20th Century-Fox British producing unit, but let it immediately be known that it might just as well have been made in Hollywood. There is no English inflection in the picture, its locales being Melbourne, Australia, and South Africa, and the date the late 80's.

In a setting of gold mining towns of those days among the Dutch settlers, are Gracie, a music hall star, with a longing to return to England; McLaglen, her lovable but incautious husband, who throws her money away on wild schemes which are "going to make us rich," and young Ted Smith, her nephew, and a capable youngster. It is a rollicking, entertaining tale of rough men in a rough country, of a girl who sacrifices much for the man and boy she loved, and who finally realizes that her feeling for them is stronger than her desire to see England.

Miss Fields sings several good numbers, in inimitable style; McLaglen is excellent as her husband, and Donlevy, as the saloon owner who befriends her when she needs help, is good. The setting and period are in themselves entertaining, and with capable performances, and a highlight bare knuckle boxing match in the old style, the picture should be found generally pleasing. Monty Banks directed from a screenplay by Sam Hellman and Rohama Siegel. The story is by James Edward Grant.

Running time, 78 minutes. "G." CHARLES S. AARONSON

"Fast Company"

(M-G-M)

HOLLYWOOD, July 7.—Melvyn Douglas and Florence Rice appear here as gay married folks not too reminiscent of William Powell and Myrna Loy in "The Thin Man" engaged in untangling a murder mystery about as lightheartedly and surely. The comparison, although inescapable, is mentioned as an asset rather than liability from the exploitation point of view. "Fast Company" is lively melodrama with comedy fixtures, deadly serious and completely frivolous in turn, but never dull.

The screenplay by Marco Page and Harold Tarshis, from the Page novel, is about a rare book dealer who devotes a major part of his time to tracing stolen volumes of great price. When another dealer is mysteriously murdered he runs down a set of baffling clues which lead to complications far too intricate for brief synopsis. There is enough gun play and violence to more than justify the term melodrama and enough comedy to warrant its omission, a circumstance leaving the showman free to describe the film by the word his customers respond to best. Louis Calhern, Claire Dodd, Nat Pendleton, George Zucco, Douglas Dumbrille and Mary Howard are among the other names available for use in ad copy.

Edward Buzzell directed the Frederick Stephani production with a keen eye to pace, point and counter point. The place is New York and the time is now. Action is swift and dialogue effective. Although concerned with books and dealers therein, the film is never bookish.

Running time, 75 minutes. "G."

does not make loans, as does the R.F.C.

Mr. Odlum said that action on the Atlas option to purchase the balance of RCA's holdings of RKO securities would be taken within the next week or two. He indicated that a decision had not been made yet as to whether the remainder of the holdings would be acquired or an extension of the option negotiated on the purchase of an additional one-twelfth of the RCA holdings for $500,000 cash, as provided for in the existing agreement. The latter course, which would give Atlas a six-month extension of the option to Dec. 31, is believed to be the more likely, however. The ultimate completion of the transaction would give Atlas a total investment in RKO in excess of $12,000,000.

Management changes in RKO will await the approval of the reorganization plan now before the Federal court, he said.

"There have been no discussions about the future management setup or the constitution of the new board," Mr. Odlum said. "We have a plan before the court and the first step is to get it approved. Until that time there is nothing to discuss."

Answered Query on Rathvon

Mr. Odlum made this explanation in answer to reporters' queries concerning reports that Peter J. Rathvon, an associate of Atlas and the investment trust's representative in the RKO reorganization, is slated to become an important figure in the management of the company following the reorganization, that Leo Spitz has expressed a desire to return to his law practice in Chicago and Mr. Rathvon may succeed him as president.

The latter formerly was a partner in Atlas, but now has his own investment trust. He is acting in an advisory capacity for Atlas in the reorganization and Mr. Odlum is known to lean heavily on his counsel. Mr. Rathvon went down the Bay for a discussion with the Atlas head before the ship docked.

Mr. Odlum left for Washington on pressing business matters immediately after his arrival with his wife, and said that he would go into the RKO situation on his return here early next week.

"I am more optimistic about business conditions both here and abroad than when I left," Mr. Odlum observed. "The situation is changing for the better."

The Odlums visited Switzerland, France and Germany after their stay in Italy.

Federal Precedent Set in Film Deal for 'One Third'

formed two years ago to provide a publishing outlet for the works of Federal projects writers. The committee is now empowered to do the same thing for the Federal Theatre Project as for WPA writers.

The Government gives the guild's committee permission to sell writings by persons on WPA salaries, but the bid for "One Third of a Nation" by a film company was the first time any project entered competitive market.

When the legal complications were straightened out the guild's committee, headed by Morris Ernst, made a contract with Triple A which then purchased "One Third of a Nation" for $5,000 and a percentage of possible profits from the picture.

The profits will be turned back into the guild's committee for an as yet undefined purpose. It is the general belief and hope that the money can be used to further the work of the committee in encouraging young talent, after which the surplus drains back to the U. S. Treasury.

The legal complexities surrounding the play's purchase were matched by those attending the formation of Triple A. The name is merely a working title and will not be used for any forthcoming ventures in which the stockholders engage. Dudley Murphy, vice-president, and director of the picture, was eager to have the company identified with the setup of associated artists, actors and authors, which suggested the AAA. The letters were discarded in favor of a spelling out of the name, since there was some fear on the part of other stockholders that they might be mistaken for a Government agricultural project.

Harold Orlob borrowed the money from himself to finance the picture. Through a personal loan from Mr. Orlob to Triple A, he received 136 shares of common stock in the corporation. The remainder of the 200 shares issued was allocated to associates Dudley Murphy, Paul Mooney, Bernard Steels, Emil Katzka and W. S. McKay, who are the only stockholders in a company in which Mr. Orlob is the only backer.

Chicago G.B. Branch Leading Nation—Lee

Chicago, July 7.—The Chicago exchange of G. B. under the direction of Abe Fisher is leading the country in sales for the company, said Arthur A. Lee, general manager of G. B. television expert, stated that the business of the Chicago exchange is far ahead of last year's record.

Mr. Cockle conferred with motion picture and visual education leaders here and also discussed television possibilities. He said control of television development by private companies was holding it back in this country.

The Chicago delegation consists of Aaron Saperstein, Chicago Allied leader; Edward Silverman of the Essaness Circuit, and Joseph Rosenberg, attorney for Chicago independent exhibitors. So far as could be learned the group has no appointments to discuss the matter further with home office officials.

Bank Night Warning To Portland Houses

Portland, July 7.—Suburban theatres conducting Bank Night here today were allowed until next week to decide whether they will abandon the "illegal" practice by themselves or carry it to court for a test case. District Attorney James R. Bain, who maintains Bank Night in any form is a violation of the state lottery statute, said his office would step in if a decision is not made.

The 20 suburban houses notified to stop Bank Night last week appear to be split on how to solve the question. Almost all have started giving away free tickets to drawings "in order to make them legal."

Chance Amendment Gets Smith Support

Albany, July 7.—Deferment of action on Delegate Henry Hirschberg's bill now on the special order calendar followed the second day of debate in the Constitutional Convention here concerning the proposal to eliminate restrictions on gambling from the State Constitution. Warning the Republican majority, most of whom are committed against the amendment, that they are erring badly in opposing public sentiment, Delegate Al Smith termed it a second prohibition issue, involving respect for the law.

The Smith address seemed likely to result in the switch of a few upstate members. In all probability the margin will hinge on two or three votes. Speaking in opposition today was Mrs. E. M. Morrell of Buffalo, who stated that gambling cuts family purchasing power.

Theatremen are watching the proceedings closely.

The plaintiffs had brought suit charging the defendants with conspiring to destroy their business, and with wrongfully securing customers' lists and trade secrets belonging to the plaintiffs.

A Letter to Mr. Kent

Philadelphia, Penna.
March 25, 1938

Mr. Sidney R. Kent,
20th Century-Fox Film Corporation,
444 West 56th Street,
New York City.

Dear Mr. Kent:

It has been with great interest that I have read your statement regarding the Neely bill. Since it was issued, a memorandum from the MPPDA regarding producer opposition to the measure has also been received along with a bulletin from Allied States Association and a statement from the MPTOA.

All of these have been most interesting, but I feel that yours is deserving of most attention because as an individual you have been constructive on many occasions.

Frankly, I believe that you hit the most important problem in your opening paragraph when you say:

> "Setting aside for a moment the question of exhibitor grievances that may be legitimate," etc.

Between you and me, Mr. Kent, if there had been less setting aside and more action, the Neely bill would never have gotten as far as it did.

20th Century-Fox, under your direction, has been fair. You earned a great deal of good will from exhibitors when you announced that "In Old Chicago" would be delivered on the regular program despite its being roadshowed. This has been contrary to the practice of some companies. Exhibitors appreciate it. But they also know that your company has been guilty of practices found objectionable by theatremen; changing of allocations after designation; selling by numbers with the exhibitor having no means by which he knows, when buying, what he is getting or how much it will cost; a varying selling policy by which one exhibitor can do certain things such as twin billing, and another can not.

Exhibitors have a high regard for you, Mr. Kent. They had confidence in you during the 2-2-2 conferences and the 5-5-5 meetings. I sat in with you at the time the standard exhibition contract was drafted and it was definite that you were sincere in your desire to work out industry problems.

But the motion picture business isn't a one-man or one-company business. To effect self-regulation we realize that all companies must co-operate. We know that the coast, with its widespread extravagance and failure to recognize the fact that economies must be enforced, must also co-operate. We understand that exhibitors must co-operate.

If, instead of sending out memorandums and making statements, the producers had said: "Boys, this looks serious. Let's trade any friendship for the Neely bill for a real attempt at self-regulation", the result would have been sensational.

Why not try it, Mr. Kent. You can do it. It isn't too late for that, and, between you and me, if the producers and distributors don't really offer the exhibitors a helping hand instead of thousands of words that never will be read, this business is going to go through a period of federal investigations, department of justice questioning, etc., with loss of time and money and the accompanying ill effect on production and the nature of the individuals in the industry in general.

Sincerely,

Jay Emanuel

ART MILLETT and John Allen Wolf, CBS engineers, started the cooperative bungalow at Lake Hopatcong when they viewed the house, 14 rooms, with boathouse and 25-foot launch thrown in, for $800 for the season. Too expensive for them to operate the bungalow alone, they started a CBS club for announcers, production men, engineers, etc., selling shares in the venture, $40 for a single partnership, $75 for a double. The plan and bungalow are now in full swing. The wine cellar is cooperative, with buyers being billed for individual drinks at regular bar prices. In addition to the boat which came with the house, Mr. Millett has his speed boat there, and several canoes have been brought down by other members.

Each Has His Job

Roy Passman of the program department is the maintenance man, and Gwen Jones and Paul Laporte run the finances. Bert Parks, announcer, and Jean English, engineer, alternate on household duties, and Betty Tuthill, of the adult education department, handles the guest department. The rules provide that regular members bring guests without charge, except pro rata on food. Others in the gang are Jack Stapp, assistant production manager; Ralph Edwards and Mel Allen.

Here's a sequel to the paragraph that appeared here recently, which told of John Royal, NBC vice-president, sending beer and sandwiches to Al Cook of the World-Telegram when he observed that radio editor listening to a play-back of an NBC program late one evening. A fellow executive of Mr. Royal, reading the paragraph, kiddingly suggested that the World-Telegram was an important publication and that its radio representative rated something better than beer, so Mr. Royal left a bottle of champagne in the press department, with instructions that it be turned over to Mr. Cook when he arrived to write his column.

Not even a smell of that bottle did Mr. Cook get. A group of his fellow air scribes arrived at NBC before he did, learned what was about, and polished the bottle off.

Lever Again Tops CBS Billing List

Lever Bros. again tops the list of the 65 clients of CBS, according to billings for the first six months of 1938, with time billings of $1,533,068 for the half-year. The sum represents a 35.3 per cent increase over the amount of money Lever Bros. expended for CBS facilities in the first six months of 1937.

General Foods, Colgate-Palmolive-Peet, Wrigley, and the Ford Motor Co. follow Lever Bros. in that order.

The six-month compilations for the leading 10 CBS clients for the year to date follows:

Lever Bros., $1,533,068; General Foods, $1,448,082; Colgate-Palmolive-Peet, $873,053; William Wrigley Co., $830,555; Ford Motor Co., $761,162; American Tobacco Co., $697,636; Procter & Gamble, which for the first time this year is using CBS facilities, $608,778; Liggett & Myers Tobacco Co., $618,665; R. J. Reynolds Tobacco Co., $551,195 and Chrysler Motor Corp., $512,990.

In all but three instances, the '38-over-'37 six-month comparisons show substantial gains. The three exceptions are Colgate-Palmolive-Peet, Ford Motor Co., and Liggett & Myers.

P. & G. Renews Two Programs Over NBC

Procter & Gamble Co. has renewed "Kitty Keene" for Dreft, and "Ma Perkins" for Oxydol, for another year on NBC. Both shows were added to their NBC schedule on May 30. The renewals are effective immediately.

"Marie Antoinette"

[Telegraphic Review of M-G-M's Pretentious Shearer - Power Film]

HOLLYWOOD, July 10.—When bigger marquees are built M-G-M will fill them. Billed end to end, the box office personalities grouped in support of Norma Shearer in her latest and greatest picture would run thrice around the Radio City Music Hall and dangle over into Rockefeller Plaza. Never niggardly in his appropriations, Producer Hunt Stromberg ransacked the furthermost reaches of the far flung M-G-M empire for manpower and materials requisite to the feat of recreating in fulsome and faithful fidelity the France that guillotined the tragic heroine of his story. That which he wrought of them is a commanding piece of cinema merchandise bristling with sales angles for the practical showman.

Mr. Stromberg's version of the royal tragedy is taken with scant alteration or elimination from Stefan Zweig's biography of Marie Antoinette which topped best seller lists 3 or 4 years ago. The screenplay by Claude West, Donald Ogden Stewart and Ernest Vadja omits no screenable particulars of the Zweig account, and Director W. S. Van Dyke, excelling his most distinguished previous works in every phase of the present enterprise, has managed to present in complete good taste a number of details that a less accomplished artisan would not have ventured to film.

The story is, of course, by virtue of the same historical accuracy which gives the production strength, primarily adult in appeal and interest.

Miss Shearer's performance reveals a notable enrichment of her talent in the two years elapsed since her last appearance. She plays a more exacting role than any she has attempted and is mistress of every moment she is on the screen.

Outstanding portrayals in support are furnished by John Barrymore as Louis XV, Robert Morley

Premiere Records Fall at Opening of 'Marie Antoinette'

LOS ANGELES, July 10.—Pomp, worldly yearning for display, colorful pageantry of a type so dear to the heart of the regal Austrian maid who became Queen of France, all were in evidence as M-G-M presented the international premiere of "Marie Antoinette" at the Carthay Circle Theatre here on Friday night.

Queens of the screen, empresses in their own right by hap of fate in their artistic domain; their kings, dukes, princesses, princes, courtiers, all paying homage and being paid homage. They seemed to love it. So did the enthusiastic peasant rabble. Thousands of the latter, packed, perched anywhere they could obtain half a view, kept hundreds of police busy. King Canute had better luck sweeping back the tide than did the local gendarmes.

Could Marie Antoinette have lived again the scenes long dear to her would have been known again as she as Louis XVI, Joseph Schildkraut as the Duke D'Orleans, Tyrone Power as Count Axel de Fersen, Gladys George as Mme. Du Barry and Anita Louise as Princess de Lamballe. Henry Stephenson, Cora Witherspoon, Reginald Gardiner, George Meeker and a dozen others execute lesser assignments consummately.

Showmen fond of using adjectival ad copy featuring synonyms of the word "big" may proceed to exhaust the Thesaurus without qualm. Many of the sets are large and magnificent enough to elicit applause on sight. Many of the sequences contradict bluntly the rumor that there has been any unemployment in Hollywood this year. Yet so artfully has Director Van Dyke employed these to counterbalance longer stretches of superbly handled narrative dialogue that the production at no time sags into the merely colossal category.

On the technical side, the picture is typically Stromberg. The photography of William Daniels, the art direction of Cedric Gibbons, the costuming by Adrian and Gile Steele and the dances staged by Albertina Rasch combine with the ministrations of Technical Adviser George Richelavie to impart to the production that distinctive sheen and glitter which have distinguished the Stromberg works. It is a singularly effective technique.

As presented in world premier at the Carthay Circle Theatre, the picture ran 155 minutes and was stopped at a natural point after the first 80 minutes for a 20-minute intermission. This would not be obligatory.

looked upon the theatre environs. Along the broad Mall leading doorwards the Garden of Versailles grew again. Classic statuary, tall pillars, rustling trees, silken banners waving in the breeze were as the gardens she knew when her France celebrated. Strange to her might have been myriads of multicolored beams slashing into the sky. Strange, too, would have been Pete Smith, John Nesmith, Carey Wilson, Robert Young, Don Wilson, James Stewart, Frank Whitbeck, talking into a metal thing, their voices carrying vast distances, telling of Norma Shearer, Tyrone Power, John Barrymore, Anita Louise, Gladys George, Alma Kruger, W. S. Van Dyke and scores of others who soon would impersonate her, those she ruled and was ruled by in an undreamed of miracle that would tell her story in acoustical lights and shadows.

Exploitation Top-Notch

Marie Antoinette had no press agents else her fate might have been happier. Scads of them work for M-G-M. Adept rabble rousers, they missed no beat in telling the modern world who she was; what her historical significance. They mentioned, too, that screen conception of her and those with and near her in living incidents, adventures romantic and dramatic that revolutionized political mankind and had been transmuted into screen merchandise which anyone desiring fine entertainment and maybe easy education would appreciate.

Pages of newspaper advertising and publicity aroused public curiosity. Radios blared about Marie Antoinette for days. Hundreds of billboards informed the populace something important and unusual would occur at the Carthay, June 8th. Daily for weeks, long lines filed by windows of department stores at Los Angeles' busiest corner feasting eyes on lavish displays, costumes, antiques and accoutrements used to recreate the glory of Marie and her time.

Interest Intense

Just as Parisian mobs had been whooped up by agitators so were modern Los Angeles mobs roused up to white hot interest. Were she alive Marie, with all her wiles and charm, could not have gotten within a block and a half of the Esplanade where Hollywood's present royalty would parade by sun down. At 6 o'clock the place was packed and cops had a job on their hands. Lights flashed. Frank Hodek's band played. Singers sang.

A crowd that could not get in to see the show wanted to see those who could. They began arriving. Helen Hayes, Clark Gable, Carole Lombard, Jeanette MacDonald, Fernard Gravet, L. B. Mayer, Hunt Stromberg, Freddie Bartholomew, Claudette Colbert, Janet Gaynor, Joe Penner, Basil Rathbone, Robert Taylor, Rufus B. Von Kleinschmid and Will Hays passed in spasmodic procession.

The crowd almost tore down the bleachers when Tyrone Power hove in sight. Up slid luxurious cars. Jewels Marie might have envied flashed, the band played, singers sang more, masters of ceremonies shouted into microphones, but only far away listeners on the NBC Blue network could hear above the din. Cries of "here's Shearer!" muted in the distance at first, erupting into an ovation that must have thrilled her heart, greeted Norma Shearer as she walked quickly down the flower decked lane.

The band struck up "Marseillaise." The prologue to another premiere had been completed. A premiere never made any picture great. But this, no doubt the greatest and most spectacular ever staged to make a Hollywood holiday, was deemed a happy omen for "Marie Antoinette."

"Antoinette" Museun Ready Soon at Asto

Broadway, which has housed everything from the flea circus to ermine world premieres, is about to have ballyhoo museum.

On France's Bastille Day, July 1 the Astor Theatre will open its door to the public at 10 A. M. for a look see at what M-G-M's publicity an advertising director, Howard Diet says is a $100,000 "authentic" exhibition of French furniture, statuary whatnots of the 18th century. rk stunt is a promotion for "Marie Antoinette."

Orchestra seats have been boxe over, the platforms covered with purple velvet. A small section of seat in the front of the house is reserve for tourists who may want to res their feet and listen to lectures.

Purple velvet has been hung at th back of the orchestra and covers th walls as a backdrop for a gallery o enlarged stills, pictures and caption It is a kind of "men at work" gallery, since the technicians as wel as the M-G-M artists and lesse lights in the production are show

The exhibits, including several figures in period costume, are insured fo $100,000 and cannot be shipped aroun the country, but Mr. Dietz hop that they will create sufficient intere in New York to evoke imaginativ promotional stunts elsewhere.

Flag Trailer

Loew's advertising department has devised a new trailer on the American flag, with "Stars and Stripes Forever" as background music, which was used on July 4 and will be shown in all Loew New York theatres on all national holidays. Theatre audiences generally like to see the flag waving.

Syndicated Plug

A syndicated weekly column of Hollywood news, sent from the Warner advertising department under the by-line of "Torchy Blane" is a studio plug of indefinite duration devised for the "Torchy Blane" series.

Tidy Job

Lou Lifton, head of Monogram's advertising and publicity department, in supervising the manufacture of the pressbook on the company's ambitions "Romance of the Limberlost," put his two best feet forward. The "feet" were Manny Reiner, on copy and layout, and Russell Bell, on art work. It's a right tidy little job.

Selling Stunt

There's a real possibility in the permanent exploitation stunt devised by Warners' ad men for the Secret Service series which features Donald Reagan. The idea: organizing Secret Service clubs in 1,000 cities, with Reagan as honorary president, and W. H. Moran, former U. S. Secret Service chief, and now working on the script of the first film, as adviser.

History

Irving Shiffrin, RKO publicity purveyor, started his career as a Grade A "water bottle filler" for M-G-M executives on the sixth floor of Loew's State Theatre Building over a decade ago, serving J. Robert Rubin, Major Edward Bowes, Louis B. Mayer and the late Irving Thalberg. Then he matriculated into newspapers, and was copy boy for Louella O. Parsons when she did her Hearst stint in New York. For the last five years he has been assistant to Rutgers Neilson, making the rounds daily of the fan and general magazines and picture syndicates.

Circulated Ideas

Bill Ferguson, M-G-M exploitation head, for the last two years has been keeping ideas in circulation by means of the M-G-M Bi-Weekly Cooperative Campaign Service, 3,300 copies of which go out to circuit heads, exploitation men and theatre managers. A number of circuit operators obtain a sufficient supply to distribute to their theatres. The newsy "pink sheet" is a clearing house for campaign reports and has proved a valuable promotion aid.

Examination Ordered In New England Suit

Application has been granted by Federal Judge Murray Hulbert to examine before trial Loew's, Inc., Warner Bros. Pictures, Inc.; Vitagraph, Inc.; Paramount Pictures, Inc.; National Theatres, Inc.; the Irving Trust Co., as trustee in bankruptcy for Radio-Keith-Orpheum Corp. and RKO-Radio Pictures, Inc.; United Artists Theatre Circuit, Universal Pictures Co., Big "U" Film Exchange, Inc., and Columbia Pictures Corp., defendants with the Maine & New Hampshire Theatres Co., Colonial Theatres Co., Inc., and Colonial Theatres Co. of Nashua, N. H., in nine suits now pending in the U. S. District Court for the district of Massachusetts. Plaintiffs are Aetna Amusement Enterprises, Commonwealth Amusement Enterprises, Inc.; Nashua Theatres, Inc.; Elite Amusement Enterprises, Inc.; Fidel Amusement Enterprises, Inc.; Standard Amusement Enterprises, Inc., and A. & W. Amusement Corp. The decision which directs the examination to be held in New York City before Rose H. Myerson, a notary public, does not fix definite dates.

The plaintiffs, who are New England and New Jersey independent theatre owners, seek treble damages and attorneys' fees in their suit which charged the defendants with violation of the anti-trust laws, in that the defendants have allegedly "combined and conspired to monopolize and restrain interstate commerce in motion picture films."

Robinson Film Titled

Hollywood, July 10.—Columbia has selected "I Am the Law" as the release title of the picture now in production featuring Edward G. Robinson.

On Summer Schedule

Seattle, July 10.—The Roxy here is operating on a "summer policy" of four nights weekly. The house is operated by Jensen-VonHerberg.

Chicago Group Fails To Get Action Here

The solution of Chicago exhibitors' clearance and double feature complaints will have to be worked out in that city, in the opinion of distribution executives here. No remedial promises were forthcoming from home office officials who were contacted by the Chicago exhibitor delegation last week concerning the alleged inequitable clearance granted B. & K. houses, so far as could be learned.

The Chicago delegation consisting of Aaron Saperstein, Chicago Allied leader; Ed Silverman of the Essaness circuit and Joseph Rosenberg, independent exhibitor attorney, left New York over the weekend. Their future course is unknown, although Mr. Rosenberg has threatened to bring a variety of legal actions naming B. & K. and major distributors in the event the Chicago circuit's clearance is not reduced or double featuring in its houses eliminated.

CEA to Press Fight Against Restrictio

London, July 10.—The Cinematograph Exhibitors' Association is prepared to challenge the constitutiona right of the London County Counci to impose the planned new restriction on the operation of London's theatres

The C.E.A. already has advised th council that instructions have been issued to the exhibitor organization's attorneys to fight the matter in a tes case at the first opportunity. If necessary, the trade group plans to take th case to the House of Lords.

anuck Urges Sales Effort On Big Scale

ARIS, July 10.—Calling on exhibi- to make a greater effort in selling r shows to the public, in order keep pace with Hollywood's ap- tion of the value of big pictures," yl F. Zanuck predicts that "this r will be the greatest in history the practice of showmanship."

he 20th Century-Fox production ef pointed to the large expenditures ng made by producers and declared exploitation should be geared respondingly.

Ir. Zanuck believes that the Euro- n industry is "healthier" for the nomic and political disturbances, cause in the clamor for business, wmen have had to practice greater iative, devise ways and means of acting attention."

Asks More Showmanship

It is important that showmanship a bigger part in our industry ay than ever before," he continued. is not sufficient merely to think of ng the ordinary things. Showman- means enterprise."

ther statements made by Mr. uck follow:

Conservative figures now place the kly attendance in the United States approximately 89 to 90 million per- s— a healthy advance over last r. Any student of theatre receipts recognize that this tremendous n is the result of concentration on ger films.

A quick survey of receipts proved the bigger pictures are playing to acity crowds while the unimportant s are merely holding their own.

Thus it is shown that expenditure greater time and money in produc- n is profitable, if the job is done cerely. And I am certain that we doing it now. For one thing the ustry has left behind the morbid r of failure that characterized it ing the depression.

Cites Value of Quality

Of great significance also is that have learned to forget traditional oos. We don't frighten at the pros- t of war pictures, costume dramas deep sociological problems. Ex- ience during the past year or so shown that a big picture, intelli- tly produced, liberally conceived honestly presented, will do as ch or more business than a half en others of lesser importance.

It isn't sensible to assume that llywood alone can settle this mat- of encouraging additional atten- ice at theatres. After the film has our cutting rooms and goes the tuous trail of release, the problem up to the theatre man. He can do in various ways, through an in- ase in advertising budgets and in re intensified exploitation.

Practical, too, would be an increase the confidences exchanged between ibitors and producers. In this re- ct I believe every producer would come comments from those in the d. I know I would prize communi- ions of this sort, a word or two m someone with problems to solve. An interchange of suggestions be- en the maker and the merchandiser of films would do much to win permanently to the box-office those wavering souls we must win to capture again the high rewards of 1930, when theatre attendance was estimated at the peak of 100,000,000 weekly."

They Didn't Elope

Something went wrong on that proposed elopement of Robert Wilcox and Joy Hodges, but it wasn't the publicity. Maybe Miss Hodges just changed her mind, or maybe they both changed their minds. Elopements have been called off before, but so far as known an advance announcement of an elopement by a publicity department has never been called off before.

Universal's studio sent out word Friday morning that Robert and Joy would elope to Greenwich, Conn., Sunday. Early Friday afternoon Universal's home office publicity department sent out word they wouldn't. The ceremony will take place on the coast in a week or 10 days.

Don't mention it to a soul; it's a secret.

Outlook Best For 3 Years, Says Schenck

atres with the Odeon circuit, Mr. Schenck said he did not believe the reports were true. Twentieth Century-Fox and Loew's have a substantial interest in the G. B. circuit and United Artists owns 50 per cent of Odeon.

Mr. Schenck also denied reports that there is a deal on for acquisition by the United Artists Theatre Circuit of a large interest in the Fanchon & Marco theatres in St. Louis. As president of the U. A. circuit, Mr. Schenck said, he would know of such negotiations and none have been held.

"Has F. & M. made an offer of any kind?" he was asked.

"They may have made us an offer," he replied. "I guess they made an offer to everybody."

Mr. Schenck spent the weekend with his brother, Nicholas M. Schenck, at the latter's home at Great Neck.

The incumbent has sought to withdraw from the litigation, but Ascap is pressing the action in order to have it reach the Supreme Court as a test case on the constitutionality of the anti-Ascap laws which have ben enacted by five states. The hearing will be concluded today, it is anticipated.

20th-Fox Gets Ruling

Federal Judge Vincent Leibell has ordered William L. Gross, as assignee of the creditors of Theatre Magazine Co., to show cause on July 12 as to why his suit for an injunction and an accounting of the profits of the 20th Century-Fox picture, "Earl Carroll's 1935 Scandals," should not be dismissed on the ground of insufficiency of fact.

The plaintiff brought suit claiming infringement of the August, 1929, cover design of the magazine in the picture.

A release deal has been set between Warners and Jacques Koerpel for a series of shorts to be made by Commander Attilio Gatti, African explorer who left for the Belgian Congo on the Normandie last Wednesday.

Rowland to Produce In Spanish for RKO

Contracts are to be signed in a day or two whereby William Rowland, independent producer, will make one film in Spanish for RKO release with options for several more. Production is to be at Eastern Service Studios with native casts. Musicals are planned.

RKO thus joins other distributors which have begun to handle native language films for the Latin American market. Paramount and Monogram are financing the production of features for that area and Columbia and United Artists are finding such releases profitable.

Ben Y. Cammack, RKO general sales manager for South America, says that the future of Spanish films in that market is uncertain because of the necessity of sustaining production on an expensive scale. Only the outstanding films in the native language are doing business.

First Runs Strong

Spanish films, however, are starting to do big business in the first runs, he reports, and the Nacional, which formerly played English language films exclusively, has adopted a policy of Mexican and Argentine pictures. Cuba is also becoming a production center, Mr. Cammack said. The first feature to be made there, "It Happened in Havana," opened a Havana run late last week.

Regardless, in the larger centers and in the Latin American markets generally, Hollywood product is the predominant factor, as it is in other foreign markets, Mr. Cammack added.

He reports that theatre building is booming in Mexico City, with large theatres under construction. "Snow White and the Seven Dwarfs" played a total of 18 days in two theatres in Havana.

On Week-to-Week Basis

Boston, July 10.—Charles W. Koerner, RKO division manager, is now keeping operation of the RKO Boston on a week-to-week policy.

Says Film Trade Is Excellent in Manila

Business in the Manila area is booming, according to Ralph Brambles, representative of Luzon Theatres, Inc., a Manila circuit, on a visit here. Outside of the Philippine capital, native production is offerng competition, the total output being about 72 films a year from six companies, he added. Mr. Brambles said that conditions were so good that his company shortly will begin construction of a 1,500-seat house. He is here to look over the season product and to purchase projection machines and other operating equipment.

Mr. Brambles declared that the Manila theatre-going public is intelligently conversant with the English language and there is little need for dubbing, etc. Also, he added, they are discriminating and vociferously show their disapproval of weak pictures.

Mr. Brambles will be in town for a few days before returning to the coast en route home.

Louisiana Governor Signs New Tax Bill

New Orleans, July 10.—The New Orleans amusement tax of two per cent on all theatres, night clubs, boxing exhibitions and similar attractions has been extended to 1940 by the signature of Gov. R. W. Leche on the legislative bill granting the continuance.

Governor Leche also signed and placed in effect the one per cent general sales tax, which may soon be applied to all amusement admissions in addition to the amusement tax and a special one per cent municipal sales tax.

Rulings are being sought as to whether the sales taxes of two per cent apply to theatre and other amusement admissions.

Louisiana legislators ended the chance of passing an Ascap bill at the closing session of the biennial term when a measure carrying this into effect was withdrawn.

Hollywood Preview

"Passport Husband"

Hollywood, July 10.—Rival gangsters fighting for pin and marble machine gambling concessions, a South American dancer facing deportation unless she marries a respectable American citizen, and an innocent dupe of both the criminals and the girl furnish the ingredients of the plot of "Passport Husband," comedy coming from Sol M. Wurtzel's side of 20th Century-Fox. Stuart Erwin, cast in his typical characterization of the dim-witted young man unsteady in love, among other things, is the chief character, supported by Pauline Moore, Douglas Fowley, Joan Woodbury, Robert Lowery, Harold Huber, Edward S. Brophy, Paul McVey, Lon Chaney, Jr., and Joseph Sawyer.

Previewed at a neighborhood theatre, the film drew many laughs, and the audience indicated its thorough acceptance. Apparent familiarity of the audience with pin and marble machines provides the hint that showmen might go out of the way to hook an exploitation campaign on this peg.

James Tinling directed from the screenplay by Karen De Wolf and Robert Chapin, based on an original story by Hilda Stone.

Erwin, busboy in a cafe in which Joan Woodbury is the featured dancer, is madly in love with her, although rivals for her affections are heads of two opposing gangs. Duped into marrying her, he finds that both gangs are anxious to make the woman a widow, so that she could legally take over his inheritance of the pin and marble game factory willed him by his uncle.

Ben Washer, former exploitation director, has been placed in charge of United Artists publicity. Meyer Beck, who has handled the latter post for the past several years, will continue in the department as an assistant to Mr. Washer.

The appointments are effective as of July 18, or as soon thereafter as Mr. Farnol is able to wind up his affairs at Donahue & Coe, where his successor has not yet been chosen. Among the accounts he handled at the agency were the Music Hall and the United Artists producers, Mr. Goldwyn, Walter Wanger, Edward Small and Alexander Korda.

Saperstein Dies Of Heart Attack

Katz eliminate duals and comply with certain other requests on policy. Mr. Saperstein discussed the matter with Paramount officials at the home office.

Starting as an errand boy for the Globe Theatre in Chicago at the age of 14, Mr. Saperstein became inspector, clerk, booker, salesman and assistant manager. He joined Mutual as assistant manager and became general manager in Chicago. Then he operated an independent exchange for two years. Later he branched into exhibition, taking a theatre on the site of the former Chicago Stadium.

He now operates several theatres in Chicago, including the Lexington and the Avon. He was elected president of the Allied Theatres of Illinois and had retained the post ever since. He was in his eighth term as president when he died. Funeral arrangements have not yet been made.

Toronto to Enforce General Bingo Ban

Toronto, July 10.—Deputy Police Chief Guthrie intends to enforce the ban on Bingo and other games of chance. A place where Bingo is played is now defined under the Criminal Code as "that in which payment is made to the operator either from the stakes played for or in the way of a direct or indirect fee from the players for the use of appliances, tables, chairs or any paraphernalia used in playing games of chance" and is officially designated as "a common gaming house."

Bingo nights have proved formidable opposition to theatres.

Farmers Own More Radios Than Pianos

WASHINGTON, July 10.—Far more farmers own radio receiving sets than ever possessed pianos or phonographs, it was reported yesterday by the Bureau of Home Economics of the Department of Agriculture.

While the percentage of white, non-relief, native-born farm families owning sets varies greatly among the several states, the proportion ran below 70 per cent only in the southeast and ranged as high as 93.7 per cent in California, where only 92.4 per cent of village families reported sets.

Based on a survey of 16,774 families, the bureau found that 73 per cent in Vermont owned radio sets, while only 50.8 per cent had phonographs and 40.6 per cent had pianos. In the north central and middle Atlantic states, 71.3 per cent reported radio sets, against 45.5 per cent reporting pianos and 31.6 per cent reporting phonographs.

Pacific Ratio Highest

The highest percentage of radio ownership, 90.1, was reported from the Pacific Coast, as against 44.2 per cent for pianos and 27.6 per cent for phonographs. In the mountains and plains states, 72 per cent of the farm families had radios, but only 36.7 per cent had pianos and 31 per cent had phonographs.

In the southeastern states, 40.1 per cent of the white operators in North and South Carolina and 30.7 per cent in Georgia and Mississippi had radio sets, but only 23 per cent had pianos and 23.5 per cent had phonographs in the Carolinas and 19.3 per cent had pianos and 25.8 per cent had phonographs in the other two states. In the same areas, however, only 5.1 per cent of the negro operators in North and South Carolina and 1.8 per cent of those in Georgia and Mississippi had receivers, while in the first two states, 4.8 per cent had pianos and 30.2 per cent had phonographs, and in the last two, 4.9 per cent had pianos and 22.5 per cent had phonographs.

Hitchcock Favors 'B' Films From Experimental Stories

More "B" pictures made from experimental stories is something Alfred Hitchcock, rotund British director, would like to see done in Hollywood.

What Mr. Hitchcock means by experimental stories, he said, are those human tales by such widely read writers as O. Henry and Edgar Allen Poe.

The "B" pictures, made on limited budgets, and often representing material that is not considered sufficiently worthy to merit an "A" picture expenditure, might thus achieve new importance and interest, Mr. Hitchcock thought.

"The O. Henry stories with the plot and ending which are not the conventional, formula stuff, and the Poe thrillers, the horrific stories, would fit admirably into such a program and I, for one, should like to see the results," he said.

Impressed by the quality and quantity of exploitation and publicity of American films, Mr. Hitchcock said the results were immediately discern-

Thompson Talks Pay With Stagehand Unit

Continuing negotiations for wage concessions during the summer, L. E. Thompson, labor executive for RKO, yesterday met with a committee representing Local 1, Manhattan stagehands, for a general discussion relative to relief in view of lower grosses.

Mr. Thompson is representing the major circuits in the negotiations and is acting at their spokesmen until a definite proposal will be made, when the circuit representatives will meet jointly with the union committee.

It is reported that George Browne, president of the I.A.T.S.E., is due here this week to investigate the situation and advise with the stagehands' and operators' locals. Meanwhile, 10 per cent reductions have been accepted by operators' unions in Milwaukee, Sheboygan, Chicago, Detroit and Flint, Mich.

Contracts with the stagehands, which have another year to run, provide for an increase in September, and it is understood the discussions are touching on this phase also.

The circuits' committee which met with the Local 1 representatives late last week for an initial discussion included, besides Mr. Thompson, Frank Phelps, Warners; Bob Weitman, Paramount Theatre; Marvin Schenck, Loew's; Al Rosen, manager of Loew's State, and Louis Weber, attorney for the Skouras circuit.

M-G-M Closes Film Contract With GB Unit

production program of M-G-M, which is already in work. It is believed in many quarters that the deal is to be used by the American company to add to to its British schedule. Among the eight already released or on the schedule of M-G-M British, in addition to those expected from Gainsborough, are: "A Yank at Oxford," "Citadel," "Good Bye, Mr. Chips," "And So, Victoria," "Busman's Honeymoon," "Death on the Table," "The Missing Miniature," with Wallace Beery, and one untitled.

May Increase GB Output

Officials of G. B. here said yesterday that the deal just concluded in England whereby Gainsborough, G. B. producing subsidiary, will make pictures for M-G-M release in England, may result in an increase of G. B.'s new season schedule here. The product is to be released in this country by G. B.

However, it was pointed out that G. B. here always has released the Gainsborough product, and that the fact that M-G-M will release the product in England may not increase the total of 24 already announced for next season's release by the company in this country. If Gainsborough increases its production schedule as a result of the M-G-M deal, then the G. B. schedule will be increased proportionately in this country, it was said.

All Studios Expected To Fight Guild Vote

dicated that he expects the remaining nine to follow in a day or so. The time for protesting has been extended to July 16.

All protests thus far received are based on the claim that the studios had no opportunity to check whether the writers voting in the election were actually on the studio payroll June 4, as required by the conditions of eligibility.

Dr. Nylander denied reports that a new hearing would be held here and said his intermediate report, together with all protests filed in the case, would go to the N.L.R.B. in Washington on July 16th, after which certification of the guild as bargaining agency is expected to follow. Thereupon the studios protesting would be free to file an appeal with the Circuit Court of Appeals, Ninth District, San Francisco.

Guild Balloting Over

Balloting by mail on the election of an advisory committee of nine to assist with the administration of the eastern branch of the Screen Actors' Guild closed yesterday. A counting of the ballots has been postponed until later in the week to await the return to New York of Mrs. Florence Marston, head of the Guild here, and Michael Connolly, her assistant. The two are in Chicago negotiating guild contracts with several commercial film studios there.

Production Shows Gain; 49 Shooting

Hollywood, July 11.—The weekend saw production up from 47 to 49, those figures indicating the number of pictures before the cameras, with 20th Century-Fox shooting on nine features. Three short subjects were in production, comparing with two a week ago.

Warners started three features, "Brother Rat," "Wings of the Navy" and "Blackwell's Island," and Columbia kept pace as to increase, starting "Finishing School," "Juvenile Court" and "Phantom Trail." Twentieth Century-Fox put "While New York Sleeps" and "By the Dawn's Early Light" on the stages, M-G-M started "Three Loves Has Nancy," Monogram commenced shooting on "The Circus Comes to Town" and RKO got going with "The Mad Miss Manton." Republic exposed "Tenth Avenue Kid" to the lens.

Columbia finished "I am the Law" and "West of Santa Fe," 20th Century-Fox brought in "My Lucky Star" and "Safety In Numbers," and Paramount completed its spectacular "If I Were King." M-G-M sent "The Chaser" to the cutting room, Universal wound up "Red Barry" (serial), RKO finished "Birthday of a Stooge," rechristening it "Fugitives for a Night," Republic canned "Nan From Music Mountain" and Hal Roach tinned "Just a Jiffy."

Australia Will Use Good British Films

London, July 11.—Leon Snider, representative of Australian exhibitor interests, was tendered a luncheon today by the Cinematograph Exhibitors' Association, which was attended by many distributor representatives.

Snider, in replying to a toast, and discussing British films, said that Australians have been so exploited in regard to British films that he is sceptical of their acceptance. When good British pictures are available, he said, their acceptance in Australia would be as ready as in Great Britain. He pointed to the enormous success of "Wings of the Morning" in Australia as proof his belief.

New 3% Tax Latest Worry for Missouri

Kansas City, July 11.—Threat of a three per cent sales tax in Missouri, where the levy now is two per cent and considered by exhibitors to be one of the factors in poor business the past year, is contained in a report on the old age pension situation. Reduction of the age limit from 70 to 65, which is required if Missouri is to get Federal aid for pensions, will add an additional 40,000 persons to the old age rolls, which now contain 72,000. Missouri already has one of the most liberal of the old age pension systems.

Legion Approves Five

The National Legion of Decency has approved five films for the current week, three for general patronage and two for adults. In the first group are "Gold Mine in the Sky," "Held for Ransom," "Panamint's Bad Man," while in the adult group are: "I Married a Spy" and "Shopworn Angel."

'Whirlpool,' 'Remous' Albany Appeal Filed

Burstyn and Arthur Mayer, who hold distribution rights in New York.

Signed by Justice Gilbert V. Schenck of the Supreme Court, Third Department, the writ necessitates that the Department of Education file an answer as to why the picture was denied a license. This is preliminary to a review of the case by the Appellate Division next October.

Originally submitted by Kurt Laemmle, "Remous" was refused a license in 1935. Later, a revision was submitted by Mr. Mayer and Mr. Burstyn and approved. Application for an English version, known as "Whirlpool" also was approved, but was withdrawn on the contention that some of the original deleted scenes had been restored.

The film, revised for the third time, was submitted last fall and denied a license by Mr. Esmond. Subsequently, the Board of Regents sub-committee upheld Mr. Esmond.

Allows Release of Films

Federal Judge William Bondy yesterday granted application of the French Motion Picture Corp., now in reorganization, to allow J. Louis Geller to pay the United States $965 to release two French motion pictures, "Avec Le Sourire" and "Angel," now being held in bond at the Custom House. Under the agreement which Judge Bondy approved, the pictures will be exhibited and the net proceeds will be equally shared by Geller and the French Motion Picture Corp.

Lloyd May Produce Picture in England

Harold Lloyd may produce a high-budget feature for Paramount in England, he said on arrival here yesterday from the coast. He will confer with David Rose, head of Paramount's British production, and other officials, regarding sending a company to London to make "What Ho," by Richard Connell.

Paramount owns the story, which has an English background. Mr. Lloyd said there are a lot of things to be considered before he arrives at a decision. One is that the script calls for exteriors and he has heard that English weather is not favorable for such shots during certain times of the year.

Mr. Lloyd said he has other matters to discuss at Paramount, but that there will be no change in his releasing deal. He will attend the opening of "Professor Beware," his first film in two years, at the Paramount on Wednesday to obtain audience reaction. He expects to be here two weeks. Arriving with him were Joe Reddy, his press agent for 19 years, and Jack Murphy his production manager, who will look over the plays and the literary field for a possible future vehicle for Mr. Lloyd.

John J. Scully Resigns

John J. Scully, Grand National branch manager in Boston, has resigned. Morris Safier, traveling sales representative representing Edward Alperson, president, was in Boston last week. Mr. Alperson is reported to be in Omaha, his home town, and he plans to confer in Hollywood briefly, returning late this week.

Sustain Para. Claim In Action of Oxnard

Los Angeles, July 11.—Federal Judge Leon R. Yankwitch today sustained the demurrer of Paramount in the suit of Oxnard Theatres, Inc., Oxnard, Cal. The case was a test action with 20 independent exhibitors, with parallel claims, agreeing to abide by the decision in this one case.

The suit arose out of the claim Paramount had sold certain pictures by title as for last year's program, which later were substituted for and offered on this year's program at a higher price. The court decision upholds Paramount's contention that a clause covered that as unpredictable necessity. The effect is understood to be that a change in block booking practice cannot be accomplished by court action but must result from national legislation.

RKO to Line Up Plans Within Next 2 Weeks

Final plans for the first group of pictures on RKO's new season schedule of 48 features will be completed by the company within two weeks, it was stated yesterday.

As indicated earlier by Jules Levy, sales manager, the company will hold no formal sales meetings this year. Mr. Levy and other RKO sales executives visited every branch office last spring in the course of the annual sales drive and plans and policies for the new season were outlined at that time.

Titles, casts and producer-director assignments will be decided from time to time throughout the year with pictures being planned in small groups. The first product announcement is expected to list 12 to 16 titles.

Ohio ITO Relies on Allied in Pact Talks

COLUMBUS, July 11.—That the board of directors of the I.T.O. of Ohio were aware of the impending plans for conciliation conferences between distributors and exhibitors as far back as one month ago, is disclosed in the revelation of a resolution passed by the board on June 14. The resolution, unanimously adopted, declared that no member of the organization "act in any capacity" with respect to the plan without prior authorization by Abram F. Myers, general counsel of the national Allied organization.

The resolution refers to "rumors" that the major distributors "will shortly recommend" that representatives of distributors and exhibitor organizations confer on conciliation and arbitration, expresses the belief that such a plan would be advantageous to the industry, and declares that such a plan "can only be satisfactorily consummated for its members through the advice and guidance of national Allied."

Calls New Kentucky Lottery Law Illegal

FRANKFORT, KY., July 11.—Assistant Attorney General Guy H. Herdman has expressed the belief in an opinion that the 1938 act declaring lotteries legal is unconstitutional. The act went into effect Saturday.

The opinion was given R. O. Willingham, Bardwell City Attorney who asked if it were legal for a merchant to give purchasers tickets and give prizes to winners of ticket drawings.

Mr. Herdman said the act was intended to make such transactions and "also newspaper drawings" and Bank Night legal, but he said he believed the Court of Appeals would declare the act a nullity.

Hollywood Previews

"I'd Give a Million"

(20th Century-Fox)

HOLLYWOOD, July 11.—This comedy is as far off the beaten track as anybody surfeited with the flow of sophisticated knockabout offerings of a few months back could possibly wish. It is proportionately funny. Showmen who have put away on their top shelves the more extreme phrases which emphasize humor can take them down and dust them off for this picture.

The situation which gives rise to unprecedented complications is that in which the citizens of the French Riviera find themselves when notified by a newspaper headline one morning that the very next hobo they meet may be the mysterious millionaire who exchanged clothes with a knight of the road last night after declaring himself eager to give a million francs to anyone who would render him a service without thought of reward. The citizens promptly made honored guests of all the tramps in the community, more tramps arrive, are similarly welcomed, and the town goes charitably mad. Meanwhile the real millionaire, aware of the state of affairs, obtains employment with a circus, falls in love with a girl, mistrusts her motive but learns he needn't have, and finally makes good the newspaper's story by distributing the million francs as promised.

Warner Baxter has a superb role as the millionaire. Peter Lorre is impressive as a vagabond, John Carradine as another. Jean Hersholt plays a relatively minor part in his usual thorough manner and Marjorie Weaver continues her steady march to popularity as the girl in the case. The cast is long and includes a dozen or more striking characteristic performances.

A most involved story by Cesare Zavattini and Giaci Mondaini is the basis of a greased-lightning screenplay by Boris Ingster and Milton Sperling. Producer Kenneth Macgowan and Director Walter Lang have made of it an immensely amusing motion picture.

Running time, 70 minutes. "G." WILLIAM R. WEAVER

"The Affairs of Annabel"

(RKO-Radio)

HOLLYWOOD, July 11.—An amalgamation of hokum farce comedy from start to finish, RKO-Radio's "The Affairs of Annabel" satirizes the studio publicity end of the picture business. Gag follows gag in action, dialogue, characterizations and situations. It's no behind-the-scenes story. Lou Lusty, in his initial production effort, saw to it that nothing trite or stale should be included. As everything happens out in the open for every one to see and hear, Jack Oakie and Lucille Ball check in with fine performances and the support which features Ruth Donnelly, Bradley Page, Fritz Feld, Thurston Hall, Granville Bates, James Burke, Le Van Atta, Anthony Warde and Edward Marr leaves nothing undone that would add to the plot's nonsense.

Press agent Oakie's imagination and thirst to publicize Lucille Ball is the premise for the merriment. To exploit a prison picture, he gets her in jail for three days that stretch out to 30. There's fireworks, of course, and more when, to exploit "A Maid and a Man," Oakie gets Miss Ball a maid's job. Nothing goes right and everything is funny as yeggs make the Granville Bates-Elisabeth Risdon home their hideout. A gang of film extra cops storms the house shooting blank cartridges, but when the gangsters return real bullets they flee in panic. World wide publicity comes to Miss Ball when she captures the criminals. But there's no peace for her. To exploit "The Diamond Smuggler," her next picture, Oakie has her arrested as a smuggler and the fadeout has her chained in the arms of Secret Service men.

The original story by Charles Hoffman is fresh and new and so is the screenplay which Bert Granet and Paul Yawitz did. As they went after novelty in preparation, Ben Stoloff's direction wraps their work as well as that of the players up into an attractive bundle of showmanship screen amusement.

Running time, 75 minutes. "G." GUS McCARTHY

Withdraws Alger Motion

Abraham K. Webber, attorney for independent stockholders of RKO, yesterday withdrew an application which had been heretofore unrevealed, requesting Judge William Bondy to rescind the appointment of George W. U.A. Product Need Covered: Silverstone tribution for the United States and Canada are to be taken up at a meeting of the board today. This will be the first directors' meeting since the transfer of the company's headquarters from Hollywood to New York. Mr. Silverstone is also scheduled to report on various matters disposed of or pending in London.

Mr. Silverstone, declined to discuss the proposed contract for Mr. Schaefer, other than to say it will run several years.

He admitted a releasing deal with Herbert Wilcox, British producer, had been discussed informally, and said the company is willing to add other "great producers," but that the planned schedule of 30 films, as announced by Mr. Schaefer for next season, will not be increased. Any deals for additional films will be for 1939-'40, he said.

No More Executive Changes

No further changes in the executive personnel here or in England are planned, Mr. Silverstone declared. He said that he had authorized negotiations with Lynn Farnol to become advertising and publicity director before leaving for England and the appointment has "his full blessing."

Members of the board residing in New York will act at today's meeting and constitute what is termed "the eastern board." They are James Mulvey, acting for Samuel Goldwyn; Ed. Raftery, for Douglas Fairbanks; Charles Schwartz, for Charles Chaplin; Dennis F. O'Brien, for Mary Pickford. Emanuel Silverstone, brother of Maurice, will speak for the latter.

There is no truth to reports from London of merger negotiations between Gaumont British Theatres and the Odeon circuit, Mr. Silverstone said, disclosing, however, that the two groups "are close to each other and work together on deals."

Mr. Silverstone's wife and two young daughters came over with him. They will reside temporarily at the Sherry-Netherland and plan a home in the country.

Mr. Mulvey conferred with Mr. Silverstone at the pier.

Carvell, Sr., president of the Old Time Co. Actual construction will begin tomorrow on the 1,900-seat house. It will be completed Dec. 20 and opened for the first show Dec. 26. It will be the sixth operated by Stanley-Warner here and will give the city a total of 13 theatres.

Hitchcock Favors 'B' Films From Experimental Stories

ible here and could be copied to advantage in England.

"The main thing about advertising a picture is to get the patrons into the theatre on Monday. Your exploitation of pictures is so intense it does just that, whereas a smaller, more timid campaign, succeeds only in getting people interested toward the end of the run. Intense exploitation before showing and at the beginning starts the parade to the box-office early enough to offset any last day drop."

Mr. Hitchcock's first visit to Hollywood was for the purpose of conferring with David Selznick on a picture. They settled everything in the few weeks he was West. He will direct "Titanic," returning next January or February to begin work on it.

"That's all there is to it thus far," he said, "just the title. But I've always wanted to do a sea story, although frankly, I should have preferred a grimmer one. However, I guess this is grim enough. With a title like 'Titanic' which immediately calls to mind an historical disaster, a director can do those subtle things I like to do. You start off with audience participation, for the title automatically evokes memories, and just as automatically creates suspense.

Republic Signs New Franchise for Coast

Protest Claim Deletion

Meyers & Keating, Hanover Capital Trust Co. and Jack Leo, as assignee of Alfred E. Fiegal, filed exception yesterday to the report of Courtland Palmer, special master, which had expunged their claim for $248,047 against the Fox Theatres Corp. The claim was based on an alleged agreement between Fox and Fiegal, made in 1930, under which Fiegal was to publish a Fox Weekly and was to receive 60 per cent of all the profits after advancing all necessary monies for expenses. The assignees asserted that Fox had failed to carry out his part of the contract and based their claim on the alleged breach.

Erich Pommer Here To Set Distribution

Erich Pommer, British producer, arrived here yesterday on the Normandie to negotiate distribution deals for two films, "Vessel of Wrath" and "St. Martin's Lane," both starring Charles Laughton. They were produced by Mayflower Pictures, in which Mr. Pommer, Mr. Laughton, Leslie Howard and John Maxwell are interested.

Mr. Pommer said he will be here a few weeks and will return late this year to negotiate distribution deals for "Jamaica Inn," also starring Mr. Laughton, and which will be directed by Alfred Hitchcock.

Services for Saperstein to Be Held Today

Rubens and Samuel Trinz. W. A. Steffes and H. M. Richey are expected here for the services. Burial will be in Waldheim Cemetery, Forest Park, Ill.

Mr. Saperstein, who organized the local Allied unit here nine years ago and has served as its president since, was one of Chicago's most prominent and highly respected independent exhibitors. Tributes to his memory poured in from numerous industry executives. Among the messages received were the following:

John Balaban: Aaron was a very close personal friend. Both the members of our organization and myself thought much of him. He was a man of utmost integrity. He will be greatly missed."

Abram F. Myers, chairman of the board of Allied States Association: "Constructively independent, alert to protect the interests of his members, staunch in his support of national Allied, loyal to his friends, the passing of Aaron Saperstein grieves me deeply and leaves a gap in the ranks which it will be difficult to fill."

Emil Stern, president of Essaness Theatres: "Mr. Saperstein was an outstanding man in our industry. Everyone trusted him and his loyalty was unsurpassed."

Jack Miller, former president Chicago Exhibitors' Association: "Mr. Saperstein was a great fighter. The squarest I ever met."

German and Italian anti-American propaganda.

Development of the scheme already is actively under way by a Resettlement Administration staff headed by Pare Lorenz, producer of "The River" and "The Plow That Broke the Plains," and funds are to be provided in the near future by the W.P.A.

While present plans call for use of the Government films in schools and colleges to offset the asserted failure of commercial producers to provide educational pictures, observers see in the scheme the most ambitious government-propaganda effort ever attempted in this country and the possibility that the Administration eventually will expand its program to secure wider distribution of its pictures.

Since the playing time of the average theatre is well filled, it is pointed out, the Government will not be able to depend upon commercial exhibitors to show all its pictures and might resort to theatres of its own as a W. P. A. or similar project.

Charges Ships Lost Out at Cairo Meet

Charges that broadcasting and aviation interests "stole" the wave length at the international radio and telegraphic conference in Cairo last spring were made by Chares J. Pannill, president of Radio Marine Corp., on his return yesterday on the Normandie from meetings of the executive committee of the International Radio Maritime Committee.

Mr. Pannill, who is executive vice-president of the committee of which A. Hubert of Belgium is chairman, said that at the Cairo conference, which ended in April, the marine interests were not organized and as a result "took a licking," with the broadcasting representatives coming out on top.

The maritime group, therefore, called a special meeting to consider defense of its rights. Mr. Pannill said, and sessions were held in London and Paris. Another conference is scheduled for November. The committee sets the policies for 12,000 ships, he said. Mr. Pannill is president and a director of the RCA Institutes, Inc., and an executive of other RCA companies.

On the Job

When the Deerpath Inn at swank Lake Forest caught fire a few days ago, Universal Newsreel's staff man in Chicago started for the blaze in a hurry. But conflagrations are notoriously inconsiderate, and the fire was out when the Universal man arrived.

But he noticed an exhibitor lurking in the neighborhood, discovered that he had "shot" about 100 feet of the fire with his own camera for the fun of it, bought it and gave Universal reel a lively "exclusive."

Valentino's Revived Appeal Surprise of Current Season

Rudolph Valentino has been dead more than a decade, but the Valentino legend persists, and his glamour, measured against the march of time and its myriad changes, is still strong enough to out gross some current stars of the first magnitude for a quick revival.

Here are facts and expert opinions on what the revival of Valentino vehicles of silent days has meant to the trade, and what may be expected as a result.

RKO bought "The Son of a Sheik" from Artcinema Associates for 45 theatres in New York and 15 to 20 spots from here to the coast.

J. J. O'Connor, head of RKO theatre operations, well pleased with the results of his buy, said:

"There has always been a glamour around Valentino, alive and dead, which no other male star could match. We played all the original Valentino pictures on our circuit years ago and broke records. Valentino left the screen for a year, during that time, it will be recalled. However, Paramount forced his return to work out

FWC Court Control Move Is Put Aside

The current moves to formulate a plan of trade practice regulation for the industry have forced the postponement of action on the earlier proposal to seek Government participation in the designation of a special master to hear all complaints brought against Fox West Coast which involve violations of the consent decree entered into by the circuit in 1933; it was learned on good authority yesterday.

Moreover, the acceptance by the industry of a plan of trade practice regulation possibly could bring about

Marchetti Has New Plan for Italian Films

Would Produce There and Get English Versions

A plan by which Hollywood producers would make a limited number of pictures in Italy with Italian financing will be presented to bankers and film companies in Rome by Roger Marchetti, Los Angeles attorney, who is in New York preparatory to sailing Saturday for Italy on the Conte di Savoia.

Under the plan two versions of each picture produced by the Americans would be made, one in Italian, the other in English. The Americans would retain the English version, together with distribution rights for North and South America and the British Isles, in lieu of a share in earnings of the pictures. This plan, Mr. Marchetti believes, would make it financially feasible for Americans to participate in Italian production in the face of restrictions against the withdrawal of money from the country.

Mr. Marchetti said that Edward Small and B. P. Schulberg were willing to make pictures in Italy under the plan he is advancing, and that

C.E.A., K.R.S. Take Up Building Problem

London, July 12.—The Cinematograph Exhibitors' Association and the Kinematograph Renters' Society (distributors) resumed their joint sessions today with the problem of overbuilding the topic of discussion. The C.E.A. presented a plan which aims at a solution, and the K.R.S. promised to consider the scheme and report on it in a week.

It is understood the plan suggests the formation of a joint committee of eight representatives of the two organizations to which all applications for new theatres would be submitted. The penalty for failure to comply with the verdict of the committee, as defined in the plan, would be inability to obtain product. An independent chairman is provided in the scheme. The K.R.S. appears favorably disposed toward the idea but has raised the point that the restraint of trade issue may be raised. The C.E.A. general council will meet tomorrow.

executive committee. In addition, routine corporate matters were discussed, according to the company.

It is understood that the proposed new contract for George J. Schaefer, vice-president and general manager of domestic distribution, was not discussed due to the fact that numerous details have still to be agreed upon and, it is believed, the pact is still subject to lengthy negotiation. Mr. Silverstone will leave for Hollywood tomorrow to resume negotiations on the Selznick International deal, which is believed to be much nearer an agreement. On his return to New York he will resume negotiations with Mr. Schaefer on the latter's contract.

New members of the United Artists board who attended yesterday's meeting were Dennis F. O'Brien, United Artists general counsel, who was designated a board member by Mary Pickford; Charles Schwartz, designated by Charles Chaplin; Edward C. Raftery, designated by Douglas Fairbanks, and James Mulvey, designated by Samuel Goldwyn. Emanuel Silverstone attended as Alexander Korda's representative, although Mr. Silverstone has not been designated a member of the board. Miss Pickford and Mr. Schaefer also attended.

The election of a president and board chairman to succeed Dr. A. H. Giannini is being deferred for the time being, probably until next fall.

U. S. Circuit Judge Martin T. Manton yesterday approved a compromise between Milton C. Weisman as receiver of the Fox Theatres Corp. and Camelot Theatre Corp. of Massachusetts, whereby the Fox Theatres settled a $1,773 claim against it for $1,300. The claim was based on the question as to who should pay repair expenses for the Art Theater and commercial property owned by Fox Theatres and sold to Camelot.

the complete abandonment of the proposal to have a Government approved special master sit as arbiter of trade practice complaints against the circuit, it was said.

The Fox West Coast proposal, however, was formally placed before a representative of the U. S. Attorney General's office by attorneys for major companies within the past week, it is learned. The move was made, it was said, merely to advise the Government of the plan in mind and the probable procedure to be followed in the event it is decided to put it into effect.

While it was denied that the major companies sought any assurances from the Government representative as to the acceptability of the plan to the Attorney General's office and the Department of Justice, it was indicated that by familiarizing Washington with the proposal and its aims, distributors hoped that any action against Fox West Coast which might result from placing the agreement in effect would be held in abeyance until the plan had had a fair trial. The procedure, apparently, is the same as that which was followed by Will H. Hays and the major company heads in broaching to President Roosevelt during their recent White House visit the industry's intention to work out a plan of self-regulation which, they hope, will be free of Government interference during, at least, a fair trial period.

Might End Current Probe

It is understood that the suggestion has been made that the Fox West Coast plan be held in abeyance until the industry's trade practice regulation plan has been brought forth, which might eliminate the need for the regional plan. Under the proposal, the distribution companies and Fox West Coast would petition the Attorney General's office to designate a special master who would hear all complaints against the circuit involving the consent decree and make recommendations to the Federal court on the basis of the hearings. The procedure, it is believed, would eliminate future Federal actions against the circuit and distributors selling to it and would end the current Department of Justice investigation on the coast.

Cowboys' Stagecoach Trip Ends at Strand

A New Hampshire stagecoach, 1836 vintage, rolled up to the Strand on Broadway yesterday afternoon and six cowboys let out a whoop. They had arrived at their destination after six hours of jaunting over the hot pavement with nary a cow in sight.

Three were "Wild West" cowboys and the others of the Brooklyn variety. The coach was bannered, "We are cowboys from Brooklyn invading Manhattan." A News of the Day cameraman and newspaper photographers filmed the arrival.

It was all a stunt for "Cowboy from Brooklyn," Cosmopolitan production, which will open at the Strand today. The trek started at Borough Hall in Brooklyn, wound over the Brooklyn bridge and through Manhattan's streets.

Auchincloss Seeks $20,265 Allowance

Gordon Auchincloss, special master to compute damages in the plagiarism suit brought by Edward Sheldon and Margaret Ayer Barnes against M-G-M Pictures Corp., M-G-M Distributing Corp., Loew's, Inc., and Culver Export Corp., filed his petition yesterday, asking for an allowance of $20,000 and $265 expenses, as compensation for his services.

Special Master Auchincloss stated that he had been appointed by Federal Judge John C. Knox on July 31, 1936, to compute damages awarded the plaintiffs for the plagiarism by the defendants of their play, "Dishonored Lady," in "Letty Lynton." Between the time of his appointment and the filing of his final report on May 9, 1938, the petition stated, the special master had spent 323 hours on hearings, in addition to 16 days spent in taking testimony at Culver City.

The LION'S ROAR

When you browse through the quarterly magazine published by Consumers Bureau of Standards, Summer 1938 issue, you'll be startled to find that motion pictures are appraised just like canned salmon, government graded butter and women's slips (pardon the expression).

There are 26 productions listed under the heading "RECOMMENDED MOTION PICTURES" and, if you will forgive our blushes, 9 are M-G-M, the next nearest competitor has 4 and thereafter the various companies rank with 3,3,3,3 and 1.

If M-G-M didn't win one of these surveys, polls or star popularity votes...that would be news. It would not only be man bites dog, but lion bites editor

It's NEWS in any case.

Here's news, too. Lend an ear.

INSIDE STUFF ON "MARIE ANTOINETTE"

"Just met a theatre circuit operator back from California. This fellow was tipped off to a sneak preview (prior to the World Premiere—see below) of 'Marie Antoinette' outside of Los Angeles. Claims it's by far the greatest picture turned out in years. It's the talk of California. And here's what the Manager of the theatre showing the Preview wrote to his home office... confidentially: ...'This was the first preview and played to a full house. The minute the audience saw they were to witness 'Marie Antoinette' they pretty nearly tore the theatre down. We have never received a finer reaction to any preview in this theatre. The comment cards elected it as one of the greatest motion pictures of all time."

WHAT'S THE SHOOTING FOR?

Reports from the filming of "THE CITADEL" are exciting. King Vidor directing. Robert Donat, Rosalind Russell co-stars. Looks like the MEF (Metro Expeditionary Forces) will bring back an attraction bigger than "Yank at Oxford."

The "BOYS' TOWN" company still on location at the actual famed spot in Omaha. Spencer Tracy, Mickey Rooney—perfect casting for this heart story. Norman Taurog directing. A show to look forward to.

Hunt Stromberg, Producer, Van Dyke, Director, are too busy to take the bows for "Marie Antoinette." They're back with the pair they launched to co-stardom—Jeanette MacDonald, Nelson Eddy. "SWEETHEARTS" is the show, and the show's a sweetheart.

The talk of the M-G-M studios: the beauty, the romance of "THE GREAT WALTZ" (Luise Rainer, Fernand Gravet, Miliza Korjus) and the thrill, merriment and box-office wallop of "TOO HOT TO HANDLE" (Clark Gable, Myrna Loy).

All is not quiet on the Western front. I'ts busy as hell at the M-G-M studios.

And it all spells

BUSINESS!

The stupendous thrill of the never before photographed Salt Trek. 15,000 camels in one caravan in the yearly march of the tribes for their salt supply.

The awe-inspiring magnificence of John Boyle's photography of the desert action.

The ever enjoyable comedy of that great actor Wallace Ford.

The torpedoed boat episode and the gripping tenseness of the rescue scenes.

The continual grip of the relentless pursuit of a man for the pal who brought him disgrace and wrecked his life.

The blood curdling ferocity of the tribal battles and the attack on the salt train.

The never-to-be-forgotten thrill of the voice of Paul Robeson as he sings "My Way" and "Deep Desert."

The superb acting of those three geniuses of the stage and screen —Wilcoxon, Ford, Robeson.

The climax—when the destiny of two men and a kingdom all de-pend on the charm of a child.

Valentino's Revived Appeal Surprise of Current Season

two pictures on his contract. He was so popular then that we bought those two pictures for $50,000 each and wherever we played them we ran a full week to capacity audiences.

"This time, in buying 'The Son of a Sheik' we naturally didn't match that business, nor did we expect to. But there was sufficient curiosity everywhere to get real box-office results. There was not enough curiosity, however, to sustain two pictures in the same spots, and it worked out that whichever picture showed first picked up the cream of that curiosity business.

"I feel now, however, that the legend has run its course so far as extracting any further box-office values from it for other revivals is concerned. Persons who had seen Valentino in the early days went to see the revival to discover what it was that had made him a legend. Others who had never seen him went for the same reason. I doubt if there can ever be another profitable Valentino revival.

"What will happen—what is happening—is that many picture people are now rushing in to dig up any dead star who ever had box-office appeal to try to cash in on it. There's talk of putting out some of Jean Harlow's early pictures. I doubt if any such bring-back-the-dead movement will work, however, for it must be remembered that there was only one Valentino."

Artcinema Associates, selling the revivals, have had such a flood of letters, inquiries and pleas for written material on Valentino that Beulah Livingston, publicity director, took three weeks and worked steadily night after night to complete a 30,000 word "Remember Valentino" to statisfy the demand and establish a new kind of exploitation material.

Miss Livingston reports theatre managers as well as the home office have been deluged with letters and inquiries and if the book could have been ready earlier, 30,000 copies could have been sold in New York, Philadelphia and Chicago, during the run. In Chicago the run at the Garrick was extended twice after the first week. Philadelphia played "The Son of a Sheik" five weeks at the Erlanger and two weeks at the News.

The 90-page life story is issued today at 25 cents a copy. The first run of 50,000 copies will be distributed in chain drugstores, theatre lobbies where the film is showing, and selected bookstores. A deal is also pending for rights to Spanish translation and French serial rights have been sold to Canada.

United Artists have just bought back distribution rights for Argentine, Paraguay, Uruguay, Straits Settlements, Cuba and Siam. Spanish titles will be used. Arthur Kelly closed the deal.

"Originally," Mr. Kelly said, "the picture was produced by Artcinema Corp. for Joseph Schenck, and others, including some United Artists stockholders. Artcinema went into voluntary liquidation and got out of the producing business selling a portfolio of their stories and rights in the films to Emil Jensen. Emil Jensen is now in Artcinema Associates, Inc., and has sold the aforementioned foreign rights back to United Artists on "The Son of a Sheik," on one of our regular distribution deals."

The food and food beverages industry contributed the largest share of the gross revenue of the Columbia Broadcasting System for the first six months of 1938, with $3,743,708, according to the industrial breakdown of sixty-five advertisers in 15 industries made public yesterday by the network.

The total business of CBS during the half-year from these 15 industries aggregated $15,581,295, which compares with $14,803,265 for the first six months of 1937, and indicates a gain of 5.3 per cent.

In order of volume of business for the period, the first six industries were food and food beverages, drugs and drug products, cigarettes and tobacco, automotive, soaps and household supplies and confectionery. Chaplin Stand Delays U.A.'s Profit Split

Schwartz, Silverstone to Confer with Him

United Artists' new profit-sharing plan for company producers is meeting opposition from Charles Chaplin. This has delayed formal ratification by the company's directors, it was learned here yesterday on good authority.

In an effort to overcome Mr. Chaplin's objections, Charles Schwartz, attorney, who recently was designated a member of the United Artists board of directors by Mr. Chaplin, will leave for Hollywood tonight with Maurice Silverstone, chairman of the executive committee, to go over the plan in detail with the United Artists' partner. Mr. Chaplin, it was reported here, was absent from Hollywood and "incommunicado" for more than a month while the other United Artists' partners and officers developed and approved the plan informally. The objections were not advanced until after public announcement of the plan had been made.

Under the proposed profit-sharing arrangement, which is credited with having played a part in attracting Hal

Industry to Make Fair "Cavalcade"

The industry's participation in the World's Fair which will open here next year will be the production of a feature titled "Cavalcade of America," depicting the history of the United States to the present, it is understood. The film will be shown without charge in a 500-seat theatre in the main building of the Federal area at the exposition grounds.

While the major companies have come to no definite decision, the United States New York World's Fair Commission says that "virtually

The district includes theatres in Columbus, Evansville, Dayton, Indianapolis, Pittsburgh, Kansas City and St. Louis. Joseph R. Vogel, Loew executive, announced the appointment.

ITOA Urges Speed In Industry Moves

The industry's proposed program of self-regulation should be in operation before Congress convenes next January in order to circumvent inimical legislation, say I. T. O. A. leaders.

Bertrand Urged Federal Action During NRA

Washington, July 13.—Announcement by the Administration monopoly investigating committee last night that Daniel Bertrand of Barre, Vt., had been appointed administrative assistant to Leon Henderson, executive secretary of the committee, today aroused much interest in film circles.

To those in the industry, Mr. Bertrand is best known as the author of the report on the motion picture code issued in February, 1936, by the Division of Review of the NRA, in which he suggested a thorough study of monopoly in the industry "by a Federal agency with adequate facilities and authority to examine books and other records," holding that such an inquiry would undoubtedly consume a considerable time "but the results possible would justify the cost and time."

The report also suggested the possibility of legislation outlawing block booking and prohibiting exhibitors from over-buying.

"Such monopolistic tendencies as are inherent in operation under the copyright laws do exist in the motion picture industry," Bertrand held.

"The growth of trade practices such as block booking, forcing of short subjects and designation of playdates,

RKO Asserts Music Hall Shelved Films

The $72,374 damage suit filed against the Music Hall and Rockefeller Center by RKO Radio Pictures on Tuesday is based on charges that the shelving by the theatre of a number of RKO pictures breached an agreement entered into in 1934 under which the Music Hall agreed to play a minimum number of RKO pictures annually, it was learned yesterday.

Particulars of the suit were not contained in the papers filed with the court. The action was brought by Irving Trust Co., reorganization trustee for RKO. The damages sought are based on the returns which it is estimated RKO would have received from the Music Hall had the theatre played the full number of RKO pictures specified in the franchise.

Rockefeller Center was made a defendant in the action as a guarantor of the contract. Attorneys for the Center could not be reached for comment yesterday.

"Wonderful" Closes Week with $77,000

"Having Wonderful Time" grossed $77,000 in the week ended last night at the Music Hall. The week was marked by the hottest weather of the year.

"Shopworn Angel" netted $24,000 at the Capitol.

Monogram's "Romance of the Limberlost" will have its first run in the metropolitan area at the Brooklyn Fox, starting today.

20th-Fox Files Denial

Twentieth Century-Fox Film Corp. and Twentieth Century-Fox Music Corp. filed a general denial yesterday in the U. S. District Court to the suit of F. Gilbert Pollay, doing business as 20th Century Music Publishers. The answer asserts that the defendants will rely on the legal right deriving out of their trade mark "20th Century" registered in June, 1936. They ask for dismissal of the suit, which seeks an injunction against use of the name 20th Century by the defendants and for an accounting.

Sentence 2 in Tax Fraud

Philip Guryan, president of the Newman Theatre Ticket Agency, and Samuel Bloom, secretary and treasurer, were sentenced to four months in prison and fined a total of $4,500 for evasion of Federal amusement tax payments by Judge John C. Knox yesterday. The two, whom a jury found guilty last week, were charged specifically with filing a return of $624 for the period from November, 1936, to March, 1937, when the agency's tax should have been $2,474.

Gallo Shows Closing

The Fortune Gallo-Shubert company staging outdoor musicals at the Municipal Auditorium on Randall's Island posted closing notices yesterday because, it was stated, Actors' Equity Association declined to make concessions in connection with players' salaries when performances are cancelled because of unfavorable weather conditions. An Equity spokesman indicated, however, that the matter might be reconsidered within a few days.

Dietz Has New Technique in Astor 'Antoinette' Museum

Howard Dietz hasn't been M-G-M's praise agent for two decades without learning what exploitation means to the box-office. In opening the "Marie Antoinette" museum in the Astor Theatre yesterday at a press preview, prior to a month's free-to-the-public show before the picture release, he demonstrated a new technique.

For this collection of costumes, objets d'art, furniture of the period of the picture, and the photographic exhibit illustrating all phases of production has been set up at a cost of approximately $30,000. The rental of the Astor for a month will make the total pre-release exploitation cost for New York about $75,000. As a rule, M-G-M spends $40,000 to $45,000 launching a picture.

A moving electric sign is up over the Astor, and a lobby display is in. Dietz believes this strong pre-release campaign will have a marked effect on the box office.

Incidentally, when the museum opens tomorrow, there will be a microphone set up in the lobby for interviewing the viewers for an hour daily over WHN. In August, the museum will travel to key cities.

"It occurred to me when I had the idea for the museum," said Dietz, "that this picture, because of its production values, the amount of time and money spent to make it historically perfect should not be given any blatant ballyhoo. The picture calls for something a little more dignified than a guy climbing up a building.

"In short, the ballyhoo had to be in harmony. Since the picture has historical weight I feel that a visit to the museum will create an atmosphere for the potential audience.

"Films, being such casual entertainment, something to go into for a few hours, often something for the transient to pick up when he has a few hours to kill, some method must be devised to give event value to those pictures which are outstanding. The museum exploitation prepares audiences for the proper reception of a picture which has taken four year[illegible] make. Pictures often suffer from the fact that they're here today and gone tomorrow, like newspapers and magazines. When an attraction like 'Marie Antoinette' comes along it is desirable to focus public attention on the fact that there is more to such a production than its mere story."

Lauds Assistants

This is the most important exploitation stunt he has ever devised, Dietz said. He had invaluable assistance, he added, from William Ferguson and Si Seadler, in New York, and Howard Strickling and Frank Whitbeck on the coast.

Special "days" are being arranged for special groups to visit the museum before it "travels"—French officials, teachers, historians, etc. Doors open today at 11 A. M. and remain open until midnight. "Marie Antoinette" will come in Aug. 16.

From Omsk

When Michael D. Clofine, managing editor of News of the Day, boarded the Normandie en route to Europe yesterday, a bellboy handed him a telegram.

It read: "Hope you don't do much grumbling on your way over. The moaning on the ocean disturbs my compass." The signature was "Howard Hughes, Omsk."

every important film company has pledged assistance to the Government in making the "Cavalcade" picture a patriotic enterprise."

Theodore T. Hayes, executive assistant commissioner of the Federal Commission, is en route to Hollywood to put the film in production, according to a statement by his office. The film will be made up of excerpts from historical pictures now in the vaults of the companies, with new material bridging the gaps, presenting a continuous story from the inauguration of President Washington to the present Roosevelt regime.

With running time limited to one hour, and with exhibition continuous throughout the day for the duration of the Fair, the Federal Commission estimates this will be "the longest single run of any film in history."

Mr. Hayes has discussed the film with Will H. Hays and other industry executives. While several problems are still to be ironed out in connection with the plan, and nothing definite has as yet been decided, indications point to the "Cavalcade" feature as the form the industry's participation will take, an industry executive said. The companies will work cooperatively in the project.

The proposal was presented by the Federal Commission, of which Edward J. Flynn, New York Secretary of State and Bronx Democratic leader, is Commissioner General.

Miss Royer's Film Starts Buffalo Stir

Buffalo, July 13.—When Fanchon Royer, independent producer, selected the Shea Century here for the premiere of "Religious Racketeer," which purports to expose "fake mediums who claim to be able to communicate with the dead" (to use her own words), she didn't know what she was walking into. Or did she?

With Madame Houdini listed as star, the film was set for a dual bill at the first run Century, when Ralph G. Pressing came bouncing into town from nearby Lilydale, modestly calling itself the "largest spiritualist colony in the world." Mr. Pressing edits a paper there and acts as publicity man for the town. He called the picture "an outrage" and "untruthful" and a few other things.

Mr. Pressing and Miss Royer exchanged a number of rather pointed remarks on the general subject, all duly recorded in the daily press. He produced a facsimile of what he claimed to be an affidavit to the effect that Madame Houdini received a message from her husband after he had died. Miss Royer challenged that with a wired denial of its authenticity from Madame Houdini on the coast. Mr. Pressing protested to Vincent R. McFaul, head of Shea Theatres. Meanwhile, the general film-going public of Buffalo has become interested in the situation, and is attending the Century in goodly numbers to see for themselves.

"Love Finds Andy Hardy"

(M-G-M)

Warmly appealing, amusing and human, "Love Finds Andy Hardy" should be as valuable to the regular run of exhibitors as have been any previous pictures centering about the affairs of the neighborly family of Judge James Hardy.

This time the "romantic" affairs of young Andy Hardy, son, heir and pal of the judge, are the cause of it all, and young Mickey Rooney plays Andy. His performance is a delight, as he portrays the adolescent in his 'teens, terribly disturbed by romance, and big business deals involving an effort to purchase a car, and the predicament of having two girls to take to one dance.

Lewis Stone is well-nigh perfect as the understanding husband and father. Cecilia Parker, Ann Rutherford, Lana Turner, Gene Reynolds and Fay Holden are particularly good in support, but Judy Garland comes close to taking the honors out of young Rooney's capable hands. She plays the too-young girl next door, who develops a loyal "crush" on Rooney, who thinks her much too young, comes to his moral support when he is overwhelmed by problems, cleverly extracts him from the two-date predicament, herself comes forth in a "sensational" evening gown, and saves the day for Andy by her voice and her presence.

Highlights of William Ludwig's screenplay, which George B. Seitz directed, are Judy's singing of a trio of catchy numbers, and a throat-catching scene when a young friend, by amateur radio, gets a message through to Mrs. Hardy, away at the bedside of the children's grandmother. The picture—the stuff of which popular entertainment is made—family entertainment, and the exhibitor should be guided accordingly. It is unpretentious, but it has what it takes.

Running time, 92 minutes. "G." Charles S. Aaronson

"Professor, Beware"

(Lloyd-Paramount)

Hollywood, July 13.—Gag tumbles over gag in this uproarious Harold Lloyd comedy. There is a story, of course, which follows the girl is bound to get her man idea. But it is only a skeleton on which hang 95 minutes of exciting, merry and mirthful fun. Harold Lloyd has lost none of that comedy mastery as a provider of clean, wholesome amusement. He has slackened the reins a bit here and there, but never so far as to be in the slightest bit objectionable. Continually he is the spark firing Phyllis Welch, Raymond Walburn and Lionel Stander to commendable attainments, and William Frawley, Thurston Hall, Cora Witherspoon, Etienne Girardot, Sterling Holloway, Mary Lou Lender, Spencer Charters, Christian Rub, Guinn Williams and Ward Bacon to grand work in episodic sequences.

The picture idea follows silent day technique with flamboyant action serving as chief interpretative medium, but it is modern in conception.

Circumstances cause Lloyd to believe that he and Miss Welch are repeating the life story of two long dead Egyptians. Wanting to serve on an archaeological expedition and rid himself of the girl at all costs, the hero sets out on a journey that results in a hurly-burly cross-country chase from Los Angeles to New York. Jailed after a hilarious interlude with the drunken Frawley, Lloyd is freed by Miss Welch and forced to spend the night with her on the desert after evading the cops. He escapes again only to run into Frawley and Stander and be trampled by steers in a cattle car. Later he indulges in some of those "Safety Last" thrills atop a freight train that is roaring into a tunnel. Pursued again by the police, Miss Welch, Bacon and Williams, he is again jailed not, however, until he has been frozen in a refrigerator car. Girardot, spurred on by Miss Witherspoon, his wife, marries the couple. Miss Welch deserts prior to arrival in New York. Lloyd learns that the story of the dead Egyptians did not end as fatally as he believed and he sets out to reclaim his bride who is now secreted on her father's yacht. Lloyd besieges the wrong boat in a sequence packed with wild action. His efforts so please his father-in-law that he is made welcome by the family and the Egyptian expedition is forgotten for love.

What of the Crampton Harris story was retained other than the thematic idea was used merely as a basis upon which Delmar Daves, Clyde Bruckman, Jack Cunningham and Lloyd himself built the structure of a story. Elliott Nugent directed to emphasize the gag spirit.

Showmen who know how and like to merchandise their wares may consider it an occasion for an exploitation carnival.

"Army Girl"

(Republic)

Hollywood, July 13.—The romances, dramas, jealousies and loves of army life are given new significance in this uniquely entertaining Republic feature. It is not a war story. "Army Girl" doesn't lack for thrills, nor is there want of sound showmanship potentialities in the story quality, production details or the work of the featured and supporting players.

As there is a sentimental quality attached to the love theme, there is also a sentimental quality in its background. In the latter case the film marks the passing of mounted cavalry in favor of mechanized equipment. Republic recognizes this by dedicating the film to the men and mounts who have often been glorified in song, story and pictures.

The story is told in a convincing way. Human temperaments, loves and ideals clash as an old order passes into oblivion. Capt. Preston Foster and Sergeant James Gleason come to a desert cavalry post with their tanks to be regarded by the officers and troopers as jockeys of a beer can. Just as his tank proves itself superior to horses, Foster proves himself a better man in the competition for the affections of Col. H. B. Warner's daughter, Madge Evans, than the other officers, particularly Neil Hamilton. When Miss Evans and Foster find they love each other an order comes abolishing horses for tanks, retiring Warner from his command and promoting Foster to his post. Traditional loyalties collide with modernization, love blows up and the story takes on a gripping twist when a tank gets out of control and Warner and Gleason are killed. Foster, despised by Miss Evans, is courtmartialed and his conviction on the charge of negligence seems certain until Hamilton, remembering his oath as an officer and a gentleman, forces Guinn Williams, an old line sergeant, to confess he tampered with the tank. Exonerated, Foster is recognized as the forerunner of a day of new glories for the cavalry. Miss Evans sees him as the only man she can love as much as her deceased father.

The combination of the various aspects of the scenario gives Foster, Miss Evans, Warner, Hamilton, Ruth Donnelly, Gleason, Williams and Ralph Morgan opportunities to turn in highly commendable performances.

The screenplay was written by Barry Trivers and Samuel Ornitz from an original story by Charles Clifford. Armand Schaeffer produced and George Nichols, Jr., directed.

"Army Girl" tends to make good Republic's promise that it intends to step into big league production.

Running time, 85 minutes. "G." Gus McCarthy.

Widow Starts Suit Over "Test Pilot"

Claiming damages exceeding $1,000,000, Delores Lacy Collins, individually and as administratrix of the estate of James H. Collins, widely known as a test pilot, filed suit yesterday in the U. S. District Court against Metro-Goldwyn Pictures Corp., Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer Distributing Corp., Loew's, Inc., and Culver Export Corp., and charged plagiarism of the book, "Test Pilot," containing the collective stories and articles of Collins in the picture of the same name.

The plaintiff further asserted that scenes in the picture "closely conformed with actual events in the life of the author, James H. Collins," and that the defendants had taken advantage of the widespread publicity on the death of Collins in 1935, and of an article written by Collins predicting his own death.

In addition to damages, an injunction against further exhibition of the picture and an accounting are sought.

Chaplin Stand Delays U.A.'s Profit Split

Roach and Edward Small to the United Artists banner this season, and with having contributed much to advancing the negotiations for a renewal of the Selznick International releasing deal to its current favorable status, all United Artists producers are to receive a proportionate share in 50 per cent of company earnings over a designated amount, their share of the profits to be determined by the earnings of their pictures. The remaining 50 per cent was to be distributed equally among the company's five owner-partners.

Mr. Silverstone will remain on the coast indefinitely for product and budget conferences with all of the United Artists producers, in addition to his scheduled conferences with Mr. Chaplin and negotiations with John Hay Whitney and David O. Selznick on a renewal of the Selznick International releasing agreement.

Queried yesterday on the report of Mr. Chaplin's objections to the profit-sharing plan, Mr. Silverstone said, "There is no more cordial and friendly a member of the company than Mr. Chaplin. I wonder where such stories originate."

Mr. Silverstone's contract with the company is understood to have been formally approved and signed recently. It is said to be for a five-year period at $2,500 per week. An early provision of the contract that he was not to become a member of the board, which would have prevented his election to the presidency of United Artists, is said to have been eliminated following the recent resignation of Dr. A. H. Giannini. As a result of this, Mr. Silverstone's election to the presidency of the company at a future date is being accepted as a foregone conclusion in the trade.

Canadians Ask New Barriers For U. S. Sets

OTTAWA, July 13.—Demanding that royalty-free radio articles be kept out of Canada, that radio goods not complying with the Canadian electrical code also be kept out; that the sales tax on radio sets be cut, and that there be a downward revision of duties on radio parts and materials, the Radio Manufacturers Association of Canada opened their case yesterday before the Tariff Board at the beginning of its inquiry into the cost of radio sets, methods of manufacture and distribution.

The price spread between American and Canadian-made sets is one of the central questions of the probe. A flurry developed when W. D. Herridge, former Canadian Minister to Washington, insisted his clients, the Philco Company of Philadelphia, were de facto complainants in this probe, and they had a right to present their case before Canadian makers. After a lively exchange Chairman George Sedgwick declared the probe was the result of a reference to the board direct from the Government, and he ruled the Canadian manufacturers should be heard first.

Claims Bad Service

Throughout sittings, however, there were frequent questions asked of witnesses by Mr. Herridge, who declared the price spread ranged from 50 to 90 per cent, that Canadian users were badly served; that their sets cost too much, and that with lower prices there would be many more users.

Canadian manufacturers declared that while they had tried to reduce the cost of sets a drastic reduction in prices would not materially increase the use of radio sets in Canada, chiefly because of wide areas and relatively sparse population.

FOUR COMPANIES WIN AMPA HONORS

Big Ad Campaign Is Urged by Hays

An advertising campaign to create consumer demand for increased production was urged by Will H. Hays yesterday at the third annual Ampa awards luncheon held in the Sert Room of the Waldorf-Astoria.

"I earnestly and formally lay on the table a recommendation for a great new campaign of intensive advertising. I urge it upon you and through you to your companies, because all this stepping up of production through Government spending and otherwise will be useless without it," Mr. Hays said in ending a short talk during which he congratulated the Ampa members on the progress they have made in improving advertising.

"Business is like a wheelbarrow," he went on; "it must be pushed. All producing is futile unless the public is told the product exists. I think it is No. 1 in essentiability at this time."

M-G-M Gets 6, Warners 4, Paramount 2 and Columbia One

M-G-M won six, Warners four, Paramount two, and Columbia one among the first, seconds and thirds of the five principal divisions of the third annual Ampa awards made public yesterday at the Awards Luncheon in the Sert Room of the Waldorf Astoria.

It was the biggest gathering of the kind so far held by Ampa, about 250 members and industry leaders attending.

The awards were based on 1937 releases and the method of making the awards were new in that they went to companies instead of individuals. This was on the theory that each campaign was the result of teamwork rather than individual effort.

Exhibitors throughout the country, including Alaska, voted on a list of 34 releases presented for their consideration. The balloting was from major circuit heads, independent circuits, and independents, manv of whom had only

Hughes Back and It Rained Newsreel Men at Airfield

It rained newsreel camera crews at Floyd Bennett Field yesterday.

Howard Hughes came back to town from a little three-and-one-half-day jaunt around the world, and the newsreel editors all sent their men out to meet him. They went out with every intention of making a job of pictorial reporting on one of the biggest aviation stories since Colonel Lindbergh made his little trip, and they succeeded.

The camera crews, representing all the reels, were in airplanes, on the ground, in the airport control tower, in the upper part of the hangar and generally all over the place. They even went out to meet the big ship winging its way home with a new world-girdling record tucked under its wing. The rain poured down, but the film was safe in the labs by then.

The schedule looked something like this yesterday afternoon before the plane settled into the airport about 2:30.

Movietone News had four crews at the field, three on the ground and one in a plane; News of the Day had one in a plane, ready for landing shots or a flight to any nearby spot if an emergency landing should have been necessary, and four crews on the ground; Paramount had two in the air and nine men on the ground, well scattered to cover every possible part of the field; RKO Pathe had three crews and Rudy Arnold in a plane to take air shots of the crowd and the like; Universal had five camera crews on deck, two in the air and three on the ground. One of the Universal planes went out to meet the Hughes plane winging in from the west, but the ship flew as far as Scranton and missed its quarry, despite following the Hughes beam. It kited back and caught air shots at the field.

The weather could have been better, but apparently the results were uniformly good. All the reels had their

The Newsreel Parade

Movietone News

Vol. 20. No. 88

(20th Century-Fox)

This issue is noteworthy for skillful handling of the China floods which impeded the Japanese advance near Hankow. It's a slice of "The Good Earth" and a great human document.

Of domestic interest is the visit of Shirley Temple in the east, showing her cruising the New York waterfront and at a Hyde Park picnic with Mrs. F. D. Roosevelt.

The balance includes the moving of the Government's silver treasure to the vaults at West Point; the wonder of snow on California's Mt. Lassen; Lew Lehr kidding a "beautiful leg" contest; Ed Thorgersen energetically describing the Goshen, N. Y., trotting races; stunning models displaying ritzy footwear, and furious aquaplaning in the Pacific. Reviewed without the clip on Howard Hughes. Running time, 9½ mins. F.

News of the Day

Vol. 9, No. 286

(M-G-M)

The excellent scenes of the North China floods which stopped the Japanese war machine near Hankow are duplicates of the Movietone News story but have their own narration.

Spectacular night skiing on Mt. Lassen in California, where the snow rarely falls deep, makes a good shot, and a grandmothers' bathing beauty contest at Coney Island is a good novelty. The reel also has the climax of the Sokol gymnastic meet at Prague, showing 32,000 women in mass drills; the harness races at Goshen, N. Y., and demonstrations of fancy diving at Jones Beach. Reviewed without the Howard Hughes story. Running time, 8 mins. F.

Paramount News

No. 99

(Paramount)

Shots of the Floyd Bennet field arrival of Howard Hughes and his crew of four at 2:37 P. M., from their speed flight around the world give this release exceptional news value.

Anything after that is anti-climax, but there is interest in the trotting races at Goshen, N. Y., and in the closeup of principals in the conviction of U. S. Nazi leaders in Riverhead, L. I.

Canton displays ingenuity in the bomb-deflecting bamboo roofs erected over buildings. Drills of the uniformed "Amazon Battalion," young Chinese girls, also are included.

Discovery of gold in their backyard in Lakeside, Cal., rewards patient efforts of Mrs. Guy Kimball, wife of a disabled war veteran.

On the lighter side are the hot weather shots in the Detroit Zoo, where even the tigers went in swimming when the thermometer shot up. From the West come pictures of the President in Pueblo, Col., where he heard miners ask him to run for a third term; and other shots showing the chief executive enjoying the scenery at Royal Gorge. I.K.

RKO Pathe News

Vol. 9. No. 103

(RKO)

Shipped without the footage on the arrival in New York of Howard Hughes, which will be added as soon as available, this issue of the reel features a spectacularly shocking crash on an auto race track in Australia. Not necessarily gruesome, it is startling, and probably will long remain as one of the most sensational of all newsreel shots. The camera was full on the car as its wheels locked, it went into a spin, plunged straight into a crowd of spectators lining the side of the track, and driving at full tilt, literally mowed them down and tossed them aside like pins in a bowling alley. It is an exclusive for RKO Pathe.

The rest of the reel features a college tennis victory in Pennsylvania, a Long Island prosecutor commenting on the conviction of members of the German Bund, good shots of trotting races at Goshen, N. Y., a Congressional committee visiting a unit of the T.V.A., an interesting fish run which results in a pool jammed with fish, and pictures of President Roosevelt in Colorado on his westward tour. It is an interesting reel, and with the race track sequence, a spectacular one. Running time (without Hughes' footage), 6½ mins. A.

Universal Newsreel

Vol. 10, No. 684

(Universal)

Sufficient advance footage to cover the arrival of Howard Hughes at Floyd Bennett Field was prepared and sent out with this regular release of the reel. There are approximately 50 feet of this material. Actual shots of the round-the-world plane's return will follow the regular release into the theatres.

The subjects comprising the regular release achieve a good standard for news, topical and novelty material. They consist of shots of the President at Pueblo, Colo.; the effects of Japanese bombing in Canton; flight tests of the new 47-passenger, four-motored Douglas commercial ship; George French, former millionaire, working on a golf range at Allston, Mass.; Capt. George Eyston, British speed champion, preparing for new record trials on the Utah salt flats; a working model of the U.S.S. Texas under full steam in an indoor swimming pool; a beauty contest for grandmothers; a "blindfold" bathing beauty contest; July snow scenes at Mt. Lassen, Cal.; Philadelphia's welcome to its homecoming rowing champion; the start of a homing pigeons' race; trotting races at Goshen, N. Y., and aquaplaning at Hermosa Beach, Cal.

Running time, (without Hughes footage) 9 mins. K.

New Zealand Theatre Units Are Realigned

By CLIFF HOLT

Sydney, June 21 (By Airmail via London)—The acquisition of 25 per cent of the stock of J. C. Williamson Picture Corp., (New Zealand) Ltd. by Theatre Holdings, Ltd., has an important bearing on the theatre situation in New Zealand.

Hitherto the circuits have waged a triangular fight for business, with J. C. Williamson Films, the John H. Mason group and the Hoyts-Fox-Moodabe combination each occupying a corner. The amalgamation of the J. C. W. and Mason interests reduces the circuit situation to two rival camps.

Theatre Holdings, Ltd., is the new company formed by the financial group represented by John H. Mason, and it is stated that the operation of John Fuller and Sons, Fuller-Hayward, Ltd., J. C. W. Picture Group, New Zealand Theatres, Ltd., and Christchurch Cinemas, Ltd., will engage its attention. Beaumont Smith, who founded J. C. W. Picture Corp. in 1925, has disposed of 25 per cent of his stock to Theatre Holdings and resigned as managing director. He has retained his debentures, which amount to the largest individually-owned on the company's lists, and has been invited to act in an advisory capacity for a specified minimum of two years.

Tapernoux Files Report

John S. Tapernoux, as president of French Motion Picture Corp., now in the process of reorganization, filed a monthly report of the company for the period June 13 to July 12 in the U. S. District Court here yesterday. The report revealed receipts for that period of $1,326 and expenditures of $1,157.

Hollywood Previews

"The Texans"

(Paramount)

Hollywood, July 14.—One way to notify the clients definitely as to the scale, tone and general character of this major western is by mentioning that the story, like that of "The Covered Wagon" of immortal memory, is from the pen of the late Emerson Hough.

This film has the same broad sweep, the same tang of historical veracity and tells its story as that one did, most impressively, in terms of cattle drive, stampede, Indian fight and cavalry rescue. It is native American melodrama produced in vast dimension.

Mr. Hough's story is of the period immediately following the Civil War when carpetbaggers exploited the South, specifically Texas. The cruelty and injustice inflicted by avaricious reconstructionists are depicted in early sequences reminiscent of "The Birth of a Nation" and the picture ends with the formation of the Ku Klux Klan in prospect. The prime incident to which the story narrows down is the driving of a herd of 10,000 cattle from a Texas ranch into Mexico and thence back across the Rio Grande to Abilene, Kan., when greedy local agents of the Union attempt to seize a ranch by means of extortionate taxation.

The major episode in the long cattle drive are a grass fire, an Indian raid, a dust storm, a headlong crossing of a roaring stream by horse and covered wagon, and various stampedes. All of these are filmed on a gigantic scale and with extraordinary realism. The effectiveness of these scenes is a tribute to Producer Lucien Hubbard.

Joan Bennett and Randolph Scott are co-starred, she playing the rebellious ranch owner and he the heroic American who ultimately convinces her the Union is entitled to her loyalty. May Robson gives the most memorable performance, as her grandmother, with Robert Barrat, Walter Brennan, Francis Ford and Raymond Hatton supplying strong characterizations.

Running time, 90 minutes. "G." William R. Weaver

"Danger on the Air"

(Universal)

Hollywood, July 14.—Growing curiosity of the American public concerning behind the scenes activities of radio broadcasting may rank "Danger on the Air" for exploitation purposes above the other three of the series of Four Crime Club productions Universal has on the 1937-'38 program. Virtually all of the action takes place in a radio center, and the film is timely in that it has as part of its story the current warfare between newspapers and radio stations because of advertising.

A sponsor, hated by everyone, is murdered in a mysterious manner and Donald Woods, as a sound engineer, sets out to solve the murder at great personal danger. The denouement comes in the final reel, as all the characters are gathered in the office of the head of the broadcasting company. The screenplay of Betty Laidlaw and Robert Lively, who adapted the Xantippe novel "Death Catches Up with Mr. Kluck," is interspersed with comedy which met apparent approbation of the preview audience. Otis Garrett directed the Irving Starr production.

Supporting Woods are Nan Grey, Jed Prouty, Berton Churchill, William Lundigan, Skeets Gallagher, Edward Van Sloan, George Meeker, Frank Milan, Lee J. Cobb, Johnny Arthur, Lind Hayes, Louise Stanley, Eloise Rawitzer and Joseph Downing.

Running time, 67 minutes. "G." Vance King

"Young Fugitives"

(Universal)

Hollywood, July 14.—"Young Fugitives" has much human interest appeal. It is a philosophic homily and contains two plots, welded together in the climax. The locale is a small town. The story concerns the experiences of a Civil War veteran, Harry Davenport, in preserving a $50,000 windfall and putting his wealth-worshipping townsmen in their places, his relationship with Dorothea Kent, wild girl of the road, and an old friend's son, Robert Wilcox, a bad boy, whom both reform.

As dialogue is the main medium of interpretation, the action punch of the story is reserved for the finale. When crook pals of Wilcox plan to rob Davenport of his fortune, the young fellow rushes to the old soldier's defense, and with the aid of Legionnaires, who have been waiting to fete Davenport, put the would-be robbers to rout. Satisfied that the youth has been reformed and happy in the knowledge that he is in love with Miss Kent, Davenport settles down to a life of ease with his old cronie, Clem Bevans.

Davenport and Bevans are the outstanding characters in the show. The story is an original by Edward James. It was adapted by Ben Grauman Kohn and Charles Grayson and was directed by John Rawlins.

Running time, 65 minutes. "G."

Short Subjects

"Joaquin Murrieta"

(M-G-M)

The man of the title, the famous California outlaw, reputedly lost his head, physically speaking, when rangers caught up with him. The gruesome relic was exhibited for a number of years but there was some doubt as to its authenticity. This "Historical Mystery" covers that story with brief reenactments of incidents in the career of Murrieta. At the conclusion the audience is gracefully left out on a questioning limb. Interestingly done and attention-holding. Running time, 11 mins. "G."

"Window Shopping"

(Columbia)

This is a good cartoon idea cleverly and entertainingly worked out. In interesting Technicolor the plot concerns mice who, during the night, invade various stores, and have a comic and hilarious time among the merchandise and food. Dawn comes and they troop back to their holes carrying a good supply of various items along. The animation is novel and the idea a new twist to a standard form. Running time, 7½ mins. "G."

"Find What's Wrong"

(Paramount)

The exhibitor can tie in the pastime of finding production boners with the selling of this short, which concerns just what the title indicates. A short film is presented and the audience asked to find 10 errors. The film is repeated and a bell rung when each mistake occurs. It's different, which every audience should relish. Running time, 10 mins. "G."

"Tail End"

(Universal)

A cartoon that undertakes to burlesque a film story usually is quite funny and the audience quickly catches on. That is the case here. The characters are dogs and the setting is a dead end street on the waterfront. The action follows the lines of the feature only with humorous exaggeration. Good. Running time, 7 mins. "G."

The objectives of the trip include, in addition to production conferences with United Artists producers, the resumption of negotiations with John Hay Whitney and David O. New 3-Dimension Is Claimed in "U" Film

Hollywood, July 14.—A third-dimensional effect in films is claimed to have been achieved through affixing a specially treated glass prism to the camera lens in a method developed by Joseph Valentine, Universal cameraman. The studio asserts the development will be employed in filming the new Deanna Durbin picture.

The mechanism consists of a prism one-hundredth of an inch thick and slightly less than an inch in length and width, made of two pieces of glass fitted together at an angle of 45 degrees. One surface is covered with mercury. The prism is installed in the camera between the lens and the aperture, where the film is exposed.

Ralph Rolan, Ampa president, made the presentations. Seated on the dais with him were: Mort Blumenstock, Edward L. McAvoy, S. Barret McCormick, Colvin Brown, Red Kann, License Commissioner Paul Moss, Will H. Hays, Judge Favese, Maurice Bergman, Howard Dietz and Monroe Greenthal.

Commissioner Moss, who represented Mayor LaGuardia, praised the general improvement of theatre advertising. He said two or three theatres were still attempting to base their appeal entirely on sex, but expressed the opinion that 95 per cent of theatre patrons would respond to something different.

Will Hays Speaks

Mr. Hays was the second speaker. After discussing briefly the "planned improvement" in film advertising under self-regulation, he made his dramatic plea for a big industry advertising campaign.

The Ampa committee which conducted the detailed campaign on the voting was headed by Vincent Trotta. Other members were Martin Starr, Hap Hadley, James P. Cunningham and Rutgers Neilson.

Among those present were: Fred Antenucci, Harry Blair, Hetty Gray Baker, Chester Bahn, Paul Benjamin, Charles Cohen, Ken Clark, Charles Casanave, Ed Casanave, James A. Grants Stockholder Plea in RKO Action

Federal Judge William Bondy yesterday granted the petition of Ernest W. Stirn of Milwaukee, holder of 1,234 shares of unconverted Class A stock of RKO, and ordered the Irving Trust Co., as trustee of RKO, to make available for inspection by Mr. Stirn the list of holders of Class A stock as of March 5 and Nov. 23, 1931, the list of the holders of proxies as of March 25 and Nov. 10, 1931, [illegible] the original proxies now kept in the Palace Theatre in New York. All expenses are to be borne by the petitioner, the order continued, and the granting of the petition is not in any way to delay proceedings before Special Master Alger.

Stirn seeks the examination, claiming that two extraordinary stockholders' meetings of RKO held in 1931, which approved the conversion of Class A stock to common, were lacking the necessary votes of two-thirds of the stockholders, and that he is therefore entitled to preferential treatment under the RKO plan of reorganization.

Equity Denies Move To End Shore Shows

The council of Actors Equity Association, following a special meeting yesterday, denied responsibility for the closing of the Fortune Gallo-Shubert productions at Randall's Island and Jones Beach, as of this weekend, in a statement in which it was asserted the producers had made no effort to petition the union for concessions relating to performers' pay. The closings were attributed by Equity to "the poor attendance to which the productions have been playing."

When closing notices were posted several days ago, it was reported and not denied by the producers that Equity's failure to grant concessions for nights on which weather conditions prevented the giving of performances was responsible.

Script Writer Is Sued

Walter O'Keefe and Hesse & McCaffery, as agent, yesterday filed individual suits for $100,000 and $50,000 damages, respectively, against Maxwell Hawkins, radio script writer, and Norman C. White, his agent, for alleged injury to their reputations by the defendants. The suits arose out of the action which Hawkins had previously filed against both plaintiffs and RKO Pictures, claiming that O'Keefe had plagiarized and sold to RKO the picture rights to the radio sketch, "The Rolling Stones," which Hawkins claimed he wrote. This suit had been dismissed some time ago in the N. Y. Supreme Court.

Music Hall Refused Films as Unsuitable

RKO pictures which the Music Hall has declined to play during the past two years were rejected as "unsuitable for the theatre," spokesmen for Rockefeller Center said yesterday in commenting on the $72,374 damage suit filed in Federal court here this week by Irving Trust Co., RKO reorganization trustee.

The suit charges breach of the franchise agreement between the Music Hall and RKO for failure to play the minimum number of pictures annually specified by the contract. Rockefeller Center is named a defendant as guarantor of the Music Hall contract.

The officials of the Center said the agreement calls for the playing of 20 RKO pictures in the Music Hall annually, but that during the two-year period involved in the suit "four or five" pictures less than the minimum were played.

"The RKO trustee contends that the contract is a 'play or pay' one," a spokesman said. "We contend that quality and suitability must be taken into consideration."

Hit U. S., Canadian Radio Price Spread

OTTAWA, July 14.—George Sedgewick, chairman of the Tariff Board now sitting on the radio industry probe, yesterday, along with Major W. D. Herridge, counsel for the Philco Co. of Philadelphia, leaned toward the belief that the spread between American and Canadian prices needed some explanation.

"I have great difficulty in persuading myself that the price spread on radio sets should be greater than the spread on automobile prices in the two countries," Mr. Sedgewick said. In the automobile field it is 25 per cent, he said, while in radio it is 30 to 70 per cent. "I mention the question in this extreme way because there are probably 10,000,000 people in this country who don't understand why these spreads should be."

President A. L. Brown of the Radio Manufacturers' Association of Canada declared that royalty paying firms in Canada were just as anxious as Philco to reduce costs to users. Mr. Brown called Mr. Herridge's suggestion to stimulate the Canadian radio business by drastic price reductions a "dream rainbow."

CBS Claims Beat

CBS yesterday reported that it had a five-minute scoop on broadcasting the arrival of Howard Hughes at Floyd Bennett Airport. Observers at CBS's amateur station in Wayne, N. J., said to be the only transmitter in a direct line with St. Paul, heard the sound of the ship's motors and flashed word to the ground crew in Brooklyn.

Hughes' manager was being interviewed at the field when the ship came out of a cloud bank and almost immediately afterward the word of the landing was broadcast over a CBS coast-to-coast hookup.

In its opinion, the commission held that the company had shown that it had a definite program of research and experimentation from which substantial contribution may be made to the development of television, which involves studies of television transmitters and antennas, the frequencies assigned to television, and television receivers and antennas.

Approve High Power Station for Canada

OTTAWA, July 14.—Approval has been given by the cabinet for the erection of a 50,000-watt radio station in Saskatchewan to serve the three prairie provinces. Three or four sites have been under discussion and though nothing has been definitely settled yet it is probable the town of Watrous will be selected.

This will be CBC's third move to improve Canadian radio by the building of high powered stations. One is already in operation at Toronto, another at Montreal next fall, and steps probably will be taken towards the establishment of a similar station for the Maritimes. The scheme is to give Canadians their own programs with less interference from strong American stations.

stuff in the can and en route by air express during last night, and it may be accepted as a fact that there was no loss of time between shooting and canning. It happened as fast as science and skill could possibly make it happen.

The newsreel editors dared not take a chance on the roads from the field to their laboratories. Paramount sent a last batch of film by motorcycle straight in from the field, but the early material was flown from Bennett to the Newark Airport, then came by motorcycle to the New York laboratory. Universal also flew the stuff to Newark, and from there to the lab at Fort Lee, N. J., by motorcycle. Movietone News, News of the Day and RKO Pathe flew their film from Bennett to Holmes Airport in Jackson Heights, Queens, and rushed it by motorcycle and automobile into town from there. The RKO Pathe material hit the office on 45th St. in town at 3:55 P.M.

Air Express Used

All of the reels followed the procedure of rushing the Hughes material out to all accounts by air express last night at the earliest possible moment, in most cases to be included in the regular issue which was shipped as usual on Wednesday night. In some cases, the regular issue went out short in length, to be filled in with the Hughes material to follow.

A peculiar situation resulted from the amazing speed maintained by the flyer. The reels received notice of pictures taken at various spots en route, but could use none of them, because before the films could be received in New York, Hughes himself had completed his flight, making way-station shots obsolete.

McConnell, Solomon Start New Company

Record Pictures Corp. has been formed with Fred McConnell, well known film executive, as president and Benjamin W. Solomon, secretary, to handle a limited number of releases.

The company will release "about four outstanding independently made productions each year," Mr. McConnell said. Physical distribution will be through Monogram exchanges.

Concentration Sought

Mr. McConnell said the reason for the limited number is to concentrate on individual films, "thereby assuring the maximum financial return to producer and exhibitor." The company's staff will consist of men experienced in sales and exploitation, he added.

The first release is Walter Futter's "Dark Sands," which will open at the Rialto in August. The second will be "The Gang Show," Herbert Wilcox production, being edited for fall release.

Mr. McConnell will handle the sales from his office in the Paramount building. Bruce Gallup has been named advertising and publicity director.

Cooperation

Attesting the cooperative spirit of Howard Hughes with the newsreel men, it was disclosed yesterday that Hughes last Friday made a special flight around New York for the benefit of the newsreel's foreign accounts.

The reels split the taking of the takeoff and short flight, consolidated the material into 1,000 feet, 200 per reel, and Hughes himself took the film to Paris on the first leg of his flight. He handed it to Major E. E. Aldrin in Paris, his agent, who distributed the films to the agent of each newsreel. Dupes were made and the foreign accounts serviced—with a picture account of the Hughes takeoff, delivered by Hughes himself.

Sees Great Value In Kennedy Speech

session today discussed the new rules for theatre operation of the London County Council and warned that they would mean fewer inexpensive seats. The session protested the interference with business and declared that a test case will be sought as soon as possible.

Mr. Fligelstone, reporting on the dual bill situation, said the problem could best be solved without the assistance of the distributors. Vague hints were given of a lack of unity in the C.E.A. committee negotiating with the K.R.S. group, but Mr. Fligelstone claimed the circuits are backing the independents in the effort to solve exhibitor problems. Thomas Frame, branch chairman, presided. The luncheon meeting was attended by Reginald Stamp of the London County Council.

Ezell to Distribute New 'Pay Day Night'

C. C. Ezell yesterday signed a contract for national distribution of "Pay Day Night," owned by Bill Rice Productions of Chicago. The deal starts today.

Mr. Ezell said that what makes this business stimulator attractive is that it is "clear of legal entanglements." It involves a tieup with stores. Mr. Ezell, who is an independent film distributor in Dallas and formerly was general sales manager for Bank Night, will handle sales on the new game on a territorial basis. Sales headquarters will be in Dallas.

Present 3,000 "Orchids"

It was made clear, however, that if in the course of the committee's investigation facts are unearthed which can later be used in cases, the department will not hold them inviolate, it being pointed out that under the law the Attorney General is required to use such information as may be laid before him.

Myers Asks Cut on Short Deliveries

ington to assure Government officials, including the President, that the motion picture business is capable of regulating itself.

"We suggest the performance would be more impressive if these executives stopped yelling at each other in the trade press and accounted to the exhibitors for the pictures they promised but did not and apparently will not deliver this season.

"It would be easier to believe that a new day is at hand if the major distributors, instead of relying on a technical provision of the standard exhibition contract, explained frankly to their customers why these 86 pictures were not made or are being withheld and made an adjustment of film rentals commensurate with the savings effected by the distributors by this juggling of product."

One of "Many Situations"

Mr. Myers further suggests that the matter be taken up by the distributors' trade practice committee which is formulating an industry program, as one of the causes of friction between exhibitors and distributors.

This is "just one of the many situations in the motion picture industry that is crying for correction," the bulletin declares. "It is emphasized now because it is pinching the exhibitors right now. We hope that it will receive the attention of Messrs. Hays, Schenck, Balaban, Warner, Spitz, Schaefer, Blumberg and Cohn."

Expect Guild Deal To Be Signed Soon

Frank melodrama based on the Mexican border legend of a rough-riding Robin Hood of the last century. Its tall, broad, swashbuckling hero is John Carroll . . . who resembles Ronald Colman, has a hint of Douglas Fairbanks' agility, and sings in a rich concert baritone.

If I could see movies as good as this one, once or twice a week—I'd be a picture fan year in and year out . . . The picture has some delightful songs —but it's not a musical comedy. For the entire family, I promise a pleasant hour in—"Rose of the Rio Grande."

They've got something here. His name is John Carroll. He is tall, dark, handsome, young and the happy possessor of one of those at-last-we-are-alone-darling voices. Considering the pulling power of Messrs. Eddy, Crosby, and Powell when they begin giving out their dulcet tones, we feel this newcomer can walk right into the boys' club.

Lively, Robin Hoodish, romantic adventure tale—reminiscent of present-day Westerns, but with considerably more color, vigor, and historic interest. The lovely Movita and the swashbuckling John Carroll, who sings as well as he fights, make an excellent romantic team.

Atlas Talking Deal for More RKO Stock

RCA's Desires for Voice In Control a Factor

Negotiations for acquisition by Atlas Corp. of additional RKO securities under the investment company's option with RCA were begun late last week by Floyd Odlum, Atlas president, and David Sarnoff, RCA head, and will probably be concluded this week.

An important factor in the negotiations, according to report, is RCA's insistence on having a voice in the designation of the reorganized company's new management, in addition to representation on the new board of directors, in the event that Atlas does not acquire at this time the $5,500,000 balance of RKO securities still held by RCA. Under the option, Atlas may either acquire the entire RCA holdings this month or obtain an extension of the option to Dec. 31 by the purchase of one-twelfth of the holdings for $500,000 cash. Atlas was reported to favor the latter course until it was confronted with RCA's

Meets Today with Gillham And McCarthy to Set Advertising Plans

Howard Dietz, advertising and publicity director of Loew's, Inc., has been chosen to head the working committee which will conduct the industry's cooperative national advertising campaign this fall. He will meet today with Charles E. McCarthy of 20th Century-Fox and Robert Gillham of Paramount—his colleagues on the working committee—to formulate plans for the launching of the campaign which has for its purpose the focusing of the public's attention on the new season's films. The advertising and publicity directors of other major companies comprise a committee of the whole which will supplement the work of the Dietz-Gillham-McCarthy unit.

An agreement to proceed with the campaign was reached on Friday at a meeting at M. P. P. D. A. headquarters attended by major company presidents, sales managers, directors of advertising and publicity and heads of the major circuits. The meeting followed closely on Will H. Hays' advocacy of increased industry advertising in an address last Thursday during presentation of Ampa awards. It was preceded, also on Thursday, an informal meeting of advertising [illegible]tors and national circuit operators in the offices of Spyros Skouras, at which the specific idea of a concerted industry advertising campaign was discussed in detail.

Big Industry Ad Campaign Is Discussed

Formal approval of such a campaign was obtained from the representatives of all major companies at the M. P. P. D. A. meeting the next day.

Schaefer Heads Distributors

The working committee, which will meet today for the first time, will prepare plans for the entire national campaign, in conjunction with a distributors' committee headed by George J. Schaefer of United Artists. A producers' committee will be designated in the near future to cooperate with the eastern committees on all phases of the campaign. Nicholas M. Schenck, president of Loew's, is en route to Hollywood where he will make preliminary arrangements for producer participation. Mr. Hays, who plans to leave New York for the coast today or tomorrow, will aid him in this work on his arrival in Hollywood.

Among the functions of the Hollywood committee will be the production of special short subjects and trailers calling attention to and supplementing the campaign.

Among the arrangements for the campaign to be completed by the committees will be the designation of a name for the national business drive. Opposition has been voiced to early plans for describing the campaign as "The Greater Movie Season," and a commemorative or anniversary designation may replace this. The committees will also determine the appropriation for the campaign and its apportionment among participating companies; they will decide the extent and type of advertising to be used, as well as its placement and distribution, its starting time and duration. It will probably begin in September. It appears certain that newspapers will be the principal media, with radio, billboards, magazines and trade papers used in supplemental capacities.

Plan Full-Time Director

Present plans provide for the designation of a full-time director to carry out the committees' plans and several industry names have been advanced in this connection. The selection will be made by the working committee. Each major company will lend a member of its advertising department to the campaign director to comprise a working staff. In addition, an outstanding advertising agency will be retained for general advisory service on copy and space buying.

Among those who attended the Friday meeting at M. P. P. D. A. headquarters were Neil F. Agnew and Y. Frank Freeman, vice-presidents of Paramount; Mr. Gillham; Mr. Schaefer; Lynn Farnol, United Artists' advertising and publicity director; Mr. Schenck, Mr. Dietz, Oscar Doob; Ned E. Depinet, J. J. O'Connor and S. Barret McCormick of RKO; Gradwell Sears and Mort Blumenstock of Warners; Jack Cohn and Maurice Bergman of Columbia; Nate Blumberg and Louis Pollock of Universal; Mr. McCarthy and Herman Wobber of 20th Century-Fox; Spyros Skouras, National Theatres, and Gordon White, Educational Pictures, in addition to Mr. Hays, who presided.

The official statement on the meeting issued by the M. P. P. D. A. said: "Discussed and formulated were preliminary plans for a concerted effort by the motion picture industry to bring to the public's attention the impressive array of important pictures being prepared for early showing. Forthcoming announcements will give in detail the various committees and the plans to that end."

Program Shaping Up On Trade Practices

A report of the progress made to date by the distributors' committee on trade practice regulation was made to the board of directors of the M. P. P. D. A. by Nicholas M. Schenck and Ned E. Depinet, alternate chairman and member of the committee, respectively, on Friday.

The substance of the report was said to have indicated that the distributors' working committee, of which William F. Rodgers and A. Montague are also members, is nearing a phase of its work at which it will be possible to call in exhibitor representatives for preliminary discussions of the plan of industry self-regulation. How soon this will be is still a matter of conjecture, it was said.

"It may be within a day or two and again it may be a week or more," one informed source declared.

The M. P. P. D. A. board formally approved the industry's participation in the N. Y. World's Fair with the production of a feature titled "Cavalcade of America," which will depict the history of the United States up to the present and will be shown free in a 500-seat theatre on the Fair grounds.

Papers in La Crosse Suit Are Sent Out

out of business. The complaint alleges that the La Crosse company had difficulty in obtaining sufficient pictures and was required to pay exorbitant prices for any available film since refusing to sell out to Minnesota in 1934. The defendants named in the action in addition to Minnesota Amusement are Wellworth Theatres of Wisconsin, Inc., a Minnesota subsidiary; Ed Ruben, Minneapolis, president of Wellworth; Paramount, 20th Century-Fox and United Artists.

Attorneys for the companies named defendants in the action withheld comment when queried on the La Crosse company's suit. They explained they had not seen copies of the complaint and were unfamiliar with the charges.

Court Orders Action On Midland's Setup

KANSAS CITY, July 17.—Judge Albert L. Reeves in U. S. District Court has instructed the Security Service Co. of Chicago to proceed with the reorganization of the Midland Investment Co., owner of the Midland Theatre. Judge Reeves approved the reorganization plan, which calls for payment by Loew's of $90,000 per year for 10 years.

Midland Investment asked for reorganization under 77-B early this year, but the plan submitted did not get the approval of some bondholders. It was revised to shift some of the control to bondholders away from common stockholders, to contain a more definite leasing arrangement with Loew's and to include some other changes asked by a bondholders' committee.

Denies Plea for Details

Federal Judge Murray Hulbert has denied the request of 20th Century-Fox for an order directing William L. Gross, as assignee of the Theatre Magazine Co., to file a bill of particulars of his claim against 20th Century-Fox. Mr. Gross's suit is based on a charge that 20th Century-Fox plagiarized the August, 1929 cover of the Theatre Magazine in the picture, "George White's 1935 Scandals," and asked for an injunction, accounting and damages.

Denies Writ Against Columbia

Application for a writ of mandamus against Columbia Pictures, Inc., to compel it to produce its books and records from 1934 to date, has been denied by Supreme Court Justice Samuel Rosenman without opinion. Betty Davis, alleged holder of 162 shares of voting trust certificates of Columbia, had made the application in conjunction with a stockholder's suit.

Time Signs Guild Pact

"March of Time" and affiliated Time enterprises have signed a contract with the New York Newspaper Guild covering 350 editorial employes of Time, Inc., throughout the country. Minimum wages established in the contract range from $25 a week for office boys to $75 a week after two years' experience for writers and photographers. A five-day 40-hour week is also provided.

To Ask Additional Defendants in Suit

George Picker, plaintiff in a $50,000 damage suit against Ben Bernie, will ask the N. Y. Supreme Court today to be permitted to add the U. S. Rubber Co. and Columbia Broadcasting System, Inc., as additional defendants. At the same time Mr. Bernie will make a cross application to dismiss Mr. Picker's suit on the ground that there is no valid cause of action against him.

Mr. Picker charged in his suit that in a broadcast on March 30, 1938, Mr. Bernie ridiculed his reputation in a sketch in which his name was allegedly used. He seeks to add U. S. Rubber as the sponsor of the broadcast, and Columbia as the station broadcasting the program.

Sets Lord Action Date

Federal Judge John C. Knox has ordered the trial of the suit of Phillips H. Lord against Pathe News, Inc., to proceed on Oct. 3. The order was in compliance with a decision of the Circuit Court of Appeals which reversed a decision of the District Court dismissing the suit after trial and ordered a new trial. Mr. Lord had brought suit seeking $50,000 damages and charged breach of a contract whereby he was to take pictures in conjunction with Pathe News on a projected trip around the world.

Foresee Union Pact For English Houses

By AUBREY FLANAGAN

LONDON, July 13.—The ultimate conclusion of a national agreement on wages and hours for employes in film houses in England is foreshadowed in an agreement between the Cinematograph Exhibitors' Association and the National Association of Theatrical Kine Employes to proceed with the formation of a national conciliation appeal board.

The N.A.T.K.E. had asked the C.E.A. to collaborate, and the latter organization had agreed in principle and instructed its officers to draw up a constitution for such a body for submission to the general council of the C.E.A. The board would have no legislative function, but would serve to hear appeals from local conciliation boards when disputes therein result in deadlock. Part of the agreement will be compulsory acceptance of the decision of the appeal board.

Hollywood Previews

"Four's a Crowd"

(Warners)

HOLLYWOOD, July 17.—Showmen seeking breezy pictures to offset outdoor competition of the seasonal variety can stop worrying about the week of August 20. That is the release date of this headlong comedy constructed of new plot materials and festooned with as fine a roster of marquee names as the most exacting exhibitor can ask for at any time of year. Among those present are Errol Flynn, Olivia de Havilland, Rosalind Russell, Patric Knowles, Walter Connolly, Hugh Herbert, Franklin Pangborn, Melville Cooper and Herman Bing, to mention as many as the average cinema client can be expected to remember to mention in his word of mouth conveyance of the news to acquaintances. The picture is one to make him talk.

The hero of Wallace Sullivan's story, prepared for the screen by Casey Robinson and Sig Herzig, is a public relations counsel of the kind the late Ivy Lee was. In it he does for a millionaire the kind of things that genius did for a real one. The doing of these things is made difficult, but humorously so, by a newspaper reporter, a publisher, the millionaire's daughter and others. Through the skein of complications two romances are carried to satisfactory conclusion, although the treatment is unfailingly for laugh purposes.

Michael Curtiz displays again in his direction of this wholly different production the masterly talent so unforgettably exercised in behalf of "Gold Is Where You Find It" and "Robin Hood." Surely his has become a name to command emphasis in exhibitor exploitation. David Lewis is associate producer of the present work. The scene is New York, the time is now, the people are such as live and work out their destinies at this place and time and the action is swift, varied and of a kind completely appropriate for the period.

Running time, 85 minutes. "G" WILLIAM R. WEAVER

"Little Tough Guy"

HOLLYWOOD, July 17.—"Little Tough Guy" is a good melodramatic story idea. Thematically, it details in a manner, which in some parts is grim, the causes, circumstances and conditions of environment which lead youths into a career of petty, and occasionally dangerous, crime.

The "Dead End"—"Crime School" group of youngsters with Billy Halop elevated to a starring role are the centers of interest in the production and its story. Yet as they perform in that typical style which has become familiar to theatre-goers, Robert Wilcox, Helen Parrish, Marjorie Main, Jackie Searl, Peggy Stewart and Pat. C. Flick capably enact roles which enable them to be effective in the plot's delineation.

Hysterical justice, provoked by labor strife, sends Ed. Pawley, Halop's father, to the electric chair. Bereft of a breadwinner, the family, Mother Main, Sister Parrish and Halop, is forced to move into the slums. There, Halop, asserting his toughness, becomes leader of the juvenile hoodlums. Jackie Searl, rich boy, enters the story in search of thrill. Directing the boys from one lawbreaking escapade to another, Searl turns snitcher and Halop and Huntz Hall are beseiged by police. Following a tense struggle between the two youths, Hall is killed and Miss Parrish forces her brother to surrender. A tolerant judge sends the gang to reform school where the only indication that regeneration has been accomplished is shown as Halop leads the band in which all tyro-gangsters are musicians.

Brenda Wisberg wrote the original story and collaborated with Gilson Brown on the adaptation. Though Harold Young's direction is forceful and pointed in segregated instances, it is likely that Universal will return the film to further work for tightening-up purposes as well as to make for more clarity and coherence.

Running time, 85 minutes. "A." GUS MCCARTHY

right of the state to enact and enforce the legislation. The court ruled however, that pending final determination of the case the temporary [illegible] junction restraining the state from [illegible] forcing the statute should remain in effect.

"In the event of an appeal," th court said, in this respect, "we think the present status should be preserved until the ultimate decision o the case by the Supreme Court."

In its findings of facts and conclusions of law, the court held the theatre "divorcement" statute was enacted to prevent monopoly, restraint of trade and unfair competitive practices for films; that the act is "no arbitrary, capricious or palpably i excess of legislative power," as contended by counsel for Paramount. Th court added that it could see little if any, relation of the act to interstate commerce acts or copyright law and that it has no purport of licensin of films.

Calls Defense Case Weak

On the other hand, the court saw n merit in one of the defense's majo contentions, which was that the ac could be justified as a valid exercis of the police power of the state because it was a measure to safeguar "the public health, safety or morals."

The key to the court's findings therefore, would appear to be its declaration that "If a Legislature deem it necessary to mitigate the evils o competition between small chains an large chains, or to discourage the activities within the state by chain grown so large as to menace the public welfare, it may adopt measures t accomplish those ends."

The June hearing on the constitutionality of the act occupied nine days The plaintiffs, in addition to Paramount, are its theatre operating subsidiary, Minnesota Amusement Co. and American Amusement Co., a subsidiary of Minnesota which operate about 20 theatres in North Dakota the only affiliated theatres in the stat and, hence, the only ones affected b the statute. The defendants are th State of North Dakota, its Governor attorney general and other state officers.

Myers Issues Statement

Abram F. Myers, chairman of Allied States Exhibitors Association who was instrumental in the draftin of the "divorcement" legislation, it introduction in the North Dakota Legislature and its defense before th statutory court in Fargo last month issued the following statement on Friday: "The decision is a complete vindication of Allied's position that operation by distributors in competitio with independent theatres dependen on them for product is inherentl wrong. Naturally, I am gratified an will discuss the decision in detail whe the opinion and findings of fact ar received."

Paramount officials withheld comment on the decision pending the completion of their study of the opinio and findings of fact and conclusion of law.

ANSWER... To hand him pictures that will make him a net profit, put more money in his pocket, give him a chance to be an active, thriving member of his profession.

ALL RIGHT!... In the past year Paramount, according to the figures (and figures don't lie), turned out more money makers than any other major company in the industry. In the next twelve months, the new season coming up the first of September, Paramount guarantees to top the record for 1937-'38.

NO FANCY TALK

JUST FACTS

On the following pages you will find a business-like sales analysis of Paramount's PROFIT MAKERS for the first quarter of the new season. PARAMOUNT'S PROFIT MAKERS OF '38-'39 will be the smash surprise hit of the new season!"

"'THE UNHOLY BEEBES

George is in position to know what he's talking abou. He has read the script of "THE UNHOLY BEEBES," watched them shoot, seen the daily rushes. The other day he was present at a studio preview of the picture before a number of representative West Coast theatre showmen. The verdict was unanimous..."Crosby's greatest!"

G. A. SMITH
District Manager: Los Angeles,

BING CROSBY · FRED MacMURRAY

"The UNHOLY BEEBES"

Ellen Drew, Elizabeth Patterson, Donald O'Connor
Original Story and Screen Play by Claude Binyon

Produced and Directed by WESLEY RUGGLES

We're not surprised at all, George!

We've been watching Bing in pictures for a long time. We've also been listening to him on the air. To our way of thinking, Bing is one of the cleverest "light comedians" before the public today... a lovable, tongue-in-cheek individual... lively, happy, witty... a star millions of listeners have come to adore as the genial host of the weekly Kraft Music Hall programs. Bing's air program is now rated No. 3 on the national Crossley reports. Only two other national programs top him for audience interest, and that by a small margin. Shows you how he rates with the public!

..."THE UNHOLY BEEBES," however, is more than a "Crosby" picture! In addition to the suave maestro, it boasts a top-flight co-star in the person of FRED MacMURRAY, who does his full share to add romance and gayety to the heart-warming screen play fashioned by CLAUDE BINYON. WESLEY RUGGLES, who produced and directed, is conceded to be one of the greatest comedy directors in the business. With its human theme, its two popular stars, its direction by a showman who knows what it's all about . . . how can "THE UNHOLY BEEBES" miss being a great money picture!

is principally comedy. It's got a great story . . . a little heartache. a little heartbreak. a fine romance. a lot of human appeal . . . and music. The songs are brought into the plot naturally and with reason. They belong!

"CROSSLEY RADIO REPORT
BING CROSBY RATING
NO. 3

An excitingly thrilling horse race figures as the turning point in the dramatic action, and there's a swell fight and some sweet tunes that are really honeys, sung as only Bing can sing them. You'll get what we mean when we tell you that the picture has a sort of "Damon Runyonesque" flavor.

THE CAST is one for the marquee. In addition to BING CROSBY and FRED MacMURRAY, in a role that will put him farther up in favor with the fans, there are two newcomers to the screen . . . ELLEN DREW and young DONALD O'CONNOR. Wesley Ruggles could have had anyone in Hollywood for the two roles filled by the newcomers. But he wanted "new and refreshing characters." Ellen Drew only a short time ago was a sales clerk in a Chicago department store. Young O'Connor, chosen from 350 youngsters, comes from a vaudeville family. Bing says about O'Connor: "He sings, dances, acts and plays the accordion—and what more can you expect from a 'punk' kid?" Wesley Ruggles says: "We think we've got two young stars here." Coming from Ruggles, that's worth listening to. For Ruggles is a gambler on stars. It was he who gave worthwhile opportunity to such now-greats as Bing Crosby, Clark Gable, Irene Dunne and Janet Gaynor, among others.

"THE UNHOLY BEEBES" to receive Showmanship Exploitation and Publicity Build-up!

RACE TRACK ANGLE will be heavily exploited. Picture will be previewed at Delmar race track with broadcast from track and wire stories to every city in the United States. Two new personalities . . . Ellen Drew and Donald O'Connor . . . have already started to reap benefits of tremendous newspaper and magazine campaign. They're NEWS! Ellen Drew . . . the Department Store Cinderella . . . has fired the imagination of every girl in the country who dreams of a similar experience. Young O'Connor will be taken on a personal appearance tour in conjunction with initial key run engagements. His personality will sell him and the picture all along the line.

MUSIC will be built up in public favor by strategic broadcasts over most important programs on coast-to-coast hookups. You'll be hearing and remembering "Pocketful of Dreams," "Small Fry" and "Laugh and Call It Love."

PRESS BOOK will be full of national tie-ups with suggestions for cashing in on the race track angle, newspaper contests for Cinderella, seat-selling newspaper advertisements.

"THE UNHOLY BEEBES" can be chalked up as one of the most important money-makers on

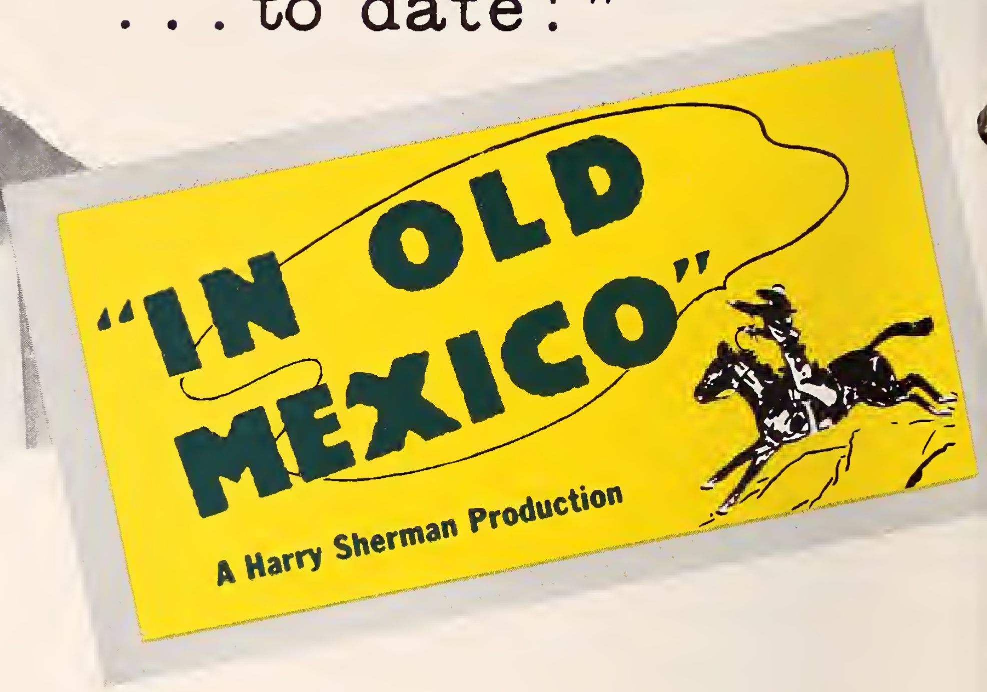
"'IN OLD MEXICO' is the best Hopalong ... to date!"

HARRY "POP" SHERMAN
Producer, Hopalong Cassidy Series



"POP" SHERMAN, whose Hopalong Cassidys have made money for every exhibitor who's played 'em, has only one ambition — to make each succeeding release better than the one before! And he does it! By constantly adding new touches — new story treatment — new thrill angles — new entertainment values — to keep the series at the top of the list.

"IN OLD MEXICO," the second release on the new season's series of Hopalong pictures, sets a new standard of excellence in this already-"tops" series.

BILL BOYD
"Hopalong Cassidy"

Of course, "Pop's" had a lot of grand help on this picture — a cast of surefire Hopalong Cassidy favorites headed by BILL BOYD, RUSSELL HAYDEN and GEORGE "WINDY" HAYES — a Clarence E. Mulford yarn that's action-packed from start to fadeout — scenery that's worth a feature story in itself — the brilliant direction of Ed Venturini, who's given "IN OLD MEXICO" the kind of treatment that makes it stand out like a Tiffany stone in Woolworth's — and photography by Russell Harlan, acknowledged one of the best outdoor action cameramen in Hollywood!

In the old days, all you had to give 'em was a hero on a white horse and plenty of the great outdoors—but today audiences want more! They want more story, more sense, more picture! And that's what "Pop" Sherman gives 'em in the Hopalong series—voted the best in the industry in an exhibitors' poll conducted by "Showmen's Trade Review"!

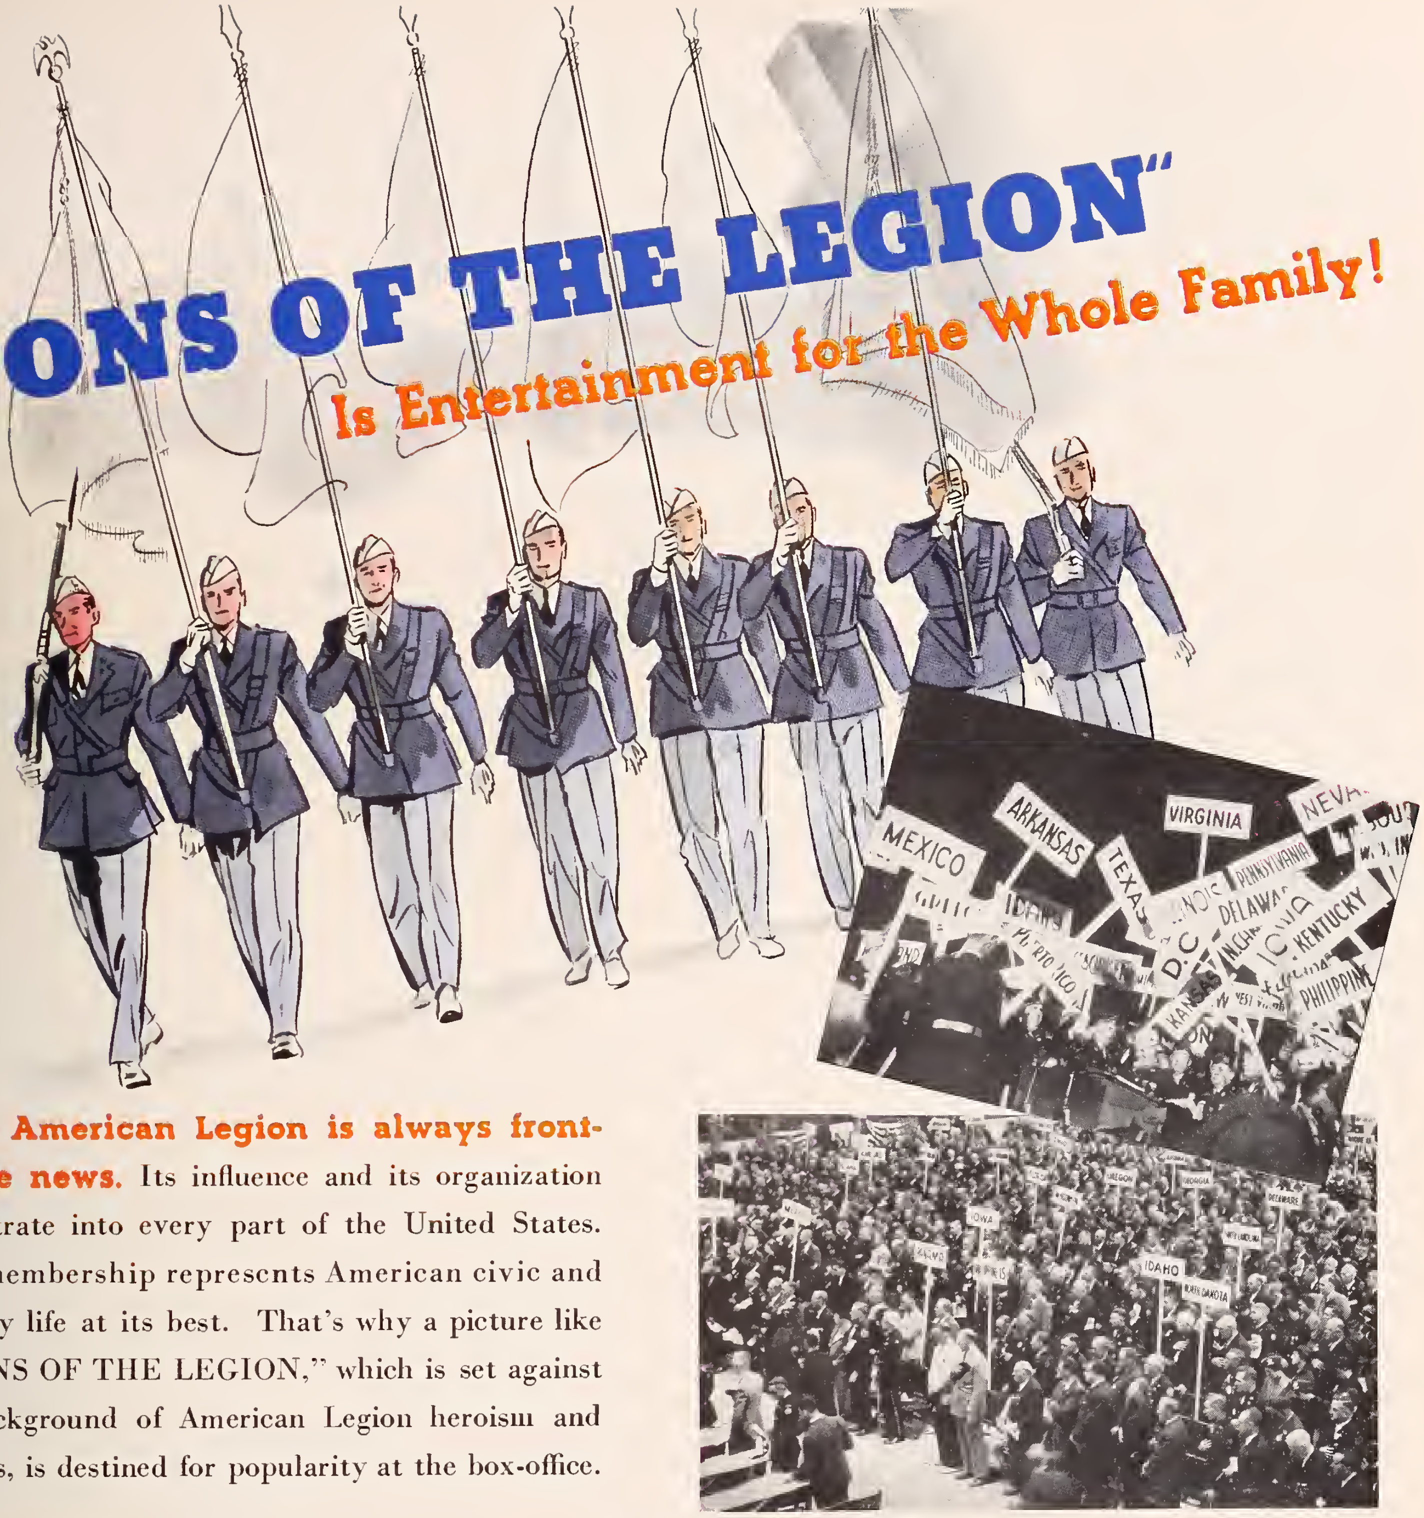
"SONS OF THE LEGION"

Is Entertainment for the Whole Family!



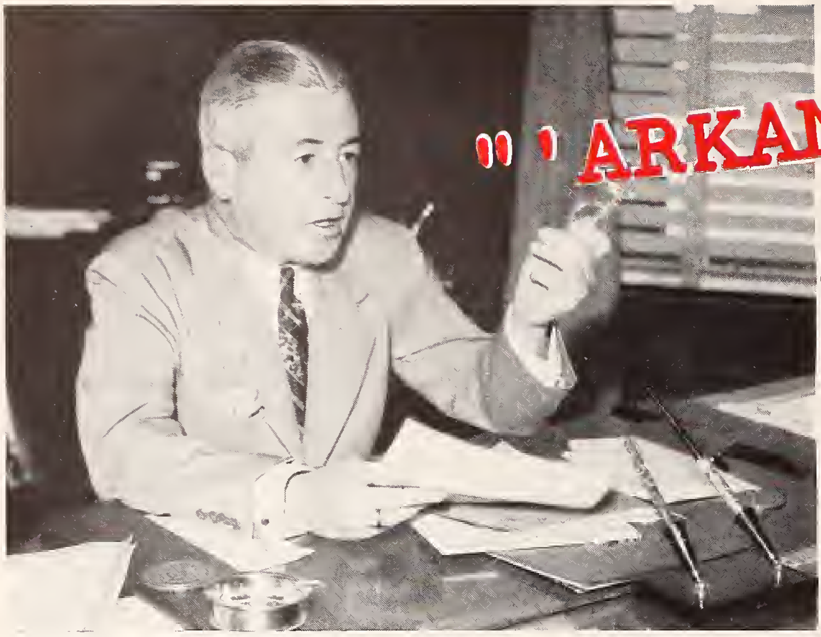
The American Legion is always front-page news. Its influence and its organization penetrate into every part of the United States. Its membership represents American civic and family life at its best. That's why a picture like "SONS OF THE LEGION," which is set against a background of American Legion heroism and ideals, is destined for popularity at the box-office.

"SONS OF THE LEGION" is the story of a father who loved his boy too much to hurt him, and of a son who loved his father so much that he couldn't bear the thought that his Dad wasn't all he ought to be! It's a story of bravery . . . of battles fought in peacetime to bring back the honor of a man whose name was under a cloud . . . of young romance that stood the test during a period of emotional stress.

DONALD O'CONNOR, the sensational kid discovery who almost stole "The Unholy Beebes" from Bing Crosby and Fred MacMurray, is given an important leading role in "SONS OF THE LEGION." BILLY LEE, popular youngster who scored in "Cocoanut Grove," is also importantly cast and lends another marquee name to the picture. The rest of the cast will feature performers of proven merit and pulling power.

JAMES HOGAN, whose "Last Train from Madrid," "Scandal Street" and "Ebb Tide" stamp him as an experienced box-office director, will handle "SONS OF THE LEGION" before the cameras.

EXPLOITATION . . . "SONS OF THE LEGION" will be pre-released on September 9th in Los Angeles, at the time the American Legion convention will hold its sessions there. Full advantage will be taken of the opportunities that this will afford for nation-wide publicity coverage. American Legion posts, women's clubs, schools, Boy and Girl scout organizations . . . every organized group devoted to the advancement of Americanism . . . will be enlisted in behalf of "SONS OF THE LEGION," because of its implications. The Press Book will contain full information of all arrangements so that theatres will be in position to take full advantage.



"'ARKANSAS TRAVELER' with BOB BURNS is what I call a natural!"

OSCAR MORGAN — District Manager: Atlanta, Memphis, Charlotte, Jacksonville, New Orleans.

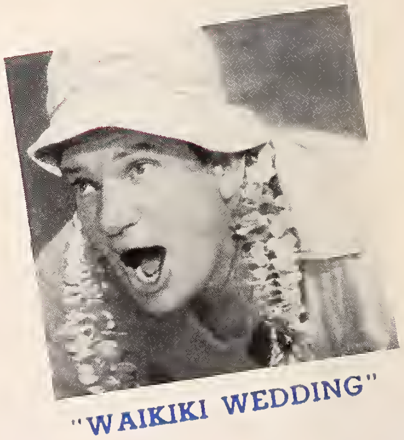
"'Natural' is the word for Burns, Oscar!"

BOB BURNS has a down-to-earth human quality. His following is tremendous. People like to see him, hear him, like to read his syndicated newspaper feature. The studio has long recognized, along with the theatres of the country, that Burns is a powerful potential draw at the box-office, and it has been on the lookout for a really great story to fit his personality. "ARKANSAS TRAVELER" fills all the requirements. It provides Burns with the best characterization he has ever had on the screen . . . one that is right down his alley. Picture a bashful, drawling straightforward sort of individual...an itinerant printer...with a strong sense of justice, a dryly humorous tongue, a twinkle in his eye and a homely philosophy...and you've some idea of Bob Burns' role in this picture. He strongly reminds us of the late Will Rogers.

You know how they went for Burns in . . .

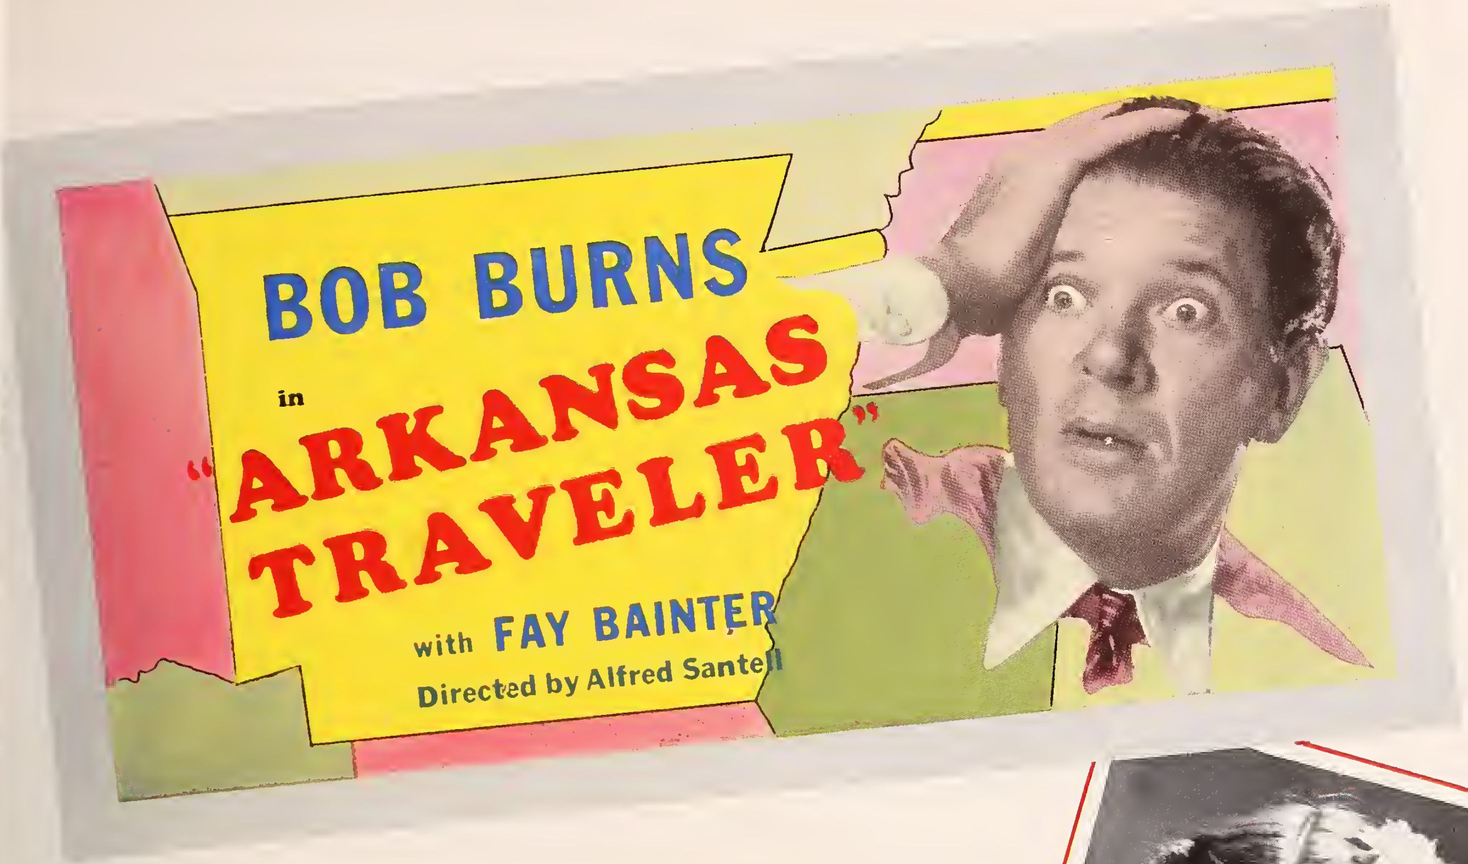
"WELLS FARGO"

"MOUNTAIN MUSIC"



"WAIKIKI WEDDING"

. . . they'll love him as the "ARKANSAS TRAVELER"



JEAN PARKER

JEAN PARKER will play the romantic feminine leading role in "ARKANSAS TRAVELER". She has been identified with a number of successful pictures and has recently scored in "Romance of the Limberlost"

FAY BAINTER will play opposite Bob Burns, in the role of a small-town widow. Her recent memorable performance in "White Banners" brought forth enthusiastic praise from both critics and public.

AL SANTELL, who is guiding the destinies of "ARKANSAS TRAVELER". has a happy faculty for getting down to fundamentals. He has a strong sense of human values. It is this quality that was so evident in such of his recent pictures as "Breakfast for Two", "Having Wonderful Time" and "Cocoanut Grove". Certain types of pictures cry out for certain types of directors. AL SANTELL can be depended upon to get the most out of "ARKANSAS TRAVELER".

"ARKANSAS TRAVELER" a Publicity and Exploitation "NATURAL"!

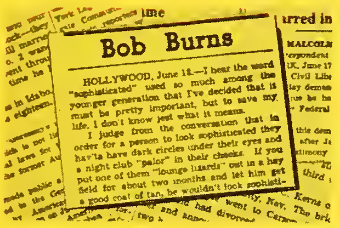
KRAFT MUSIC HALL

RADIO . . . Bob Burns takes over the Kraft Music Hall program for the summer. We are assured of plenty of national plugs for the picture via this medium.



NEWSPAPERS . . . Throughout the country Bob Burns' syndicated humorous and philosophical feature is read and enjoyed by hundreds of thousands. A special plan has been worked out to concentrate special publicity on "ARKANSAS TRAVELER" in these newspapers.

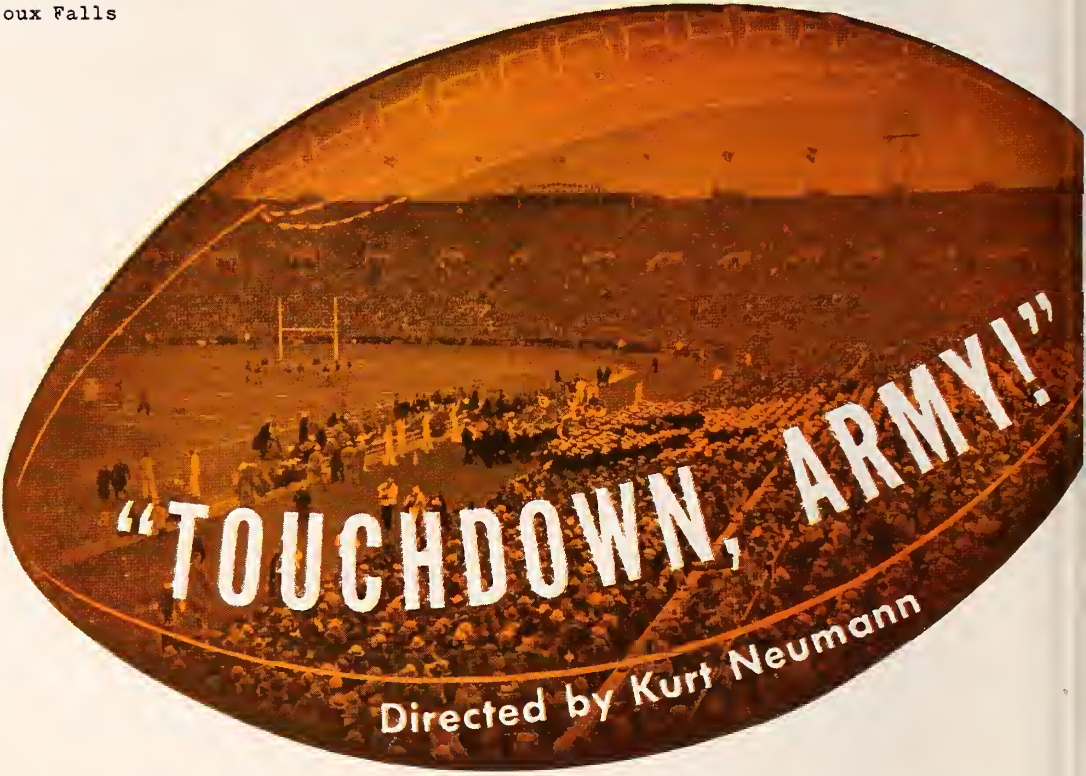
"'TOUCHDOWN, ARMY!'
and
'KING OF ALCATRAZ

...Wheat in the bins!'

That's Ben's colloquial way of saying "They're in the bag!"

"TOUCHDOWN, ARMY!" is to be released in October, at the time when interest in college football is at its seething height! It will be found a more-than-worthy box-office follow-up to previous highly profitable Paramount football pictures!



The story of "TOUCHDOWN, ARMY!" is more than the conventional "block-that-kick" type of yarn. It's a human tale of boys and girls whom college teaches to "live"...of a young cock-of-the-walk who decides to "honor" West Point with his presence, only to find that the spirit and loyalty of the Army have turned him into a man. The football episodes are the most thrilling and suspenseful that have yet been devised.

THE CAST includes such popular young stars as JOHN HOWARD, MARY CARLISLE, ROBERT CUMMINGS, WILLIAM FRAWLEY, BENNY BAKER. Direction has been placed in the hands of KURT NEUMANN, who has proved he has a decided flair for bringing a story like "TOUCHDOWN, ARMY!" to the screen so that it scores high in entertainment values.

SHOWMEN will know how to sell "TOUCHDOWN, ARMY!" to a fare-thee-well! Released during the peak of the football season, it will cash in on national interest in this most popular of all college sports. The Press Book contains a complete lineup of new ideas and sales material to help theatres get the public in!

"TOUCHDOWN, ARMY!"... answers the demand for a successor to last season's popular "Hold 'em Navy!"

Tremendous enthusiasm that audiences are according Paramount's fast-paced thrill-packed melodramas have inspired hundreds of theatre showmen to write in and say "Give us more! Our audiences love 'em!"

"KING OF ALCATRAZ" is a box-office follow-up of earlier Paramount smash "action" hits. It is a powerful story of what happens after the Government "puts the finger" on the racket kings. The plot is novel, fresh, up-to-the-minute! Some of the highlights are the capture of a passenger ship by escaping gangsters... an emergency operation on shipboard directed by radio instructions from a doctor hundreds of miles away . . . plus a romance that's tender and true.

THE CAST is headed by LLOYD NOLAN and J. CARROL NAISH, two male leads who are top marquee names because of the great way in which they registered with the fans in previous pictures of this type. GAIL PATRICK is the female lead. Another excellent name to grace the marquee!

ROBERT FLOREY is the director. Past success with pictures like "Dangerous to Know" and "Daughter of Shanghai" is proof conclusive that Florey can be relied upon to weave all the action, thrills, suspense and romance in "KING OF ALCATRAZ" into an outstanding production.

EXPLOITATION is a cinch on a picture with the action-appeal of "KING OF ALCATRAZ." Can be sold in advertising and out front on a "newsy" basis . . . with flash posters, action cut-outs, dramatic displays and punchy copy treatment. The Press Book will carry all the details.

"KING OF ALCATRAZ"... answers the demand for more smashing action melodramas like "Tip-Off Girls," "Hunted Men," "Prison Farm"

RONALD COLMAN
in FRANK LLOYD'S
"IF I WERE KING" with
FRANCES DEE, BASIL RATHBONE
Ellen Drew, Henry Wilcoxon, Colin Tapley,
John Miljan, Montagu Love, William Farnum
Produced and Directed by FRANK LLOYD

GREAT STORY!—"IF I WERE KING" is based on Justin Huntley McCarthy's immortal love story of swashbuckling Francois Villon, romantic poet-thief who rose to become the savior of France. A tale read, re-read and loved by millions. A tale of the type that made "Beau Geste" and "Lives of a Bengal Lancer" and "Robin Hood" the outstanding box-office pictures they turned out to be. A tale—exciting, glamorous, unforgettable—of a man lifted from the gutter to a throne by love, and of a girl who exchanged position and security for the thrill of her lover's arms. A tale—vivid, melodramatic! A tale that has now been turned into one of the great screen plays of all time!

GREAT STAR!—In the role of Villon is RONALD COLMAN, a part made to order for his gay, debonair, romantic personality. Preview reception of Colman's performance guarantees that Villon is his greatest role, the character for which he will be remembered long after his other roles have been forgotten! And that's saying plenty when one stops to remember that it was Colman who carried to success such pictures as "Lost Horizon" and "Prisoner of Zenda."

GREAT SUPPORTING CAST!—Lovely FRANCES DEE plays the role of the regal beauty who inspires the "king of ruffians" to scale the heights of romantic sublimity. Her last picture was "Wells Fargo." BASIL RATHBONE (the screen's most beloved aristocratic villain) portrays King Louis of France, who gives Villon his chance at immortality. ELLEN DREW (the "Cinderella Girl") does an outstanding job as "Huguette," Villon's first love. Other important names in the large and splendid cast are such favorites as Henry Wilcoxon, Colin Tapley, John Miljan, Montagu Love, William Farnum

"IF I WERE KING" Will Receive Royal Build-Up Campaign

Radio! Ronald Colman appears on a Lux coast-to-coast hookup on September 12th, in a dramatization of one of the gripping scenes in "If I Were King." An auspicious startoff for one of the most ambitious radio publicity campaigns ever placed behind a motion picture!

Fashions! Department stores will feature styles adapted from original garments introduced in the picture, with appropriate credits and displays. So planned as to dovetail activities of leading department stores with playdates of picture.

Schools, Libraries! Because of the nature of the story, advertising, publicity and kindred selling will be aimed at the schools, colleges, history societies, and so on. Special charts, study guides, and direct mailings to important educational bodies will be available.

Newspapers and Magazines! Elaborate art layouts, feature stories, and special "by-line" articles will appear in every newspaper and magazine read by the masses and the classes.

National Tie-Ups! Dozens of national manufacturers tied in for what it may be worth to theatres. Paramount has always had a great deal of success with these promotions, as theatres will testify. We are now working out the details of a number of worthwhile cooperative endeavors, and a full account of how these operate will be found in the Press Book.

All in all "IF I WERE KING" will receive the grandest promotion campaign of any picture of the year!

GREAT DIRECTOR! Production is in the hands of FRANK LLOYD, master producer-director of truly great pictures, his most recent being "Wells Fargo." He is the only director ever to win the Academy Award three times—for "Divine Lady," "Cavalcade," "Mutiny on the Bounty." Those who have seen rushes of "IF I WERE KING" unhesitantly rate it as FRANK LLOYD'S greatest achievement to date. In it he has recreated an entire city of the most glamorous period the world has ever known.

"'IF I WERE KING' is a GREAT box-office attraction for Canada!"

"'CAMPUS CONFESSIONS' is the kind of picture we root for!"

College romance and college sports, always surefire at the box-office, take on added audience appeal and selling opportunities in "CAMPUS CONFESSIONS," the first motion picture to feature basketball—the game that's fast jumping to a high place in national favor! To cash in on this new angle, Paramount introduces, in a featured role in "CAMPUS CONFESSIONS," HANK LUISETTI, the personable, likeable Stamford basketball sensation, who has garnered more national publicity than many another college athlete of our generation!

"ARTISTS and MODELS ABROAD"* is O.K. Means TOP BUSINESS in my territory!"

ARTISTS AND MODELS ABROAD

"A Jack Benny Picture is TOPS in any territory, Allen."

JACK BENNY is box-office! The records prove it conclusively! Pictures in which he has been featured . . . "Big Broadcast of 1937" and the first "Artists and Models"... all landed in the top-grossing class... That's a pretty impressive record... and there's plenty of good reasons for it, too. Jack Benny is a peculiar show business phenomenon. His Jello radio program has been tops for years! His personality is still the smoothest and easiest of the radio elite in comedy. His gags are quoted at every dinner table. His amiable, personable, careless, effortless manner is the delight of millions.

THE STORY is the thing in Hollywood today . . . as never before! And the story of "ARTISTS AND MODELS ABROAD" is tailored to fit the Benny personality. Don't let the idea prevail that this latest Benny picture is a hodge-podge of specialty acts, dragged in without rhyme or reason, and held together by a song or two and a dance or two. The studio has gotten away from all that clambake musical stuff. They've got PLOT in this one . . . and what a plot! Built for laughs, surprises, glamour...with a lot of swell gags, some soothing romance, and a brace of hit songs to send the customers out whistling.

JACK BENNY is ably supported by a hand-picked cast: For romance, lovely JOAN BENNETT, who comes to the nation's marquees fresh from her triumphs in "The Texans," an August release. For comedy MARY BOLAND, CHARLES GRAPEWIN and THE YACHT CLUB BOYS. And oh, so easy on the eyes are the beautiful girls who have been picked as members of the troupe stranded with Jack Benny on the Boulevards of Paris.

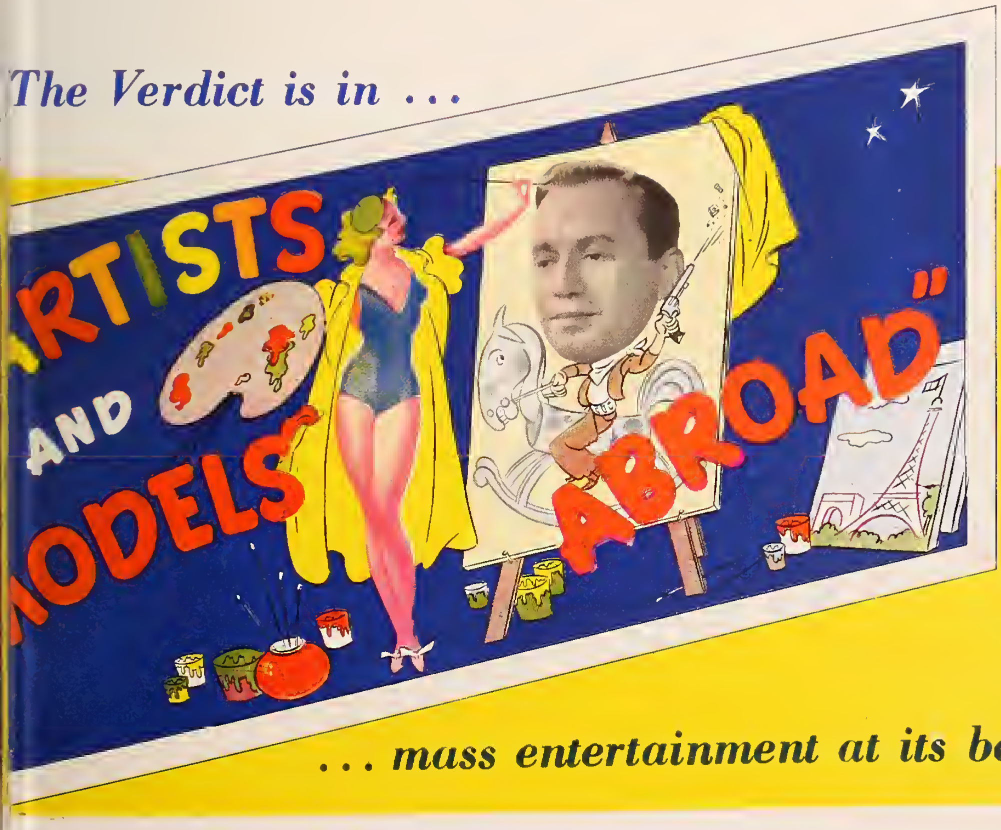
"ARTISTS and MODELS ABROAD"

has a terrific woman's angle: One of the big scenes is set in the Paris Exposition grounds, where Jack Benny is mistaken for the manager of the attraction known as the "Palace of Feminine Arts." This is a magnificent display of great ladies, their gowns, their perfumes, their jewels. It shows feminine allure down through the ages. One of the thrillingly dazzling scenes is a great foam bath through which pass thousands of beautiful girls! What a spectacle! Tied in with the "Palace of Feminine Arts" are creations by some of the greatest names in the world of fashion — Schiaparelli, Worth, Lelong, Lanvin, Patou. Nothing has been spared in this sequence to make it of interest to women and to bedevil the men.

MITCHELL LEISEN is the director. He's an old hand at getting fast-paced, smooth-flowing action on the screen out of this type of story.

MUSIC is by Rainger and Robin, who turn out the sort of tunes that strike the public ear and the popular fancy. All America will soon be hearing "Do the Buckaroo," "What Have You Got That Gets Me?" and "You're Lovely, Madame."

The Verdict is in . . .



. . . mass entertainment at its best!

Broad Publicity Preselling Campaign

STUDIOS QUIET

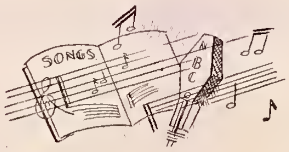
Millions of listeners to the last half-dozen Jack Benny broadcasts have been hearing plenty about his scene with Joan Bennett in "ARTISTS AND MODELS ABROAD." Benny's been taking a great deal of his sponsor's time to build up interest in the picture. He will resume these plugs in the fall, just before national release, when Benny goes on the air again for Jello. Jello merchandising interest will be tied in for nationwide cooperation with theatres when the picture is released.

The fashion background will be tied in with leading department stores, fashion groups, women's magazines, perfume houses and so on. This makes for national advertising, invaluable window space and publicity in key cities, merchandising helps of all sorts everywhere.



Radio Promotion will be employed to publicize the picture and broadcast the songs.

RAY MILLAND, cast opposite Olympe Bradna in "SOUBRETTE," is at the height of his popularity. Pictures like "Easy Living," "Her Jungle Love," "Tropic Holiday," established this handsome Englishman as a prime favorite with fans and critics. "Men With Wings," in which he plays the greatest role of his career, will be released ahead of "Soubrette." We venture to assert that his role in this air picture will make him one of the great marquee names in this industry. In "SOUBRETTE," Ray Milland comes through with a light comedy role—that of a young millionaire who swaps a fortune for five feet of brown-eyed French wife . . . and knows that he's made a good trade!

An excellent cast will be chosen to support OLYMPE BRADNA and RAY MILLAND in "SOUBRETTE." Direction will be placed in the capable hands of ANDREW STONE, who showed in "Stolen Heaven" that he can get away from formula and bring a story to the screen with imagination and "differentness."

GEORGE RAFT · DOROTHY LAMOUR

"St. Louis BLUES"

with Tito Guizar · Elizabeth Patterson · William Frawley · Maxine Sullivan · Directed by Raoul Walsh

"You've spotted a real winner, Ralph!"

When a picture has a whale of a story . . . a swell title... and a cast of box-office favorites to give it all the dramatic punch that it deserves...that picture is destined for success. Particularly is this true when the direction is placed in the hands of a showman whose name is synonymous with screen entertainment.

• THE STORY! "ST. LOUIS BLUES" is a modern, up-to-the-minute showboat type of tale...recounting the lives and loves of the folks who travel down the inland rivers, bringing thrills and song and drama to the natives along the banks. It's a human story, with real characters, in situations that make their appeal to every class of audience! What's more, the title on the marquee immediately SELLS the picture for what it is... swing, rhythm, romance and melody! It's a PRE-SOLD title . . . for it's so inescapably tied up with a song that will never die!

• THE DIRECTOR is RAOUL WALSH, and he doesn't have to be sold to anyone in the industry. Going as far back as "The Big Parade," his pictures have been consistent money makers. He directed the first big money-making "Artists and Models." Walsh, himself, states that "ST. LOUIS BLUES" will top anything he's done in the recent past.

. . . . GEORGE RAFT and DOROTHY LAMOUR top the high-powered cast of "St. Louis Blues." Raft plays the owner of a showboat, Lamour plays an actress—stranded and in trouble. Rated on their co-starring performances in "Spawn of the North," this pair of names on the marquee represents audience pulling power at its best. In supporting roles are such popular favorites as Tito Guizar, Elizabeth Patterson, William Frawley . . . and Maxine Sullivan!

By ARCHER WINSTEN

Inimitable songstress who created a furore with her new style of melodious swing arrangements of old classics. Her name "out front" will sell plenty of tickets! Who hasn't heard her swing "Loch Lomond"?

And talking about "SWING!"... wait till you hear the new type of "swing" music to be introduced for the first time in "St. Louis Blues"! This is a melodious and rhythmic form of "swing" originated by Boris Morros, musical director at the Paramount Studios. He achieves new effects through novel instrumentation. You're going to hear a lot about this new music craze! Because it's "sweet and simple," music lovers as well as "cats" and "jitterbugs" will go for it!

MUSIC . . . Nation's leading tunesmiths and lyric writers—Hoagy Carmichael, Leo Robin, Ralph Rainger, Sam Coslow, Ned Washington, Burton Lane, Frank Loesser — have written songs to be featured during the action of "ST. LOUIS BLUES." Among numbers nation will soon be hearing out of picture are "Kinda Lonesome," "The Nearness of You," "I Know What Aloha Means," "Junior," "The Beat of My Heart Is a Rhumba," "Sombrero."

Showmanship Advertising and Exploitation!

A newspaper and magazine publicity campaign of large proportions has already been started on the picture. By the time "ST. LOUIS BLUES" hits the screens of theatres, news about it will have permeated into every section of the country. Elaborate premiere in St. Louis with wire and syndicate coverage to all parts of the nation will start the point of sale publicity rolling.

Press Book will contain many showmanship ideas on how to SELL the picture to the public. Replete with up-to-date advertising, newspaper features, special art ideas, contests, and plans for making the lobby and front do some real SELLING.

Radio will broadcast the music, with plugs over national hookups by Dorothy Lamour and Maxine Sullivan.

Phonograph Record Companies will go to town with window display material and other sales helps in every city.

"ST. LOUIS BLUES"... bound to be a top grosser!

"'ESCAPE FROM YESTERDAY is action-drama at its best!"

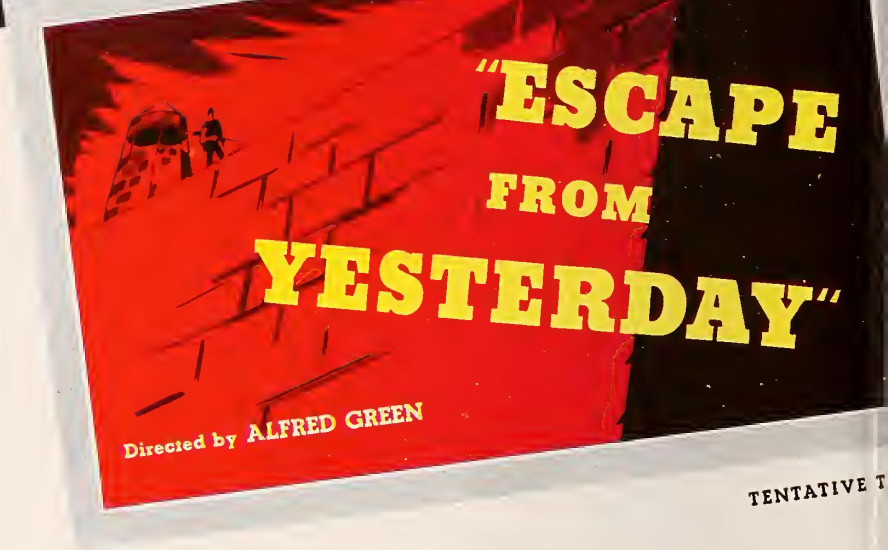
HARRY GOLDSTEIN,
District Manager: Cleveland,
Pittsburgh, Cincinnati

Here's a picture built around a theme that is NEW to the screen! It's a two-fisted human drama of a father and a son old enough to be his rival . . . in love, in life, in loyalty and patriotism.



TENTATIVE T

Picture

as an ex-Cossack, transplanted to this country, who becomes a modern, motorized cattle thief. (He's rough, tough, yet plenty human.)

Picture

FRANCES FARMER

as the third side to a strange triangle . . . she's the girl the men scrap over, for the old Cossack has a roving eye! (Miss Farmer's best.)

Picture

—a virile, six-foot-three bundle of emotions and loyalties, as the son who hasn't seen his father since boyhood. (A real he-man role.)

Then picture these characters in sequences that breathe thrills and suspense, that pile conflict upon conflict, until the red corpuscles start a-singing in the blood . . . and you get some idea of the type of action picture we have in "ESCAPE FROM YESTERDAY."

THE STORY

of "ESCAPE FROM YESTERDAY" is terrific in its emotional appeal and dramatic implications. Conflict between father and son, because of the barbaric resentment of the ex-Cossack for any sort of restraint, Government or otherwise. In difficulties with the authorities, the father is sent to prison. The son joins the cavalry, learns the meaning of devotion, discipline and loyalty in spite of his unbridled Cossack blood, and is torn between helping his father escape and keeping faith with the oath he swore. The appeal of Americanism is strongly developed.

If ever a star deserved a story like "ESCAPE FROM YESTERDAY," that star is AKIM TAMIROFF. Recognized as one of the greatest character actors on the screen, his portrayal of the old Cossack will rank alongside his Chinese general in "The General Died at Dawn" and his pirate gunner in "The Buccaneer."

ALFRED GREEN, one of the screen's respected craftsmen, directed "Escape From Yesterday." He is a past master in the handling of emotional material and tensely dramatic situations. He will be remembered for his most recent successful "Thoroughbreds Don't Cry."

LEIF ERIKSON (husband of Miss Farmer in real life) handles the virile role of the ex-Cossack's son. He spent an entire season on the Broadway stage in "All the Living," and returned to the studio for the opportunity to play in "Escape From Yesterday."

Publicity and Advertising

FATHER AND SON ORGANIZATIONS will get solidly behind "Escape From Yesterday," because of the way in which the father and son angle is handled. The picture will be screened for such groups as well as for CIVIC AUTHORITIES, WOMEN'S CLUBS, AMERICAN LEGION, Federal and State officials and others who are spreading the gospel of Americanism. BOY SCOUT organizations will be tied in.

nd on management and directorial pointments.

The probability that the RKO reor- zation may be completed in ad- ce of the expiration of the option the event Atlas negotiates the ex- ision to the year's end by only a rtial purchase of the RCA holdings, luced the latter to adopt its stand board and management represen- ion, it is said. RCA feels that in event it is still holding $5,000,000 RKO stock and debentures follow- the reorganization of the company is entitled to a voice in manage- nt and direction even though its ldings continue under option. This nd presumably might influence At- to exercise the option in full this nth.

Special Master George W. Alger is heduled to present his report on the nended RKO plan at a hearing to- y. While approval of the plan in its major provisions is anticipated, special master is expected to make commendations for a few changes minor importance. These may or ay not necessitate further hearings fore the final report goes to Fed- al Judge William Bondy.

Judge Leaving Next Month

In the event the special master re- ires no further hearings on the plan, dge Bondy would initiate hearings Mr. Alger's report immediately, obably at the hearing already sched- ed for Thursday in his court. Judge ondy plans to leave on his annual uropean vacation some time next onth, but could conclude the hear- gs prior to his departure and hand wn his decision after his return in ptember. If this schedule were fol- wed, there would be a possibility of KO emerging from reorganization October.

A board of directors for the reor- nized company will have to be reed upon and approved by Judge ondy in advance of the court's final proval of the reorganization plan. esumably, management changes, if y of importance, would await the urt's approval of the new directors' ate.

Mr. Taggart, exchanging places with Laurence Gilliam of BBC, who recently returned to England after a six-month stay as guest of CBC, was the first Canadian to go abroad on the new exchange basis between the two systems. Reversed Compass

Howard Hughes spent $300,000 to prove how much progress aviation had made in the past 10 years and Douglas Corrigan spent $100 to prove that it hadn't made any.

What the newsreels spent yesterday getting crews from London to Dublin in a hurry hasn't been computed yet.

If Corrigan's compass stays in reverse he'll probably land at Fairbanks Wednesday and still say he's headed for California.

New RKO Plan Gets Approval With Changes

With several minor modifications, the plan for reorganization of RKO has been approved, Special Master George W. Alger announced at the final hearing yesterday. The formal report will be ready for submission to Federal Judge William Bondy before Aug. 1, Mr. Alger said later.

"I find that the plan in the main is fair, feasible and equitable," Mr. Alger stated. The principal modification ordered was an option to debenture holders to take $140 in preferred stock for each $100 in debentures now held. The present plan provides for one share of preferred stock and five

Allied Seeks 'Divorce' Laws In All States

Steffes Basing Moves on North Dakota Ruling

Minneapolis, July 18.—"Divorcement" bills in all the other 47 states will be pressed at the next sessions of state legislatures as a consequence of the North Dakota law having been declared constitutional, W. A. Steffes, president of Allied Theatre Owners of the Northwest, said today. Steffes is chairman of a committee of Allied States appointed to advocate "divorcement" bills.

Since announcement was made of the three-judge court decision, Steffes has been receiving congratulatory telegrams, letters and telephone calls.

Washington, July 18.—In a statement issued today Abram F. Myers, general counsel for Allied, declared that if the industry had heeded exhibitor warnings it would not now be confronted with three cases in the U. S. Supreme Court.

"The industry is now confronted with the task of defending itself in the Supreme Court at the next term

Para. to Appeal in North Dakota Case

Paramount's appeal from the Federal statutory court decision upholding the constitutionality of the North Dakota act prohibiting production and distribution companies from holding an interest in theatres operated within the state is expected to be filed with the U. S. Supreme Court in October and a hearing on the appeal may be held before the end of the year, it was learned yesterday.

Paramount officials and attorneys decided against applying for a rehearing of the case in the statutory court before going to the Supreme Court

British Begin Talks on U. S. Sales Combine

Hope to Get Decision Before Next Fall

The formation of a single national distribution organization in America to handle the combined product of British producers is under discussion in London now, where a decision on the plan will be made before fall, according to information received by New York representatives of the British producers.

The conversations now being held in London, it is said, are mainly of an exploratory character, with the objective of discovering how many producers can agree among themselves on participation in the venture. If a sufficient volume of product is indicated later conferences will be held to determine the practicability of the plan. A final decision is anticipated before Oct. 1, in time to complete the organization here for operations beginning with the 1939-'40 season.

Under the plan the cooperative sales and distribution organization would be designed to furnish British producers complete representation in this market at an apportioned minimum cost. Gaumont British, Associated British Pictures and British Lion are the companies most directly interested.

Lynn Farnol Takes Over at U.A.; It Proves a Busy Day

Lynn Farnol took over his new job of advertising director for United Artists yesterday. It was a new title more than a new job, for Farnol has been with Goldwyn and in the advertising business for a long spell. So there were no flowers on his desk at 729 7th ave. when he arrived, just a Japanese beetle which he flipped off before plunging into a mess of conferences and activities which made the U.A. boys glad there's an air conditioning unit functioning around the plant.

Before reporting at 729, Farnol had dropped in at Donahue & Coe, picked up his things and completed some last minute Music Hall work with Lewis Kaufman and Ed Churchill.

"Drums" the Beginning

When he arrived at 729, he found a pad full of memoranda compiled by a sun-tanned secretary just back from Bermuda. He made an inventory of the U.A. productions, wrote a letter on "Drums," the picture on which they're building high hopes, checked the figures on "Algiers" and found them good.

"The reviews have been overwhelming," said Farnol. "And the box-office figures even more satisfying. The Music Hall had a line waiting for an hour and a quarter Sunday—a hot July Sunday. The four playing days thus far have netted $58,900. The take on the first week will be close to $91,000, maybe over. It's in for a second week, probably a third."

Farnol checked advertising on "Algiers," conferred with George Schaefer and A. W. Smith on trade paper advertising appropriation for "Algiers," had a confab with Gus Eysell on the second week's appropriation for "Algiers" and wrote a couple of letters to Howard Dietz and the committee meeting at luncheon to consider the industry's cooperative national advertising campaign for fall.

He popped out at 1 o'clock to have luncheon uptown with friends, far from the film whirl, and returned to meet Eddie Small in Harry Buckley's office.

There were two big but informal department meetings after that, a meeting with the man who will take over his work for Norman Bel Geddes, a conference with Monroe Greenthal on trade paper advertising, another conference with Mr. Cecil of Cecil, Warwick and Legler on the advertising campaign for "The Young in Heart" to be released about the middle of August.

On Phone with Whitney

He started a poster on "The Young in Heart," got the fan magazine advertising for it under way, joined Schaefer and Smith for another conference, setting a release date of July 29 for "Algiers" for the Loew houses, came back to his office for a breather and a rush of informal comings and goings, and wound up at 6:30 P.M. talking to John Hay Whitney who had called him from the coast.

And last night he put in an appearance at the Versailles where they were exploiting "Algiers" again with a show staged by Leonidoff who gathered the talent for this "Night in Algiers" benefit for the vacation fund of the Women's Exchange. Just an average day.

Mainstreet in K. C. Is Forced to Close

Kansas City, July 18.—Because of high rental and poor grosses the 3,100-seat Mainstreet, first run outlet of RKO and Grand National, will close on Thursday. There are no plans at the present time for its reopening. William Elson, manager, will return to Minneapolis, where he manages the Seventh Street.

The Orpheum here is being renovated for fall opening, presumably under RKO management.

Hollywood, July 18.—Dr. Towne Nylander, regional NLRB director, today postponed the hearing of the petition of the Studio Utility Employes, Local 724, asking to be declared the collective bargaining representatives for laborers at Republic, which was filed when Local 724 charged the IATSE with absorbing its members there. The postponement was ordered pending attempts at settlement of the dispute between the unions by conferences.

HALF OF NEW YORK WAS OUT TO GREET HOWARD HUGHES!

cheering "ALGIERS"!

AT RADIO CITY MUSIC HALL

"First-rate entertainment . . . fascinating drama. Few films this season or any other have sustained their mood so brilliantly. Clearly one of the most interesting and absorbing dramas of the season."—New York Times.

"A savage and absorbing story. Film reaches pitch of memorable intensity. Boyer makers character so complex and vital that it is not easily forgotten. Hedy Lamarr brings rare beauty and conviction. A film you should see."
—New York Herald Tribune.

"Excellent is the word for 'Algiers'. A unique picture replete with charm and romance and as entertaining as it is different. Boyer matchless, none more beautiful than Miss Lamarr. Designed for sheer entertainment and made so well it has unlimited appeal. Double-barreled sex appeal. Everything's right about this picture."
—N. Y. Daily News.

"Enchanting romance. The temperature is frankly feverish and it is safe to predict that Mr. Boyer's photograph will be enshrined in many boudoirs this summer. Miss Lamarr is a luscious beauty. Her style and Mr. Boyer's harmonize flawlessly."—Daily Mirror.

"A handsomely produced romantic melodrama. The performances are as good as the direction. Boyer, Calleia and Gene Lockhart deserve special praise for their acting. Miss Lamarr has only to be brought within camera range to excite heated interest." —N. Y. Post.

"Even without the presence of dazzling Hedy Lamarr in its cast 'Algiers' would still be a tasty dish. But with her it has just the necessary extra dash of salt to make it a gourmet's delight. It's exactly what the doctor ordered in the way of glamour."—N. Y. World-Telegram.

oew Wins Hearing Upon Plea for Stay

An application of Loew's, Inc., will heard today by the N. Y. Supreme urt to stay all proceedings in the ckholder's suit of Philip S. Isaacs, executor of Alice Isaacs, against ew's and 35 of its directors and offi- s, pending final determination of ht similar consolidated stockhold- ' suits. The request for a stay is ight, the filed petition states, to save "great and unnecessary burden of ense to the defendant" and cites the ent decision of Supreme Court Jus- Peter Schmuck which stayed a ilar action. The petition further ted that trial in the consolidated ions will be held some time before end of the year.

The Isaacs suit, which was instied on June 16, 1938, attacks certain sonal service contracts between ew's and 12 of its executives and alleged ratification of these con- cts at a stockholders' meeting on 1. 25, 1938.

Hollywood Preview

"Sky Giant"

(RKO-Radio)

Hollywood, July 18.—Made timely and given unusual exploitation significance because of Howard Hughes' world-girdling flight, RKO's "Sky Giant" is also an interesting romance-drama of men, women, aviation-training methods and discipline and airplanes. Although the production has a story detailing romantic conflict and it presents a small but favorably known cast, the fortunate coincidence of circumstances gives the production a unique appeal.

With the engagement of hard bitten army officer Harry Carey to direct an air company's pilot-training school, Richard Dix, who prefers to fly, is drafted to become his assistant in putting the school on a military basis. Comes to the school Chester Morris, Carey's son. Thereupon ensues demonstrations of training methods, the technical detail of which is counterbalanced by comedy and in which is featured a sensational 20,000-foot power dive. As both Dix and Morris become romantically interested in Joan Fontaine, conflict between the two for her favor springs up. Dix marries her on the eve of his departure with Morris and Paul Guilfoyle on a route-charting flight which reverses Hughes' course over Canada, Alaska, Russia and the Orient. The inevitable crash follows and the injured Guilfoyle sacrifices himself that his mates may be saved. Successfully completing the flight upon their return Dix realizes that Miss Fontaine loves Morris more than she loves him and announces he will get an annulment, climaxing the story on an altruistic and romantic note.

A topical exploitation feature, the show is based on an original (almost prophetic) screenplay by Lionel Houser. With the ingredients well balanced, Lew Landers directed the Robert Sisk production in showmanship style.

Running time, 80 minutes. "G." Gus McCarthy

functions of the two men and their relationship to studio affairs were the subjects of queries seeking to establish a yardstick on compensation. The general studio setup, he said, is also being studied.

Those already examined include Mervyn LeRoy, Louis B. Mayer and Al Lichtman. Sam Katz, Harry Rapf and Ben Thau will be heard later in the week.

Mr. Ellis said that he plans to complete the examinations here by the end of the week and will then return to New York to continue with the depositions of other Loew officers there. The hearings here, which are being held at the Ambassador Hotel, are barred to reporters. Mr. Ellis would not divulge the details of testimony.

Chicago Engineers Accept 12½% Cut

Chicago, July 18.—Building engineers here are taking a 12½ per cent pay cut for eight weeks retroactive to July 4. It is understood that individual pay checks will not be affected, the union having worked out a plan to absorb the cut as an organization. The decision was made at a meeting held last night.

Many insiders feel that the exhibitors are unwise in accepting pay cuts from engineers and operators at this time, with new contracts to be negotiated Sept. 1. The belief persists that the unions will press for increases at that time, pointing back to the present cut with the statement, "We helped you when you needed it, now you help us."

Para. to Appeal in North Dakota Case

after conferring on the opinion, copies of which were received in New York from Fargo yesterday.

The procedure to be followed will require the North Dakota state officials to prepare and enter a decree dismissing Paramount's action attacking the constitutionality of the statute. With the signing of this decree by the statutory court, Paramount will apply for a writ of supersedeas to continue in effect the temporary injunction which it obtained some time ago restraining North Dakota officials from enforcing the affiliated theatre "divorcement" law. The company then will have 90 days in which to perfect and file its appeal to the U. S. Supreme Court.

London Council Will Force Test on Rules

London, July 18.—The London County Council today virtually accepted the challenge of the Cinematograph Exhibitors' Association to contest in the courts the council's new regulations governing theatre operation. It will recommend at tomorrow's meeting that all new licenses granted before Jan. 1 provide for observance of certain new regulations along the lines of the controversial legislation.

The decision will have the effect of speeding a test case on the matter, instead of waiting for action by the C.E.A. The council declares that although the new conditions are not applicable to current license without agreement of the licensee, it has the power to impose the new conditions on new licenses.

"Holiday" and Martha Raye Chicago Lead

Chicago, July 18.—"Tropic Holiday," with Martha Raye in person, gave the Chicago a big $38,000 for the first week of a two-week engagement. This was $6,000 over average and led the Loop for business.

At the Palace "Having Wonderful Time" scored heavily with $24,000 which was $5,000 above normal and the best week this house has had in months. Business in other houses was fair.

Offer $500,000 to Settle Fox Action

Schwartz, made the offer. Hiram Steelman, trustee of the William Fox estate, and his counsel, William Elmer Brown, Jr., recommend that it be accepted and have petitioned the Federal Court to do so. Referee Endicott has set a hearing on this for August 15, after all creditors have been notified.

Mrs. Fox is president of the All-Continent Corp., which Fox, according to his own previous testimony here, created at the end of 1930 as an irrevocable trust for his family, putting into it "about $6,900,000" in securities. Since May 29, 1936, when Fox went into bankruptcy, Mr. Steelman and Mr. Brown have sued All-Continent Corp., Mrs. Fox and the daughters, to recapture assets Fox transferred to them. This suit is pending in U. S. District Court.

It is this suit which Mrs. Fox and the daughters offer to settle for $500,000. In addition they offer to withdraw an estimated total of $41,000,000 out of the more than $55,000,000 total of creditors' claims against Fox.

The affairs of All-Continent Corp. were the bone of contention through months of bankruptcy hearings in 1936 to such an extent that both Mrs. Fox and Herbert Leitsteen, veteran Fox family bookkeeper, were adjudged in contempt of court for refusal to testify.

Refuse to Collect Louisiana Sale Tax

New Orleans, July 18.—Following conferences and correspondence with state tax officials and attorneys, three New Orleans film exchanges have adopted the position that they are not responsible for collection of the new sales tax. Four other major exchanges are billing exhibitors for the tax, which is levied on film "usage."

Attorneys for 20th Century-Fox, Paramount and Grand National have given their New Orleans exchange rulings that the exchanges are engaged in interstate commerce and are not concerned with collection of the tax.

These do not question the validity of the law, but hold that the bookers are not responsible for its collection.

Meantime local exchanges of M-G-M, RKO-Radio, Warners and Universal are billing exhibitors with the tax along with the film booking charge.

The tax is one per cent outside of New Orleans and two per cent in the city where a special one cent municipal sales tax is imposed.

A showdown on responsibility for the tax is expected August 20 when the first month's return on the tax must be made by all businesses.

Hollywood Letter

Dear Editor:

President Roosevelt didn't visit any studios while here. He is the only person arriving within striking distance of the production center since schools let out who hasn't wanted to. Everybody hereabouts wishes the presidential example were as contagious in this respect as it is where and when voting's to be done. It isn't, though, which is why the publicity directors of all the studios met with Thomas Pettey of the Hays Office on Friday last to devise ways and means of keeping the American Legionnaires, due here in mid-September, from tearing the studios down.

A while back the studios were viewing with alarm the plans of the Shriners for convening in Los Angeles. So a deal was made, a super-colossal parade was staged, with all the companies furnishing floats, and the guests were appeased and sent home happy, while the newsreels picked up easy copy with definite prestige value.

Friday's meeting of publicity minds was for the purpose of working out a similar technique for the handling of the Legionnaires. Tales of last year's proceedings in New York had been trickling in for a twelvemonth. Optimism was at low ebb. So up spake the Warner contingent, as it so often does, to proffer the big Burbank plant for the inspection of the veterans. The plan is to shut down production for a day, save a skeleton crew which will go through the motions of making scenes for something or other, and the buddies are to be invited, en masse, to come and see the wheels go 'round. At last report no other plant, conscious as are their agents of the direct advertising value to Warners of this wholesale hosting, had put in a competing or matching bid.

Among the summer's visitors checking in at this office during their stay are Mr. and Mrs. Charles Swiercinsky, who operate the Major theatre at Washington, Kan. Mr. Swiercinsky's call was due, he said, to a 17-year-old interest in Quigley Publications and a resultant determination to see some of the folks. It was that long ago when he signed his first subscription order and he hasn't missed a whirl of the presses since.

Another visitor, nameless here for cause, operates seven theatres in as many Chicago neighborhoods. The best business is by one, in the heart of the colored district, and its patrons work for the WPA, which hasn't cut salaries. They like, incidentally, serious dramas and outdoor action pictures, no comedies of any kind. Why?

Exploitation reaches both zenith and nadir in this intensely cinema-conscious area. The advertising campaign for "Marie Antoinette" at the sedate Carthay Circle would do honor to Cartier. It will get into the sourcebooks. Yet the same newspaper page that carries the impeccable "Marie Antoinette" display brings into the home a fleshly enticement paid for by the New Follies theatre, which profferes "burlesque as you like it" and (as printed in a box alongside a quasi-nude) the "famous burlesque comedian, Joe Yule, father of Mickey Rooney, picture star."

Sex rears its costly percentage in price scales governing employment of he and she talent for the more rigorous chores imposed by the outdoor films just now in favor. He will take $11 a day for straight horseback riding, $16.50 for pretending to be the star while doing the riding, $35 for falling off, being dragged or shot off, departing the saddle in any fashion. She starts at $35, tilts the ante to $50 for leaving the steed's back, but will crash an automobile for the same figure, although she demands $75 for skidding one—per skid—and $100 for turning over. High diving starts at $35 for 35 feet and goes up, indefinitely, at $1 a foot. The figures are furnished by Samuel Goldwyn's Al Vaughn, who had to find them out before "The Lady and the Cowboy" could get started.

M-G-M has bought 110 new arc lamps equal to Technicolor requirements. They had 45. . . . Paramount has built a new $25,000 film library building on the lot. . . . Dark Canyon Road, Warner studio link with the outside world (except by way of Universal—and how that hurt) is open again after being closed since the flood. . . . Next really big construction news out of here will be about NBC's place at Sunset and Vine, already stopping traffic at that crossroads of this small world.

Paramount's British Plans to Be Delayed

Paramount plans to make no further production or distribution commitments in England for another four to six months, the company stated yesterday. The three pictures already announced will form a working nucleus during the period and plans for the acquisition or production of additional pictures will then be formulated.

David Rose, supervisor of the company's British production activities, will return to New York from the studio Thursday or Friday and will sail for London next week.

Virtually all companies are aimin their British production at the worl market, Mr. Allport said, but whethe the new requirements will work o depends on how the larger bud films are accepted outside the U Kingdom. It is only through wo distribution that the American companies will be able to recoup their investments in British production, h pointed out.

On the basis of approximately 5 features exported to Great Britai from America last year, the Amer can companies will have to make singles or 45 doubles to meet the requirements, he said. This represen a minimum expenditure of about $6 500,000, but actually the total wi amount to a much larger figure, h said.

Single Credits for Warner

A number of single credit films hav been produced since the new act became effective, and Mr. Allport's information is that Warners intend continue making single credit film rather than risk a larger investmen

Regarding the Anglo-America trade treaty, on which discussio have been started in Washington, M Allport said that industry circles i London have heard that the negotiations are moving "very slowly" an no prediction is ventured as to th date of its consummation. The Bri ish industry is not greatly intereste in the treaty, he said, intimating th British interests generally are avers to considering concessions, especiall since the Dominions must be take into account.

Not Limiting Budge In England—Schenc

London, July 18. — Joseph Schenck, chairman of the board directors of 20th Century-Fox, declared here today that he has no objection whatever to spending £150,0 (about $750,000) on a British pictu if the result can profit the America and British markets. He said he wa interested in having Marie Tempe star in "Old Folks at Home," to produced here. He declared his company will not set up its own studi in England as long as there is spa available to rent.

Mr. Schenck will fly to Paris tomorrow to meet Darryl F. Zanuc vice-president in charge of productio who is vacationing.

Northwest Closings About Same as Usual

MINNEAPOLIS, July 18. — Theatre closings in the Minneapolis trade territory are no more numerous this summer than in the years immediately preceding, a survey of the local exchanges reveals.

In Minneapolis, the Minnesota, 4,200-seat house, has been closed indefinitely, and Minnesota Amusement [illegible] announced that there seems to be little likelihood that it will renew its lease on the theatre when the present one expires Feb. 1, 1939.

Other Minneapolis closings, all Minnesota Amusement Co. theatres, are the American, Granada and Nokomis, neighborhood houses. At Appleton, Minn., R. Risch has closed his theatre and North Dakota closings include the theatres of R. Schaber at Ashley; E. Trisko at Stanley and Alvin Larson at Noonan.

In Minneapolis the State has reduced its prices to what is described as a "summer schedule" from a 55-cent top to a 40-cent top. No other price changes have been announced.

Albany Putting on Big Business Drive

ALBANY, July 18.—Played daily in both morning and afternoon papers as front page news, the "Sales Mean Jobs" Committee of Albany businessmen is getting great space in the effort to spread the message to the consumer. Handling the work is James A. Carrier, publicity chairman for Fabian's Circuit in this territory and assigned to the Harmanus Bleecker Hall here.

The latest stunt is detailing a group of ushers, taken from Fabian's Palace and Hall and Warners' Strand and Ritz to distribute cards bearing the legend "Sales Mean Jobs" to apartment houses, business offices, stores, etc.

Donation of space in Albany-Troy-Schenectady area trolley car ad space by the Collier outfit and open billboard space within a 40-mile radius by Fitch Advertising is blazoning campaign messages on huge posters.

Use of radio (WOKO and WABY) with numerous interviews and blurbs by business men is also tied in.

"Pride of the West"

(Sherman-Paramount)

HOLLYWOOD, July 18.—"Pride of the West" holds to that pattern which has elevated the "Hopalong Cassidy" series to a high place in the scheme of outdoor action adventure screen entertainment. With William Boyd, George Hayes and Russell Hayden in their familiar roles and the supporting cast composed of players who have often appeared in similarly premised attractions, the show is fast moving and exciting. Dialogue and movement are well balanced and pictorially beautiful.

Kenneth Harlan and James Craig, ostensibly enemies, nevertheless are land pirates who have allied themselves to get possession of ranchers' properties at little cost to themselves. They plot a stage coach robbery in which Hayden, guard for Driver Hayes, is wounded. To repel any suspicion from themselves, they demand that Sheriff Earle Hodgins either capture the bandits or resign. Boyd is suggested as the man for the job and the sheriff's children, Charlotte Field and Billy King, establish contact with him. Building to its exciting climax in unique and interesting ways, Boyd rounds up the bandits, proves that his pals, Hayes and Hayden, are innocent of any complication in any of the shady work and exposes Harlan and Craig.

While devoid of any romantic love interest, the film concentrates on action and adventure, with bits of comedy. The picture does not suffer in comparison with any of the earlier "Hopalongs." It may be expected that patrons who have followed the series will be interested in this.

"Pugachev"

(Amkino)

The Soviet Lenfilm studios in "Pugachev" have produced a lengthy and somewhat dull historical film that deals with a peasant uprising in the days of Catherine the Great. The character of the title was a serf who rose from bondage to lead an army composed of farmers, various unreliable units of the army, Cossacks and the tribes of eastern Russia to Moscow.

The narrative deals principally with his impersonation of the assassinated Peter III. Various minor officials doubt his purpose and his way is beset with treason and the results of his cohort's ill treatment of Bashkir tribesmen. His constituents also decree that he must marry a Cossack woman for his Empress. This creates more difficulty—he already has a family. Ultimately his setup collapses and he is betrayed to the Czarina and executed, not however before he exhorts the crowd to keep up the lost cause.

The production employs a great number of extras and has a few battle scenes which are not quite up to expectation. The action is so dragging that a matinee audience at the Cameo gave vent to audible yawns.

Federation and the National Studio Workers' Union.

The President was told the union action is unjust and will have an unfortunate effect on the national economy. There is some assurance of a settlement of the dispute this week in the indication from Vincente Lombardo Toledano, Mexican labor czar, that he will make an effort to end the fight.

Although exhibitors in this zone were spared, those in most other parts of Mexico suffered in a two-hour strike Saturday night by the National Electrical Workers' Union, protesting the murder of the head of the electric company at Juarez, opposite El Paso, Texas. The strike cost the theatres a portion of the most profitable night in the week.

Fox Theatres Must Pay Claim Dividend

Milton C. Weisman, as receiver of Fox Theatres Corp., was asked yesterday by U. S. Circuit Judge Martin T. Manton to pay approximately $88,000 to the Chicago Title & Trust Co. as an eight per cent dividend of Chicago Title & Trust's claim against Fox Theatres Corp. for $1,110,055. The sum will be paid out of a reserve fund which Mr. Weisman was instructed to set aside for payment to claimants whose claims had been finally fixed.

Special Master Courtland Palmer had allowed $1,110,055 to Chicago Title & Trust on a claim of $1,159,381. The claim was based on an alleged breach of contract between Fox Theatres and Herbert Lubin, whereby Fox Theatres had undertaken to purchase securities and debentures which carried with them the control of the Roxy Theatre. Mr. Lubin later assigned his claim to Chicago Title & Trust. Judge Manton also ordered Mr. Weisman to pay eight per cent of $2,000 allowed on a claim of Gordon H. Grant and Violet M. Grant.

Weisman Is Allowed $12,500

U. S. Circuit Judge Martin T. Manton yesterday granted $12,500 to Milton C. Weisman for his services as receiver of Fox Theatres Corp. as an ad interim allowance for the period from Jan. 12, 1938, to July 12, 1938. The allowance was in response to a request by Mr. Weisman for $15,000. In his petition for the allowance, Mr. Weisman recited that claims against Fox Theatres Corp. originally totaled $30,000,000, and that due in a large part to his efforts, they had been reduced to about $9,500,000. This was exclusive of the claim of William Fox for $7,176,627, the petition stated, which is the only claim held in abeyance pending final determination of litigation of Fox's bankruptcy proceedings. Mr. Weisman also stated in his petition that he was at present negotiating with Fox's attorneys in an attempt to settle the question of conflicting claims of Fox and the Fox Theatres Corp.

Mr. Bressler was ordered to post a bond for $500 as a condition to the granting of his application.

New RKO Plan Gets Approval With Changes

shares of common for each debenture and the modification will not disturb this arrangement. It will merely add an additional option. Debenture holders will be required to exercise the option within 20 days after confirmation of the report.

Atlas Corp., proponents of the plan, will be required to enter into a definite commitment to underwrite the new stock issue provided under the plan. The plan now reads that Atlas "intends to" underwrite the issue.

Cumulative voting for all classes of stock was also ordered by the special master. This provision permits proportional representation on the board of directors for minority interests. Mr. Alger also directed that the new company must procure consent from 50 per cent of the preferred stockholders before issuing new debentures. This shifts the responsibility to the new board to procure consent, instead of resting the obligation of objecting on the stockholders. Another change dealt with the rights of the U. S. Bank of Denver, a creditor.

Rickaby Sees Acceptance

Proponents of the plan will accept the amendment, according to Hamilton C. Rickaby, attorney for Atlas.

Nathan Rosenberg, attorney for H. Cassell & Co., independent debenture holders, promptly announced that he intends to oppose the report when it goes to Judge Bondy for confirmation. Mr. Rosenberg contends that the plan is unconstitutional because it reduces the debenture holders from a secured to an equity position. Mr. Rosenberg stated that he has already prepared for an appeal to the U. S. Circuit Court of Appeals in the event that he is defeated in the lower court. The issue of unconstitutionality will require the intervention of the U. S. Attorney General.

John Stover, attorney for Ernest W. Stirn, holder of unconverted Class A stock, also expressed dissatisfaction with the report. Mr. Stover recently secured an order permitting him to examine proxies used in the 1931 reorganization.

Joseph M. Cohen, counsel for the Independent Stockholders Protective Committee, withheld comment but indicated that he would also oppose confirmation.

An agreement with Rockefeller Center, Inc., for the Music Hall franchise, and the certificate of incorporation for the new company must be submitted in final form to the special master on Wednesday, and objections to the papers must be filed before July 25.

Allied Seeks 'Divorce Laws' In All States

in three cases involving records and findings that are devastating, to say the least: the Perelman case from Philadelphia; the Interstate Circuit case from Dallas; and the divorcement law case from Fargo," Mr. Myers' statement read.

"The records in all three cases bear out the claims which Allied has made over a period of nine years, namely, that the Big Eight have been engaged in contracts, combinations and conspiracies in violation of the anti-trust laws.

"All are aware that these repeated warnings have been either ignored or ridiculed. Refusal to heed these warnings, which were certainly based on broad experience, is costing the industry a great deal more than would have been involved in a good-faith effort to work out exhibitor problems with the bona fide representatives of independent exhibitors. As a result of its headstrong policy the industry now has an unprecedented accumulation of woe and the end is not in sight."

Australia "Divorce" Law Possible—Snider

Legislation similar to the "divorcement" statute in North Dakota may be introduced in Australia, it was reported by Leon S. Snider, joint managing director of the Snider-Dean circuit, on his arrival yesterday from London.

Mr. Snider was interested in the North Dakota action and said that the New South Wales Government has been contemplating similar legislation "as a move to compel major distributors to come to terms with exhibitors." He hinted also that the New South Wales quota act may have something to do with Government's intended move.

As an authorized spokesman for the New South Wales Exhibitors' Association, Mr. Snider effected a cooperative working arrangement with the Cinematograph Exhibitors Association in England for an exchange of views on overbuilding, performing rights licenses, admission prices and similar trade problems. He said he planned to confer in Washington with Abram F. Myers, general counsel of Allied States, and with Ed Kuykendall, president of the M.P.T.O.A.

"Redundancy," as the British call overbuilding and overseating, is a prime topic in England at the moment, he said, and is generally considered to have reached a critical stage.

Mr. Snider approved the plea of Ambassador Joseph P. Kennedy for greater cooperation between the American and British industries, pointing out that this coincides with his own view that the industry is international. He urged this view, he said, in his discussions with distribution heads on his previous visit in New York and will continue to seek greater cooperation from the companies for exhibitors in Australia.

He plans to be here four weeks, returning Sept. 14.

Joint Trade Talks Possible Next Week

The first joint discussions of exhibitor and distributor representatives on a trade practice program for the industry are expected to be held here either next week or the week following, an official source stated yesterday.

Notices of the meeting have not been sent to exhibitor representatives yet, it was stated, but they are expected to go out any time within the next week. The initial discussions are scheduled to be general in character and may serve more to determine what practices both distributors and exhibitors agree should be included in a plan of self-regulation than the drafting of an actual plan.

The distributors' working committee, consisting of Ned E. Depinet, William F. Rodgers and A. Montague is very near to concluding its preliminary work, the windup of which will be the signal for the joint conferences with exhibitors.

Three More Republic Franchises Are Set

Chicago, Indianapolis and Milwaukee were added to the franchise territories renewing with Republic for five years. The deal, as of July 1, was closed by Irving W. Mandell of Chicago with James R. Grainger, Republic president. Negotiations with other franchise holders are in progress.

Five-year renewals previously signed have been for Dallas, Oklahoma City, Little Rock, San Francisco, Los Angeles, New York and Philadelphia.

Mr. Grainger left last night for Pittsburgh where he will be honored today at a testimonial luncheon given by exhibitors. James Alexander, Pittsburgh franchise holder, will be toastmaster of the affair, which will be at the William Penn. On Thursday Mr. Grainger will be guest of honor at a luncheon in Buffalo tendered by Jack Berkowitz, territorial franchise owner, and exhibitors. Mr. Grainger will return here Friday and then go to Dallas for circuit deals.

Additionally, a deal was closed with Edward Reed of Strand Theatres, Inc., Providence, for the showing the Republic list first run in that city.

James R. Grainger, Republic president, accompanied by Jack Bellman of the home office, returned yesterday from Boston where negotiations were conducted.

No statement was issued following the meeting, but it is understood that the session was occupied mainly with discussions of several candidates for the post of full-time director of the campaign. Indications are a former publicity manager for one of the major companies will be retained.

The working committee is scheduled to meet at frequent intervals and plans a joint session soon with the distributors' committee for the campaign, which is headed by George J. Schaefer.

WLW Objects To Details of F.C.C. Probe

C. Vance, RCA Manufacturing Co., [illegible], with General Electric and West-[illegible]house, plans for the station were gradually evolved. The transmitter, he said, involved a number of major problems.

At the present time, Vance testified, while RCA has produced but the one super-power transmitter, it is confident that it could fill a similar order for any broadcaster interested, should the F. C. C. countenance general use of 500 kilowatts.

The experimental work which the station has conducted was described by R. J. Rockwell, supervisor of broadcasting. Because of the magnitude of the company's operations, he said, it was necessary to undertake a great deal of development work, which has led to improvements of value to the whole broadcasting industry and the listening public.

Patrick's objections to the commission engaging in a "fishing expedition" were voiced at the opening of the hearings, which will continue for several days. The issues to which he referred, he said, covered phases of the station's operations which it was felt should not be considered the basis for a decision, although the Crosley Company had no objection to their development merely as a means of giving the commission information.

Seeks to Kill Issues

A motion that these issues be stricken from the schedule of items to be investigated was denied by Chairman Case, but the commission granted that part of the motion asking for a definition of WLW's primary service area, describing it as that area within a radius of 200 miles from the station.

The hearing is being conducted by a F. C. C. committee composed of Commissioners Norman S. Case, chairman; T. A. M. Craven and George H. Payne. This is the same group that conducted the hearings last month on revision of broadcast rules and regulations.

Major Edward Bowes yesterday left Doctors' Hospital, where he underwent an operation for the removal of the tip of the ring finger of his left hand. He plans to rest for a few days at his Rumson, N. J., home. He said he will direct the Thursday Night "Amateur Hour" over CBS.

Television to Be "Deadly" For Talent, Sheila States

The effects of television broadcasting on Hollywood actors and actresses will be "deadly," according to Sheila Barrett, who is known for her impersonations. Miss Barrett returned yesterday on the Queen Mary from London where she filled engagements and was featured in BBC television programs.

"Acting before the television camera is so vastly different from emoting before the film camera and microphone that it is simply frightening to think what will happen to some of the big stars when television really arrives," Miss Barrett said.

"What I mean is that once you are before the camera and microphones, in television broadcasting, everything must be perfect the first time. There are no retakes. You have to follow through no matter what happens. You can't tell the director you didn't like a scene and have it reshot, and there aren't any hairdressers following you around to see that your hair is just so, or anything like that. You do it once, for better or worse.

Television the "Ultimate"

"Television is, of course, the ultimate thing in entertainment. Acting talent in England is beginning to realize the transformation it will cause, and it is positively frightening to think what changes it will bring about here among people now in radio, on the stage or in films."

Miss Barrett appeared 10 times before the BBC television cameras during her London visit of six weeks.

She returned because of commitments with Pathe for whom she is to make a series of six shorts for RKO release, in the Robert Benchley style and titled "Feminine Adventures."

Jean Tennyson of the Chicago Opera Co. returned from several weeks of opera and concert work on the Continent and reported that an English film company may star her in "Louise."

Peggy Wood arrived after closing in "Operette," Noel Coward's play. She will be here about three weeks.

Pinex Sets News Series

The Pinex Co. will sponsor United Press news dispatches over WHN beginning Oct. 3 for 22 weeks, Mondays through Saturdays from 7:15 to 7:30 P.M., E.D.S.T. The Russell M. Seeds Co. handles the account.

To Wed with Song

Cincinnati, July 18.—Lin Mason, WKRC singing announcer, will provide his own accompaniment when he is married to Lillian Marshall, at Xenia, O., Aug. 6. He has had several recordings made of his voice, singing his and his bride's favorite wedding numbers, and these will be played as the knot is tied.

Food Industry Tops World Network List

The food and beverage industries, followed by laundry soaps and cleansers, accounted for the greatest amount of business on the World Broadcasting System for the first six months of this year.

The first mentioned accounted for 32,859 quarter-hours or 45 per cent of the total. Laundry soaps and cleansers totaled 14,825 quarter-hours. Next came the automotive industry with 13,502 quarter-hours. The company had a total of 76 advertisers sponsoring programs over 400 stations.

WHN Has New Program

Thompson and others.

Plan New WOR Program

"Count Your Blessings" is the title of a new sustaining program which will start over WOR-Mutual this Friday at 12:15 P.M., E.D.S.T.

Larynx Libations

Cincinnati, July 18.—How the dehydrated larynx of the radio speaker in action may be prevented without drinking water, which, amplified through the microphone, might sound like most anything, was described by Dr. Thomas R. Thorburn, specialist, before the American Osteopathic Association in session here.

"The solution is simple," he said. "Plain colorless lipstick keeps the lips from becoming dry. A little pressure on the salivary glands, made with the fingers pushed under the jawbone, three inches back from the point of the chin, induces a flow of saliva heavier than normal, keeping the throat moist.

"There is no danger of drooling," he concluded, "because, while a little stimulation increases the flow, stimulation to the extent of irritation causes almost a complete cessation of the salivary glands."

CBS carried these words and the rest of an interview by an Irish announcer yesterday at 2:30 P. M., E.D.S.T. Corrigan went on to describe the flight, which he termed "dumb luck."

Corrigan was heard replying to questions concerning what he had to eat, the flying conditions encountered en route, and a dozen other points relative to his flight.

NBC carried a two-way conversation between Corrigan and his aunt, uncle and mother in Los Angeles at 3:30 P. M., E.S.T.D. Say No Invitation Issued To Help Shape Policy

Speculation is current in the indus-ry concerning participation of the inlependent companies in the trade prac-ice program now being evolved by he major companies' committee ieaded by S. R. Kent.

It is presumed that the trade prac-ice committee will seek to include he smaller distributors, but so far no nvitation has gone out to them.

Edward Golden, vice-president of Monogram, says that his company loes not intend to join the move for an industry program, affirming a recent statement by W. Ray Johnston, president, to the effect that Monogram is not subject to the problems

The distributors' committee charged with formulating a plan of trade prac-ice regulation completed its pre-iminary work yesterday, according to reliable reports, and will begin its nitial meetings with exhibitor representatives in a week or 10 days. Letters asking the exhibitor leaders to convene here for round table discussions of the proposals are either in preparation now or will be before the end of the week.

The reports, while lacking official confirmation, were substantiated by he departure from the city yesterday of A. Montague, a member of the

An Old Favorite Returns In Impressive Modern Form

By IRENE KUHN

Clear skies, after days of deluge and dullness, auguring success for an old favorite, once a song hit, now a de luxe film, welcomed "Alexander's Ragtime Band" to Broadway last night. This is the first of the more pretentious of the 1938-39 big pictures, and 20th Century-Fox previewed it at the Hollywood Theatre with all the swank of a roadshow opening.

It was an unusual showing for it was the first time in many years that a picture has been presented so impressively for a single show, although 20th Century-Fox has done it twice previously in Hollywood. Those who were not in last night's gala preview audience will have to wait for the August 5 opening at the Roxy.

Sentiment clustered 'round the opening, for "Alexander's Ragtime Band" has come a long way from a song which made a career for Irving Berlin to one of the big pictures of the year.

Hammons May Drop Shorts For Features

Earle W. Hammons, president of Educational Pictures, reportedly will withdraw from the short subject production field on the completion of his releasing arrangement with 20th Century-Fox at the end of next week, and will complete arrangements shortly thereafter for entering feature production.

The plans of the Educational head, while still in a formative stage, are said to contemplate the production of about 12 features annually and, in addition, may embrace production of a limited number of "featurettes," presumably the type of four-reel feature planned by Hal Roach for United Artists release.

Distribution of the pictures will be either through Mr. Hammons' own company or through Grand National, should a merger with that company get court approval, it is said. A deal with Grand National might have been consummated months ago, according to report, except for the

Michalove to Do Australian Study for Fox

Dan Michalove, assistant to S. R. Kent, president of 20th Century-Fox, will sail from San Francisco Aug. 17 on the Mariposa to make an exhaustive study of the company's affiliated theatre interests in Australia, represented by a direct investment of National Theatres in Hoyts circuit and allied groups.

On his return he will report to Mr. Kent and Spyros Skouras, and on the basis of his findings an expenditure up to $1,000,000 may be made in expansion, new construction and remodeling of properties, it is understood. Hoyts is the dominant circuit in Australia.

Mr. Michalove is a seasoned film and theatre man and company officials feel that his knowledge will be valuable in recommending improvements and expansion. It is planned to maintain a record of the theatre units at the home office.

National Theatres' interest in Hoyts includes 87 per cent of the common stock and about 10 per cent of the B preference shares.

Lloyd Picture Gets $41,000 First Week

Harold Lloyd's "Professor Beware" garnered $41,000 at the Paramount in the week ending last night and is in for a second week. Monday and Tuesday business was on the upgrade.

"Cowboy from Brooklyn," with a ballyhoo campaign behind it, netted $16,000 at the Strand. It was only a one-week attraction, however.

"Prison Break" did $5,200 at the Rialto. "Sky Giant" opened strong at the theatre yesterday.

General Plan Approved for Ad Campaign

Majors Agree on Draft; Details to Follow

General plans for the industry's national campaign to stimulate business and bring the new season's pictures to the attention of the public were approved yesterday by heads of the major companies, to whom they were presented at M. P. P. D. A. headquarters with the recommendations of the distributors' and affiliated circuits' campaign committees.

The plans were drafted by the working committee consisting of Howard Dietz, chairman; Robert Gillham and Charles E. McCarthy. Details of the campaign will be worked out by this committee in a series of meetings beginning early next week. Much of the work will be done in conjunction with the distributors' committee, headed by George J. Schaefer, and the circuits' committee, headed by Y. Frank Freeman. Members of the distributors' committee are Neil F. Agnew, Herman Wobber, William A. Scully and Gradwell L. Sears. On the circuits'

Equity to Make Pay Concession at Shore

Actors Equity Association will consider granting certain salary concessions for Jones Beach and Randall's Island productions in the event J. J. Shubert gives assurances that it will reopen the shows for a minimum of three weeks, it was decided by the organization's council yesterday. The Shubert organization closed the productions last weekend, intimating that it could obtain no salary concessions when performances were prevented by inclement weather.

Equity's council deferred final action on a code to curb ticket speculation on Broadway shows but is expected to approve the producing managers' plan at a special meeting next Tuesday.

Film Heads Did No May Stock Trading

Washington, July 19.—Trading of film company officials in the securities of their corporations was at a standstill in May, it was disclosed tonight by the semi-monthly summary of the Securities and Exchange Commission. Not a single transaction in film stocks was included in the report.

The commission, however, listed reports of officials of several companies regarding their holdings when they took office. E. H. Seifert, Fort Lee, N. J., reported the holdings of 60 shares of Consolidated Film Industries preferred stock on March 24, when he was elected a director, and Leon Kaplan, Los Angeles, held 300 shares of Grand National Films common when he became a director, June 6; Ira Seidel, Los Angeles, who joined the directorate of Grand National, Feb. 16 reported that he held none of the company's equity securities.

A 1937 report by S. Machnovitch, Universal Pictures officer, showed that he held no securities of the company directly but, through Universal Corp., held 228,927 shares of common, 220 shares of first preferred and 20,000 shares of second preferred. Reports for Peyton Gibson, also an officer, likewise showed no direct holdings but, through Universal, 228,927 shares of common, 220 shares of first preferred and 20,000 shares of second preferred. A report from Willis H. Taylor, Jr., New York, Universal director, showed no stocks held.

Independents Curious About Industry Move

in its relations with exhibitors that the large companies are.

Mr. Golden is of the opinion that the grievances the distributor committee will seek to correct do not involve the smaller companies.

James R. Grainger, president and distribution head of Republic, said that he has not given any thought to the matter and he is uncertain what the position of his company would be if asked to participate in the trade practice program.

Arthur A. Lee, vice-president of Gaumont British, said that his company will follow the lead taken by 20th Century-Fox, in view of the releasing tieup with that company. He pointed out that the company has not as yet been invited by the committee for any discussions, and said that "we will state our position at the proper time."

G. B. to Sell in Block

Mr. Lee is of the opinion that "there are a lot of abuses on both sides, and that they are not confined to the distributors." G. B. has discarded its 1937-'38 policy of selling films singly and for next season will sell its output in block.

Sol Edwards, eastern district head of Grand National, indicated that his company will join the industry program, although he pointed out that the smaller companies are not receiving as many exhibitor complaints as the major interests.

A spokesman for the distributor committee said that no move to call a conference with exhibitors has been made, but letters of invitation may go out this week. At the same time, an official statement detailing the status of the committee's efforts, and probably the program agreed upon by distributors, is expected to be given to the industry.

working committee, and the scheduled departure today of Ned E. Depinet, another member of the working committee. With Sidney R. Kent, chairman, and Nicholas M. Schenck, alternate, also out of the city, the committee cannot hold further meetings.

Mr. Montague's and Mr. Depinet's plans are so arranged, however, that they could be on hand here for exhibitor meetings next week, It was reported that Mr. Kent, also, may come into the city from his vacation home in Maine late next week.

to make the opening a smooth one. Fifteen minutes before opening time early birds were waiting impatiently in orchestra seats. Flashlight bulbs went off to catch License Commissioner Moss and Felix Jenkins, chief counsel for the picture company. The home office staff, headed by Charles E. McCarthy were everywhere at once in lobby and theatre foyer, welcoming guests, keeping things moving.

Len Gaynor and Bill Chambliss handled the lobby; Rodney Bush was in the foyer; Jeanette Sauer greeted women press representatives. Mr. McCarthy m. c.'d.

Irving Berlin, who had been in the theatre for the morning sound rehearsal, came down from the projection booth to kiss his wife, the former Ellin Mackay, escorted by her brother, and then went back. He saw the picture from that high perch, and checked sound cues throughout. He had nothing to worry about. Applause broke out repeatedly as the old song favorites came on. There was more enthusiasm than Broadway has seen in a long time. "Alexander's Ragtime Band" was reviewed in Motion Picture Daily May 26.

Audience There Early

Sam Harris escorted Mrs. J. Lansburg, and Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Bernhard of Warners' were right behind.

The audience was unusually prompt in arriving, and despite the number of pauses to greet friends, there was little delay in getting to seats. Only a minority wore formal attire, light weight suits predominating among the men, and chiffon and print frocks among the women.

At 20 to 9, Leo Spitz, president of RKO, arrived with Mrs. Spitz. With them were Mr. and Mrs. Herman Wobber. They were followed by Mr. C. C. Moskowitz of Loew's with his wife and another couple.

Ed Fay, Providence theatre man, strolled in alone, but knew everyone and was quite a while getting through the "hellos." Bill Bacher and Bill Goetz arrived together, followed by Harvey Day.

Aylesworth Present

Merlin H. Aylesworth, publisher of the World-Telegram, joined Mrs. Aylesworth in the lobby. Columbia pictures was represented by Jack Cohn, there with Mrs. Cohn, and Mr. and Mrs. Nate Spingold.

At 5 to 9, Earl Wingart, head of Fox publicity, hurried in, escorting the beauteous Annabella.

And while Mrs. Alfred E. Smith, her sons, Alfred, Jr., and Walter, and her daughter and son-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. Frank Quillinan, were being snapped, the call "picture is on" went on, and Jimmy Walker came in with his wife, the former Betty Compton.

Drama touched his entrance into the darkened theatre. Lowell Thomas, the voice of Movietone News, was saying "In the days of Jimmy Walker" and the clip flashed the meeting many years ago on City Hall steps of the then Mayor James J. Walker and Queen Marie of Roumania, who died yesterday.

Jimmy walked down the shadowy aisle behind his wife to their seats, looking straight into his smiling image of days that are gone, when, as mayor of the world's greatest city, he welcomed a queen with a typical Walker quip.

Other celebrities present were Winthrop Aldrich, president of Chase National Bank, and Mrs. Aldrich; Herbert Bayard Swope, Ambassador Guggenheim, Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Brooks, Moss Hart, George Kaufman, Lew Lehr, Ed Thorgersen, Mrs. Rose Gershwin, Gordon & Revel, Jack and Hannah Dempsey, Herman Place, Ferde Grofe, Morton Downey. There were 1,479 tickets sent out. Every seat was filled. "Alexander's Ragtime Band" tooted a prophecy of success.

Zanucks See Reels Cover King's Visit

By PIERRE AUTRE

Paris, July 19.—Darryl F. Zanuck, vice-president in charge of 20th Century-Fox production, now vacationing here, was among the film executives who watched the parade down the Champs Elysees today as King George VI of England arrived for a state visit to France. Approximately 100 newsreel cameramen, representing six French, four British and the American newsreels, made a camera record of the arrival of the King.

Mr. Zanuck's wife and children were with him on the balcony of the company's offices, where a special platform had been built for the children. Mr. Zanuck met the French press yesterday on his return from a flight to Amsterdam, where he had gone to visit Don Ameche, recovering after an operation for appendicitis. Newsreels in color were taken of the arrival of King George. The black and white film, sent to England when developed, may be flown from Ireland to Canada tomorrow. Television and radio broadcasts also covered the event here.

English Group Urges Film Use Regulation

London, July 19.—Stringent regulations regarding the non-commercial use and sale of motion picture film are suggested in the Government report of the Departmental Committee for the Use of Celluloid, published today. The committee was established by the Government to study the situation and to advise on new legislation.

It suggests the prohibition of the sale or rental of toy projectors capable of using ordinary motion picture film and the prevention of the sale or rental to the general public of nitro-cellulose film of any size. Exceptions would be made in the case of scientific bodies. The group has designated any film containing three per cent or less of nitro-cellulose as non flam.

Hammons May Drop Shorts For Features

reluctance of Mr. Hammons to withdraw from short subject production, a field to which he has devoted [illegible]ally his entire career.

Mr. Hammons was not at his office yesterday and could not be reached for comment on the reports at his home. He has declined persistently to discuss his future plans, however, asserting that while he is working on several deals he is not in a position to comment on them for publication until one or another has been concluded. His decision to discontinue short subject production, however, is said to have been based upon the current prevalence of double featuring and the inroads the practice has made on both the use of short subjects and the revenue derived from them.

and two or three series of western pictures for the new season, Mr. Alperson said. With 18 features and a series of eight westerns already set under the Fine Arts Pictures deal, two more Renfrew of the Royal Mounteds from Phil Goldstone's Criterion Pictures and one Anna Sten feature to be produced by Eugene Frenke, Mr. Alperson declared the amalgamation of the two firms would bring approximately $1,500,000 into the new organization for production of the 15 pictures needed to fill out the contemplated feature program and the added westerns series.

Mr. Alperson and Loyd Wright, in a statement regarding the financial condition of G. N. from May 28 to July 1 declared that receipts were $211,326 and disbursements $144,298, leaving a balance of $67,027.

Settle Anna Sten's Claim

Los Angeles, July 19. — Federal Court today approved a compromise settlement of the $168,750 claim of Anna Sten and United Players Productions, Inc., against Grand National calling for a payment of $30,000 with the proviso that G. N. produce two Anna Sten features, the first of which will start in 90 days. United and Miss Sten brought the claim charging breach of contract.

minimized here in view of the fact that arrangements were completed with two New York banks recently which provide adequate working capital for the company under a revolving fund similar to that which was formerly in effect with the Bank of America. The arrangement is reported to be a continuing one and of sufficient proportions to make additional financing unnecessary.

Mr. Cowdin's trip was described at the Universal home office as his usual annual visit with C. M. Woolf and other officials of General Film Distributors.

The Newsreel Parade

Movietone News
Vol. 20, No. 89
(20th Century-Fox)

Movietone missed Douglas Corrigan. The welcome to Howard Hughes is shown, and the chief story is President Roosevelt's Pacific review of the fleet. It is well done. An excellent pictorial history of the late Queen Marie of Roumania is offered and the forest fires of the northwest and the naptha blaze in Wellsville, N. Y., make spectacular material.

The rest of the reel includes the ceremonies at the restoration of Rheims Cathedral, Lew Lehr poking verbal fun at girls sun bathing under cellophane, and the sporting division, which pictures Paul Runyan winning the pro golf title, Dizzy Dean returning to the mound, and Sea Biscuit coming through to win handily in a coast race. Running time, 10 mins. A.

News of the Day
Vol. 9, No. 287
(M-G-M)

News of the Day editors have concocted a smart piece of coverage on Douglas Corrigan's flight. They caught the young flier on his arrival at Roosevelt Field from the coast, and he is seen examining his plane. To build the story, shots of Col. Lindbergh and his Spirit of St. Louis are shown before his takeoff, and a diagram map shows Corrigan's flight from the coast and across the ocean. Likewise tied in are the pictures of the ticker-tape greeting of New York to Howard Hughes, with a similar welcome predicted for Corrigan.

The rest of the issue contains the President's review of the fleet in the Pacific, forest fires sweeping the northwest, the girl who emulates Lady Godiva in an English village, and the ceremonies at the reopening of Rheims Cathedral. Paul Runyan captures the pro golf crown and Sea Biscuit the Hollywood Gold Cup in the sporting coverage. Running time, 9 mins. A.

RKO Pathe News
Vol. 9, No. 104
(RKO)

Cameramen did a good job on New York's welcome to Howard Hughes and his mates on their parade in lower Manhattan. Shots of the flying millionaire are included and a motorcycle police mishap adds to the story.

Other clips are: Paul Runyan winning the P. G. A. championship over Sammy Snead; rites at the ordination of 58 priests in Notre Dame Cathedral, Paris; Tony Galento challenging all comers to a heavyweight fracas; the Yeomen of the Guard receiving their regimental colors from King George; the oil refinery fire at Wellsville, N. Y., and President Roosevelt, speaking at San Francisco, making a plea for world peace. Running time, 9 mins. F.

King Is Absent

Ed Hatrick, head of the Hearst film interests, yesterday received this cable from Mike Clofine, managing editor of News of the Day, who is in London:

"Gaumont British is trying to get Corrigan, but I don't know as they will because the King is in Paris today."

However, Mr. Hatrick is confident Mr. Clofine will come through with footage on the "California via Dublin" aviator. Gaumont British covers News of the Day in England.

Paramount News
(Paramount)

Paramount's footage on the Corrigan flight is buried in the middle of the continuity, but it probably will be the biggest thing on the screen wherever shown and exhibitors can play it that way.

Corrigan is shown stepping out of his old crate at Roosevelt Field, and the sides of the thing wrinkle as he emerges. His wobbly instrument panel atop a gas tank can be seen. Then a young fellow climbs into a plane similar to Corrigan's and says: "His tank is here. It's so high he can't see out the front window. He has to look out the side." A projection room audience howled. Then the Floyd Bennett airport manager explains how Corrigan commented on a weather report. This combined with the special subject on Howard Hughes' return is an amazing study in contrasts.

The rest of the reel is routine—Dizzy Dean's return to baseball, amateur sculptors at work in a field, forest fires east and west, a big wheat crop prediction, and "Giant Killer" Runyan's professional golf victory. Running time, 9 mins. J.

Universal Newsreel
Vol. 10, No. 685
(Universal)

Aviation for the most part occupies the spotlight in this reel. Howard Hughes arrives and departs from Le Bourget in Paris. Later he is seen at Minneapolis on the last leg of his trip followed by a parade up Broadway to City Hall. The scene then shifts to Floyd Bennett Airport where Douglas Corrigan is shown with his nine-year-old ship before the takeoff which landed him in Ireland. The lead is given to President Roosevelt's review of the Pacific fleet off San Francisco. It manages a few excellent scenes of battlewagons under way and in formation.

Then there are the visit of the Crown Prince of Sweden in Minnesota, a $5,000,000 oil fire in Wellsville, N. Y., forest fires in the State of Washington and the re-dedication of the cathedral at Rheims. For a snappy finish Tony Galento and John Lewis are shown in training, the former "acting up"; and Sea Biscuit comes from behind at Inglewood to win. Running time, 9 mins. P.

WLW 51% Ads Reaching 80% Of Population

WASHINGTON, July 19.—Commercial programs account for 51.2 per cent of WLW time and 80 per cent of the country's population can pick up the station at night, it was admitted by officials of the company appearing before the Federal Communications Commission today during hearings on extension of the station's 500,000 watt license.

The time devoted to commercials, it was disclosed, is far greater than the average for even the 50-kilowatt group, it was shown by exhibits submitted by James Shouse, vice-president in charge of broadcasting.

Mr. Shouse's testimony also developed that 77.7 per cent of the station's time on the air is devoted to entertainment, 16,971 hours of which were presented during the year ended with last April.

Increase of the station's power from 50 to 500 kilowatts brought about an extension of the secondary rather than the primary service area, it was stated by G. F. Lydorf, WLW engineer. While sharply restricted during the day, the secondary service area at night extends from Maine to the Rocky Mountains and from the deep south well into Canada.

Fading a Problem

Striving to prove that WLW had complied with the requirements of its experimental license, Mr. Lydorf told the commission that a number of problems were under investigation. The major problem, he said, is that of fading and daily, seasonal and solar variations in the secondary service area.

All of the station's evidence is being supported by exhibits, nearly 150 of which were introduced during the first two days of the hearings, ranging from photographs of the WLW transmitter and studios to records of the time devoted to various "public service" programs.

Exhibits submitted during Mr. Lydorf's testimony indicated that WLW alone was the equivalent of a far-flung chain and that advertisers using the station would need no other outlets within the area covered. This is a a matter of considerable complaint among broadcasters using lesser power, and a number of communications have been received by the commission alleging that advertisers have dropped other stations when they went on WLW.

Arnold Came Here To File U. S. Case

Thurman Arnold, Assistant Attorney General in charge of the anti-trust division, came to New York personally to file the suit, indicating how important it is considered by the Department of Justice. It was filed in the names of Attorney General Homer S. Cummings and U. S. District Attorney Lamar Hardy.

After the action had been filed Judge Henry W. Goddard signed an order for service of subpoenas on all defendants, corporate and individual, for appearance in court within 20 days, indicating that the Government intends to proceed promptly.

Eight Principal Companies, Subsidiaries, Individuals Defendants in Civil Action Aimed by Government to Clarify Anti-Trust Measures as They Affect Films

The Department of Justice filed an anti-trust suit in the United States District Court here yesterday under the Sherman Anti-trust Act against the eight major motion picture companies, their affiliated companies and 134 individuals alleging monopolistic practices and asking sweeping changes in trade practices.

Changes asked are:

Dropping of theatre control by Paramount, 20th Century-Fox and Warners.

Withdrawal from production by Loew's, Inc., and RKO.

Permanent injunctions and appointment of trustees to carry out the court's order.

Injunctions against talent loans and other agreements not available to independents.

Free access to all product by exhibitors.

Abandonment of block booking and forcing of shorts and newsreels, arbitrary designation of playdates, protection, overbuying, double bills, the levying of score charges and designation of minimum admissions. To carrying this out the Government asks that all sales contracts including any of these features be declared illegal.

The Government's complaint, the most sweeping in the history of industry litigation, alleges the existence of a monopolistic control of production and exhibition through the exercise of virtually all of the trade practices in vogue in the industry.

Asks Naming of Trustees

The action asks that trustees be appointed by the court to operate the theatre interests of the defendants until the divestment is accomplished in whatever manner is prescribed by the court. It asks a preliminary injunction restraining all eight defendants from building, buying, leasing or acquiring, directly or indirectly, any additional theatres.

The court is asked to declare all contracts illegal which give to one theatre or circuit of theatres an unfair trade advantage over another by specific concessions, not made in contracts with all theatres. In addition, injunctions are asked to restrain all defendants from enforcing the trade practices complained of by the Government against independent operators.

Permanent injunctions against carrying out of other alleged attempts to Asks that Loew's and RKO divest themselves of their studios, and Paramount, Warners and 20th Century-Fox of their theatres.

Announces as its primary objective "the restoration of free enterprise and open competition among all branches of the motion picture industry."

States that it "desires to encourage and not to retard the development and orderly operation of the motion picture industry," and that "it must act through litigation because it has no power to speak authoritatively or finally on any issue except through institution of judicial proceedings. However, though the form of its action be adversary, its substance permits and the policy of the department encourages the fullest cooperation with the industry."

Will H. Hays:

Says, "The trade customs of the industry were born and have developed under unique and peculiar necessities never before encountered in commerce or law.  It is hoped that judicial clarification will dispel the fog of uncertainty with regard to some customs which have grown up in the industry."  The industry "will generally welcome the prospect of a comprehensive, fair and conclusive endeavor to clarify the application of existing laws to the trade customs inherent in the development of the motion picture industry. the entire matter is being approached in that spirit through which beneficial results can come to all concerned. Courts clarify and explain the meaning of law. Such a suit as this can do just that."

'Schaefer Calls Ad Meeting Next Week

Representatives of producers, distributors, affiliated and unaffiliated circuit operators and exhibition interests have been invited to attend a conference to discuss the industry's national campaign to stimulate business at the Hotel Astor here on July 27, next Wednesday.

George J. Schaefer, vice-president of United Artists, and chairman of the distributors' committee of the M. P. P. D. A. on the drive, sent the invitations yesterday by telegraph to representatives throughout the country.

The wire from Mr. Schaefer read in part: "This is the one time in the history of our industry that everyone should unite and we earnestly request your presence. . . . We believe united action is necessary, as our individual efforts will not be adequate. With this thought in mind we feel that we have an unprecedented plan of such magnitude that it will show positive success and be to your essential best interest and to that of the entire industry."

Levine Denies He'll Join Grand National

HOLLYWOOD, July 20.—Nat Levine today denied reports that he was connected in any way with the proposed Grand National merger with Educational. He said he was interested only in his own productions and would make pictures independently one by one and arrange distribution deals singly for them.

He is now dickering with U.A. Reports had him in charge of production in the new G.N. setup.

It is expected that Dietz and Yorke will meet tomorrow.

Schaefer to Stay, States Silverstone

HOLLYWOOD, July 20.—Reports that George Schaefer would leave United Artists were set at rest today by Murray Silverstone, who asserted th[illegible] Mr. Schaefer would continue with [illegible] company indefinitely. Mr. Silverstone added "and I hope that he will continue with us for more than 100 years, as he is one of the finest and ablest men in the business."

Mr. Silverstone said reports of friction between U.A. owners were entirely untrue and that he was here on a regular business visit to talk with all producers about forthcoming product.

"What about the Selznick International deal?" he was asked.

"While I am here I am discussing with Mr. Selznick the possibility of his staying with U.A. naturally," he said, "but nothing definite has been accomplished. The situation remains unchanged and the discussions are on a mutually friendly basis. There is no special reason for my trip to the coast at this time. Reports that several U.A. partners are disagreeing on matters of policy, are erroneous. What's more, they're silly," he continued.

Talent Guilds Are Valuable, Avers Dunlap

Scott R. Dunlap, vice-president in charge of Monogram production, said yesterday that Hollywood's guilds will eventually become extremely valuable, not only to the little fellows they are primarily interested in helping, but to the studio employers.

"The guilds are policing the business, and I am convinced they're going to make contracts work both ways. They are policing members as well as the studios. By that I mean that while they are seeing that the little fellow gets his rights, they are also seeing to it that he gives value for salary received.

"I have said in Hollywood and I'm repeating it," he added, "that this is no time to increase cost of production in any studio. With the present difficulties confronting picture business and all American business, everybody who's working for any business should have a greater sense of responsibility.

"I'm sure the Hollywood guilds recognize this and are planning and acting accordingly."

Mr. Dunlap has been on both sides of the fence. Before he became a Monogram producer he was for many years a talent agent with his own firm, Frank & Dunlap.

Advises Watching Extras

"There's one thing the Actors' Guild is going to have to watch," he said, chuckling. "They'll have to crack down on those over-ambitious bit players and see to it that every actor on a set doesn't insist on being a stunt man, because of the extra few dollars involved. For instance, I have a bunch of extras running toward the camera in a picture. The director wants a woman in the foreground to fall down. She falls down and gets $10 extra for it. Then when we shoot again everybody in the picture falls down. That kind of thing can become ridiculous and that's where the guild has to step in and exert pressure on its members."

Mr. Dunlap denied the rumors he will leave Monogram to accept a bigger offer. "I've had offers, sure. That's picture business. But I've got four more years on my Monogram contract, without options. I'm staying. I'm starting the Jackie Cooper picture 'Gangster's Boy' and the first of a Boris Karloff series, 'Mr. Wong, Detective,' in August. And I've got others lined up."

The producer will attend a board of directors meeting Thursday and return to the coast Saturday.

Rodgers and O'Shea To Attend Opening

William F. Rodgers, M-G-M general sales manager; Ted O'Shea, district manager, and other home office executives are scheduled to attend the official opening of the company's new exchange in Buffalo on Monday. Ralph Maw, branch manager, will be host.

M-G-M also recently opened new exchange quarters in Milwaukee. Air conditioning is planned for other offices.

Strand Lobby Lie Detector Gets Off to Flying Start

Lie detectors work on three principles, it seems—blood pressure, pulse rate and nervous reactions. That one in the Strand lobby this week is the nervous reaction type.

It looks like two shiny black boxes on an equally black shiny table, an automobile ammeter on the wall, a microphone and loud speakers and a handle for the prevaricators to hold. It draws a crowd every time Hy Fein, the inventor, and his assistant sit down behind it.

One day, about 2:30, a tall young man wearing dark glasses rambled toward the machine. This young man doesn't ordinarily ramble, but it was hot and he wanted to seem casual. He grasped the handle of the machine. The ammeter trembled a bit. It does this with some people—a sort of anticipatory exercise, the inventor explained.

"You're Sid Rechetnik, aren't you?" asked a questioner. (It's always wise to make sure about the identity of these fellows who wear dark glasses on cloudy days.)

"Yes," he replied. The ammeter pointer didn't move.

"Is this a publicity stunt?"

"No," he responded in a firm voice. The point bounced over to 60 ammeters, or maybe it was horse-power.

"Is this a big box-office picture?" The questioner was looking up at the "Cowboy from Brooklyn" sign.

"Yes." The pointer didn't move. The inventor explained that when the li—, er, responder, really believed his answers to be true the machine gave him credit for it.

"You are about to be married, are you not?"

Sid colored a bit below the glasses and said "No."

The machine failed to react again, which may have meant that Sid's average was improving.

By that time the crowd was so thick and the spotlights were so hot that the interview was closed. The tests are staged from 11 to 1, 3 to 5 and 7 to 9 daily.

May Reopen Chicago Oriental in 6 Weeks

CHICAGO, July 20.—The Oriental in the Loop is expected to open within the next six weeks. Operated by Balaban & Katz for the past 15 years, the house was closed last spring because of poor business.

The 3,500-seat theatre is operated through the Oriental Theatre Corp., which holds a 50-year lease, it is understood, providing a minimum rental of $200,000 yearly with a percentage arrangement when business is above a certain figure. It is this $200,000 rental that prompted B. & K. to hold off reopening the theatre, according to report. The circuit is said to feel that the present price is too much and is planning to hold off reopening until a new lease is agreed upon.

It seems Annabella spent the morning shopping for hats on Fifth Ave. She took along about a dozen.

Coast Liberal Group Urges Film Freedom

HOLLYWOOD, July 20.—Liberal groups met here last night at the Hotel Roosevelt and protested the pressure of organized minority groups against the freedom of the screen. The meeting declared its determination to fight encroachment on the right of producers to make films with political and social themes if they desire.

The meeting was attended by about 350, and was called by the Motion Picture Artists' Committee. John Abbott, film librarian of the Museum of Modern Art in New York, presided. The focus of the meeting was the picketing and protesting of Walter Wanger's "Blockade." Mr. Wanger, chief speaker, in a long address, declared the "time has come for Hollywood to strike back" at its critics. "The motion picture is of high estate and a very important pillar in the democratic structure we are so proud to live under. It must be protected," he said.

Affirm Tax Deficiencies

WASHINGTON, July 20.—The Board of Tax Appeals today affirmed deficiencies of $11,531 and $3,864 determined by the Commissioner of Internal Revenue against the 1932 and 1933 income taxes of Zasu Pitts Woodall. The deficiencies were imposed on the ground that the actress was separated from her husband during the period covered by the returns and was not entitled to the community property privileges of the revenue law.

Boston Passes 'Blockade'

BOSTON, July 20.—Mayor Maurice J. Tobin yesterday declined to ban "Blockade" here, after viewing it following a request from Catholic groups to the City Council that the film be banned as Communistic. It will open tomorrow in Loew houses.

British Trade Is Stirred by G.B. Meeting

By AUBREY FLANAGAN

LONDON, July 20. — Considerable trade interest has been stirred here over this Friday's annual meeting of stockholders of the Gaumont British Pictures Corp. There is much speculation as to whether John Maxwell, head of Associated British Pictures, who resigned recently from the G.B. directorate, will be present and will speak as one of the stockholders.

Significance is attached in some quarters to the fact that Mr. Maxwell's resignation followed immediately after the directors' meeting which passed the final financial statement. The general trade belief is that the resignation was indicative of Mr. Maxwell's dissatisfaction with the financial condition of the company. Mr. Maxwell's present position, since his resignation, permits him to criticize the management more freely than before, it has been pointed out.

GB Affiliate Net £328,922

LONDON, July 20.—General Theatres Corp., associated with the Gaumont British group, has reported a net profit for the year of £328,922, a decrease of £8,119. A final dividend of six per cent on the ordinary shares makes a total dividend of 15 per cent for the year.

Griffis to England Soon on Production

Stanton Griffis, chairman of Paramount's executive committee, will sail about Aug. 15 for London where he will set the company's British production plans under the new quota requirements.

David E. Rose, head of Paramount's British production, is due today from the coast by plane and will sail on the Ile de France next Thursday. While the company's plans will be indefinite until Mr. Rose surveys the field in London, it is said that Paramount has no plans for its own production this year but will make arrangements with outside producers.

Paramount intends to acquire high budget films, which will have double or triple English quota credits, for distribution in the United States as well as England.

monopolize, are asked, as well as the usual plaintiff's plea for "such other and further relief as the court deems necessary."

The Government's 119-page complaint names a total of 167 defendants. It includes a history of the motion picture from 1640, when it says a Jesuit monk discovered the stereopticon, up to the present day. The historical chapter runs for 18 pages. Following it is a 34-page chapter describing the operations of the industry and presenting a dictionary of trade terms. These chapters are replete with industry statistics.

Supplementing the 119-page complaint was a 14-page, single-spaced, mimeograph statement released to the press by the Department of Justice, in which the reasons for the suit and its aims are set forth.

Government Aims Recounted

This statement asserts that the primary aim of the proceeding is the "restoration of free enterprise and open competition among all branches of the industry."

"To this end, and as a first step," the statement continues, "a separation of production and exhibition interest is sought in order that all motion picture theatres shall be free from the domination and control of any producer or any group of producers and shall be immediately responsive and responsible to the tastes and demands of their respective patrons. Freed from producer control, it is hoped that the theatres of the country will become a free, open and untrammeled market to which all producers may have access for the distribution and licensing of films based upon merit. Exhibitors likewise, will have access to all available product in accordance with their respective ability to pay for and utilize that product."

May Ask New Laws

The Government's statement asserted that, in addition to its direct application to the film industry, the proceeding would be of value to other industries similarly organized and operating as a means of guidance in interpreting the application of the anti-trust laws to themselves. Additionally, the department's statement intimated that if the proceeding revealed that the present anti-trust laws are incapable of eliminating the practices which are frowned upon, Congress may be asked to remedy the situation by enacting amendments to the present laws or new anti-trust laws which would serve that purpose.

"The results of the investigation and trial will be brought to the attention of Congress if it appears that further aid is needed," the department's statement declares under the

Right Kind of Step, States Cincy Leader

CINCINNATI, July 20.—Commenting on the Federal anti-trust suit against major distributors, Harold Bernstein, president of the Greater Cincinnati Independent Exhibitors' League, said: "This is certainly a step in the right direction. It looks like independent exhibitors are getting recognition at last and will occupy a position in the industry to which they are entitled and for which they have long been fighting."

Local independents interviewed are jubilant over the turn of events. Exchanges here declined comment when asked for statements.

Hays Believes Suit Can Help Clear Up La

ment, must be created, not manufactured. Pictures go on tour, as does a road company, each in a definite theatre first, for a specified period and within a given territory to draw upon. This explains the well known trade expressions of first-runs, clearance and zoning. Yet so finely adjusted is the system that the most expensive production of the year is available in time to the smallest theatres in the land for the lowest possible admission price.

"Not merely the methods but much of the structure of the industry is the result of necessity. The assurance of a continuous supply of product and the regular service of entertainment is vital to the very existence of the theatre. Thus it was that the processes of integration began that have brought the well-established units which today are such important and useful factors.

"In this industry the advantages of big business and little business supplement each other through the joint efforts of the great units making and distributing the greater pictures and the smallest theatres exhibiting them in every hamlet in the country.

Calls Competition Natural

"In this great field the keenest competition always is the order of the day. With every studio competing to produce the best entertainment, every distributor competing for sales, and every theatre competing for the best film product involving 12,000,000 individual transactions every year, the problems of trade relations have grown with the growth of the industry. This industry has not shirked its responsibility for the solution of these problems. A committee of leading producers and distributors is now engaged in considering readjustments in the intricate machinery of this business to the end that it may even better serve the public interest.

"The middlemen of the industry, the distributors and the exhibitors have seen in self-regulation, rather than in legislation, the final solution of the trade problems peculiar to the business. If the present action instituted by the Department of Justice, in civil proceedings, clarifies the law applicable to the complex business operations of the motion picture industry it should promote the further progress of the screen."

G. N. Wins in Lease Case

HOLLYWOOD, July 20.—Special Master in Bankruptcy David B. Head has recommended to the court that the claim of the State Theatre in Denver alleging breach of a lease contract by Grand National be thrown out. Special Master Head ruled that the pact was valid despite the fact that the company was forced to seek court relief in its financial difficulty.

Government's Aim to Clear Law, It Says

Anti-trust suits such as brought by the Government yesterday against the major companies have as objectives to "act as a deterrent to practices leading to a restraint of trade and monopoly control" and to "provide a means of maintaining competitive conditions in the future and make violations less likely."

The clarification is given by the Department of Justice in a statement of general policy explaining the purposes of an anti-trust proceeding "involving a great industry and affecting millions of people."

The Government's statement indicates that the film prosecution is only part of a broad consideration of the whole field of concentrated industry.

May Affect Other Trades

"In addition to the benefit to this particular industry and its patrons, the present suit may settle questions that are vital in the application of the anti-trust laws to other industries in which manufacturers or producers, knit together through a common trade association, seek directly or indirectly to dominate and control markets," the statement says.

A restoration of free and open competition is the primary aim of the action, according to the Government. The statement continues:

"It is the belief of the Department of Justice that certain rearrangements must be made in the moving picture industry in order to maintain competitive conditions in the future. Those rearrangements require a more constructive effort than mere protection for past practices. The aim of the civil suit which is now instituted is to accomplish those arrangements under the guidance of the court."

Furthermore, says the statement, "the custom of business men to seek from the department some vague form of approval for their plans of operation which involved anti-trust questions is now generally discredited."

Calls Court Only Resort

The department recognizes that only through the guidance of the courts can there be a crystallization of the legality of trade practices and that such procedure must be followed to "provide Congress with a guide for amending the laws, where they are achieving uneconomic result." It is further stated:

"The constructive task of the Department of Justice, therefore, may only be accomplished through judicial proceedings which enable the department to state is objectives in such a way that its policy may be examined by the court with reference to existing law and changed bv the legislature if the existing law does not present an economic solution of the problem. This method of action through judicial proceedings furnishes the only path to constructive achievement.

"Under this policy, a lawsuit should be considered as the beginning of cooperation between the courts, the legislature, the Department of Justice and the industry to achieve a common end. The department's position can be only stated in court. Any negotiations for settlement that the parties undertake are conducted with reference to particular charges. If any settlement is reached by way of consent decree, or otherwise, it is subject to judicial approval and a full public explanation."

Proposals Are Sought

To facilitate these ends, it is necessary to put each suit "in its proper setting" by a statement intended to go beyond the immediate issues and "survey the general problem of which the suit is a part," continues the department. The purpose of such a statement "is to open the door to constructive proposals at any stage of anti-trust litigation, whether directed to the courts under present provisions of law or to the recommendation of additional legislation."

Eight Complaints:

The correctness of any view of the economic effects of the control alleged to be held by the majors must be subject to proof, it was admitted. But the Department's beliefs were summarized as follows:

1. "Independently-owned theatres are being driven out of business because of the onerous and discriminatory conditions not only on the rental of film but with respect to other trade practices. At the present rate at which independently-owned theatres are being driven to financial failure, it will only be a question of a short time before there are no independents left in the field.

2. "New competitors who attempt to enter the field of motion picture exhibition find it almost impossible to secure film for exhibition on any reasonable and non-discriminatory basis. The result is that there is practically no effective new competition.

3. "Those independently-owned theatres that have managed to date to survive are compelled, in order to get pictures, to operate under terms which leave them very little freedom in the selection of film and in the management of their own business.

4. "Independent producers find it practically impossible to secure a satisfactory market for their film because of the domination by the major companies over the exhibition houses. These independent producers are up against an almost hopeless bargaining disadvantage in securing markets for their film in exhibition houses that are controlled by the major producers with whom the independent producers are trying to compete.

5. "New capital investment in the motion picture business is discouraged because of the great difficulty of competing on a fair basis with the major companies, either in production or exhibition, so long as the major companies control the principal markets for film.

6. "Theatre patrons in any given community are not given an opportunity to exercise choice as to the type of pictures they desire to see. Under present conditions it is impossible for community taste to find expression through a locally-owned theatre free to bargain for the type of films its patrons wish. As matters now stand, each community is regimented into accepting the kind of picture which will make the most profits on a nationwide scale.

7. "There is no opportunity for new forms of artistic expression which are not approved by those in control of the major companies, even though there exist communities which would support them.

8. "Because of the fact that the film producers from time to time have discussed with the Department the legality of their operations and have secured, in past administrations, the view of the government, it was indicated, the Department of Justice believes the equity suit to be a more equitable step than the institution of a general criminal proceeding but, it was pointed out, specific violations with respect to which these equitable considerations do not apply are not thus protected.

Yorke to Do State Film

Emerson Yorke has been engaged by the State Planning and Development Commission of New Hampshire to produce a two-reel color film describing the historic, scenic, recreational and industrial features of the state, the film to be shown at the New York World's Fair.

F. W. C. Probe Is Not Affected by Suit, States Law

LOS ANGELES, July 20.—Informed of the anti-trust civil suit filed against eight majors in New York, Albert J. Law, special assistant U. S. Attorney General in charge of investigation into monopoly charges in Fox West Coast situations here, said today that his investigation was not affected by the eastern action.

"My investigation here with Harold Collins, also special Assistant Attorney General, has been going on for months," Law said, "and I shall wind up the probe by the middle of August. My findings in the southern California area may have some bearing in the suit already filed, but only perhaps as part of a general picture of industry activities."

The investigation here was launched after complaints of independent exhibitors that Fox West Coast had a monopoly of product from the majors. Fox West Coast has been operating under two consent decrees on monopoly charges for several years. The books of Fox West Coast and all major exchanges here have been examined as part of the probe.

Film Stocks Fall Sharply On Suit News

Motion picture company securities, and to an extent the entire stock market, were seriously effected yesterday by the filing of the Government anti-trust action against the major companies.

With news of the action, the film securities reacted sharply, leading shares slipping off as much as four points at one time. In general the market as a whole went off about a point.

The quotations of the day among amusement securities were in strong contrast with the trend of the past couple of weeks. Whereas every issue but one in which there was trading on Tuesday either held its previous gains or showed new increases for the day, yesterday's quotations at the close of trading revealed only one issue on the big board, Loew's preferred, and Universal on the curb, registering a gain, while all remaining securities were off.

Six Issues Decline

Among the declines for the day were Loew's common, off 3¾, Paramount first preferred, down 10 points, Universal preferred, off three, Warners preferred, down 3⅞, 20th Century-Fox preferred, off 2¾, 20th Century-Fox common, off two.

On the bond market, RKO 6's dropped off 2½ points, and Warner Brothers 6's were down three points.

U. S. Charges Industry Rule By Monopoly

heading: "Suit May Develop Need for Congressional Action."

That the Government has been preparing a major monopoly action against the organized industry has been known throughout the trade for many months. The actual investigation leading up to the filing of the action is believed to have been begun almost three years ago. At that time, Department of Justice investigators obtained access to the files and records of the M.P.P.D.A. and spent several months going over them. The files and records of all major companies and their exchanges and affiliated operating companies have been scanned in the meantime. Predictions that the Government was at last in readiness for actual filing of the proceeding have been bruited throughout the trade for weeks.

That the action was brought in equity, rather than criminally, likewise was anticipated by the trade. The Government's statement sets forth two reasons why this was done.

Seeks "Free Competition"

"The department has concluded," the statement says, "that free competition in the industry (both in production and exhibition) ought to be restored and that the most direct course to that end is to divorce the business of production and distribution from that of exhibition. Such a result can be accomplished only through an equity decree which will require the major companies to divest themselves either of their ownership of theatres or of production and distribution facilities. One reason for determining to proceed first in equity rather than criminally is, therefore, the fact that only an equity decree can accomplish the result which the department believes to be essential."

The second reason, the statement relates, is that the department believes, in the light of its past attempts in conjunction with the industry to adjust the complaints of independent exhibitors which were brought to the Department of Justice, "it would be inequitable to institute a general criminal proceeding relating to the general subject matter of this suit."

Criminal Action Possible

However, the statement here adds an insinuation that criminal actions in some instances may follow adjudication of the equity proceeding. It says: "Specific violations with respect to which these equitable considerations do not apply are, of course, not covered by this statement."

Both the department's statement and the bill of complaint refer to or recite a long list of trade practices which it regards as contributing to a monopolistic condition in the industry. The ownership of theatres by producers-distributors is emphasized as the cardinal sin, how ever. The restoration of free competition in the industry, the department reiterates again and again, rests upon the establishment of freedom to sell and to buy films. To establish this freedom, it contends, exhibition must be separated from production and distribution.

To substantiate its contention the department includes figures purporting to show that affiliated circuits through an alleged control of buying used major company product to a combined average of about 96 per cent of their total picture requirements. It alleged virtual control of "metropolitan de luxe" houses by affiliated circuits and dominance of the national exhibition picture, in addition. The theatre operations of all five affiliated circuits, by cities and states, are listed in the complaint, presumably to support a Government allegation that national circuits seldom encroach on each other's territory. It describes pooling arrangements in St. Paul, Pittsburgh and Cleveland.

Monopoly Effects Listed

The affiliated theatre operations, it charges, work a hardship not only on the competing exhibitor but on the independent producer, as well, through restriction of his market.

The economic effects of the industry's operating methods, as viewed by the department, include the ultimate extinction of the independently-owned theatre, discouragement of effective new competition in the exhibition field; the placing of independent producers at a commercial disadvantage; the discouragement of new capital investment in production and exhibition; the suppression of "community choice" in film bookings, and the ultimate stifling of new forms of "artistic expression."

Myers' Reaction

Washington, July 20.—Abram F. Myers, general counsel of Allied States, declared here today with reference to the suit filed by the Government against the majors:

"The Government's action affords the Big Eight a golden opportunity to clean house once and for all and to correct existing relations with the Government, the independent exhibitors and the public. They can now bring forward their proposals for conforming to the law and for fair trade practices and if acceptable to the Government can be embodied in a final and enduring decree. It is hoped that instead of resenting the Government's action, all will turn their thoughts to measures for meeting its demands to the end that the industry may pursue its way peacefully and unmolested."

Otterson Has 25 Films

John E. Otterson, head of the movement to import and exhibit especially artistic productions made by leading French and British directors for the benefit of selective American audiences, has cabled from Europe that he has closed deals for a program of at least 25 British and French films. Carroll S. Trowbridge, in charge of sales and distribution, states that negotiations are under way for the establishment of a nationwide circuit of "exclusive" theatres.

Half of Republic's Franchises Are Set

With 50 per cent of Republic's territorial franchise owners signed to new five-year pacts, company officials are confident that the others will renew their distribution agreements soon.

For the next few weeks James R. Grainger, president and distribution head, will concentrate on winding up negotiations with franchise holders and working on large circuit deals.

The latest to sign new franchises are Nat Lefton for Cleveland and Cincinnati territories and Herman Rifkin, New England distributor, for Boston and New Haven. Nine of the 18 franchise owners have signed to date, embracing 14 of the company's 34 offices. All deals start July 1.

Mr. Grainger will be honored at a testimonial luncheon in Buffalo today, tendered by Jack Berkowitz, local franchise holder. Exhibitors and film men have been invited.

Republic Will Make "Ranger" as Serial

The "Lone Ranger" feature scheduled by Republic for 1938-'39 has been shelved and a "Lone Ranger" serial will be made instead, replacing one of the four serials announced for the season. Another film will be made for the originally planned feature.

It was thought that a feature would cash in on the "Lone Ranger's" popularity built by the current serial, but the franchise owners vetoed the idea in the belief that another serial would have greater draw.

William Saal of the home office is in Detroit conferring with George Trendle of the King-Trendle broadcasting interests on arrangements for the "Lone Ranger" serial. The broadcasting company holds the rights to the character.

AFA Will Organize Vaudeville Players

The organization of vaudeville performers will be undertaken by the American Federation of Actors at once, it was disclosed yesterday in letters sent to Broadway theatres using stage shows.

Ralph Whitehead, executive secretary of the A. F. A., notified the Music Hall, Paramount, Loew's State, Roxy and Strand of the impending organizing move and requested conferences on a contract and closed shop agreement for their stage performers. Harry Caulkins will be in charge of the organizing drive.

George Shenker has closed the Pearl and Grove at Lorain for four weeks. The Clark, recently acquired by James Schreck, has been closed for repairs.

Sylvia Sidney was another traveler. She will return in the fall to start in "One Third of a Nation," to be produced at Eastern Service Studios for Paramount release.

Short Subjects

'Beside a Moonlit Stream'

(Paramount)

Here is a new way to put over a screen song, bouncing ball and all, for the song hit comes unexpectedly as a part of the birthday celebration given by the animals to the baby bear. No more ingenious tricks have been performed by cartoon animals since the little folk of the forest cleaned up the dwarfs' cottage in "Snow White." The music is an actual photography sequence accompanying the cartoon. Dailey's "Stop and Go" Rhythms Orchestra features the singing of Howard du Lany, ace vocalist with the organization, and after Howard does "Beside a Moonlit Stream" there is an animated cartoon sequence of the animals again closing an interest-provoking story. Running time, 8 mins. "G."

"Rainbow's End"

(Vitaphone)

Good music and a colorful minstrel show put on by "hoboes" provide a grade of entertainment that should find favorable reception. The cast offers Gus Van, Eddie Peabody, Swor and Lubin and Eddie Leonard. The action, proceeding from the box car atmosphere to presentation of the show involves the sort of material, humorous and tuneful, that is usually satisfactory. Running time, 22 mins. "G."

"Tupapaoo"

(M-G-M)

Here is another in the "What Do You Think" series that packs the weird punch of its excellent predecessors. This number concerns the curious, coincidental phenomena surrounding falling meteors, South Sea native superstition and civilization's arrogant instrusion on a peaceful people. The unfoldment and the narration by Carey Wilson are in good taste. Running time, 11 mins "G."

"Halfway to Hollywood"

(Columbia)

Tom Kennedy and John Arthur, aided by Ann Doran and a number of other familiar players, give this comedy many moments of pleasant entertainment of a rather unusual sort. It is the usual boss-comes-to-dinner story at the beginning, but later it offers a home film production angle. Intermixed are fairly humorous gags on the insurance business. Running time, 18 mins. "G."

"Going Places No. 52"

(Universal)

This number is devoted wholly to pleasant scenes in and about Mexico City. They cover people, places, buildings, markets and other things of interest. Lowell Thomas delivers the narration with emphasis on historical backgrounds. The photography is excellent. Running time, 10 mins. "G."

"Buzzy Boop"

(Fleischer-Paramount)

Introducing a new character, in support of Betty. Buzzy is a youthful relative, slightly on the brat side, and her tomboy antics are provocative of many laughs. She bests the boys at their marbles and games so they sic a ferocious goat on her. But goats, like worms, often turn and this one attacks the provokers until Buzzy does one of those incredibly neat tricks, possible only in the agile imagination of an animator, and rescues everyone. Short ends with Betty passing out crullers and Buzzy being adopted by the "gang." Running time, 7 mins. "G."

"Poor Little Butterfly"

(Mintz-Columbia)

This is a Technicolor cartoon version of "Madame Butterfly," but with silly gags and theatrical business blended into the animation to give it wider appeal. Animals and insects are the chief characters and the method of injecting comedy is not outstanding. Running time, 8 mins. "G."

"Fabulous Marseilles"

(P. P. Devlin)

The harbors, old and new; churches, lookouts, avenues, eating of bouillabaisse, the Chateau d'If and numerous other aspects of this French port are attractively covered in this "Screen Traveler." The photography alternates between the factual and artistic. Vocal comment is a good job of historical research presented in an interesting manner. Running time, 11 mins. "G."

Hollywood Preview

"Boy Meets Girl"

(Warners)

Hollywood, July 20.—Judging from preview audience reaction, Samuel and Bella Spewack's raucous comedy-satire of Hollywood is destined to be as sensational a screen attraction as it was a stage play. In preparing the screenplay the writers chose to make but few deviations from the original script and property in hand. James Cagney, Pat O'Brien, Marie Wilson, Ralph Bellamy, Frank McHugh, Dick Foran, Bruce Lester and a half-dozen lesser lights stack up an entertainment and exploitation feature that should have the patrons talking for weeks.

Given excellent mounting by Associate Producer Sam Bischoff with plenty of evidence that he wanted nothing that was originally Spewack tampered with, Lloyd Bacon's direction saw to it that no punches were pulled in the action, dialogue, situations and characterizations.

Production czars, scenarists and ham cowboy actors are the objectives of satirical tomfoolery this time. Two daffy screen writers, Cagney and O'Brien, who spend their time not thinking up plots for pictures but ones to annoy their employers and all who cross their path, have only one formula—boy meets girl, girl meets boy—then what? Into a crazy situation wherein Bellamy, a producer, is about to go mad walks Marie Wilson, a waitress. She collapses and, upon coming to, announces she is going to have a baby. She neglects to mention, which may be fortunate in some situations, that her husband died in a ship disaster. But her circumstances gives the authors an idea. The baby will be Fading Cowboy Star Foran's co-star. Meanwhile Miss Wilson has been smitten with Lester, an extra, but McHugh, an agent, complicates things by using Foran to propose to her so the baby can have a father and both long-term contracts, after which Cagney and O'Brien will be fired. But they have other ideas.

Turning a Carthay Circle premiere into a shambles, Lester, egged on by Cagney, grabs the microphone to proclaim that he is Miss Wilson's long lost husband and the baby's father. Fired for the hoax, O'Brien who must support his expensive wife, persuades Cagney to cook up one more plot that will restore their jobs. They fake a cable from England, using the name of a British film magnate, offering to buy Bellamy's studio on the condition that the baby star, O'Brien and Cagney go along with the assets. The gag backfires when Susie, educated by a couple of months in high school, discovers Lester is a nobleman and she will not permit the baby to stay in pictures because she is going to marry Lester and go back to England with him. In the meantime Cagney and O'Brien have managed to wangle themselves into unbreakable contracts.

Returning to the lot where he first met fame, Cagney gives the kind of performance that started him up the ladder. In her first featured role of importance, Miss Wilson gives a performance proving that those first earmarking her for eventual stardom were wise in their choice. She clicked just as effectively with the customers as did the man who. when he landed in Dublin, said he had flown in the wrong direction. As usual O'Brien proved an ideal partner for Cagney and no little responsibility for the picture's entertainment and commercial potentialities is due to the manner in which Bellamy, McHugh, Foran, Lester, Ronald Regan. Dennie Moore and Harry Seymour and Bert Lanlon, the latter two in a song demonstration interlude, went about their work.

While it is enjoyable, farce-comedy, "Boy Meets Girl" is adult entertainment and a picture for those who are not too hasty in jumping at conclusions, inasmuch as the matter of the baby's paternity is explained in plenty of time to make the merry excitement merrier.

Running time, 85 minutes. "A." Gus McCarthy

Short Subjects

"Stars in Stripes"

(Mentone-Universal)

Ed East and Ralph Dumke, th "Sisters of the Skillet," play forbidde swing music in a night spot and ar promptly hauled off to jail. Whil there a collection of performers com to ease the boys' incarceration and i appropriate surroundings a harmonic band, a blues singer, a dance te and a skating act do their respect stuff in a reliably entertaining fashion. At length East and Dumke, wit the entire prison roster, walk fro the place while the warden is entranced with his own vocal efforts Running time, 17½ mins. "G."

"Screen Snapshots 17-11'

With this issue "Screen Snapshots' celebrates its 18th anniversary. The material involved was culled from its files and is a highly interesting and contrasting document of change i Hollywood and its colorful personages. The then and now technique is used. The audience should eat it up. Running time, 11 mins. "G."

"Surf Heroes"

(M-G-M)

Pete Smith applies his versatile vocal comment to the activities of the life saving personnel on the beach at Santa Monica. At first seriously, Smith later gets his humorous touches into the scene. There are fine shots of the sea in its spectacular moments worked into the documenting of the methods and technique of modern day beach patrols. Running time, 10 mins. "G."

"Night Intruder"

(Vitaphone)

The Floyd Gibbons series of "True Adventures" will return to its former dramatic and gripping status if this film is any indication. The yarn concerns the intrusion of a burglar in a suburban house while an unsuspecting quartet of women is playing bridge. A youngster next door spots the intruder. The police are called. The women continue their game. The burglar gathers up his loot and is making his getaway when the law forces arrive. The culprit attempts to escape and is killed. The story is played up for all its harrowing worth and its really packs a punch. Running time, 14 mins. "G."

"Paramount Pictorial P7-11"

(Paramount)

This number is given to scenic views of Alpine streams, the location of elephant seals on Guadelupe Island in the Pacific and the manufacture of wine and cultivation of grapes in California. The three sequences are nicely diversified and should hold attention. Running time, 10 mins. "G."

"International Rhythms"

(Nu-Atlas-RKO)

Russian, Chinese, Hawaiian and southern music are cleverly combined for interesting variety here. The setting is a night club and Roy Smeck, Ada Brown, Princess Chiyo and others perform. Good. Running time, 10 mins. "G."

FCC Attacks WLW Check Of Ad Claims

Washington, July 20.—The Federal Communications Commission today launched the first of several ex[illegible]ed attacks against super-power station WLW, charging that the station personnel had failed properly to check the advertising claims of program sponsors.

James Shouse, vice-president in charge of broadcasting, was questioned at length by Assistant General Counsel George B. Porter of the commission as to the steps taken to assure that advertising was proper. Shouse was asked, specifically, whether any investigation had been made to learn if a company running a prize contest had actually "paid off"; whether certain medical programs were considered proper; whether the allegedly extravagant claims of a mattress advertiser had been checked, and whether certain "kid" programs were considered appropriate.

Lasts Two Days

Indicating the importance which both the station and the commission place upon programs, the greater part of two days was devoted to testimony and examination on that phase of WLW operations.

From the tenor of the questions propounded by commission counsel it was evident the F.C.C. has been keeping a sharp eye on WLW programs in anticipation of the hearing and is not entirely satisfied with the character of some of the features offered.

The presentation of WLW's petition for extension of its super-power license is gradually building up to a showing of the financial operations of the Crosley Co., on which it is expected the commission will make its major stand, in view of the charges that the station has used its experimental permit for commercial purposes.

Pirates Home Game Radio Rights Sold

Pittsburgh, July 20.—For the first time, the Pittsburgh Pirates have sold the broadcasting rights to their home games, except on Sundays and holidays, to a commercial account. General Mills and Socony-Vacuum, co-sponsors of the away-from-home games over KDKA and WWSW, who held an option on that privilege when and if the ban were lifted, have acquired this privilege for an unannounced sum.

It was believed the baseball club's decision came as a result of the "illegal" broadcasting of games both here and abroad by station KQV. The Pittsburgh Pirates have gone into Federal Court asking a restraining order as well as $100,000 damages. The hearing originally was set for last week and then postponed until July 26. In the meantime, KQV through some undiscovered means has continued to relay play-by-play accounts of the games to its listeners.

SEE U.S. BID FOR CONSENT DECREE

Sweeping Nature of Case Is Surprise.—Company Heads Are Silent

The motion picture business started yesterday to digest the Government's anti-trust suit against the eight major companies.

Long threatened, the petition filed by the Department of Justice in the Federal Court of New York at noon Wednesday was so sweeping in its attack on trade practices and in its demands for readjustments that the suit might as well have been totally unexpected.

The statement issued by Will H. Hays was the only formal comment available. The defendant companies elected to let Mr. Hays' statement stand without amplification.

As interesting as the brief itself, was the mimeographed statement issued by the Department of Justice outlining the purposes and objectives of the suit and giving the Department's reasons for proceeding through the courts.

There was speculation, everywhere, over all the details of the Government's action, over the complaints and

Suit Clears Atmosphere, Says Allied

A consent decree embodying proposals of the major companies "for bringing themselves into conformity with the law" will be acceptable to Allied as a means of meeting its demands for relief to independent exhibitors.

This is urged in an Allied bulletin issued by Abram F. Myers, general counsel, in Washington, and devoted to the filing of the Government's antitrust suit.

"July, 1938, will go down in exhibitor history as the month in which Allied's long but persistent battle for exhibitor rights was won," the bulletin states.

"The decision in the North Dakota (theatre divorcement) case and the filing of the Government's suit do not in themselves effect the desired result, but they are the handwriting on the wall.

"The filing of this action clears the atmosphere, removes uncertainty, provides an opportunity for the in-

ITOA Attacks U.A. Percentage Selling

United Artists' new sales policy of selling on percentage only is "condemned" in a resolution adopted by the membership of the I.T.O.A.

The resolution charges that "the policy is arbitrary and unfair insofar as subsequent run theatres are concerned, and such a policy would make it impossible for subsequent run theatres to play United Artists' product."

It is also charged that "such policy is evidently being adopted by United Artists to prevent subsequent run theatres from playing their product."

A European war is remote because with the exception of England none of the countries can afford the expense, it was reported by C. C. Pettijohn, general counsel of the Hays office, who returned yesterday on the Rex from a month's vacation.

Dietz, Yorke Group Hold Meeting Today

HOLLYWOOD, July 21. — Howard Dietz of M-G-M, chairman of the working committee for the industry's publicity and advertising campaign, tomorrow will meet with Gabe Yorke, local chairman, and all studio publicity heads at the offices of the M.P.P.D.A. It is understood that he will detail plans formulated at the eastern meeting Monday.

Mr. Dietz and Nicholas M. Schenck will start east Friday.

over the sweeping remedies asked by the Department of Justice, but uppermost in the minds of the industry, at large, was guessing over the next step.

Many read into the Government's formal statement of explanation an invitation to the defendant companies to discuss new trade practices. There was talk of negotiations directed toward a consent decree.

The emphasis with which the announcement issued by the Department of Justice pointed out that the Courts and not the Department of Justice must interpret the legality of alleged monopolistic practices, coupled with the statement that a "lawsuit should be considered as the beginning of cooperation between the courts, the legislature, the Department of Justice and the industry to achieve a common end" indicated to some observers that the Department of Justice expects to discuss a compromise between existing practices and the reforms which it seeks to enforce.

Defence Still Unorganized

Whether there will be discussions or not, nobody knows because there has been no opportunity to formulate plans for all defendant companies.

However, observers wondered whether the defendant companies could possibly undertake negotiations on the basis of the sweeping demands for reformation of trade practices outlined in the Government's brief, wondered if the trade practices which have evolved through the industry's experience could be sufficiently altered, without chaos, to reach an approximation of what the Government wants.

Observers, too, saw in the Government's unusual announcement, beyond its conciliatory tone, a threat of criminal prosecution, and an intimation of legislation to effectuate its purposes if negotiation and civil action fail.

Some of the 167 company and individual defendants named in the proceeding were served with subpoenas yesterday. Each defendant has 20 days from the date of his service in which to file an answer.

Delays Inevitable

After the filing of answers, legal procedure permits the defendants to move in the U. S. District Court for bills of particulars from the Government. If any large number of the defendants had such motions granted, a considerable amount of time would be involved the preparation of the particulars. Additional time would be occupied in the probable efforts of attorneys for both sides to agree on stipulations of fact. In view of these and other conceivable delays, most attorneys are agreed that there is little possibility of a trial date being set before next spring, at the earliest. The trial undoubtedly would be long drawn out because of the large number of defendants and would be appealed to the U. S. Supreme Court regardless of the outcome.

Final determination, according to legal opinion, could not be hoped for in less than 18 months to two years.

dustry to clean house and should be welcomed.

"Self-regulation is a fine principle and should be practiced by all industries capable of doing so. There is no dodging the fact that in the matter of monopolistic organization and practices, the motion picture producers and distributors, linked together through the Hays Association, have failed utterly to curb their own predatory tendencies.

"Now that this suit has been filed, the Big Eight have a golden opportunity to clean house and to straighten out their relations with the government, the independent exhibitors and the public. They can now bring forward their proposals for bringing themselves into conformity with the law. If such proposals are acceptable to the Government, they can be embodied in a decree which cannot be disregarded whenever the temptation arises so to do.

Sees Trade at "Crossroads"

"The motion picture industry is at the crossroads and its future will be determined by the course it now adopts. The Big Eight must bring about an abrupt change in their public relations policies. They must realize that they cannot get by with flagrant violations of the law and unfair and oppressive practices by purely political methods. The 'fixing' days are gone forever. They must make up their minds hereafter to deal frankly, fairly and directly with all who have a legitimate concern with the operations of the industry. It is a job for men of experience, integrity and tact; definitely it can not be accomplished by conniving political methods.

"Allied hopes that out of this maelstrom will come dignity, peace and security for a great industry. Moreover, she stands ready and willing to cooperate with like minded executives among the motion picture producers and distributors."

Ellis Continues Monday

Hollywood, July 21.—Emil K. Ellis, here by order of the N. Y. Supreme Court to take the testimony of Loew's, Inc., executives in the stockholder suit charging illegal disbursement of company funds, on Monday will hear new depositions by Harry Rapf concerning documentary evidence which the defendant's counsel has agreed to furnish.

Conciliation Efforts Go on Despite Suit

West Coast proposal, the film company lawyers became aware that the Department of Justice would proceed with the monopoly action and that it entertained little interest in the plan to clear complaints against Fox West Coast through a court appointee who would be satisfactory to the Attorney General's office. The situation then encountered reportedly convinced company lawyers that effectuating the West Coast plan would not be worth the effort.

An echo of the attorneys' experience is believed to be contained in that part of the Department of Justice press release which accompanied the filing of the monopoly complaint which sets forth that ". . . it was the custom of business men to seek from the Department some vague form of approval for their plans of operation which involved anti-trust questions. That practice is now generally discredited. The truth is that without a judicial proceeding the department is not in a position to inform the industry of what arrangements it will accept."

Individual Assent Insufficient

The statement also asserts that "approval voiced by individual representatives of the Department in private conference cannot be binding on the department or create immunity from prosecution."

In regard to the industry's own effort at developing a plan of self-regulation, it was pointed out that success in the undertaking promised immediate remedies for many trade practice complaints, whereas the mechanics of the Government's judicial proceeding, irrespective of the outcome of the case, make a final determination of the action unlikely for at least a year and, perhaps, longer.

The distributors' negotiating committee, which completed its preliminary work this week, has forwarded a first draft of its program to Sidney R. Kent in Maine for approval. As soon as this has been obtained, letters requesting exhibitor representatives to meet with the negotiating committee will be sent out.

Tax Credit to 20th-Fox

Washington, July 21.—An overassessment of income tax of $140,000 today was credited by the Commissioner of Internal Revenue to 20th Century-Fox Film Corp. The overassessment represents the excess of a tax assessed against the company on the basis of a tentative return for 1930 filed by the concern, over the actual tax liability as determined after investigation.

Zanuck Seeks Corrigan

Among the film offers reported to have been received by Douglas Corrigan, Atlantic flyer, is one from Darryl F. Zanuck, who is said to have cabled from Paris a suggestion for a five-year contract calling for three pictures a year with an incidental vaudeville tour of 10 weeks at $2,000 a week.

Miss Lawrence Back; Italian Film Unmade

Rosina Lawrence, who went to Italy to make "Rigoletto" for Era Film Co., of which Vittorio Mussolini is president, returned yesterday on the Rex without making the picture. She was to star in the film, which was scheduled as the Italian company's major production.

Miss Lawrence, who has appeared in Hal Roach and 20th Century-Fox films, is the last to return [illegible] the American talent which was ex[illegible]ed from Hollywood to make "Rigoletto." Jeanie Macpherson returned recently after preparing the script. The picture may be made later, according to Miss Lawrence, but reports from Rome are that it has been shelved.

Short Subject Reviews

"The Great Adventures of Wild Bill Hickok"

(Columbia)

That fertile field for film plots—the era of the emergence of Texas and the southwest from the dominance of unscrupulous carpet-baggers—is used as background for this serial which also involves the title character in the ensuing adventures. There is plenty of the right kind of serial action with Indians, shootings, hard riding, and fighting to create an interested following.

Gordon Elliott has the title role. He gives a convincing portrayal of the western character and is first rate where the action is concerned. The film was handsomely photographed by Benjamin Kline and George Meehan. Mack V. Wright and Sam Nelson directed. The first chapter runs 28 minutes. Additional installments run 18 minutes. "G."

"Hollywood Handicap"

(M-G-M)

A light vignette of the racetrack with an excellent demonstration of "vocal music" by the original "Sing Band." This colored troupe does its stuff with refreshing novelty and the surrounding framework of story cleverly involves many film personalities who are known for their devotion to the bangtails. Good. Running time, 10 mins. "G."

"Nellie, the Indian Chief's Daughter"

(Universal)

A burlesque variation of the villain-heroine-hero theme is the idea back of this cartoon. It follows familiar lines. The animation tricks provide the comedy. Good. Running time, 7 mins. "G."

"Sons of the Plains"

(Vitaphone)

A brief and attention-holding story of pioneer days, done in Technicolor, the beautiful outdoor kind and featuring the Mauch twins is offered here. As babies the boys are separated when Indians attack their parents' wagon and carry off one while the other is hidden. Later, in adolescence, they meet. One is the adopted son of an Indian chief and the other is returning from California. A clever sideplot is injected into the narrative here, dealing with Indian agents' treachery and a bit of suspense is worked up that eventually brings the boys to recognize each other as brothers. It's different and should draw favorable response. Running time, 19 mins. "G."

"The Jeep"

(Fleischer-Paramount)

Popeye's canine friend from the cartoon pages, the dog that disappears and possesses all sorts of magical powers, makes its debut here. Popeye has the dog track down the lost "Swee' Pea," which it does, but not before much unique and clever animation is screened. Good. Running time, 7 mins. "G."

"Mechanix Illustrated"

(Vitaphone)

Done in color, this reel offers glimpses into the workings of research laboratories where such activities as the killing of microbes with ultraviolet rays and experiments with liquid air are carried on. Also there are sequences dealing with the compact kitchens on Pullman diners and the manufacture of paint. The comment is lightly technical and the material presented with interesting variety and theatrical effect. Running time, 10 mins. "G."

A LITTLE GIRL TAKES A VACATION AND TEACHES US ALL A LESSON!

Some weeks ago, Shirley Temple and her parents left home to see America, just as thousands of other American families do every Summer. They wanted no fanfare, no publicity. All they wanted to do was to visit the many places they had heard about.

But although they tried hard to avoid crowds, everywhere that Shirley Temple went people rushed to get a glimpse of her. Most of them were adults. Poor and wealthy, some obscure and many in the most exalted walks of life, all dropped everything to look at Shirley Temple.

There is a lesson in this for everybody in the motion picture industry.

What a wonderful business this is! What an amazing hold it has upon the people! Make no mistake, the American public loves the movies and its people.

The vacation trip of Shirley Temple shows better than anything else the enormous reservoir of public interest which we, as showmen, have not even begun to tap.

Of course, Shirley's vacation, with its attendant publicity, is a tremendous boon to exhibitors playing her next picture, "LITTLE MISS BROADWAY." But it is even more than that. It is a challenge to everybody in this business to do his utmost to get the last ounce of value from this great public enthusiasm.

WASHINGTON, June 24.—President Roosevelt and Shirley Temple had a heart-to-heart talk, chiefly about teeth, in the White House today.

"I told him I lost a tooth," Shirley said. "It fell out last night while I was eating a sandwich."

"He told me about Sistie and Buzzie [his grandchildren] losing their teeth," she added, "and then I told him I had caught a salmon at Vancouver Island."

Shirley Temple Here, Eager to See Subway

e Miss Shirley Temple held court last evening. Soon r arrival on her first visit to New York Shirley curled a big yellow chair at the Waldorf Astoria and presided a dozen completely captivated ladies and gentlemen of New York press.

A little tired, a little hot, and ore than a little hungry after her eight-hour drive from Washington to New York, the 9-year-old actress wasn't the least bit irritable. She quickly and easily answered the flood of questions

"And what do you most want to see during this whole week you'll be in New York, Shirley?"

"Oh, the big buildings first of all," she said, "and then I want to see the Statute of Liberty, and I want very much to ride on a subway."

She grinned provocatively when some one asked if she were keeping a diary

THE KEYSTONE OF YOUR FUTURE

WLW Insists Higher Power Helps Public

WASHINGTON, July 21.—WLW representatives today attempted to show the beneficial results to listeners from a boost of the station's power from 50 to 500 kilowatts, testifying before the Federal Communications Commission that experiments showed that reception was materially improved at the higher power.

These surveys, it was indicated, were made as part of the station's experimental program under its experimental super-power license.

Gerald E. Branch, engineer in charge of the work, testified that studies made last summer indicated that six-tube sets are the most popular and that 36 per cent of the set-owners surveyed owned 1937 receivers.

94% Note Increase

Experimental transmissions with 50 and 500 kilowatts in which listeners were asked to participate, Mr. Branch testified, showed that of 1,402 listeners reporting 94 per cent believed that the volume was greater on 500 kilowatts than on 50 kilowatts, while 4.8 per cent reported no difference and 1.2 per cent felt power was better on 50 kilowatts. Eighty-six per cent of the reporters said static, noise and interference was less on the higher power, while 12.4 per cent found no difference and 1.6 per cent said it was greater on 500 kilowatts; 87 per cent reported increased clarity and quality on 500 kilowatts, 11.7 per cent reported no difference and 1.3 per cent had better reception on 50 kilowatts.

While fading characteristics show litle difference when power is changed, 85 per cent of the listeners reporting felt it was less on 500 kilowatts, one-half per cent held it less on 50 kilowatts and 2.5 per cent found it the same on both powers.

company's reorganization proceedings should be concluded before the end of the year.

Judge Bondy will begin a month's vacation Monday. He instructed H. C. Rickaby, attorney for Atlas Corp., proponent of the plan, to apply to Federal Judge Henry W. Goddard on July 28 for a show cause order fixing the Sept. 8 hearing and providing for the issuance of notice to stockholders and creditors. The court was advised that Mr. Alger's formal report would be handed down July 27.

Meanwhile, it was indicated that Atlas will permit its option to acquire the balance of RCA's holdings of RKO securities to lapse with its expiration July 31. Atlas has until that date to obtain a six-month extension of the option by acquiring one-twelfth of the remaining securities for $500,000 cash. It was reported, however, that negotiations have been discontinued already and will not be resumed. Peter J. Rathvon, an associate and adviser of Floyd B. Odlum of Atlas, will leave today on a vacation extending beyond the expiration date of the option. He has been an active figure in the negotiations.

Fight Aids Boston Take on "Blockade"

BOSTON, July 21.—The controversy over "Blockade" is credited with tripling normal business when the film opened here today at Loew's State and the Orpheum.

Mayor Maurice Tobin, who rejected the demand to ban the film made by Catholic groups, tried to pacify them by suggesting that they see the picture. A special screening was arranged but the groups are still dissatisfied and it is said that the matter will be referred to in the churches on Sunday.

Catholic support has been lined up behind Senator Thomas Burke's proposal to ban films with alleged communistic leanings.

Atlas Will Let Option Lapse On RKO Stock

Price of RCA Holdings Regarded as High

Atlas Corp. will permit its option on the remaining RKO securities held by RCA to lapse, July 31, without acquiring any additional securities, spokesmen for both Atlas and RCA stated over the weekend.

Although an official statement was lacking, confirmation of this information is indicated in the departure on vacations of Peter J. Rathvon, associate and adviser in the negotiation to Floyd B. Odlum of Atlas, and F. T. Zinn, attorney for RCA, who has been active in the negotiations on behalf of David Sarnoff. The reasons given for the termination of the negotiations were that Atlas considered the $5,500,000 option price on the remaining securities held by RCA as "too high," and RCA's insistence on board and management authority in reorganized RKO in the event the option was extended for six months.

The Atlas option was obtained in 1934 for a three-year period. It was extended last January for six months

Few Unions Accept Summer Wage Cuts

Wage reductions accepted by theatre crafts in the key cities have been sporadic so far this summer, with only a comparatively few locals acceding to cuts, according to information received by circuit home offices.

The Akron operators' local has turned down a proposal for summer wage relief and other cities have had the same experience. No reductions have been given by the New York operators' and stage hands' unions, but it is probable that the theatres will oppose scheduled increases in the fall.

Report 410 House Contracts In 37 States in Six Months

Contracts for 410 theatre construction projects were awarded in 37 eastern states in the first six months of this year, it is reported by the Dodge Reports division of F. W. Dodge Corp. The projects include new construction and substantial remodeling.

The total value of the projects for the half-year was $12,086,000, less than in the same period in 1937 but far ahead of 1935 and 1936. The building provides for 1,576,000 sq. ft. of floor space, compared with 2,121,000 sq. ft. reported for the 1937 half-year.

The trend continues to smaller houses, as indicated in 420,000 sq. ft. for 72 projects in June as compared with 460,000 sq. ft. for 71 pacts in May.

In the first six months of 1937 there were 445 theatre construction contracts awarded at a valuation of $14,509,400. In the corresponding 1936 and 1935

Kent Asserts Industry Must Regulate Self

Better Than Litigation In Long Run, He Says

"The most intelligent and satisfactory solution of our problem eventually will be reached through self-regulation, rather than through litigation," is the belief expressed yesterday by Sidney R. Kent on behalf of the distributors' committee for formulation of a plan of self-regulation of trade practices.

The statement was made in connection with Mr. Kent's declaration that the filing of the Department of Justice monopoly action against the organized industry would not halt the negotiating committee's work. The Government's proceeding, however, will result in "some delay in bringing the deliberations to the point of conference with exhibitor representatives," Mr. Kent asserts.

His statement follows:

"The civil suit instituted by the Department of Justice has in no way changed the determination of our committee to secure a solution of our trade problems. It is a responsibility which we undertook and will attempt to complete.

"The trade practice questions now raised in the government's petition demand a most careful re-examination of all the questions involved. This will

Pact Suit Names Lloyd

Harold Lloyd Corp. and Harold Lloyd have been named defendants in a $75,000 damage suit filed in the U. S. District Court by William Jordan Raff and Lowell Brentano. The suit is based on the alleged breach of a written contract by the defendants which purportedly provided for the production of a picture.

Kelly Names Two Aides

Arthur W. Kelly, vice-president in charge of United Artists' foreign distribution, has named William M. Levy as sales manager in Argentina and Carl Ponedel as manager of the San Juan, Puerto Rico, office. Ponedel succeeds Joseph Barkey, resigned.

Goat and 'Pome' Waiting for Loser of U.A. Selling Drive

Somebody's going to get United Artists' goat today.

What's more, he'll have to keep it. For a while, anyway, and permanently, after Dec. 31, if he has not succeeded in getting off the bottom of the list of U. A. sales.

Jack Schlaifer, head of the western sales division, and Harry Gold, head of the eastern, are making book that neither of them will be pestered with the thing which will remain for a year as a daily reminder of low sales pressure in the losing office.

Smith in Charge

Sales Manager A. W. Smith is in charge of the campaign and approves of the goat. The animal is two feet high, with real horns, real skin, rollers on the bottom and a pair of eyes with a reproachful expression. The Gorgeous Goat was built by Messmore & Damon for $100, who also executed the tin plaque, complete with poem, which hangs around Nanny's neck.

The "pome" serves as a further reminder to the unhappy salesman who inherits the nanny that he didn't do so well with sales. Says the "pome":—

"The goat goes east, the goat goes west
"To chew up somebody's pants and vest!
"I'm the goat, and I'm going the rounds
"To advise you to hustle by leaps and bounds.
"Though a popular guy and a real best-smeller,
"I'll stick with you if you land in the cellar,
"By letting your business take a dive
"To the bottom standing in the U. A. drive.
"So increase your sales by bounds and leaps
"Or you'll get this darned goat for keeps!"

Deny Restraint Plea In 20th-Fox Action

Federal Judge Vincent L. Leibell has denied an application of William L. Gross as assignee of Theatre Magazine Co. to restrain the further exhibition of the picture, "George White's 1935 Scandals" by 20th Century-Fox for the alleged plagiarism of the August, 1929, cover of Theatre Magazine in the picture. Judge Leibell set the suit down on the calendar for trial Dec. 5, 1938.

A cross application of 20th Century-Fox for a dismissal of the complaint was granted by Judge Leibell, with leave to Mr. Gross to amend his complaint within 20 days. The dismissal was on the ground that the complaint did not affirmatively state that Andre Durenceau, original creator of the magazine cover, was a citizen when he obtained his copyright.

periods, the totals were $7,542,000 and $5,797,000, respectively. The figures show that the year 1937 reached a four-year peak.

The half-year ended with a strong upturn in theatre building, the Dodge summary showing that June was the high point in the contract awards for the six-month period.

"There had been some expectations that the June contracts would nearly close the gap between the 1938 and 1937 half-year volumes," says Dodge Reports. "Despite the hopeful June record this could not be accomplished, due to the higher level reached in June, 1937, which was also the top month of the half-year.

"Some encouragement may be found in the fact that last month's total contract value was well ahead of individual monthly totals for the second half of 1937."

The figures were compiled on the basis of reports to Dodge Corp. from 750 representatives in the field. The service does not extend to the states west of the Rockies.

The Dodge summary, including a four-year comparison of theatre building contract values during the January-to-June period follows:

Slogan to Be Chosen Today For Campaign

advertising committee, who will arrive from the coast this morning, will preside. He will be assisted by Paul Gulick, who will assume his post as coordinator of the drive today. Drive headquarters will be established today on the 22nd floor of the National Association Building, 28 West 44th St., which also houses M.P.P.D.A. offices. Mr. Gulick will be assisted by a staff contributed by the advertising and publicity departments of individual companies.

With final decisions scheduled to be made today on slogans and dates, the campaign will be in complete shape by Wednesday for presentation to the industry general meeting called by George J. Schaefer, chairman of the distributors' committee on the campaign, at the Astor.

Appropriations of $70,000 from producers and distributors for the conduct of the campaign may be augmented by an additional $300,000 from circuit theatres, it was learned. A complete budget and plan for its apportionment among participants in the campaign is to be completed within a few days by the Dietz committee.

Dietz, Coast Group Talk on "Ad" Drive

Hollywood, July 24.—Howard Dietz, chairman of the working committee for the industry campaign tentatively known as "The Greater Movie Season," met over the weekend with studio publicity department heads and theatre representatives, described to them the general need and purposes of the campaign and received their promises of 100 per cent support.

It was stated that plans for studio participation in the drive will be held in abeyance until the national committee meeting in New York Wednesday. Mr. Dietz is now en route to New York to attend the session.

Schenck, Friedman, Dietz Return Today

Nicholas M. Schenck, president of M-G-M; Leopold Friedman, general attorney, and Howard Dietz, advertising and publicity head, are due from the coast by train today.

Mr. Friedman was on the coast in connection with depositions being taken by Emil K. Ellis, New York attorney, in the Loew stockholder suits. Mr. Dietz coordinated studio plans for the industry's advertising and publicity drive in the fall.

Mr. Schenck attended the wedding of his niece, Hope Burger, to Herman Wallace Hellman, in Los Angeles on Friday.

Support Social Pictures

Members of the summer student body and faculty of Columbia University have voted in favor of the production of films devoted to social problems. The group voted after a screening of "Blockade" that the film is not subversive of democratic ideals.

Bee Escaped

Dallas, July 24. — J. E. Clarke, Ross Federal field representative at Waco, spent $65 to repair his car and then started out on an assignment. Finding he was being accompanied by a bee, he decided to get rid of his buzzing friend. The car swerved and struck a concrete bridge abutment. Mr. Clarke was injured. The car was wrecked. The bee escaped.

bid to discuss plans for self-regulation of trade practices. The bulletin, over the signature of P. J. Wood, cites a resolution adopted by the Ohio organization, June 14, to restrain members from participating in trade practice conferences with distributors without the authorization of national Allied.

The Wednesday meeting at the Astor, as specifically stated in Mr. Schaefer's telegrams to exhibitors, is solely for the purpose of discussing plans for the industry's national better business drive in September and October. Not only is Mr. Schaefer not a member of the distributors' negotiating committee on trade practice regulation, but the distributors' trade practice plan itself is not ready yet for submission to exhibitors, it was pointed out in New York.

Loew Claims Success With National Drive

Good results are reported by the Loew circuit in its publicity and advertising campaign throughout the country in an effort to boost grosses during July and August.

With the theme of the campaign "Loew's Has the Pictures," Loew houses in the metropolitan area are using a three-sheet featuring the slogan and listing current and coming attractions.

Interviews with C. C. Moskowitz and other Loew officials appearing in newspapers stress that the circuit has no lack of good films, attempting to overcome recent publicity about a "summer shortage." The campaign was worked out under the direction of Oscar A. Doob.

A. W. Schwalberg, Stanley Hatch and I. F. Dolid, home office executives who conducted the meeting, will arrive in New York early next week. The final regional meeting will be at the Hotel Warwick, New York, next Saturday and Sunday.

Monopoly Charged in Gary Theatre Actoin

Chicago, July 24.—The Gary Theatre Co., owners of the Palace, at Gary, has filed suit in U. S. District Court against eight major companies and Balaban & Katz and Warner Brothers Theatre Management Corp. charging monopoly and asking an injunction.

The company alleged that its contracts require it to wait 10 weeks after national release of films and four weeks after Chicago Loop showings. Injunctions are sought restraining enforcement of these clauses.

Lamarr Phone Talk Set

Hollywood, July 24.—Hedy Lamarr, representatives of the press and others will have a long distanece telephone conversation with Variety Club members in Baltimore Tuesday night. The interview was arranged by William Saxton, Variety Club member.

Utah Theatres Freed Of State Regulation

Salt Lake City, July 24.—A possible precedent is seen here in the decision of the Utah Supreme Court that the Utah State Trade Commission lacked the power to interfere in the operation of Bank Night or other games used in film theatres, because the operation of film houses is not "trade and commerce."

Administering a rebuke to [illegible] legislature, the court's opinion declared that "where a line of business is to be supervised or controlled in whole or in part by a state agency, the legislative enactment should in clear and decisive words indicate the intent to do so, rather than leave the power to depend on a judicial construction of doubtful words." The legislative failure to clarify the powers of the commission led to cease and desist orders to 11 Utah houses using games.

The commission had held, after the theatres sought relief, that permission given patrons to register for games without buying tickets was merely a subterfuge, but later it was decided the commission would base its case on the games being unfair to competition.

that the lottery laws have been violated.

The appeal asking that the case be reopened was filed shortly after the ban was issued some weeks ago. Through its attorney, John M. Keating, Affiliated contends that the evidence did not support the order and cited cases to show that such schemes are not illegal.

Affiliated has refrained from using the mails, according to Mr. Keating. It is learned that the company, which has its headquarters in Denver, has virtually ceased operations and is disposing of its territorial franchises to local distributors. All business by the sales representatives is being transacted verbally and collections are being made in person, it is understood.

Editors Take Hopeful Stand In Trust Suit

The considered attitude of several representatives daily newspapers, as expressed in their editorial columns, relative to the Government's civil anti-trust action against the eight major film companies, appears to be one of hope that the action will serve to clarify the situation regarding trust regulations and the industry.

They speak of the "amicable" attitude of the Government in its statement of intention, of the "conciliatory" tone of Attorney General Cummings' statement.

The more significant passages from the editorials of five important daily newspapers follow:

NEW YORK TIMES—"Probably readers of the official statement . . . were most impressed by its absence of truculent language or imputation of motive. . . . This amicable attitude, quite unusual in anti-trust law prosecutions of the past, results no doubt in part from the nature of the industry and the personal interest in its achievements by the general public."

NEW YORK DAILY NEWS—". . . Without attempting to prejudge the case, we'll say it looks like a good thing, for which the industry well may thank the Government after the agony is over. . . . We hope this suit may bring out the right answers to all the complaints being aimed at the movies, still our greatest form of mass entertainment. . . . The Government says this lawsuit is to be a friendly and helpful investigation. . . . We hope the Government bears that thought in mind."

WASHINGTON POST—". . . Mr. Arnold's approach has the virtue of being carefuly defined. . . . The fact that practices of long standing such as those complained of are still subject to a test of legality is a serious indictment of our methods of law enforcement. . . . Its conclusion that the particular type of vertical combination existing in the industry is obstructive of free and open competition and not in the best interest of the public is after all merely an opinion."

PHILADELPHIA INQUIRER—". . . . The noticeably conciliatory tone of Attorney General Cummings' statement does not suggest a revival of the old trust-busting era. He speaks of the measure of voluntary cooperation he has received from major producers. . . . Clarification of the anti-trust laws, which were virtually suspended under the NRA and are now being revived, is greatly to be desired."

DETROIT NEWS—". . . It should be noted that the Attorney General himself is not sure that the arrangements complained of constitute a violation of the anti-trust laws as they stand. The case is more or less an experimental one. . . . Motion pictures still look to be a highly competitive industry. It is our impression, indeed, that the quality of pictures of late years has been consistently better, not worse. On the whole, this matter is one on which to withhold judgment and await developments."

Fahrenheit Stuff

Cincinnati, July 24.—Diogenes and his lantern had nothing on the sanitary inspectors with thermometers who are around looking for shady spots within 100 feet of theatre entrances. After they find the shady spots they dash into the theatre with the same thermometer and relax in an upholstered seat and wait.

If the thermometer descends more than 15 degrees, it's too cold. Also it's a violation of the law.

This makes life a bit complicated for theatre managers who can't take the shady outdoor temperatures every half hour or so.

Action Makes Arnold Focus Of Attention

Washington, July 24.—The institution of trust proceedings against the film industry by the Department of Justice, foreseen in Washington as the forerunner of a general drive against producer control of retail markets in all industries, has centered attention upon Assistant Attorney General Thurman Wesley Arnold, spearhead of the campaign and largely responsible for the Department's policy.

The special assistants who aided Mr. Arnold in drawing the 119-page complaint in the film case were: Wendell Berge, John J. Abt, Paul Williams, J. Stephen Doyle, Jr., and John F. Clagett.

Degrees from Big Three

A native of Laramie, Wyo., and holder of degrees from Princeton, Harvard and Yale, Mr. Arnold, the head of the anti-trust division, is 47 years of age. He has a sense of humor and some very definite ideas about big business, which are not permitted to conflict. A professor at Yale, he found time to write "The Folklore of Capitalism," dealing with monopolies and their ramifications and of the anti-trust laws, in which he said, "The actual result (of those laws) was to promote the growth of industrial organization by deflecting the attack on them into purely moral and ceremonial channels."

That Mr. Arnold has led an active life is demonstrated by his record. He served as a first lieutenant, Field Artillery, during the World War, and was major and Judge Advocate General of the Wyoming National Guard for three years. In other fields he was mayor of his home city for a year; was a member of the Wyoming House of Representatives; was assistant to counsel for the AAA, a trial examiner for the SEC, legal adviser to the Governor of the Philippines; lecturer at the University of Wyoming, Dean of the College of Law at West Virginia University.

Despite these activities, he found time to write in addition to "Folklore," "Symbols of Government" and "Trials, Judgments and Appeals."

Suit to Help Only Lawyers Mayer Asserts

Frankly skeptical of any beneficial effects to the "little fellow" and the "orphan theatre" from the Government's suit against the industry, Arthur Mayer of the Rialto Theatre predicted yesterday nobody will gain anything except the lawyers.

"If the Government is going to look after the independent exhibitor in whom it's showing such a grandfatherly interest now, it will have to start at the very foundation and actually begin giving out permits for building new theatres.

"As an independent exhibitor I know all the problems, and this Government action isn't going to touch the crux of the matter which is how to get product as good as or better han the other fellow's earlier. There's much to be said for the case of the independent exhibitors, naturally, especially the exhibitor with the 'orphan theatre.' I've got an interest in one myself, the Gramercy, on East 23rd St. But that's our hard luck for it was our mistake getting into a situation where we knew we'd have to play behind the circuits on 14th St., but didn't dream we'd have to trail dates behind the small houses on 2nd and 3rd Avenues, which have prior protection on product.

Segregates "Orphans"

"In discussing 'orphan theatres' like my Gramercy, and the Beacon, and the new one leased by Robert Goelet to a Boston group at 53rd St. and Park Ave., I think we must distinguish between 'legitimate orphans' and 'illegitimate orphans.'

"In the case of the proposed new 53rd St. theatre the group finds it has to play pictures after the Plaza has had its pick. I believe that Leo Brecher is entitled to first consideration over and above any newcomers to the neighborhood. Just on his record."

It is no secret that the Boston group which has leased the Goelet property for a theatre on Park Ave., signed their lease when no New York theatre man familiar with the situation would touch it, and that the rental terms preclude the possibility of profits unless the gross is around $10,000 a week.

Intervention "Short Sighted"

Mr. Mayer is against Government intervention in the picture business, charges such attempts at intervention to short sighted Bourbons in the industry, and sees the present monopoly-charging suit the direct result of Neely bill lobbying.

"Elimination of block booking won't help the little fellow, no matter what they say. It will harm him. What should be done to eliminate the evils that exist between distributor and exhibitor should be in the form of concessions within the industry. My guess is that the Government suit will result in a larger cancellation privilege, and, possibly, the setting up of local conciliation boards where the small man can go and air his grievances.

"A clean cut 20 per cent cancellation clause is the answer to the problem, in my opinion. The Neely bill could have been killed last year if the producing companies had given a 15 to 20 per cent cancellation privilege, a straight one, not cancellation privileges such as we have now which are so complicated the little fellow gives up in sheer despair."

Kent Asserts Industry Must Regulate Self

require further discussion not only by members of the committee, but consideration by the respective [illegible] of all affected. To that extent, some delay may be inevitable in bringing the deliberations to the point of conference with exhibitor representatives.

"It should be noted that the statement of the Department of Justice in connection with the action filed makes clear its desire to encourage a constructive solution of the industry's problems. In this regard the Department said: 'The Department desires to encourage and not to retard the development and orderly operation of the motion picture industry.' And Mr. Will Hays in his comment on the suit brought by the Government said: 'A committee of leading producers and distributors is now engaged in considering readjustments in the intricate machinery of this business to the end that it may even better serve public interest.'

Many Meetings Held

"Since the committee was formed, numerous conferences have been held. The problems to be considered are important and the solutions intricate. Clear thinking and deliberate consideration must precede action.

"Action taken will be in cooperation with all exhibitor groups and the committee intends to get in touch with the exhibitors when the useful moment arrives. From then on it will be a matter of working out these problems jointly.

"I might add that we share the general industry belief that the most intelligent and satisfactory solution of our problems eventually will be reached through self - regulation, rather than through litigation. We shall continue the work of our Committee to that end."

No Successor to Farnol

No successor to Lynn Farnol will be designated by Donahue & Coe, Ed Churchill, agency head, has asserted. The Music Hall and other film accounts formerly handled by Mr. Farnol, who became advertising and publicity director of United Artists last week, will be absorbed by other members of the organization, Mr. Churchill said.

"Antoinette" Set Aug. 16

"Marie Antoinette" will have its New York premiere at the Astor Aug. 16. The film will play on a twice daily schedule.

To Hear Directors' Petition on Aug. 16

HOLLYWOOD, July 24.—Dr. Towne Nylander, regional N.L.R.B. director, has set Aug. 16 as the date for the opening of the hearing on the Screen Directors Guild petition to be declared the collective bargaining agency for the directors, assistants and unit managers at 11 studios.

The dates for the hearings of the petitions of other craft organizations will be set later, Dr. Nylander said. Named in the directors' petition are Columbia, First National, M-G-M, Paramount, RKO, 20th Century-Fox, Goldwyn, Selznick, Universal, Wanger and Warners. As in the Screen Writers' Guild hearing last fall, the cases involving studios will be consolidated into one, counsel for the respondents having the privilege to stipulate the inapplicability of evidence to their particular client, if necessary. It is expected that much of the documentary evidence and background on production introduced in the writers' case will be permitted to enter the records in the directors' hearing on stipulation in order to save time.

GB Meeting Votes Support of Board

By AUBREY FLANAGAN

LONDON, July 24.—With smart maneuvering on the part of the chairman, and through rank and file support, the annual meeting on Friday of the shareholders of Gaumont British Pictures Corp. turned into a demonstration of faith in the directorate.

An almost complete absence of dissent marked the session, despite criticism from Charles Nordon, attorney who represented a group of shareholders and an informal suggestion that the shareholders should accept but not approve the financial statement. The statement was approved, however. John Maxwell, who resigned recently as a member of the G. B. board, was not present as anticipated.

Isidore Ostrer, chairman, refused to comment on the inquiry into the company's affairs by the Board of Trade, or on the resignation of Mr. Maxwell. Mr. Ostrer said he thought G. B., with Baird, held the key to the future of theatre television, but that BBC collaboration is essential.

The reason for the previous delays in the holding of the meetings was said to be the reluctance of the international officers to bring up the matter of wage increases and working condition improvement while production was at a low ebb.

. . . The Brighter Side

(Copyright, 1938, by King Features Syndicate, Inc. International copyright and all other rights reserved)

WHEN WE ARRIVE at a picture house we like to find the attendants elbowing the cash customers around a bit. That means business must be swell and argues a good picture.

When the attendants are polite to the point of obsequiousness and ask you where you would like to sit and insist on escorting you down the aisle you might as well go on up the street. The chances are nobody is in the house and that the picture is what the pugilistic fraternity would call a hot-dogger.

Damon Runyon.

At nearly all pugilistic presentations there is generally a preliminary bout so dull that everybody goes out and buys hot dogs and other refreshments while it is on. A dull bout is a pain in the neck to the pugilistic cash customers, but it is a blessing to the concessions fellow. Maybe the picture houses might profit if they put in the hot dog stands to accommodate the out-go from the hot-dogger pictures.

The picture house attendants react amazingly to a picture that does good business. They get on their toes and recapture the hauteur that they invariably lose when the cash customers are giving them the go-by. When they are able to announce that pleasant fiction, "A short wait for all seats," which sometimes means until next Tuesday, they well nigh burst their polished buttons with pride.

That is a good thing for the esprit de corps of the picture house and a good thing for us cash customers, too. It keeps us from becoming too assertive as we are apt to do if we think the picture house needs us. Moreover, it saves us the bother of consulting the critics to find out if the picture is good or bad. We can tell just by watching how an attendant steps around.

We must say us cash customers in New York are commencing to get some pretty good breaks just now. Among others, Walter Wanger brought in a lily called "Algiers". This "Algiers" carries no message and perhaps no moral except what everybody already knows, and none better than Walter Wanger, that one hair of a woman's head is stronger with a man than the Atlantic cable. It is just a dandy underworld picture apparently designed solely for entertainment. We think "Algiers" is about as good a picture as has been unveiled in some time.

Charles Boyer, one of the finest actors in the business, does a great job for Walter Wanger in this one. So does Joe Calleia, who can do the slinkingest crook you ever saw but who is now a brand new type of cop. There is also a new gal by the name of Hedy Lamarr. If Hollywood notes any sudden increase of male population in the next few months it may safely attribute it to Hedy.

AND YOU'LL KNOW WHY 14,000,000 PEOPLE* ARE SAYING, "I'M NOT GOING TO MISS SEEING 'ALGIERS!'"

*Damon Runyon, King Features' most widely read columnist, has an estimated audience of 14,000,000 readers.

Web Affiliates Talk Reviving The I. R. N. A.

Plan Meeting in Chicago For Final Decision

Alarmed by the Federal Communications Commission investigation of network radio, a group of independent radio network affiliates meeting independently but approved by the National Association of Broadcasters, yesterday convened at the Waldorf-Astoria to discuss whether or not the I.R.N.A. (Independent Radio Network Affiliates), disbanded after the reorganization of the N.A.B., should again be brought to life.

The invitations to attend the meeting were sent out jointly by Mark Ethridge, formerly temporary president of the N.A.B., and head of WHAS, Louisville, and Samuel Ros-

U.S. Made Party to RKO Proceedings

The government was made a party in the RKO reorganization proceedings "for the presentation of evidence and argument upon the question of the constitutionality of section 77B of the Bankruptcy Act" under the provisions of an order signed yesterday by Federal Judge William Bondy.

The order further provides that the petition of the Government to intervene be deemed an appearance of the Government in opposition to the objections of H. Cassel & Co., Cotia Realty Corp. and the Fabian Operating Corp. to the proposed amendment to the plan of reorganization insofar

Myron Selznick to Resume Production

HOLLYWOOD, July 25.—Myron Selznick, widely regarded as the ranking talent agent, disclosed over the weekend the formation of Ernst Lubitsch Productions, as the first of "dozens of combines" he will head in producing partnerships with leading directors, stars and writers, bearing the names of each.

Mr. Selznick explained his return to active production, from which he withdrew several years ago, as due to his belief that the industry has reached the point where partnership between important talent and the picture creator using that talent is inevitable.

"This move," it was pointed out, "places screen personalities in the position of gambling on themselves, accepting profits and losses according to how their pictures fare on the world market."

No releasing affiliation has been negotiated, according to Mr. Selznick, and the details of the initial Lubitsch

"Algiers" to Go 3rd Week at Music Hall

"Algiers," now in a second week at the Music Hall, will be held a third week, beginning Thursday, it was decided on the strength of business over the weekend. While the heavy rain Saturday and Sunday is reported to have hurt Broadway first runs generally, the Music Hall said it benefited by the inclement weather.

"Little Miss Broadway" is drawing large crowds to the Roxy. The film will be held a second week. "Alexander's Rag Time Band" will follow Aug. 5.

"Marriage Forbidden" is doing well in its second week at the Criterion, after netting $11,000 in the first stanza. Paramount's "Booloo" will go into the theatre Friday.

Suit Based on Precedent and Recent Events

New Deal's Interest in "Little Man" Factor

By BERTRAM F. LINZ

WASHINGTON, July 25.—Both precedent and recent developments which have focussed attention on the film industry are believed to have motivated the Department of Justice in basing its anti-trust suit on unexpectedly broad grounds. Opportunism is seen in taking advantage of recent developments.

So far as precedent goes, the suit savors of the Standard Oil and packers cases. The element of opportunism lies in the fact that the North Dakota divorce law, Senate passage of the block booking bill and the SEC investigation of reorganizations and protective committees have for some time focussed public attention upon the film industry and its practices.

The current suit is as radical a step as was, in its time, the case against Standard Oil. The oil case was the Work on the new buildings, which will house all cartoon production, will start in September and will require about two years to finish. With

Ad Drive Will Start Aug. 1; Close Oct. 8

Work on Details to Get Under Way Next Week

Work on the industry's national advertising campaign to stimulate new season business will be launched early next week, it was decided yesterday with the span of the campaign fixed from Aug. 1 to Oct. 8.

The slogan selected for the campaign is "Motion Pictures' Greatest Year." It will be used in all advertising copy and publicity and will be featured in cash prize contests which are being planned as part of the drive.

The August work in connection with the campaign will be comparatively light, according to present plans. National advertising is not expected to be at its peak for the drive until shortly after Labor Day.

Virtually all of the final details were laid before publicity and advertising men of all companies at a meeting at M.P.P.D.A. headquarters yes-

Allied Renews Tieup With Alexander Film

Allied States has renewed its tieup with Alexander Film Co. on an exclusive basis for the third successive year. Member theatres showing Alexander's short advertising films return part of their revenue to the local unit as dues and the local units in turn pay part of the proceeds to the national organization.

Similar tieups are in effect with M.P.T.O.A. regional units, but the national organization does not benefit. The New York I.T.O.A. and other local groups also have arrangements whereby members show Alexander films exclusively.

Eleven Allied state units have joined in the Alexander tieup in response to the recommendations of Allied's national officers. The board of directors has approved continuance.

Commenting on the exclusive deal, Abram F. Myers, Allied chairman of the board, said: "Exhibitors and exhibitor organizations are afforded the opportunity to cooperate with the Alexander Film Co. to improve the standards of screen advertising and to participate in the proceeds of the practice on an equitable basis."

weekend, in which he stated that while the Government's proceeding would not halt the work of the negotiating committee, it would necessitate careful study of the Government's complaint and probable delay in bringing the plan of self-regulation to the stage at which it could be presented to exhibitor representatives.

Ned E. Depinet and A. Montague, members of the working committee, are returning to New York from out of town trips, which will permit the committee to resume regular meetings. Its sessions were discontinued a week ago.

Hollywood Letter

Dear Editor:

If you've been wondering what Hollywood people had to say about the Government's abrupt attention to its chief occupation you can stop now. They said, with practically unprecedented unanimity, nothing. Not because they were stunned, nor because they failed to comprehend, not even because reticence was an obvious virtue under the circumstances. Most of them were simply too busy at making pictures for their public.

Three months ago they would have talked a lot. Today the cameras are grinding too steadily, the call sheets are too full, for a population primarily and quite happily engaged in fabricating films to care much who owns the theatres that exhibit them. Call this, if you will, a myopic attitude, but try sometime to get entertainment out of a group of people not shuttered off by this or something like it from grim reality. It's never been done.

William A. Wellman had his Paramount picture, ."Men With Wings," well on toward the finish line when Howard Hughes made his flight. The producer-director spent five days revamping his picture to get something closely resembling this titanic incident into it, whereupon young Douglas Corrigan set him back on his heels. He'll get that in, too. Warners were in a somewhat better position with their "Women in the Wind," not yet shooting, to take advantage of the breaks. They had only to revise the script to include a globe-girdling flight in which five women aviators, captained by Kay Francis, will do what Hughes and his male quartet did.

Another excitement of the week was the unanimous hailing of Hedy (pronounced "heady") Lamarr as the screen find of the year on the basis of her work in Walter Wanger's "Algiers." Toni Frizzell, Vogue portraitist, came on from New York for her to sit to and decided, on completion of the assignment, a fortnight in Honolulu would be about right before returning to your village. Life dug out some old stills of "Ecstacy," which Look had used a year previously, and that memorable item of cinematic erotica came back again to Hollywood Boulevard. All the syndicate columnists have called upon the lady, and upon their readers to hear about her.

The President's recent visit here may have meant whatever it did or didn't, politically, but it boosted his newsreel popularity, already terrific, to a new high. Runnerup on the applause meter this weekend was Douglas Corrigan, with Howard Hughes in third place. High man on the "boo" meter—and when they "boo' in Hollywood they do mean "boo"—is and long has been Adolf Hitler, who never can get a word in edgewise. Second place in this division is still held by Benito Mussolini, a somewhat less torridly hooted screen personality, and third honors go, for reasons nobody seems to understand, to Louella O. Parsons, a widely read lady who appears not to mind what may be, after all, a fundamentally friendly, if consistently recurrent, razzing.

Warner Exploitation Prizes Go to Twelve

Twelve members of the Warner theatre organization have been awarded cash prizes by Joseph Bernhard, general manager of the circuit, in exploitation contests on three recent pictures. With the exception of Frank La Falce, Washington, all prize winners are managers.

Four prizes were given on each picture, with first awards being $150, second prizes $75 and third and fourth $50 each.

Prize winners in the "The Kid Comes Back" contest are in the order placed: Ken Grimes, Warner, Erie; J. H. Brownfield, Virginia, Fairmont, W. Va.; Murray Lafayette, Avon, Utica; R. Rosenthal, Ritz, Albany.

"Over the Wall" winners are: Howard Ralston, Granada, Santa Barbara, Cal.; Ralph Russell, Strand, Parkersburg, W. Va.; George C. Sarvis, Library, Warren, Pa.; Harry Gantz, Capitol, Stubenville, O.

The following received awards for "Swing Your Lady" campaigns; Dominick Lucente, Alhambra, Philadelphia; Frank La Falce, Earle, Washington; J. Knox Strachan, La Roy, Portsmouth, O.; Frank Shaffer, Virginia, Harrisonburg, Va.

New Firm Chartered To Import Pictures

National Pictures Corp. has been formed to import and exploit foreign films in this country and Latin America. The company will also handle exportation of American product. Edwin M. Fadman of Films Red Star is connected with the firm.

Plans have been made to offier the American market a complete annual program of importations. The company will rely on its European contact for the interchange and handling of product from both sources. The first offering of the company is "Legions of Honor," French film starring Marie Bell. Four additional releases, to be ready next month, are in a subtitling stage. Temporary offices have been established in the Paramount Building.

Fox Asks Suit Details

Twentieth Century-Fox yesterday filed a demand in U. S. District Court for a bill of particulars of the complaints of the Superior Fire Insurance Co. of Pittsburgh and nine persons who claim injuries in a fire occurring in 20th Century-Fox's warehouse at Little Ferry, N. J., in 1937.

which were begun several weeks ago but were delayed by the sudden death of Aaron Saperstein, succeeded by Mr. Kirsch as president of the Allied unit here.

It is understood here that B. &. K. and the distributors are not averse to finding a means of settling the local differences, in view of the national situation. It is further understood that Allied's plan for filing an action on the matter has been held in abeyance pending the completion of the conferences. However, it is believed to be the intention of the organization to take some such action in the event that an agreement is not reached relative to clearance or double features or both. If duals are continued, the independent operators want five weeks' clearance, while if duals are eliminated, the present 10 weeks' clearance is expected to be declared acceptable.

Mr. Kirsch and the other representatives refused comment here today just before starting for New York, declaring, "Wait until the end of the week after we talk things over."

"Mother Carey's Chickens"

(RKO)

Kate Douglas Wiggin attained a type of literary immortality with her wholesome, straightforward stories of American life of an earlier day. "Mother Carey's Chickens" is just such a Mrs. Wiggin story, and; as carefully produced by Pandro S. Berman, under the direction of Rowland V. Lee, RKO has made of it a picture for the family trade everywhere. It is as clean as a hound's tooth, of course, and the basic character of the story has been carefully preserved. Contributing to that factor is the equally careful and exacting screenplay of S. K. Lauren and Gertrude Purcell.

In this case the cast is not as important to the box-office and the selling of the picture as the story and its origin, which must be known to every child across the nation, and certainly will be remembered by every adult. This story of a kindly mother's effort to keep her loyal and friendly brood together after her husband is killed in the Spanish-American war is interpreted splendidly by Fay Bainter as the mother, and competently by Ruby Keeler and Anne Shirley as the two daughters, whose romantic concerns have much to do with the unfolding of the story; James Ellison, as the lover of one; Walter Brennan and Frank Albertson, in particular.

Of course the story, in the original and as adapted, is weighty with the sentimentality of the period of which it treats, but at the same time it is homely and wholesome stuff, simple and unpretentious, and in sharp contrast to our perhaps too modern note of slick and smart comedy. Its romantic concerns, the fight of the children to help their mother to preserve their entity as a family, the romantic complications of the two girls, the dramatic scene when the young and disliked doctor saves the Carey child from death of pneumonia, cannot help but have a real appeal. The picture throughout has been accorded a high degree of technical skill and has been handsomely mounted.

Running time, 81 minutes. "G." CHARLES S. AARONSON

"Drums"

(London Films-U. A.)

In this story of life on the northern frontier of India where the British suppress rebellions by intrigue as well as force of arms there is a combination of spectacular action and exceptionally beautiful mountain backgrounds done in Technicolor. Among its other assets can be counted Sabu, the little native boy whose combination of dignity and boyish charm made an impression in "Elephant Boy."

Raymond Massey is impressive as a half-mad brother of a native ruler who plots the rebuilding of an Afghan empire. In contrast Desmond Tester, as Captain Carruthers, the hero, and Valerie Hobson, his wife, are pretty colorless. Mr. Tester also has a bad English habit of starting his words from behind his tonsils.

Exhibitors who sell the picture on the basis of the battles and the friendship between Sabu and an unnamed drummer boy probably will be glad they booked it.

Sabu and his protectors have to flee from the mountains when the boy's father is murdered. Captain Carruthers and his wife befriend him. The dramatic suspense develops thereafter when Carruthers' troupe visits the usurping ruler and runs into a plot to annihilate it with machine guns. Sabu gives the warning in time and the big scenes follow—columns fighting their way through mountain passes, machine gun encounters in a palace, the shooting of Massey, and the reunion of Captain Carruthers and his wife. There is some neat comedy relief from time to time.

Zoltan Korda directed from an original story by A. E. W. Mason.

Running time, 99 minutes. "G." J. M. JERAULD

"Dark Sands"

(Record Pictures)

There are possibilities of unusual exploitation in this production of Walter Futter, distributed in this country by Record Pictures, because the picture embodies a degree of novelty in treatment and subject matter which may well be used to stir interest.

The salable factors, in addition to a strong title, are three good cast names, Paul Robeson, Henry Wilcoxon and Wallace Ford, and the rendition by Robeson of two songs by Michael Carr and Jimmy Kennedy. Spectacular desert scenes and action shots provide an opportunity for vivid showmanship. About half the story takes place in the Sahara, Desert, and all the footage thereon actually was taken on the Sahara, some 1,000 miles from Cairo.

Thornton Freeland, who directed, wisely kept Robeson in the forefront at all times, permitting his dominant physical appearance and his splendid voice to carry their own considerable weight. There are slack moments now and again, but in general it is a novel and occasionally exciting piece of entertainment. Robert N. Lee and Peter Rurie adapted an original story by Mr. Futter, George Barraud did the scenario and John W. Boyle is credited with the commendable photographic job. Ford is excellent.

Robeson, negro soldier en route to France, is unjustly accused of murder, and escapes, while Wilcoxon, his superior, is "broken" and sent to jail. With Ford, Robeson steals a boat, lands on the African desert eventually, and through his knowledge of medicine, becomes a ruler of a desert tribe. Ford is killed, Wilcoxon finally traces Robeson through films of his tribe shown in London, but leaves him in peace when he learns of the happiness Robeson has won with his family and adopted people. Highlights are the fight of Robeson's men against a band of desert marauders, the enormous number of camels and men gathered for the great annual salt trek, and the long caravan of camels

"Prison Break"

HOLLYWOOD, July 25.—The story told in "Prison Break" is sound and appealing entertainment even though it is always serious. It is acted in convincing fashion by a competent group of players which, at no time, finds it necessary to resort to artificial theatricals to develop the plot, which has romance, drama, action, excitement and suspense. The story is by Norton S. Parker, the adaptation by Mr. Parker and Dorothy Reid, and the direction by Arthur Lubin.

Barton MacLane, in love with Glenda Farrell, merely a bystander when her brother, Edward Pawley, is injured in a fight, silently accepts a manslaughter conviction when the victim dies and MacLane believes his friend, Edmund MacDonald, is guilty. He sacrifices himself because MacDonald is to marry his sister, Constance Moore. Expecting to be paroled in a year, he seeks to avoid trouble, but becomes involved in a prison riot inspired by Ward Bond. After being punished for that he is paroled for preventing an attempted escape which Bond also has engineered. Out in the world again, he finds the cards stacked against him as his convict record prevents him from either getting a job or marrying Miss Farrell. Eventually encountering Bond again, a wild fight ensues and as he overpowers Bond and forces him to confess that he is guilty of the crime for which MacLane had been jailed. He is pardoned to start life over anew.

Although the material used is stock stuff, it has been given fresh treatment that permits the players to look like human beings and do the natural things which humans would do under similar circumstances.

Exhibitors have a solid piece of entertainment merchandise in which there is considerable exploitation material.

Running time, 70 minutes. "G." GUS MCCARTHY

ex of what might be termed the first ist-busting era; the picture suit may her in [illegible] second such era, equally -reac[illegible] in its influence.

Department of Justice officials will t discuss policy, but enough has been id in the past to lead to the conclu- on that the film suit embodies the inciples of the department's avowed termination to protect and preserve mpetition in those industries in hich it still exists.

Block booking, fixing of admissions d other practices attacked in the it have been the subject of previous ses against motion picture com- nies, and the department's policy th respect thereto is well under- od.

The divorce phase of the proceeding, wever, offers a new issue, on which e department is basing a great deal dependence. In this respect, it has en admitted, the department's policy to eliminate vertical integration, that operation controlled by one concern om source of material to consumer stribution, a method particularly arked in the film and oil industries, it followed to more or less extent in e case of shoes, jewelry, and a num- r of other commodities.

"Divorcement" Vital Issue

Department officials firmly believe at control of retail outlets by pro- icers constitutes a restraint on com- tition. So wedded are they to this ea that it has been formally stated at if the courts rule against the overnment's petition for divorce of e major producers from exhibition d the two exhibition companies from oduction, the matter will be carried Congress with an appeal for such nendments to the anti-trust statutes may be necessary to make the de- rtment's position good.

The Government's petition, in a ord, sums up the whole philosophy the Administration that the "little an" in industry and trade is to be otected against his large corporate mpetitors. This was stated in one ragraph in the department's bill of mplaint, that "the petitioner's case based, in part, upon the fundamental oposition that the free competition joined upon American industry by e Sherman Anti-trust Act, and hich competition is sought to be pro- cted and preserved by that act, de- ands the existence of free markets.

"Free competition means a free and en market among both buyers and llers, in which the buyer does not ntrol the seller and the seller does t control the buyer."

Ohio Independents To Attend Ad Meet

bids to the New York meeting sent out by George J. Schaefer, campaign committee chairman. The I. T. O. sent a special bulletin to members urging them not to accept the bids, which it believed had been issued for a trade practice conference with distributors. The Ohio exhibitor organization earlier had adopted a resolution which recommended that its members decline to participate in a trade practice conference without advance authorization from national Allied.

When the purpose of the New York meeting had been clarified the leading independents here immediately accepted the invitation.

P. J. Wood, secretary of the Ohio unit, has written to Mr. Schaefer, saying, "We are always willing to cooperate in all matters which we believe will benefit the industry generally, but, on the other hand, we are going to do everything possible to protect ourselves against influences which we believe to be adverse to our interests.

"I want you to know that I stand ready and willing to cooperate with you in your present endeavor, and will, in my next bulletin, straighten ou the matter to your entire satisfaction."

activities for production expanded to include further features the Disney staff of 800 will be increased to 1,000 when the new buildings are ready for occupancy. The structure will be completely air conditioned.

With the increased space and enlarged staff Mr. Disney hopes to produce a cartoon feature each year instead of the present schedule of one every 18 months. He now is working on "Pinnochio" and "Bambi." The first will require 18 months of work and the second two years.

The reason Mr. Disney bought so much land was the refusal of the power and light bureau to split up the property. Virtually all of the present equipment of the Hyperion Ave. plant will be moved to the new quarters.

Jersey Spot to Try Film-Stage Policy

The Orheum Theatre in Jersey City on Thursday and Friday will present "Wife on Approval," a 70-minute dramatic stage offering, in conjunction with a single feature film bill.

Approve Plan on RKO Notes

Federal Judge William Bondy yesterday approved an application of the Irving Trust Co., as trustees of RKO, for authority to enter an agreement with the Bank of America National Trust & Savings Association and the Chemical Bank & Trust Co. to extend the maturity of secured six per cent gold notes of RKO. Under the proposed agreement payment of $100,000 now outstanding in secured gold notes will be extended so that payment of $50,000 now due Aug. 1, 1938 will be made Jan. 1, 1939, and $50,000 now due Sept. 1, 1938, will be extended to Feb. 1, 1939. The agreement also provided for interest of two per cent per annum, payable monthly.

The $100,000 in secured notes outstanding is the balance due on an issue of $6,000,000 made on July 1, 1931, which was secured by a pledge of substantially all the assets of RKO and its subsidiaries to the Chemical Bank & Trust Co. as trustee. The Bank of America is the present owner of the entire balance.

terday morning by Howard Dietz, chairman of the advertising committee, following his return to New York from Hollywood. While on the coast, Mr. Dietz advanced the plans for producer participation in the campaign.

A second meeting of leaders in the organizing work for the drive was held yesterday afternoon to discuss further the incomplete appropriation and budget plans. While the tentative appropriation has been set at $1,000,000—of which $700,000 is to come from producers and distributors and $300,000 from circuits — neither a budget for the drive nor the final details of assessments against producers, distributors and circuits has been completed. It is expected, however, that these details will be completed today in time for presentation of the campaign plans to the general meeting called by George J. Schaefer, chairman of the distributors' committee, for the Astor tomorrow morning.

Representation Complete

All home offices, major and independent, will be represented at the meeting and, in addition, more than 300 independent and affiliated circuit men and individual exhibitors from all parts of the country are expected. Virtually every major circuit, affiliated and unaffiliated, already has sent in acceptances to serve on the general committee.

Paul Gulick, former publicity manager for Universal, who was retained as coordinator on various phases of the committee's work, established headquarters yesterday on the second floor of the Loew Building, 1540 Broadway. S. Singerman, also formerly with Universal, is serving as assistant to Mr. Gulick. Other staff appointments will be made at a later date.

Predicts Spread of Theatre Television

London, July 25.—Hundreds of British film houses soon will be equipped with television apparatus, Robert Finnigan, president, predicted today at the annual conference of the National Association of Theatrical and Kine Employees, which is represented in theatres and studios.

Mr. Finnigan, in connection with his prediction, appealed to projectionists to be farsighted, and ultimately, he said, they will be the key men under the new regime. He declared his belief that the general public will not complain against an increase in the price of seats to insure "adequate" wages for theatre employes.

KUTA Will Join NBC

KUTA, Salt Lake City, will become the 154th station of NBC on Aug. 1, when it affiliates with NBC Mountain Group No. 10. It will be a supplementary outlet available only to advertisers using KLO in Ogden. The network rate for the new station will be $80 per evening hour. Oxenham of Sussex, who was blinded while fighting with the British forces in the World War and who has achieved fame in England as a golfer whose score is in the low 80's, will play an exhibition match to be broadcast on Ripley's "Believe It or Not" program Aug. 8. He arrived yesterday on the Europa with his personal caddy.

Academy 'Cavalcade' Planned as Air Show

Hollywood, July 25.—Academy of Motion Picture Arts and Sciences today stated that its proposed radio program would be called "Cavalcade of Hollywood" and would start on a network in the fall under commercial sponsorship. Except to say that the program format would be "entirely different" Academy officers would reveal nothing.

Grover Jones, veteran film writer, is chairman of the committee to arrange full details of the show, which will feature prominent film personalities. It was said the show will be weekly and will be either a half or full hour in length.

This radio innovation is the first major program point in the recently announced reorganization of the Academy, with its dropping of political and economic activities. The reason for reticence regarding the program plans is the desire for protection of the idea until definitely established. Academy officials declared they have contacted names in the industry and have promises of cooperation in the project.

Will End CBS Union Fight by NLRB Vote

Long standing differences as to whether technicians and engineers employed by CBS shall be represented by the Associated Broadcast Technicians, an unaffiliated union, or by the American Communications Association, a C.I.O. organization, will be decided by a vote, according to a National Labor Relations Board ruling. The elections will be held at all radio stations in the Columbia system, except KMOX at St. Louis.

The elections were ordered as a result of the conflicting membership claims of the two organizations.

Church to Head Air Work of Republicans

Ted Wells Church, formerly of NBC and CBS, and more recently business manager for the Kate Smith-Ted Collins combination, Kated, Inc., has been appointed director of radio activities of the Repubmlican National Committee, with headquarters in Washington. Mr. Church will serve as aid to Franklyn Waltman, Jr., recently appointed publicity director of the G.O.P.

Mr. Church, during the last presidential campaign, held a post with the Republican party somewhat similar to the one he will now take over.

Cantor on Radio Aug. 2

Eddie Cantor, who is in Europe to study the problems of, and raise funds for, the German-Jewish refugee childreen, will waste little time upon his return here in acquainting American listeners with what he has seen and learned in Europe. Returning to America on Aug. 1, the comedian will speak over the CBS network the following day from 5 to 5:15 P.M.

Eigen Returning to Air

Jack Eigen will return to the air over WMCA with a program of Broadway and Hollywood gossip tonight from 9:45 to 10 P.M., and Tuesdays through Saturdays at that time thereafter. Community Opticians will sponsor.

To Resume Hearings Today on WLW Plea

Washington, July 25.—Hearings on the application of WLW for continuance of its super-power permit will be resumed tomorrow, with the Federal Communications Commission prepared to launch its attack on the station's methods of operation.

The first week of the hearings were devoted exclusively to presentation by Crosley witnesses of testimony dealing with technical aspects of super-power operation. Foreseeing that little damaging testimony could be obtained from station officials, George B. Porter, commission counsel, cross-examined them only perfuntorily in most instances, most notable exception to this rule being when he interrogated James Shouse, vice-president, as to the steps taken by the station to assure itself of the integrity of the advertising it broadcast.

With the technical testimony nearly all concluded, the station will shortly rest its case and the commission will marshal testimony against continuance of the 500-kilowatt permit. The commission's attack will be based primarily upon the testimony of other broadcasters who have been summoned to Washington to relate the effect of WLW operations on their stations.

For some time, it is understood, the F.C.C. has been holding a number of complaints from broadcasters that WLW has taken advertising accounts away from them. The basis for this charge is the feeling among advertisers using WLW that other outlets even in remote parts of its secondary service area are unnecessary.

"Men Only" Back to Tuesday Spot on NBC

"For Men Only," which has been heard Wednesdays on the NBC-Red during the summer months, will return to its Tuesday, 8:30 to 9 P. M. spot for another year beginning Oct. 5, according to the terms of a contract signed with NBC by the Bristol-Myers Co. The program will be broadcast over 43 stations, with Fred Utell as "em cee," Peter Van Steeden's orchestra, and guest artists. Pedlar & Ryan is the agency.

The Musterole Co., according to another contract, will sponsor a series over the NBC-Blue beginning Oct. 10, Mondays, from 8 to 8:30 P. M., with Carson Robinson as the attraction. Erwin Wasey & Co. is the agency.

Gilcher in Preston Post

Vincent J. Gilcher, formerly manager of technical services in the NBC engineering department, has been appointed head of the company's general service division, succeeding Walter G. Preston, Jr. Mr. Preston was named assistant in charge of education to John F. Royal, NBC vice-president in charge of programs. William A. Following that meeting—should those who attend so will—the I.R.N.A. will again function officially.

RKO's first product announcement for the new season will be completed in two or three weeks and will include 12 to 16 titles scheduled for production during approximately the first quarter of the new season, S. COAL, MEAT CASES FILM PRECEDENTS

Anti-Trust Case Rulings To Be Cited in Film Industry Action

Washington, July 26.—Two important precedents to be used by the Government in its anti-trust suit against the film industry were set in the railroads-owned coal mines and packers' cases.

In the coal case the Government won its anti-trust action under which all carriers owning mines, or mines having an interest in railroads, were forced to divest themselves of those interests. The Government proved its charges, to the satisfaction of the court, that the community of interest between mines and carriers resulted in monopolistic control of freight handling in the mine areas and also permitted arbitrary establishment of both freight rates and coal prices.

The anti-trust action against meat packers, although it accomplished the Government's primary objective of divestment by the packers of their in-

Plenty of Time

It isn't often that a newsworthy occurrence will wait upon the convenience of the newsreel cameramen. But yesterday it happened.

The man who spent hours on a 17th floor ledge of the Hotel Gotham before jumping to his death at 10:40 P.M., unwittingly gave the usually hurried newsreel boys plenty of time to get on the job and to take all kinds of shots—which they did.

Year's Ticket Tax Gains $1,060,587

Washington, July 26.—Despite the new depression, Federal collections from the admission tax for the fiscal year ended June 30, last, ran $1,060,587.71 ahead of those of the preceding year, totaling $20,800,779.49 against $19,704,191.78, according to the Bureau of Internal Revenue.

All of the gain, however, was due to the heavy collections during the first half of the fiscal year, receipts for the six months, January to June, amounting only to $9,346,762.40 which was $173,251.84 under the $9,520,014.24 collected in the same period in 1937.

Admission tax collections for the month of June were reported by the Bureau as $1,624,453.11, nearly $230,000 above the $1,394,659.49 received

Warners Ask Exchange of Debentures for New Issue

Warners yesterday sent a letter to the holders of its optional six per cent convertible debentures, due Sept. 1, 1939, asking them to deposit their debentures under a plan of exchange whereby the debentures will be exchanged for an equal principal amount of new six per cent debentures maturing in 1948. There are $29,400,000 of the debentures outstanding.

The letter, signed by Albert Warner, vice-president, notes that the debentures were issued in the total amount of $44,064,500, of which $14,664,500 have been retired, leaving the $29,400,000 still outstanding. It says that the company has been unsuccessful in obtaining a satisfactory underwriting of the public sale of new securities to provide funds for the retirement of the debentures, due to general conditions. It declares that from the standpoint of debenture-holders and the company, "it has become increasingly desirable that steps be taken at this time to meet the approaching maturity of the outstanding debentures."

Under the exchange plan formulated, transferable certificates of deposit will be issued for debentures deposited, and the certificates will be

Para. Theatre Men Hold Meeting Here

The first of a series of business conferences between Paramount theatre operating associates and home office officials was held here yesterday and will continue throughout the week.

The conferences here, which were planned in place of the annual convention of the Paramount theatre partners such as was held in Florida last year, will be followed within the next few weeks by a second meeting in Chicago, according to Y. Frank Freeman, vice-president and theatre head of Paramount.

Attending the local conferences are H. F. Kincey of North Carolina; M. A. Lightman, Memphis; William Jenkins, Atlanta; Martin Mullin and Samuel Pinanski, Boston; J. J. Fitzgibbons, Toronto; R. J. O'Donnell, Dallas; Ralph Branton, Des Moines; John Balaban, Chicago, and Hunter Perry, Virginia.

Korda to Produce in French at Joinville

Alexander Korda, head of London Films, will make four or five French films at Joinville for world distribution at a cost of $100,000 to $125,000 each, Morris Helprin, London Films' advertising and publicity representative here, said on his return yesterday from England.

English versions of the films may be made by Mr. Korda at Denham. Mr. Helprin, who arrived on the Ile de France, reported that production at the Korda studio is proceeding rapidly. "Prison Without Bars," remake of a French film, was completed this week. "Four Feathers" is in production and a crew will be sent to the Sudan for two months for location shots.

Also arriving was Alfred Krellberg, attorney and associate of his brother, S. S. Krellberg, in film deals. He brought over six French pictures, one of which is "Street Without Joy," remake of a film produced years ago with Greta Garbo. The new version stars Dita Parlo. It is scheduled for a run at the Belmont, operated by S. S. Krellberg. Mr. Krellberg also attended to legal matters in London and Paris.

Actors Federation To License Agents

Thet American Federation of Actors has begun to license all agents who book organization members and has set Sept. 1 as a deadline for the completion of the licensing. After that date, according to Ralph Whitehead, executive secretary of the A.F.A., agents who have not obtained licenses will be placed on an "unfair" list.

The provisions of the licenses, it was said, will require adherence on the part of agents to a "closed shop" and approved working conditions agreement. On the other hand, members of the organization will be permitted to deal only with licensed agents. The A.F.A. said that the Rockwell-O'Keefe agency is inserting clauses in its contracts which will specify that the performer under contract must be a member in good standing in the A.F.A., or must agree to become one.

Equity Signs Deal For Ticket Control

Contracts establishing a code of fair practices for legitimate theatre ticket sales were signed yesterday by Actors Equity Association and the League of N. Y. Theatres, representing the performers and the producing managers, respectively.

The agreement will become effective Sept. 1 and will remain in force for a year. It specifies that at least 25 per cent of the seats in individual theatres be made available at the box-office at established prices; that no orchestra seat may be sold through a broker for more than 75 cents, plus tax, more than the box-office price, and no balcony seat for more than 50 cents, plus tax, over the box-office price. An enforcement fund for the agreement will be maintained by a five-cent levy on every ticket sold through a broker.

Condor Plan Will Go To Court by Aug. 10

A plan for reorganization of Condor Pictures, which is in 77B, is scheduled to be submitted to the Federal court in Los Angeles about Aug. 10, according to Lou Rantz, a former official of the company.

The plan will be proposed by Albert H. Lieberman of Philadelphia, representing the largest group of stockholders. It will provide capital of $200,000 to satisfy creditors and for production of a series of eight action films for Grand National release, Mr. Rantz said. Mr. Lieberman formerly was treasurer of Condor.

The company has 21 films which have been released during the last two and a half years. The reorganization plan is subject to the approval of two-thirds of the stockholders.

Mr. Rantz left last night for Hollywood to start production Aug. 4 on "Topsy." The cast will feature Eileen Porter, whom he discovered in Philadelphia, and Clarence Muse.

A second film scheduled by Mr. Rantz, in collaboration with Ted Richmond, Hollywood producer, is "Show Them No Mercy," described as an expose of penal institutions based on a series of newspaper stories.

To Ask British Law On Wages and Hours

London, July 26.—The National Association of Theatrical and Kine Employes resolved at the annual conference today to work toward a national program of legislation governing wages and working conditions in the entire entertainment industry.

The organization's aims include a maximum work week of 48 hours (less for women and boys), a minimum age limit, projectionists' wages from 37 shillings, six pence to £6 for the highest grade. The wage recommendations are seen as an attempt to divorce projectionists from the Electrical Trades Union. One delegate declared that girls in one section are paid 10 shillings for a 68-hour week.

"Show Boat" Rights Acquired by M-G-M

Hollywood, July 26.—Film rights to "Show Boat," Edna Ferber's novel, and to the musical play by Jerome Kern and Oscar Hammerstein, II, have been acquired by M-G-M.

In 1929 Universal made it into a film with Laura La Plante as star and the same company produced it again in 1936, with Irene Dunne in the featured role. The cast for the forthcoming treatment by M-G-M has not been chosen.

The six-month statement, likewise, will not equal the company's statement for the first six months of 1937.

Attorneys Confer On North Dakota "Divorce" Decree

taken from the decision to the U. S. Supreme Court until the decree has been completed and signed by the lower court. Efforts will be made to have the decree continue the temporary injunction in force which restrains North Dakota officials from enforcing the state divorcement law until the case has been decided by the Supreme Court. If no agreement can be reached by opposing counsel, Paramount attorneys will be obliged to start separate proceedings in the form of an application for a writ of supersedeas to continue the injunction in force pending the appeal to the Supreme Court.

Paramount has 90 days after the signing of the decree in which to file an appeal with the high court. Simultaneously, it was learned that the Paramount and Interstate Circuit appeal from the Dallas Federal Court decision holding contracts between distributors and the circuits which sought to enforce minimum admissions and anti-double featuring clauses on subsequent runs to be illegal, has been filed with the U. S. Supreme Court. The case may be reached for hearing by the end of the year, it was said.

Seeks Special Law To Ban "Blockade"

BOSTON, July 26.—State Senator Thomas M. Burke of Boston today asked the rules committee of the state legislature to suspend the rules so as to admit a bill authorizing the Massachusetts Department of Public Safety to revoke the licenses of theatres showing "Blockade." Mr. Burke declared that the picture was "nothing but an attempt to thrust upon the people of this state the propaganda of the Communist Party."

"Blockade" is showing to heavy business at Loew's State and Orpheum, where it opened Thursday following the refusal of Mayor Maurice Tobin to ban it as the City Council had unanimously recommended.

Coal, Packer Decisions Up In Film Case

terest in retail meat stores, ended in a consent decree and, for that reason, established no legal precedent.

Practically every important anti-trust case of recent years in which were involved issues similar to those raised in the film suit will be used by the Government as a basis for argument. Among these are cases involving the steel, oil and other large industries.

While the Department of Justice maintains a strict policy of not discussing pending cases, there was no hesitancy today in explaining that precedents are sought wherever possible because of the practice of courts in giving weight to past decisions. This is particularly true of the Supreme Court where every opinion is interspersed with sub-citations.

ITO Insists Trade Should Govern Self

The I.T.O.A. "still maintains the stand that self-regulation would be best for the industry," despite the Government's contention that its anti-trust suit against the eight major companies is for the benefit of the independents.

This comment is made in The Independent, publication of the I.T.O.A., which recalls that the organization repeatedly has "asked that the distributors and producers take notice of the handwriting on the wall and give to exhibitors the concessions they are rightfully entitled to." It is also declared that "self-regulation would be the wisest thing the industry could do for itself."

Allied to Discuss Suit

The Government's anti-trust suit and the trade practice program now in work will be discussed at a meeting of Allied of New Jersey at the Berkeley-Carteret in Asbury Park today. New York meetings will be resumed in September.

Selznick Talks Hold Silverstone on Coast

Silverstone today said he would remain here possibly two weeks longer. He declared he was talking daily with Mr. Selznick on production matters as well as the new pact to replace the one which expires when Mr. Selznick delivers two more films to U. A. Concerning the progress of the negotiations Mr. Silverstone said:

"Mr. Selznick and I understand each other perfectly and are in complete accord."

Durante Asks Dismissal

Jimmy Durante will apply today to N. Y. Supreme Court Justice Peter Schmuck for an order dismissing the suit of Morton A. Milman against him for the recovery of $4,800 allegedly due as commission. Mr. Milman claims he secured employment for Mr. Durante as a radio performer for 24 weeks.

Director Guild Hits Producer Associates

said the rehabilitation of the industry lies in changing the present system of production, "eliminating the involved, complicated and expensive system of supervision which separates director and writer from the responsible executive producers."

The guild, which will have a hearing Aug. 22 before the National Labor Relations Board examiner on a petition asking to be declared sole collective bargaining agency for directors, assistants and unit managers, cited figures showing that whereas the number of directors with feature credits in 1926-'27 was 246, the number dropped to 234 in 1936-'37 and the number of producers, including supervisors and associates, rose in the same period from 34 to 220. The guild said this was despite the fact that American made features numbered 743 in 1927 and 484 in 1937.

Capra Supervised Preparation

The guild declared that the best pictures are largely those in which the director has had real participation in the dramatic and mechanical structure from its inception in direct association with the executive producers and without the interference of intermediaries. Continuing, it declared, "The director has for ten years been steadily pushed out of his initiating role and has thereby been less able to offer the industry his technique, inspiration and mechanical skill. These have been taken over by minor executives unfamiliar with dramatic construction for the purpose of motion pictures, unfamiliar with the physical problems and possibilities of actual production and divorced from the spontaneous life of story, which the actors and director together live on the set for first time."

Copies of the analysis, which was prepared under the supervision of Frank Capra, guild president, were distributed today.

Fred Beetson, executive vice-president of the Association of Motion Picture Producers, this afternoon said that his office had not received a copy of the guild statement and so had no comment.

Retitle Columbia Picture

Hollywood, July 26.—The Columbia film formerly known as "West of Santa Fe" will be released under the title, "The Colorado Trail."

Casey Asks Decision On Status of Extras

A decision as to whether or not approximately 20,000 Hollywood extras are affected by the provisions of the new Federal maximum hour and minimum wage bill will be sought by Pat Casey, producers' labor representative, in Washington within the next few days.

The bill will become effective Oct. 15. It exempts "professionals," but no ruling has been obtained yet as to whether film extras will be called "professional" workers. The bill established a 44-hour maximum work week.

Mr. Casey is deferring his return to Hollywood, he said, until a ruling has been obtained from Washington. A delay in obtaining the ruling, however, would result in his leaving for the coast some time next week.

No requests for an annual meeting on basic wage and hour agreements have been received yet from any of the studio internationals, Mr. Casey said.

tween 20 and 60 per cent ahead of average weekly business in five key city situations, according to the Paramount home office. The spots are San Antonio, Kansas City, Salt Lake City, Dallas and Houston.

Kendor in Carmel Spot

Kendor Productions, Inc., producers of a series of "New Talent" musical shorts, has taken over the Rockridge Theatre and Rockridge School of Theatre and Screen in Carmel, N. Y. The new setup will be under the management of W. Ray Cozine of Kendor, assisted by Robert Kendall Goodhue of the William Morris Agency. First two productions of the season, "Away From It All" and "Old Autumn," will star Aline McMahon and Marie Kenney, respectively.

Sue Over Shelby House

Shelby, O., July 26.—H. B. and D. W. Brickley, owners of the Opera House here, who leased the building to the Lion Theatre Corp. for six years from Jan. 1, 1935, have filed suit in Common Pleas Court seeking to regain possession of the property. Plaintiffs contend the defendants are three months in arrears in the rent.

Warners Ask Exchange of Debentures for New Issue

listed on the New York Stock Exchange. Registered holders of certificates will be entitled to interest on the deposited debentures.

The new debentures will bear the same rate of interest as the present debentures, six per cent, and will mature Sept. 1, 1948. They will be authorized in the maximum of $29,400,000 and will be issued only in exchange for the present debentures. The new debentures provide for a sinking fund under which there will be retired three per cent of the large aggregate principal amount of debentures which shall have been outstanding at any one time, on Dec. 15 of 1939, 1940, 1941; four per cent on Dec. 15 of 1942, 1943 and 1944; and five per cent on Dec. 15 of 1945, 1946 and 1947.

The letter points out that the company has always paid the interest on the day of maturity and has retired the full amount of debentures required under the purchase fund. The New York Trust Co. is named in the letter as depositary.

British Deal Assures "U" New Finances

Woolf, head of G.F.D., and associates, beginning with the new releasing season and continuing until the amount is paid off.

Mr. Cowdin was gone [illegible] weeks. On his arrival he authorized a formal statement saying "he had concluded a new distribution agreement with General Film Distributors for Universal's product in Great Britain for a long period of years on a much more satisfactory basis for both."

The statement also said that Mr. Cowdin's associates in Great Britain "had arranged for a very large sum of money to be placed at the company's disposal for a substantial length of time, which will enable next year's program to be strengthened still further."

An additional comment was that Mr. Cowdin "was very much pleased with the progress of the company's business throughout Europe."

To Give Details Today

Mr. Cowdin will give details of the new arrangements to the directors at a meeting tomorrow. He said that the board does not have to ratify the agreements and that they are in force. He may go to the coast to confer on production in about two weeks, he said, but in the meantime will discuss plans with Clifford Work, general manager of the studio, who is in New York. Mr. Cowdin declared there will be no changes in the studio's executive personnel.

Joseph H. Seidelman, vice-president in charge of foreign distribution, is in London and will remain abroad another two months, Mr. Cowdin said.

Improved conditions, as compared with May, were general throughout most of the United States, the bureau's figures indicated. Collections in the Third New York (Broadway) District j[illegible]ed from $415,798.28 to $424,171.49[illegible] were well under the $552,841.44 recorded in June of last year.

Greatest improvement in the New York district was shown in box-office collections of the tax, which increased from $350,402.52 in May to $374,572.66 in June; collections on free or reduced rate admissions also increased, from $4,278 to $4,485.66, as did receipts from the permanent use or lease of boxes and seats, from $55.44 to $715.40. Other sources showed declines, receipts from tickets sold by brokers dropping from $14,440.23 to $7,903.34; tickets sold at more than established price dropping from $3,642.53 to $672.66, and admissions to roof gardens and cabarets dropping from $42,979.56 to $35.821.77.

Decision Reserved In Grossman Action

Supreme Court Justice Peter Schmuck yesterday reserved decision on the application of Edward M. Grossman to be allowed to intervene as a plaintiff in the eight consolidated stockholders suits now pending against Loew's Inc., its officers and directors and the Bank of America National Trust & Savings Association.

Mr. Grossman contended that since he had been stayed by an order of Justice Schmuck from prosecuting his individual stockholder suit seeking to cancel contracts between Loew's, Inc., and some of its officers, pending final decision in the eight consolidated suits, he should be allowed to intervene as a party plaintiff.

Hollywood Previews

"The Terror of Tiny Town"

(Principal)

Hollywood, July 26.—Columnists have been telling the public about this picture for quite a spell now, without really telling much about it. They have made widely known that the cast is made up entirely of midgets, and that it's a western, but they haven't revealed that the midgets play the picture as earnestly, professionally and melodramatically as any aggregation of full-statured performers ever played one. By managing it so, Producer Jed Buell has turned out a film that is a distinct novelty and, more than that, a new kind of motion picture, incidentally a promiseful first in what Sol Lesser plans as a series.

The original screenplay by Fred Myton is a thoroughly typical western story about rival ranchers and the bad man whose cattle rustling and stage robbing is credited by each cowman to the other. It has in it as headlong a stage holdup, as fierce a hand-to-hand battle between hero and villain, as realistic a dynamite explosion as any western melodrama of contemporary release. And it has four song numbers by Lew Porter, with Phil Stern collaborating on one of them, that are as singable as any.

In his direction of the midgets Sam Newfield made no concessions to size. They ride, shoot, fight, etc., like the characters in a red hot western should. He allows only one descent to gag technique, achieved by dubbing robust voices into a quartet-number, a passing and diverting relief from strict realism. Naturally, the size of the players, who work against full dimension backgrounds, gives the film consistently humorous appeal. The midgets' utter seriousness of performance is more amusing than any kidding attitude could have been.

"Booloo"

(Paramount)

Hollywood, July 26.—Clyde E. Elliott went into the Malayan jungles and photographed much footage of nature in the raw. His shots of animal fights between tigers and leopards, tigers and water buffalo, serpent trappings and the comic antics of monkeys, birds and bear cubs are of the stuff which made earlier wild life films interesting entertainment.

Brought to Hollywood, the footage was chopped up and sandwiched into a hard-to-believe melodramatic romantic yarn. So much hokum has been included that the value of the jungle material, though still potent, is blunted. As far as entertainment is concerned, "Booloo" again proves that animals are good actors.

In the story a white tiger is worshipped as a god. They regularly sacrifice the most beautiful girl in the tribe. All this is presented to the tune of much thrill, excitement and spectacle as far as the beasts and savages are concerned. The remote control romance which is carried on via short wave radio is about as unreal.

Elliott collected all the jungle material and did it well. Hollywood imagination demonstrated conclusively how difficult it is to improve on nature.

Running time, 60 minutes. "G."

Invents Ticket Machine

Anderson, S. C., July 26.—Percy C. Osteen, owner of the Carolina, has invented a machine which automatically takes, records and destroys the ticket of the patron.

As the patron drops his ticket into a small box, the mechanism releases revolving arms and allows him to enter the theatre. After the admittance the arms become locked and remain so until another ticket is deposited in the slot.

When the ticket goes into the box, it is taken between small rollers, automatically recorded and destroyed.

Jacocks, Jr., chairman of the committee, reports. Invitations to attend the event, scheduled for Aug. 2 at the Racebrook Country Club, are expected to draw a larger number than ever before.

New Light Plan at M. H.

An innovation in stage lighting which makes it possible to change costume colors into numerous different shades—all within view of the audience—is now being used for the first time in public in "Gotham Gleanings," the Rockette number at the Music Hall. The system may revolutionize stage color lighting, according to W. G. Van Schmus.

Midnight Shows Now Invade Small Towns

Kansas City, July 26.—Out in the smaller towns, where Saturday night is the traditional time of the week for staying up late, exhibitors are finding that "midnight shows," long a feature of metropolitan first run houses, are successful in adding extra revenue.

An instance in point is the Lyric at Plattsburg, Mo., where Tom Wilhoit is running one of the late shows, a preview of the Sunday program. The idea has been successful, and Wilhoit will continue the policy. At Savannah, Mo., another town under 2,500, M. B. Presley recently started midnight shows with good results.

To Film Commons in Propaganda Series

London, July 26.—The use of the theatre screen as a medium of popularizing the principles of democracy is planned in England, it is indicated by the revelation of plans to make films inside the House of Commons.

The photographing of the historic hall marked the writing of a new chapter in the history of British motion pictures, when motion picture cameras invaded the sacred precincts of the House of Commons. Permission was granted Bruce Woolfe of G.B. Instructional Film to photograph, with three cameras, the traditional ceremonial of the Speaker's procession to the House.

ONE glance at the faces of the important radio executives in a Waldorf-Astoria elevator and it could be seen that only dignity kept the men from dropping to their knees and cooing at the young lady who had entered. She was Shirley Temple, and the broadcasters were of the I.R.N.A. group. Ill at ease and "bumpkinish" at unexpectedly meeting the cinema's young darling, the strain was relieved by dimpled Shirley who, with perfect savoir faire, smiled sweetly and said, "Hello."

A few weeks ago, it will be recalled, the NBC television camera "caught" the death leap of a young woman. Yesterday a man climbed out on a ledge of the 17th floor of the Hotel Gotham, and for several hours clung there, while a crowd of onlookers, policemen, firemen and newsreel men pleaded with him not to jump. Television played a part in this drama, too, for NBC maintains a television setup in the building across the street from the Gotham, and the network called upon the news services to send reporters to the lab to view the sight through the television lens. The man leaped to his death at 10:40 P. M.

WASHINGTON, July 26.—Presenta

of its super-power permit was co

the station has earmarked a sufficien ordered by the commission.

From the tenor of the testimony,
was indicated that the Crosley Co. wa

the case to the courts should the com

super-power license.

Declaring that power and program were the two major factors contribut

Shouse testified that the Crosley C went into broadcasting in 1921 in th belief that better programs would in crease the sale of receivers, of whic it was a manufacturer. The statio he said, was one of the first to us
500 watts power, and the first to us
5,000, 50,000 or 500,000 watts.

Disputes "Super Power"

Mr. Shouse protested the use of th words super-power in dealing wit transmitter wattage, pointing out tha in the early '20's 500 watts was con sidered super-power. While the sta tion may have 500,000 watts at th transmitter, he explained, a listene
50 miles away receives its signal o a power of but four ten-thousandth about one millionth of a watt.

Following the completion of his di examined at length by Commissio

submitted Federal Trade Commissio

"Ragtime" Air Show Points To New Trend

Completion of plans for the broadcast of 20th Century-Fox's "Alexander's Ragtime Band" over CBS Aug. 3, which now promises to be one of the most elaborate film previews ever presented on the air, focuses attention to the increasing trend by all major studios to exploit their output via radio, indicating that the industry's objections to the broadcasting of screen previews, and the presentation of screen players and material on the air, so marked just a season or two ago, has largely been overcome.

Independent Exhibitors Join Majors and Affiliated Circuits in Record Drive For Business; Contest Included

All branches of the industry joined yesterday at the Astor Hotel in pledging wholehearted support to the national advertising and promotion campaign to be undertaken this fall and winter to stimulate theatre business and effect a general improvement in the industry's public relations.

More than 300 representative industry figures, most of them independent theatre operators from every section of the country, gave their approval at the meeting to the basic plans for the campaign and its broad objectives as described by George J. Schaefer and Howard Dietz, representing the working committees which have formulated the plans over the past three weeks.

Approximately $1,000,000 will be expended on the campaign which will extend from Sept. 1 to Dec. 31, embracing all pictures released from Aug. 1 to Oct. 31. The basis of the drive, regarded as the most ambitious promotional undertaking ever attempted by the industry, will be a $250,000 prize contest to be staged in such a manner that attendance at the nation's theatres will be essential to qualify any entrant for participating in the 5,000 prizes which will be awarded within the span of the campaign.

Mr. Schaefer told the meeting that it was the belief of the working committees that $1,600,000 could be added to the national box-office grosses every week for the 13 weeks of the campaign as a result of the business stimuli which would be brought into play. This figure, Mr. Schaefer said, represents only a 10 per cent increase in the average weekly box-office gross. The actual gross improvement may be as much as 20 per cent, he said, or more than $40,000,000 for the 13-week campaign.

The national advertising will appear in every daily newspaper in the country, it was disclosed, thus benefiting every city, town and hamlet of sufficient size to support a daily publication. All of this advertising will call attention specifically to the local theatres participating in the campaign, to the new season pictures playing those theatres and to the necessity of seeing those pictures in order to qualify contestants for winning prize awards.

Details of the $250,000 contest have still to be worked out by a national exhibitor committee appointed yesterday by Mr. Schaefer. It is evident, however, that a form of questionnaire, obtainable only at theatres participating in the campaign, will be devised which will make it necessary for con-

Over $825,000 Is Pledged; $175,000 Sought for Drive

More than $825,000 has been pledged toward the $1,000,000 cooperative advertisng campaign and business drive which the industry will launch Sept. 1, Gradwell L. Sears of the campaign's executive committee, said following the general industry meeting at the Astor yesterday.

Producing and distributing companies have pledged $500,000 and affiliated theatres a minimum of $250,000, contingent upon the subscription of the remaining $250,000 by independent theatres. The latter are asked to contribute at the rate of 10 cents per seat. At yesterday's meeting 744 theatres, representing 750,000 seats, pledged $75,000. Non-participating theatres will not be included in the national contest designed to draw continuous patronage to participating theatres throughout the campaign.

Frank C. Walker, head of Comerford Theatres, was named treasurer of the campaign fund and will receive all pledges of contributions.

The general budget for the campaign, as outlined by George J. Schaefer, allots $575,000 to $600,000

May Be Annual

That the industry's cooperative campaign to increase theatre attendance and advertise the more than 100 initial new season releases of all companies may be staged annually hereafter was suggested by George J. Schaefer at the Astor Hotel meeting yesterday.

"Out of this may come an even more effective plan which the industry can employ year after year," Mr. Schaefer said.

Chaplin, Samuel Goldwyn, himself and his law partner, Edward C. Raftery. These comprise the United Artists defendants.

So far as could be learned within the industry none of the defendants has yet been served with a subpoena by the U. S. Marshal's office. The defendants have 20 days after service in which to file an answer to the Government's complaint, but in actions of the scope of this one an additional 20 days in which to answer is granted almost automatically. Further time is frequently granted thereafter for acceptable reasons.

Indications are that it will require almost a month to complete service on the 167 defendants.

British Censors Bar Anti-Dictator Films

The British policy of "appeasement" in dealing with dictator nations has influenced the banning of "The Fight for Peace" in Great Britain and March of Time's "Inside Nazi Germany" by the British censors in Hong Kong.

"The Fight for Peace" throws the spotlight on Italy and Germany. J. J. Milstein, head of Warwick Pictures, says it was banned because of the British desire to prevent any occurrence which might offend Hitler and Mussolini. He described the film as "definitely anti-Fascist."

Mr. Milstein was prevented from closing a deal for distribution of the picture in the United Kingdom as a result of the ban. He returned Tuesday from London. He said the film is showing in Canada and a deal is on for France.

"Inside Nazi Germany" was scheduled for showing at two theatres in Hong Kong and censor approval had been obtained when the censor recalled the film for showing to a representative of the German consulate. The ban followed. The censors in the British Isles and Australia passed the film some weeks ago.

Museum Draws 75,000

Attendance in the first two weeks at the "Marie Antoinette" Museum at the Astor exceeded 75,000, the second week showing an increase over the first, according to a tally by M-G-M. The display will occupy the Astor until Aug. 16, when the film will have its local premiere.

Insist Astor Employ Members of TMAT

Demand that the Astor employ members of the Theatrical Managers, Agents and Treasurers Union is being made by the union on the ground that since it is selling reserved seats for the run of "Marie Antoinette," starting Aug. 16, it is a legitimate house and therefore comes within the union's jurisdiction.

The union's board will meet tomorrow to decide whether action should be taken against the theatre. A spokesman said that pickets may be posted over the weekend.

The T.M.A.T. submitted demands for recognition to the circuits last spring but so far the circuit heads have shown little or no interest. The union claims jurisdiction over managers, assistant managers and press agents and has conceded cashiers to the I.A.T.S.E. along with doormen, ushers and the like.

The union claims it has jurisdiction where reserved seat tickets are sold. It intends to ask M-G-M to sign a contract for all "Marie Antoinette" roadshows, providing for a union manager and press agent at each house. Disputes with Fox West Coast in Los Angeles and the Minnesota Amusement Co. in Minneapolis led to complaints filed by the union with the National Labor Relations Board.

Prudential Extends One-Feature Policy

Irwin Wheeler of Prudential and Playhouses Operating Co. is experimenting with a single feature policy in about 15 of his theatres in Westchester and on the easterly end of Long Island.

In various polls the circuit discovered an overwhelming preference for single features, Mr. Wheeler said, but when they complied with what seemed to be the expressed wish of patrons in a Rye theatre they discovered most of the theatre patrons wanted double features.

Lately there has been a drive among patrons for single features and this time the theatre policy is meeting with success, especially in Rye and New Haven.

Mr. Wheeler is playing double features Sunday and Monday and singles, with a newsreel and a short, the rest of the week.

They are checking calls which come in on the single feature policy with personal inquiries at the box-office and are extending the experiment as the situation warrants.

Hoffman's Old Firm To Release 23 Films

Twenty-three pictures which were made by Allied Pictures Corp., organized by M. H. Hoffman in 1932, are to be distributed on a states right basis and the proceeds will be turned over to the creditors, according to T. H. Richmond of Hollywood, who is here working out the deal.

Mr. Richmond represents creditors grouped in the Motion Picture Industries Credit Association. Consolidated Film Laboratory, a major creditor, has been paid in full, he said.

The 23 films have been in litigation since the company met financial difficulties several years ago. The present deal calls for their reissue. Among them are 11 Hoot Gibson westerns, three Lew Cody films and pictures with Myrna Loy and Ginger Rogers.

Losey Has 40 School Films Ready to Edit

Contribution of 40 Hollywood features, newsreels and other films from major producing companies, and a few foreign pictures, for re-editing and cutting into shorts for experimental educational purposes has been completed by Joseph Losey, who is associated with the Commission on Human Relations of the Progressive Educational Association.

The project, financed by a Rockefeller grant and sponsored by the commission, is also working with the Hays office exploring joint distribution possibilities between the commission and the major companies.

Most Majors Contributed

At present, the commission has contracts through which it is enabled to obtain films from all the major producers except Columbia and Universal. Under a Rockefeller grant of $75,000 for the first year they cut and distributed 35 pictures. This year's grant of $69,000 will enable them to do 40 pictures and carry through part of 1939.

At present the commission is distributing its special shorts to 16 schools from Oakland, Cal., to New York, public, private, parochial and special. There are no public showings and no admission is charged the students of high school age who view them.

The idea is to see what films do to children, to measure their influence on young minds reacting to various human situations and problems.

The films don't teach anything; they are designed to be as inconclusive as possible and by showing typical human relationship problems, to stimulate the children to arrive at their own conclusions on social problems.

Students Tested

Psychologists affiliated with the commission give "attitude" tests before students see the films. A second set of "attitude" tests is given at a fixed time after the students have seen the pictures. The results of these tests are being tabulated.

Films which have been purchased and edited for the commission's work include "Zola," "Pasteur" and "Black Legion," from Warners; "Fury," "The Devil Is a Sissy," "Captains Courageous" and "Men in White" from M-G-M. Three shorts have been made from "The Devil Is a Sissy" and three or four will be made from "Captains Courageous." From 20th Century-Fox those obtained include several in the Jones family series; from RKO "The Informer" and "Animal Kingdom"; from United Artists "Arrowsmith," "Dodsworth" and "Dead End," and from Paramount "Ruggles of Red Gap," "If I Had a Million."

The shorts run from three minutes to one and one-half reels.

Assets to Be Auctioned

The office furniture and other assets of Stagecraft Studios, Inc., will be sold at auction to be held on Aug. 6, under orders of the N. Y. Supreme Court.

testants to see the pictures in order to fill out the questionnaires and qualify for prizes. Thus, in addition to the box-office stimulant of national advertising of pictures released during the campaign, there will be a powerful, direct incentive for increased theatre attendance in all sections of the country. Canadian theatres will also participate.

The first national advertising will appear Sept. 1. It will be augmented by the release of a one or two-reel entertainment subject, to be produced cooperatively by Hollywood studios, employing outstanding talent, which will explain the contest to all theatregoers. The reel will be supplied without charge to all participating theatres. The campaign will be augmented by national publicity, by marquee, lobby and screen accessories, and by personal appearances of a "small army" of Hollywood players. The national slogan for the campaign will be "Movies Are Your Best Entertainment."

Leading Exhibitors Participate

On the exhibitor committee named to work out details of the contest are Nathan Yamins, Boston; R. E. Griffith, Oklahoma City; Joseph Seider, New York; Moe Horowitz, Cleveland; Edward Silverman, Chicago; John Danz, Seattle, and M. A. Lightman, Memphis. The committee represents all types of independent theatre operation and will also be charged with fund-raising for the campaign in their own localities. The committee conducted its first meeting yesterday afternoon in the office of Mr. Schaefer.

Citing the need for such a business drive as that proposed, Mr. Schaefer told the meeting that four major factors are involved in the recent decline in theatre attendance and box-office grosses. He described them as the general national business recession; the seasonal or summer slump in theatre attendance; "too much loose talk" on internal industry affairs which reached the public to the detriment of the box-office, and unfavorable editorial and columnist comment on motion pictures.

Schaefer Asks More "Kick"

The first two, Mr. Schaefer said, cannot be overcome by better product alone. "An added kick" is needed, he said. The campaign is designed to supply that and, conceivably, could improve box-office business by 50 per cent. The industry, itself, he continued, must impose internal restraints on the few who indulge in "loose talk and are too anxious to break into print."

Editorial expressions, Mr. Schaefer conceded, "are difficult to control," but the campaign might bring about a better understanding of the industry's problems and, with it, more restraint in newspaper and commentators' observations of industry affairs.

Mr. Dietz reported subsequently that some publishers already had given the industry assurances of better cooperation in their treatment of motion picture news and comment. He intimated that the industry publicity committee set up in Hollywood last week to cooperate in the work on the national campaign would play a part in the "policing" of that end of the industry to minimize what was frequently referred to as "loose talk" from within.

Vincent Hits Loose Talk

The subject of unfavorable publicity emanating from within the industry was referred to frequently, both from the dais and the floor. Exhibitors who were present left little doubt that its unfavorable influence had reacted at the box-office. Walter Vincent, head of the Wilmer & Vincent circuit, at one point asked for a pledge from everyone present to refrain from adverse comment on product and industry affairs in public.

Mr. Schaefer, however, emphasized that the primary objective of the campaign was to stimulate theatre attendance and increase box-office receipts. He likened it to the recent national business and advertising campaigns conducted by the used car dealers, the ice, coal, textile, baking and electrical appliances industries, and pointed out that the motion picture industry with its screens, lobbies and marquees, has in these the most effective means of addressing the public, in addition to all the other advertising media available to other industries in conducting their campaigns.

"Challenge and Stimulant"

Mr. Schaefer described the drive as "one of the most constructive moves which have happened in the industry," but he reminded the meeting that it needs the cooperation of 15,000 to 16,000 exhibitors to make it a success. He said the campaign should be a "challenge and stimulant" to Hollywood, encouraging it to do its best, and to exhibitors and distributors "an experience in better methods and policies for the merchandising of their product.

"There has been in the industry a letdown in advertisng budgets and showmanship," Mr. Schaefer concluded. "The campaign should be the remedy for all of this."

On the dais were: George J. Schaefer, chairman; Howard Dietz, Robert M. Gillham, Charles E. McCarthy, Spyros Skouras, Y. Frank Freeman, John J. O'Connor, Joseph Bernhard, Gradwell L. Sears, Frank C. Walker, C. C. Moskowitz and Herman Wobber.

The national advertising will appear in 1,979 daily newspapers—every daily publication in the United States—and will aggregate 4,500 lines in each publication. The number of insertions into which this lineage will be broken down has not been determined yet, but it will probably vary from three to eight separate insertions. National agencies actively working in the film field, such as Donahue & Coe, Lord & Thomas, J. Walter Thompson, Buchanan, Biow, and Blaine-Thompson, will be active in the campaign. Working with them will be the campaign's advertising committee, consiting of Howard Dietz, Charles E. McCarthy and Robert Gillham. Advertising managers of all companies will cooperate.

Claims WLW Hits Smaller Broadcasters

WASHINGTON, July 27.—Competition of WLW is making it financially impossible for smaller stations in its secondary area to give their listeners the public service which they should have, members of the Federal Communications Commission were told today.

With the appearance on the stand of John A. Kennedy, president of WCHS, Charleston, and two other West Virginia stations, George B. Porter, commission counsel, began his attack on the Cincinnati station, seeking extension of its super-power permit.

Mr. Kennedy told the commission that WLW is "distinctly competitive" in West Virginia and is the only station outside the state which offers competition. He told of correspondence with an advertising agency handling a brewing account which had used his stations for spot announcements. When a weekly program was put on WLW, he said, the agency dropped the other stations but sought to have the Cincinnati program rebroadcast by WCHS so as to get a tieup with local dealers, which the stations refused to accept and thereafter received no business from that account.

Says Condition Grows Worse

Admitting that when he acquired his three stations two years ago he failed to take WLW competition into consideration, Mr. Kennedy protested that the situation has grown worse since then, in that advertisers are becoming more selective and "take the big fellows and leave the little fellows out in the cold." The situation, he contended, is unfair, in that one station in the country is allowed 500 kilowatts and no other station can get that power.

The West Virginia broadcaster disclosed that he paid $200,000 for the Charleston station, built the Clarksburg transmitter and purchased the Parkersburg station for approximately $18,600. The Charleston station has made a little money, he said, but the other two have operated in the red.

Revere Leaves for Coast

Tom Revere, director of radio for Benton & Bowles, left for Hollywood yesterday on an unexplained mission. It is learned, however, that his trip to the coast is for the purposes of lining up a new radio program for General Foods, in behalf of Post Flakes. A contract for time has been placed, although the network is not known. The program probably will utilize the services of film players.

Ruppert Plans First Web Program in Fall

The Ruppert Beer Co. will enter network radio for the first time this fall when it will assume sponsorship of a new radio series which, oddly enough, will be presented without commercial announcements. The network and starting date for the series have not been selected as yet, according to Lennen & Mitchell, the agency now handling the account.

The program will be a straight musical presentation, with an orchestra to be known only as the "Ruppert Relaxation Orchestra."

Set CBC-Mutual Series

TORONTO, July 27.—Canadian Broadcasting Corp. national network listeners in Canada and Mutual Broadcasting System listeners in the United States will hear a new series of programs, titled "Swingmates," to be broadcast from this city every Monday, starting Aug. 1, from 6 to 6:15 P. M. The group includes Pauline Rennie, singer; Bert Yarlett and Cy Mack, recently back from England where they worked with the BBC. Mr. Mack is the pianist and arranger.

Auto Firms Slow To Set Air Time

Agencies handling automotive accounts were chary of giving information about the radio plans of their respective accounts yesterday when queried, but from their guarded remarks it is assumed that no plans are being engaged in for fall network presentations. However, there is a likelihood of a general scramble by most of the major automotive companies to get into radio, possibly by early winter.

Thus far the only automobile companies which have signified their intention of being represented on the networks this fall are the Ford Motor Co., with the "Sunday Evening Hour," and Chrysler, with Major Bowes. General Motors is not now planning programs for its various divisions, which in the past have consistently used radio, such as Pontiac, Oldsmobile, Chevrolet and neither are the automotive companies which previously have presented their wares to the air listeners.

The Chevrolet transcribed series will continue until September, but beyond that no extension has been considered. It is believed that the platters will be discontinued after the summer.

Plan AFRA Unit Hearing

ST. LOUIS, July 27.—The American Federation of Radio Artists will get a hearing of a claim that it represents 200 of 230 entertainers, excluding musicians, employed by the five local radio stations, within a week or two, according to Dorothea de Schweinitz, regional director of the National Labor Relations Board. Of the 200 artists A.F.R.A. claims to represent, 1 0 are regularly employed and 60 are free lancers. The stations involved are KSD, KMOX, KWK, WIL and WEW.

WNOX Raises Rates

KNOXVIILLE, Tenn., July 27.—General advertising rates on WNOX, Scripps-Howard outlet here and a member of the CBS chain, have been increased. Program costs have gone up by 15 per cent, with spot announcement charges increased approximately 25 per cent. The local rate structure remains unaffected.

KECA Charges May End Free Time for Coast's Openings

HOLLYWOOD, July 27.—Minor ripples of apprehension are being caused among Hollywood's exploitation men, who fear curtailment of free radio time used for exploitation of pictures because Harrison Holliway demanded and received pay for time on KECA for the premiere of M-G-M's "Marie Antoinette," carried by the NBC Blue as a sustaining program.

Mr. Holliway, general manager of KFI and KECA, NBC outlets here, in an unprecedented step, threatened not to use the NBC program on KECA unless M-G-M paid for it. The studio did, and thus KECA was the only station in the country which was paid for the air time.

KFI and KECA are owned by Earle C. Anthony and their contracts as local outlets for NBC have about four years to run. They are operated independently of NBC strings.

Mr. Holliway backed his demands with the statement: "A can of celluloid is as commercial as a can of beans. Covering a premiere of a motion picture by radio is just like presenting a program for a soup, or any other commodity."

The question in the minds of the exploitation men now is whether the Holliway attitude regarding premieres will spread to other stations affiliated with networks. Holliway remains adamant in his attitude and it is believed that other station managers may follow suit.

thus treated include "Algiers," whose Hollywood opening was covered by an NBC broadcast; "Cocoanut Grove," which was expl[illegible] over CBS; "The Adventures of Robin Hood," presented over the networks in two separate broadcasts, one treating it dramatically and the other airing its music in a special half-hour program; "Blockade," which was broadcast over NBC; "Tropic Holiday," "In Old Chicago," "White Banners," "Men With Wings," "Rebecca of Sunnybrook Farm," "Josette," "Three Blind Mice," and other films of that quality.

In addition, music from many pictures which otherwise have not received radio treatment or exploitation is now being spotlighted more lavishly than ever before over the networks and over local independent stations throughout the country, in all instances with accompanying credit to the films and to their producers.

Paramount Has Transcriptions

Paramount, to exploit "Men With Wings," is now sponsoring a series of transcriptions based on that film on stations throughout the country, one of the biggest radio campaigns ever undertaken by a film company, and Warners are sponsoring a series of transcriptions on a score or more of stations in key cities, plugging the Warner films.

Silencing of last year's cry that radio presentations of films was hurting their value is due, of course, to a now better understanding of how to treat film material on the air, due to increased experience, by both radio and film interests, and to such programs as the Lux "Radio Theatre," "Hollywood Hotel," the M-G-M "Good News" program, and one or two other such programs.

'A Letter of Introduction'

[Universal]

COMEDY, drama and pathos are skillfully blended to make of "Letter of Introduction" an outstanding entertainment film. Each element of the production gives flavor to the other, achieving one of the most pleasing box office contributions of the new season to date.

Names are plentiful and, in the instances of Adolphe Menjou, Edgar Bergen and Charlie McCarthy, and Andrea Leeds, will give strong support to any theatre's sales effort. The exploitation possibilities of the title are many and should be apparent to every showman. The story, too, suggests ample sales material with its background of stage glamour and parental problems.

Essentially, "Letter of Introduction" is a comedy drama of people of the theatre. Miss Leeds, a youngster with stage ambitions, goes to Mr. Menjou, a declining stage and screen idol, with a letter of introduction. The message, penned by her mother, establishes her identity as Menjou's daughter. For professional and romantic reasons, the relationship is kept secret by both. The result is romantic complications in the form of Miss Leeds's suspicious fiance, George Murphy, and Menjou's equally jealous paramour, Rita Johnson. It spells dismay, as

The Government Action

By MARTIN QUIGLEY

I

THE action brought by the Department of Justice against the eight major motion picture companies presages consequences unparalleled in importance in the history of the industry.

The suit is intended to effect "the restoration of free enterprise and open competition amongst all branches of the motion picture industry" through the revision of trade practices and by other means.

That some of these practices are due—if not in fact long overdue—for revision and adjustment is disputed by few. The recently constituted Kent committee has already entered upon a program intended as a study of trade practices in light of existing conditions which would eventually lead to such rearrangements as the exigencies of the business permit.

It must be recognized that existing trade practices are pioneer paths cut through a wilderness. They have grown up apace with the meteoric rise of the industry of motion pictures, a business which in various of its essentials is unique with respect to any other business. It has not been possible for the business of motion pictures to find much of precedent or guidance in the record and performance of other businesses. The prevailing trade practices have been contrived and evolved in face of times and conditions during the swift growth of an industry which within a single generation rose from the lowly status of a penny arcade device to the lofty estate of an industry of vast economic and social importance.

It must also be recognized that however and for whatever reason many of these trade practices came about there have been continuing complaints against them. Many firms and individuals have been seen struggling desperately against difficulties which they have imposed. Only an exhaustive and impartial inquiry can determine in what measure the complaints have been justified and in what measure their plight has been due to the failure of their own efforts and the consequences inescapably associated with competitive enterprise.

All indications have for some time pointed to the need of an overhaul of trade practices, and arrangements looking to that end are the announced purposes of the Kent committee. Doubtlessly it would have been desirable if at present intra-industry conference had already made measurable progress toward compromise and conciliation, but it probably will be more generally appreciated in the long run that the problems, which at first blush seem to admit of quick and easy solution, present upon longer and more intimate acquaintanceship a wide variety of perplexing difficulties.

The pending action by the anti-trust authorities of the government against the film companies which constitute such an important part of the American industry presents an opportunity and a responsibility for

About Half of the 167 Defendants Reached After Phone Calls

Virtually all corporate defendants and many home office executives named in the Department of Justice's anti-trust suit against the industry were served with subpoenas during the past 24 hours.

Those served comprise about half of the 167 defendants named in the Government proceeding.

In most instances, service was preceded by a phone call from the U. S. Marshal's office to ascertain whether those for whom subpoenas had been issued would be at their business addresses and would accept service. So far as could be learned none of those who were thus called refused to accept service, although in many instances service for several individual defendants was accepted by attorneys for the individual companies.

Seek to Serve Irving Trust

The Government filed a petition in the U. S. District court for authorization to serve Irving Trust Co., which, as trustee in reorganization for RKO, was named a defendant even though it is under the jurisdiction of the same court in which the anti-trust suit was brought. Counsel for Irving asked and was granted several changes in the wording of the petition, but otherwise did not oppose it. It is assumed, therefore, that the court will approve the petition within the next day or two and Irving Trust will be served thereafter.

The defendants who remain unserved are either west coast executives, home office executives who are

RKO Plan in Court; Hearing on Sept. 8

Special Master George W. Alger filed a 25-page report yesterday in the U. S. District Court in which he approved the proposed amended plan of reorganization for RKO with some minor modifications. He ruled that the plan successfully met the tests of fairness to all classes of creditors and stockholders and feasibility and that it also complied with the provisions of Section 77B of the Bankruptcy Act.

The report, in addition, ruled the plan constitutional and cited a decision of the Federal Court which held that well, for Edgar Bergen, a struggling ventriloquist who worships Miss Leeds from afar.

To give his daughter the professional opportunity she desires, Menjou consents to return to the stage, playing opposite her. He plans to disclose their identity in a curtain speech at the end of the evening, but failure and tragedy intervene. The latter of introduction reappears, however, to reveal the relationship of Miss Leeds and Menjou and effect the former's reconciliation with Murphy.

John M. Stahl's production and direction has given a fine finish to the story and has extracted the best from a splendid cast. Menjou and Miss Leeds give performances which ring true in the most difficult sequences. Murphy's characterization is a human and likeable one. Edgar Bergen and Charlie McCarthy are fitted smoothly into the story and their comedy is of a high order. The producer has been liberal with this potion, too, not only in the prominent part allotted to the popular team but in that of Eve Arden, a bit player struggling for stage recognition, as well. Ann Sheridan, as Murphy's dancing partner, and Ernest Cossart, as a butler, give performances in keeping with the others.

Bergen introduces in this, one "Mortimer," a not very bright country dummy, with results that kept a large preview audience in an uproarious mood. Charlie McCarthy will have to look to his laurels hereafter.

The story, by Sheridan Gibney and Leonard Spigelgass, is good craftsmanship, well fitted to its requirements.

The Government Action

all interests and all persons in the business. The incident naturally creates stress and uncertainty which is an atmosphere not conducive to constructive operation in any business. The uncertainty of it is gravely emphasized in the fact that the government's objectives in this case are at several points diametrically opposed to what but a few years ago the same national administration required under the National Industrial Recovery Act. The Blue Eagle has been metamorphosed into a bird of different feather.

It is the declared intention of the government "to encourage and not to retard the development and orderly operation of the motion picture industry." Such an intention may be heartily concurred in and cooperated with by every sensible and constructive person in the business. Such concurrence and cooperation will hasten the advent of more equitable and sounder business relationships within the industry. In the meantime such an attitude will do much to facilitate currently the orderly operation of the business and protect it from mud-slinging and selfish harassment.

Unfortunately there are persons in this and every other industry of scope who are neither sensible nor constructive. These may be depended upon to assume the role of troublemaker which is so congenial to them. But with the continued success and prosperity of a great industry at stake we hope it may rightly be assumed that the predominating attitude everywhere will be such as to make easy the way toward a right and equitable solution of the problems presented.

The Department of Justice in instituting this anti-trust proceeding against the eight major companies released a statement of challenging importance. The statement is thoroughly comprehensive in its objectives. The American motion picture industry, reformed to meet these objectives, would hardly be recognizable. It is probably reasonable to assume that the prosecution in this case, in keeping with usual practice, has set up formally a goal which represents a point at some generous distance beyond that which it really expects to reach.

II

THE pros and cons of the several government objectives will of course be ventilated in great detail in the months ahead. One of the objectives set forth, which is described as an economic effect of the system of control which is alleged to prevail in the industry, is so curiously worded and so pregnant with implications as to create particular interest. It reads as follows:

"There is no opportunity for new forms of artistic expression which are not approved by those in control of major companies, even though there exist communities which would support them."

It will be interesting to learn eventually just what the Department of Justice is driving at here. It does not seem possible that complaint is made that the eight major companies have been indifferent toward novelty treatment in the motion picture medium. It must be known that only during recent months one of the defendant companies, RKO, released "Snow White," which has received world-wide acclaim as a distinctly new form of artistic expression.

There is also a seeming lack of logic in this complaint. It could hardly be expected that the executives in control of these companies would be expected to create opportunities for either new or old forms of artistic expression of which they would not approve. No intelligent institution, including the Department of Justice, could be expected to create opportunities for policies which are not approved by those in control. Anything else is stupid if not vicious mismanagement.

The argument, if reference is made to the business of entertainment, is also cloudy when it imputes to these major companies such commer-

RKO Plan Put Before Court; Hearing Dated

a plan which "provides a fair equivalent for any rights the bondholders hav[illegible]t" is constitutional.

F[illegible]al Judge Henry W. Goddard at the RKO hearing later in the day fixed Sept. 8 at 10:30 A. M. in Room 905 of the Federal Courthouse Building for a hearing before Judge William Bondy on the question of confirming the report.

The modifications recommended by the special master were first an amendment to Article XI of the charter providing for cumulative voting by common stock; second, a change in the plan which would make it mandatory on the part of Atlas Corp. to underwrite the purchase of new shares to the extent of $1,500,000; third, a provision giving debenture holders who do not wish common shares the right to receive $140 in preferred shares for each $100 of debentures; fourth, a provision meeting objections of the United States National Bank of Denver and allowing it certain increases in amount of interest and finally a change in the phraseology of Sub-division e of Article XI of the charter to limit the funded debt to $3,000,000 so long as preferred stock remains outstanding.

Feasibility Treated Briefly

The report discussed briefly the question of feasibility, and stated that the sole test was whether "the corporation as reorganized will have a sufficiently sound capital structure and sufficient cash to conduct operations in such a manner that it will have a chance to succeed if average business conditions exist." The special master estimated that the parent organization will have $600,000 at the end of the year and in addition $1,500,000 to be acquired from the sale of stock. Against this, he said, there was to be paid only $100,000 on secured notes and the expenses of reorganization.

If "extraordinary circumstances" should arise, the report continued, the directors are authorized to create a funded debt up to $3,000,000. RKO Radio Pictures, Inc., now has available $1,500,000 in cash which may be supplemented by short term loans and the theatre companies have at present over $3,500,000, Mr. Alger stated. The amended plan is superior to the old in that it eliminates fixed obligations and substitutes stock, thus meeting the danger of receivership from "occasional lapses in income," the report continued.

Called "Substantially Fair"

The question of fairness was considered at length, the special master remarking that "mathematical precision is obviously impossible," but that the allocation under the plan must be "substantially fair." He contended that there was a strong presumption of its fairness because a large percentage of creditors and a majority of the stockholders had approved it.

Total assets were estimated at $72,297,075 and the net equity of all creditors and stockholders was $23,212,793, he stated. The 2,365,518 shares of common stock had a book value of $9.81 a share, he continued. The objections of the Independent Stockholders' Committee that the debenture holders aggregating $12,718,500 in principal and $4,200,000 in interest who are to receive under the plan one share of preferred stock and five shares of common stock for each $100 of principal, were receiving more than their proportionate share, was overruled by the special master, who stated that he did not agree with the contention that the common stock should be valued at $12.66 a share. The report pointed out in reply that the debenture holders were surrendering a secured debt position for preferred and common stock.

Unsecured Creditors Cited

As to the $8,000,000 in unsecured creditors who are to receive 10 shares of common stock for every $100 of indebtedness, the special master observed that under the amended plan there were two favorable features for them. One was the acceptance of a stock basis by debenture holders and the other was the preferential right of unsecured creditors to purchase new stock at a price to be fixed by the court. In view of these features and in spite of the fact that unsecured creditors will receive no allotment for interest accruing after Jan. 27, 1933, the special master felt that the allotment was fair.

The report recognized that present stockholders would be drastically scaled down, receiving one new share for every six of their present holdings. It stated, however, that creditors were entitled to a priority over stockholders and that in no event could stockholders receive any excess over the remainder after creditors had been provided for.

The claim of Rockefeller Center under the amended plan has been reduced from $9,150,628 to $5,000,000, for which the Center is to receive 460,000 shares of common stock, the report stated. This allotment was approved by the special master, subject, however, to the fulfilment of a proposed agreement between the Center and the new company providing for the surrender of claims previously recommended for allowance and the granting of a lease of office space for 12 years in the RKO Building at a rental of $2 per square foot per annum.

cial shortsightedness as to fail to supply pictures which certain "communities" would support.

Speculation inevitably arises on account of this paragraph as to whether the Department of Justice has lent attentive ear to those groups—not communities—which wish to have the entertainment screen perverted from its avowed purposes of entertainment and enlisted in the service of the propagandists who wish to use the medium of great public favor for the propagation of some particular set of notions about social, political and economic reform.

On the surface the paragraph seems to say nothing intelligible. A casual glimpse between the lines makes rather plain that what it is all about is in reality a complaint that there has been no opportunity afforded by the companies concerned to those who wish to have their notions of political, social and economic reform masquerade upon the theatre screen as entertainment.

At this point the Department of Justice seems to have embarked upon an unexpected course in seeking to tell the industry what kind of subject matter it must produce, an objective which enjoys the sanction of the rule in the totalitarian regimes but appears nowhere that we have ever heard of in the laws or the democratic traditions of these United States.

Among the many vitally serious implications of the government's proceeding, several of which must be heartily welcomed as serving eminently constructive purposes, here is one well calculated to create deep concern as to just what influences may be active in the shadowy background of its conception and promotion.

Para's Half Year Profit $1,225,811

Paramount's estimated earnings for the six months ended July 2 are $1,225,811, after inclusion of $1,165,000 representing the company's share of undistributed earnings for the period from partially owned and unconsolidated subsidiaries, according to a statement issued following the monthly meeting yesterday of the directorate.

Earnings for the first six months of 1937 were $3,318,000, exclusive of the company's net interest as a stockholder in undistributed earnings of subsidiaries. This interest, for the first six months of last year, amounted to $980,000, or an aggregate for the period of $4,298,000.

Estimated earnings for the quarter ended July 2, last, are $394,945, which includes $359,000 representing the company's share of undistributed earnings for the quarter of partially owned and unconsolidated subsidiaries. Earnings for the corresponding quarter last year amounted to $1,307,000, exclusive of undistributed earnings aggregating $340,000, or a total for the quarter of $1,647,000.

Studios Plan Their Part in 'Ad' Campaign

HOLLYWOOD, July 28. — Plans for Hollywood's end of industry's national advertising and exploitation drive this fall were crystallized today at a meeting of studio publicity men and theatre representatives when a permanent committee was selected, contact officers named and delegation of primary activities set.

The permanent committee of studio and theatre representatives unanimously elected Frank Whitbeck to take charge of and produce the short subject which will be one of the principal features of the general campaign. The short will have as its cast the best known player names. Mr. Whitbeck also will supervise the creation and production of trailers and other film subjects to be required.

Fred Beetson was chosen unanimously to contact and arrange cooperation by the Screen Actors Guild, Screen Writers Guild, screen playwrights and Screen Directors Guild. John LeRoy Johnston, Wanger publicity director, will be in charge of fan magazine publicity.

Rubine Heads Radio

Radio publicity and exploitation will be directed by Irving Rubine of Warners. Cliff Lewis, Paramount studio ad head, will supervise all general exploitation.

The committee also recommended the installation of a coordinating bureau, headed by George Thomas in a capacity similar to that of Paul Gulick in New York. It was also suggested that Joe Shea be engaged to work under Mr. Thomas and be responsible for all pictorial publicity and that Robert Burkhardt also work under Mr. Thomas to prepare and handle news releases. A central office for the Hollywood end of the drive will be chosen where, under Mr. Thomas, the handling, gathering and distribution of feature stories, special stories and editorials written by well known film writers will be done.

The committee, headed by Gabe Yorke, generally approved the plan of personal appearances of players throughout the country but did not detail arrangements. The members of the committee are: Herbert Moulton, Paramount; Howard Benedict, RKO; Frank Seltzer, Roach; Troy Orr, 20th Century-Fox; Dave Lipton, Universal; Robert Taplinger, Warners; Gregory Dickson, Disney; Al Vaughan, Goldwyn; Paul Snell, Principal; Russell Birdwell, Selznick; John LeRoy Johnston, Wanger; Ted Richmond, Grand National; Joe Reddy, Lloyd; Bill Pierce, Jr., Monogram; Walter Compton, Republic; Charles Leonard, U.A.; Ben Wallerstein, Warner Theatres; Jack Gross, RKO Theatres; Thornton Sargent, Fox West Coast; Fred Marshall, Columbia; Howard Strickling and Frank Whitbeck, M-G-M, and Murphy McHenry, Edward Small.

Snow White Pinched

Montreal, July 28.—"Snow White" made a personal appearance in Montreal today, but not in a local theatre. She appeared in Recorders' Court on a charge of loitering.

Recorder Leonce Plante smiled as she appeared before him in his chambers. He asked her full name.

"Snow White Black," was the reply.

Recorder Plante was so amused he suspended sentence.

Name Field Force To Push Ad Drive

A field organization to familiarize exhibitors in every section of the country with the industry plan for a national advertising campaign and business improvement contest, starting Sept. 1, was designated yesterday by George J. Schaefer, campaign director.

The men named by Mr. Schaefer will be regional chairmen of exhibitors' committees which will conduct all of the field work in connection with the campaign, including the organization of regional drives to raise the remaining $175,000 required to complete the financing of the $1,000,000 campaign. The regional drives will solicit contributions from independent exhibitors on the basis of 10 cents per seat.

Name Committee Heads

Those named by Mr. Schaefer to head the regional working committees are M. B. Horowitz, Cleveland; Edwin Silverman, Chicago; R. E. Griffith, Dallas; J. M. Seider, New York; John Danz, Seattle; M. A. Lightman, Memphis, and H. M. Richey, Detroit. As chairmen of regional committees they will designate their own committeemen and organize their territories for the campaign.

Dates for the start and end of the drive, as well as the release dates of pictures to be included in the $250,000 audience prize contest, were not changed as a result of the exhibitor committee's lengthy session Wednesday night. The contest and campaign will begin as originally scheduled, Sept. 1 and end Dec. 31. Releases which will figure in the contest will be those from Aug. 1 to Oct. 31, also as planned originally.

Directors of the drive estimate an increase in box-office grosses nationally of 10 to 20 per cent for the period of the contest. The advertising campaign will include a total of 4,500 lines in every one of the 1,979 daily newspapers in the country.

UMPTO to Aid Campaign

No Romance

Mary Boland, who appears in Paramount films with Charles Ruggles, was highly amused, before sailing on the Ile de France yesterday, about reports from the coast that she and Mr. Ruggles were altar-bound.

"See," she wired Mr. Ruggles, "your hot pursuit has made me flee the country."

To reporters she added: "And to think that Charlie is a happily married man!"

Dickinson-Skouras Discuss Overbuying

A complaint on overbuying in the Kansas and western Missouri area has been registered with Spyros Skouras, head of National Theatres, by Glen W. Dickinson, president of the Dickinson circuit of 40 theatres with headquarters in Kansas City.

Mr. Dickinson, who came to New York for the meeting on the industry's promotion drive Wednesday at the Astor, spent an hour with Mr. Skouras and other executives of National Theatres. After the conference he said that he discussed practices of Fox Midwest, which, he claims, are objected to by independents.

The chief complaint concerns overbuying, Mr. Dickinson said, and he charges that Fox Midwest has contracted for more than 100 features a year in excess of its requirements. Mr. Dickinson and Fox Midwest are competitors in a number of towns.

Mr. Dickinson said that in Manhattan, Kan., Commonwealth circuit took over the Wareham on the expiration of the Dickinson circuit's lease. Both Mr. Dickinson and Commonwealth are in the midst of a theatre acquisition race and are strong competitors. Commonwealth has increased its holdings to 38 theatres, from a mere handful a few years ago.

The second of the series will be against a background of a lumber camp. The third will be a sea picture.

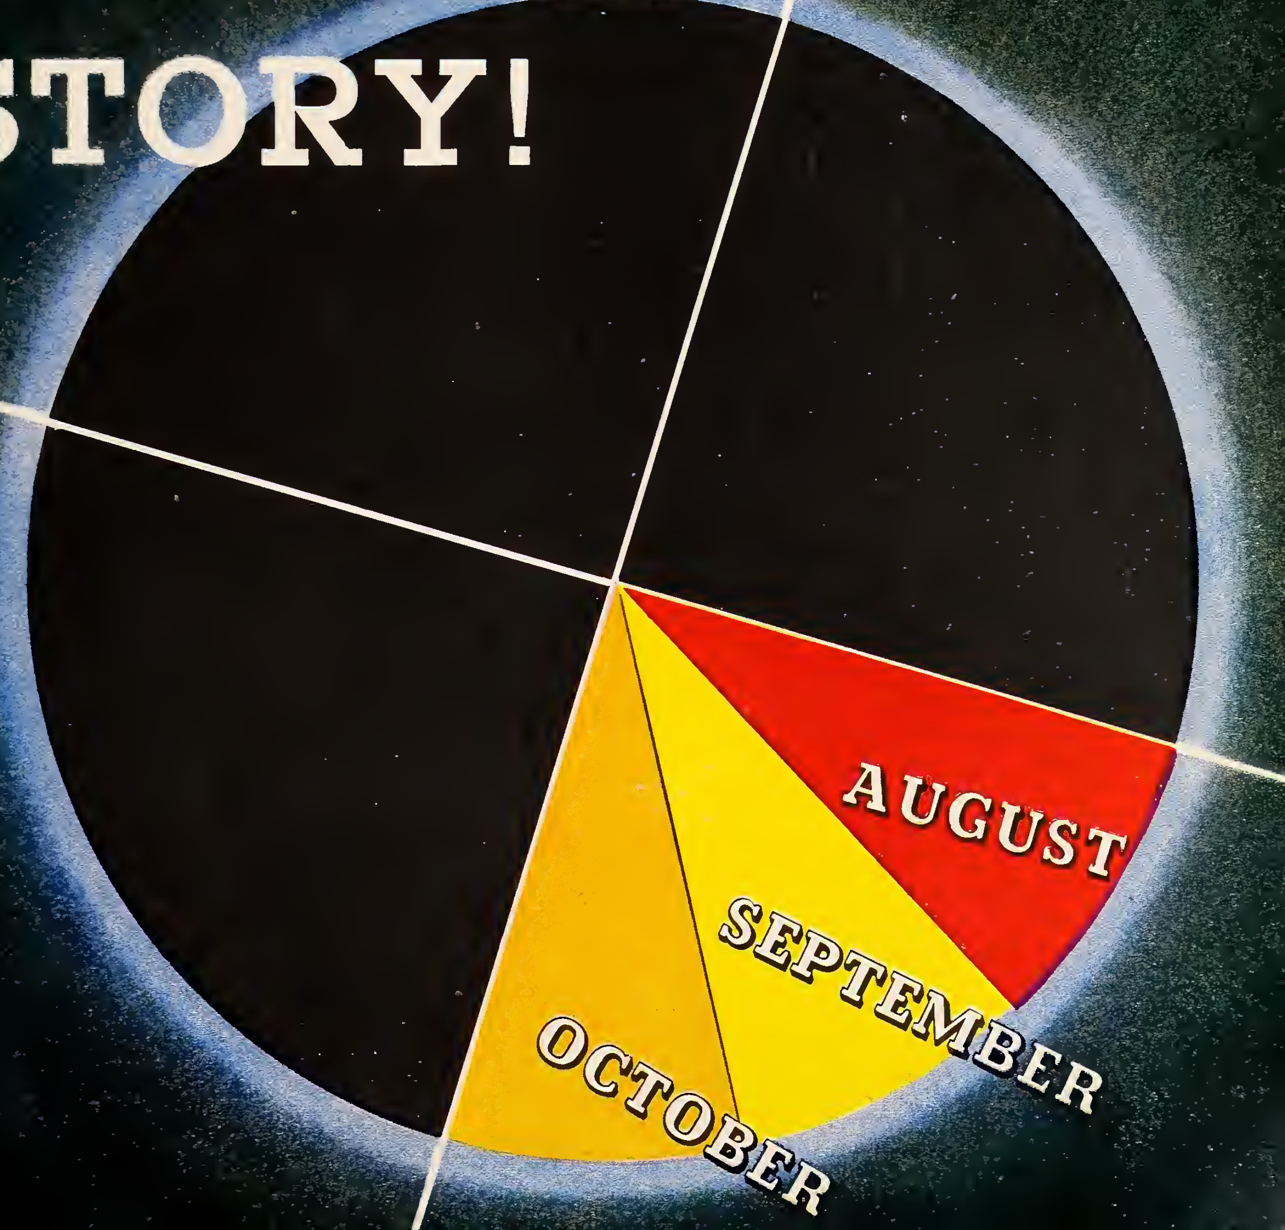
THE MOST IMPORTANT FIRST QUARTER IN YOUR THEATRE'S HISTORY!



AUGUST
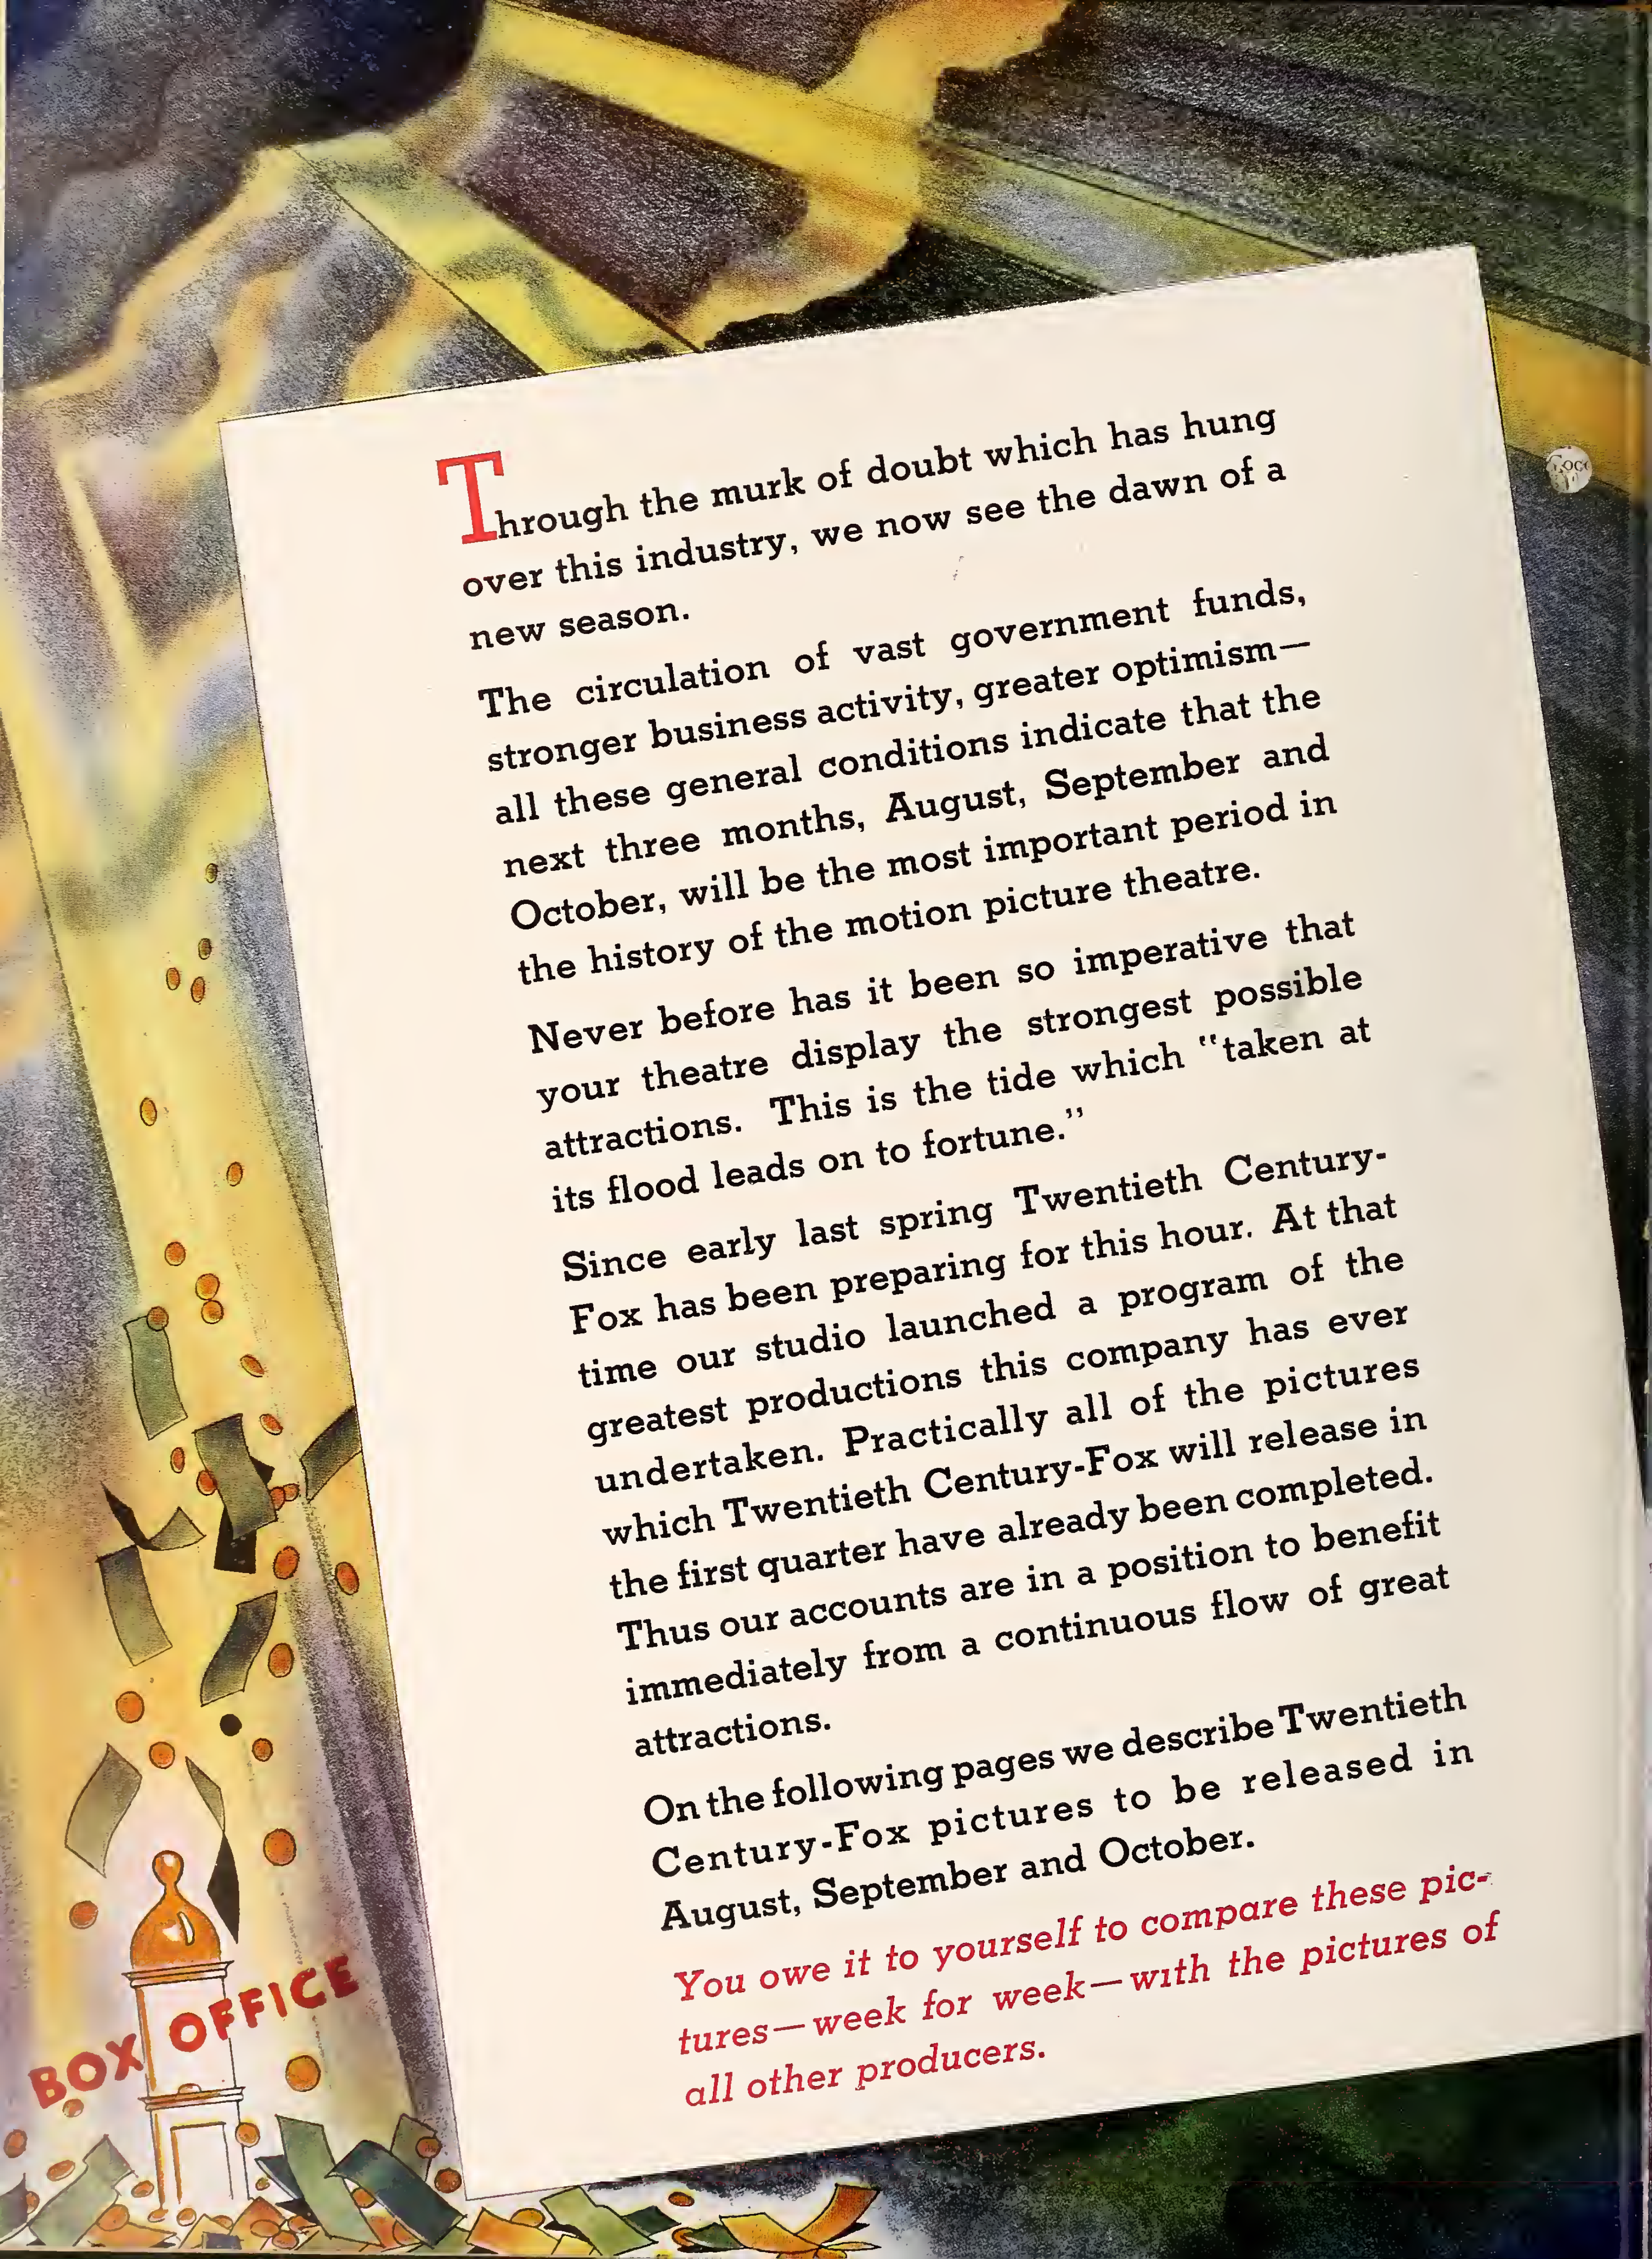
OCTOBER



Through the murk of doubt which has hung over this industry, we now see the dawn of a new season.

The circulation of vast government funds, stronger business activity, greater optimism—all these general conditions indicate that the next three months, August, September and October, will be the most important period in the history of the motion picture theatre.

Never before has it been so imperative that your theatre display the strongest possible attractions. This is the tide which "taken at its flood leads on to fortune."

Since early last spring Twentieth Century-Fox has been preparing for this hour. At that time our studio launched a program of the greatest productions this company has ever undertaken. Practically all of the pictures which Twentieth Century-Fox will release in the first quarter have already been completed. Thus our accounts are in a position to benefit immediately from a continuous flow of great attractions.

On the following pages we describe Twentieth Century-Fox pictures to be released in August, September and October.

You owe it to yourself to compare these pictures—week for week—with the pictures of all other producers.

Just feast your eyes on

Short Subjects

"Music with a Smile"

(Vitaphone)

There is an earnest attempt evident here on the part of "Happy" Felton and his orchestra, "The Three Reasons" and Bob Robinson and Virginia Martin to deliver 10 minutes of snappy entertainment in this "Melody Master." Several familiar numbers are [illegible]ed in good style by the band and [illegible] specialties are well done. Not quite up to the standard of the series. Running time, 10 mins. "G."

"Fistic Fun"

(Columbia)

As the title indicates this deals with the manly art. The various clips show how it is done in the Naval Academy, by youngsters, women, the French la savate and finally a slugfest by a number of Golden Glovers. There's a sock in every scene and the film should find an interested audience. Running time, 9½ mins. "G."

"Popular Science J7-6"

(Paramount)

From modern advances in the kitchen this number rambles around engrossingly to the up-to-date methods employed by Texas Rangers in apprehending cattle rustlers. A number of other items involving the application of scientific ingenuity to popular pursuits round out the reel. Running time, 11 mins. "G."

"The Cheese Nappers"

(Universal)

Public Rat Number 1 decides to rob a supply of cheese. He enlists the aid of Baby Face Rat. A lot of excitement and entertaining action follows with the former winding up in jail. Good fun. Running time, 7⅓ mins. "G."

"Horseshoes"

(Rice-Paramount)

Ted Allen, number one horseshoe thrower, does his stuff here against a dude ranch setting with appropriate stunts, while Ted Husing gives vent to aws and ahs on the sound track. Needless to say the film is another in the excellent sport series. Running time, 10 mins. "G."

"City Slicker"

(Mintz-Columbia)

A city youngster descends on his cousin's farm in this cartoon and there follows a series of gags depicting the pair's efforts to outwit each other in the field of wit and horseplay. The action is comical and draws laughs easily. Running time, 6 mins. "G."

"Vitaphone Pictorial Revue No. 11"

(Vitaphone)

The manufacture of bakelite articles, greyhound racing and the distilling of perfumes comprise this issue. It holds attention. Running time, 11 mins. "G."

Para. Signs Sandrich

Hollywood, July 28.—Mark Sandrich, RKO director, has signed a one-picture deal with Paramount. He will do "Man About Town" featuring Jack Benny.

Hollywood Previews

"Give Me a Sailor"

(Paramount)

Hollywood, July 28.—A Cinderella story, with the kitchen drudge becoming the princess, is always well received, but when Martha Raye, whom film audiences have come to regard as one of the prime favorites of hoydenism, is the cocoon which metamorphoses into beauty, the results are—well, as Miss Raye would say, "Oh, Boy!" That is the motivating idea behind Paramount's "Give Me a Sailor," which teams Martha Raye with Bob Hope, and has supporting them Betty Grable, Jack Whiting, Clarence Kolb, J. C. Nugent, Bonnie Jean Churchill and Nana Bryant.

A comedy with music, "Give Me a Sailor" is an ocean of laughs based on dialogue and situation and augurs well for the continuation, as Paramount recently announced, of Miss Raye and Hope as a team. Elliott Nugent directed the screenplay of Doris Anderson and Frank Butler, based on a play by Anne Nichols. Paul Jones draws his first screen credit as associate producer. Jeff Lazarus is the executive producer.

Hope is in love with Miss Grable, beautiful sister of Miss Raye, to whom falls the household tasks of a motherless family. Miss Grable is in love with Whiting, and so is Miss Raye. Failing in attempts at glamour, Miss Raye is disconsolate until a photograph of her legs, taken by a relative who was supposed to have taken a picture of her with a cake, wins a "legs beautiful" contest. When everyone is about to marry the person he or she thinks he or she loves, discoveries that switches should be made contribute a hilarious climax.

Exploitation of the picture naturally finds the idea of publicizing Miss Raye in her first "glamour" role as the most salutary of procedures to follow. For various localities where houses cater to service men, there is the navy angle, but this is not given too much prominence in the picture.

There are three songs—"What Goes on Here (In My Heart)," "The U. S. A. and You" and "A Little Kiss at Twilight," all written by Ralph Rainger and Leo Robin. Running time, 80 minutes. "G."

Vance King

"Garden of the Moon"

(Warners)

Hollywood, July 28.—About nine out of every 10 filmusicals turned out by Warners since that studio pioneered the field a decade back have possessed in prosperous abundance a vital quality variously known, for lack of dictionary words to fit it, as zing, sock, swat and etc. The thing seems to derive from a singularly inspired matching of pace, rhythm, story and score, or perhaps essentially from simple, rare know-how. This filmusical possess this quality in extraordinary degree. It is the most completely successful application of swing principles to screen technique thus far accomplished.

The screenplay by Jerry Wald and Richard Macauly from a story by H. Bedford Jones and Barton Browne is about a swing band, a swing parlor and its hard-swinging manager. The picture, produced by Lou Edelman and directed by Busby Berkeley, opens in brisker tempo than most musicals close in and never misses a beat. The music by Harry Warren, Al Dubin and Johnny Mercer includes no single soft number and the performance of it by Joe Venuti and other name bandsmen making up the orchestra headed by John Payne, a romantic lead sure to go far in films, is of a sort to send jitterbugs into the aisles instanter.

Pat O'Brien plays the night club proprietor in memorable manner. Margaret Lindsay is a convincing press agent who falls in love with Payne. Melville Cooper, Curt Bois, Granville Bates and Edward McWade make sterling contributions to the comedy department. Jimmy Fidler acts himself.

The dialogue is pointed, pithy and timely as a newscast. Situations are fresh and complications never overstep plausibility. The place is Los Angeles, the time is now, and what happens not only could but has and will again. Running time, 90 minutes. "G."

Remodeled 23rd St. Theatre "Previewed"

A "preview" of the New 23rd St., on the site of the old Grand Opera House, at 23rd St. and 8th Ave., was held yesterday for the press, with a number of RKO executives attending.

The interior of the structure has been rebuilt at a cost of about $250,000, according to Thomas W. Lamb, the architect. The theatre, which will seat approximately 2,000, will be opened Aug. 4 with a double feature policy and will be an RKO neighborhood first run.

The Grand Opera House, opened in 1869 as Pike's Opera House, was later taken over by Jim Fiske and Jay Gould. It survived seven changes of management until it was taken over by RKO for the present theatre.

The opening bill will be "Having Wonderful Time" and "Sky Giant," to continue on a double policy without any box-office stimulants, at least for the time being.

The old 23rd St. Theatre, between 6th and 7th Aves., which RKO operated until it took over the Grand Opera House, is closed and will be reopened after Labor Day by Consolidated Amusements.

Among RKO executives attending the "preview" were Major L. E. Thompson, John J. O'Connor, Fred Meyers, Max Fellerman, William England, Dave Canavan, Milton Mayer, H. R. Emde, Leon Goldberg, Malcolm Kingsberg, Jack Farmer and Rutgers Neilson. Thomas W. Lamb, architect, was on hand to explain the changes. Also present were Jack Pegler and Herman Wintrich of Lord & Thomas, advertisng agency; Harry Mandel, Blanche Livingston, Peggy Foldes, Eddie Sniderman and John Cassidy, all of RKO.

See No Quick Move On Extras' Ruling

WASHINGTON, July 28.—Labor Department officials today saw little chance that Pat Casey, producers' labor representative, could get a decision next year as to whether Hollywood extras come under the new wage-hour act, which goes into effect Oct. 24.

El[illegible] F. Andrews, recently appoi[illegible] administrator of the labor standards act, is not expected to enter upon his duties until Aug. 1, and his first task will be the creation of a staff, which will require some time.

Case One of Many

The case of the film extras is only one of hundreds which will come before the administrator for decision. Preliminary surveys have indicated that practically every industry and trade coming under the law contains establishments or classes of workers which were not clearly defined in the act itself.

In view of the magnitude of the task of classifying these "border-line" operations, it is believed that several months will be required for the issuance of decisions covering all such cases. To a considerable extent, the administration of the new law is expected to follow the precedents set by the Internal Revenue Bureau in its opinions classifying employes of various types under the Social Security Act.

Dismisses Suit Appeal

Federal Judge Henry W. Goddard yesterday at the request of the attorneys representing Casino Productions, Inc., and Yermie Stern, plaintiffs in a $500,000 libel suit against Warners, dismissed the appeal by the plaintiffs from a jury verdict awarding them 6 cents damages.

WLW Selling Methods Get FCC Scrutiny

WASHINGTON, July 28.— Selling methods of WLW today came under the scrutiny of the Federal Communications Commission when Myron Elgees, formerly connected with Trans-America Broadcasting & Television Corp., representative of the Crosley Co., testified that he had solicited advertising for the station on the claim that it was capable, with 500 kilowatts, of fully covering its vast territory, making it unnecessary for sponsors to buy time on other outlets.

Claims Deception Official

Mr. Elgees, now with the William G. Rambeau Co., was with Trans-America for a year and, he testified, made his solicitations at the instruction and in the presence of the acting general manager of the station, who accompanied him on some of his visits to advertisers.

Newspaper advertising in Indianapolis of radio programs over WLW, during one week in which a survey was made, was about 300 lines greater than advertising of programs over the two local stations, the commission was told by Robert Bausman of WIRE. The witness could not say, however, whether the heavier WLW advertising was due to the fact that that station considered itself more important in Indianapolis than the two local stations or was because the Cincinnati station was at a distance and it was felt necessary to call attention to the features.

Probing Super-Power

The witnesses presented yesterday and today were subpoenaed by the commission apparently to provide evidence in substantiation of allegations that the effect of super-power operation by WLW was to deprive broadcasters over a wide area of important advertising revenues. The situation was summed up yesterday, from the broadcasters' point of view, by John A. Kennedy, owner of three West Virginia stations, who contended that it was unfair to limit the use of super-power to one station and that if 500 kilowatts was to be used it should be permitted several stations so that there might be some competition on a basis of equality.

The commission will continue the presentation of its evidence tomorrow, with indications that the hearings on WLW's application for extention of its super-power permit will not be concluded before late next week.

Propaganda Is Losing Out in Latin America

Nazi, Fascist Air Pleas Are Now Backfiring

By JACK BANNER

Shortly before the House Naval Affairs Committee turned thumbs down on the plan to build a Government shortwave broadcasting station to flood the Latin Americas with counter-propaganda to that of the Nazis and Fascists, a high Government official, speaking off the record to a group of newspapermen, predicted that the bill would be killed in hearing. He gave as the reason the attitude of the diplomatic representatives of the 20-odd South and Central American countries, who collectively had indicated to Uncle Sam

Broadway Houses Prepare For an Early Season Start

With the Rivoli reopening next Saturday, the Strand adopting a stage show policy later in the month and several strong attractions due at Broadway first runs, showmen are anticipating an upturn in business earlier than the usual start of the season on Labor Day.

The Skouras management will reopen the Rivoli three weeks sooner than anticipated when the theatre closed May 24. The opening attraction will be "Gateway," 20th Century-Fox film. Other pictures are scheduled from that company. John C. Wright, manager, said that product for the season is being lined up and the house will be reopened earlier than expected because the product situation is loosening up. The theatre closed because of a dearth of suitable first run films.

The Strand has lined up its stage attractions for the first 12 weeks of the new policy, which will start Aug. 26 with a combination of Ben Bernie and his band and "Boy Meets Girl." Warners have booked the bill for three weeks and three succeeding film-stage shows are scheduled for similar periods.

Following the initial combination, the shows will be as follows, in consecutive order: "Valley of the Giants" with Ozzie Nelson and his band and Harriet Hilliard; "Garden of the Moon" and Jan Garber's orchestra; "The Sisters" and Horace Heidt's orchestra. There will be outside acts

20th-Fox Sets Expansion in South Africa

Plans for distribution and exhibition of 20th Century-Fox films in South Africa in opposition to the dominant Schlesinger interests will be consolidated following the arrival of Walter J. Hutchinson, director of foreign distribution, in Johannesburg.

Mr. Hutchinson left Friday for his first trip to South America and South Africa. In the latter territory 20th Century-Fox last year broke with the Schlesinger group, which controls the film and theatre situation there, and set up its own distribution organization with Otto Bolle at its head.

The company is now encouraging large-scale operations by independent exhibitors and is assuring its future in South Africa by giving 15-year

Conciliation Talks Resume Wednesday

Kent Arrives from Maine For Conferences

The distributors' negotiating committee for development of a plan of self-regulation of trade practices will resume its meetings here this week with the return to New York of Sidney R. Kent, chairman of the committee, from his vacation home at Rangely, Me.

The committee will study the proposed trade practice plan which it has developed in the light of the allegations and relief set forth in the Government's anti-trust complaint, with a view to determining a necessity for changes in the plan before submitting it to exhibitor representatives.

Because of the nature of the conferences, it is expected that industry attorneys may figure in the committee's forthcoming discussions.

What Key City Critics Say . . .

Following are excerpts from the reviews of new films by film critics of the key cities.

"Algiers"

Hollywood Citizen-News— . . . An action melodrama. . . . Hedy Lamarr gives a fresh and exciting slant. . . . Sure to draw the attention of discriminating patrons.

Los Angeles Examiner— . . . Satisfying contribution to motion picture entertainment. . . . Keeps you on the edge of your seat from start to finish.

Los Angeles Evening Herald— . . . A first class attraction . . . richly shaded picture. . . . Hedy Lamarr is going to be an actress to be reckoned with.

San Francisco Call— . . . Deluxe underworld stuff, mysteriously electric . . . and spectacular in its native atmosphere. . . The spell of "Algiers" will get you.

San Francisco Chronicle— . . . The best picture from Hollywood in many months . . . should be set down immediately on the "must" list. . . . A fascinating study.

"Marie Antoinette"

Los Angeles Times— . . . A dazzling setting for the return of Norma Shearer to the screen. In the fullest sense was the seeing of this picture a fresh experience even for Hollywood.

Los Angeles Evening News— . . . Belongs as definitely to the splash-making category as the R.M.S. Queen Mary. "Marie Antoinette," from the very beginning, was destined to make cinematic history.

Hollywood Citizen-News— . . . For Norma Shearer the role of Antoinette is a triumph. Long after the glowing memory of first-night lavishness will have faded . . . her performance will remain.

Los Angeles Examiner— . . . I am happy to say the "Marie Antoinette" Irving Thalberg planned and dreamed about has fulfilled his highest hopes. Tyrone Power is splendid and sincere.

Los Angeles Evening Herald and Express— . . . In every sense a road-show attraction. A brilliant triumph. The picture is Hollywood at its best.

BETTER THINGS for BETTER LIVING through CHEMISTRY

Short Subjects

"Silver Millions"

(Paramount)

The Alaskan salmon run and methods of canning are capably and interestingly revealed in this short. It shows spawning, how the fish are caught, cleaning, cooking and packing from sea to can. Worth while. Running time, 10 mins. "G."

"Love and Curses"

(Vitaphone)

The villain-hero-heroine triangle in a color cartoon is offered here with many humorous touches in the Leon Schlesinger style that by now should be in demand. Humorous cliches are cleverly worked out and the animation is given imaginative turns. Running time, 7 mins. "G."

"Ancient Cities of Southern France"

(P. P. Devlin)

One of the uncommonly good "Screen Traveler" series, which Andre de LaVarre appears to have endowed with excellent camera work and careful selection. There is much of real beauty in this subject, whose title tells its own story. It is amazing to the uninitiated to discover so many of the works of the ancient Romans in the France of today. Running time, 11 mins. "G."

"Friendly Neighbors"

(Columbia)

Technicolor scenes of the province of Ontario, Canada. Toronto with its fair and the home of the Dionnes have good coverage. The narrative is old stuff, but adequately serves its purpose in an undistinguished way. Average travel material. Running time, 9½ mins. "G."

"Swing Cat's Jamboree"

(Vitaphone)

Louis Prima supplies the music, a collection of lively youngsters, the modern dancing and the exhibitor gets something to put across with the swing music fans. Should have playing time wherever the younger set responds to the pastime. Running time, 8 mins. "G."

"Community Sing No. 9-2"

(Columbia)

Mexican and Spanish numbers are the feature of this issue. They are well-liked and oft-heard songs. Running time, 9 mins. "G."

'Porky's Spring Planting'

(Vitaphone)

Lively animation that hits highly humorous moments as Farmer Porky has difficulties with his chickens. Finally he compromises and agrees to plant a special patch for them. Very good. Running time, 7 mins. "G."

"Makassar"

(P. P. Devlin)

The camera faithfully and in interesting fashion records the life and livelihoods of this important trading port of Celebes, one of the larger of the Dutch East Indies islands. Likewise of interest and value are the accompanying descriptions injecting much that is historically appropriate and with a maximum of interest. One of the "Screen Traveler" group. Running time, 11 mins. "G."

Hollywood Previews

"The Crowd Roars"

(M-G-M)

Hollywood, July 31.—There is plenty of incident, all of which is entertaining and much of which has potential exploitation value in this action story of the prize ring and the consequent romance which it provokes. A boy idolizes a prizefighter; follows a ring career for the money there is in it. He becomes involved with a shady character, encounters a girl, falls in love with her and through the medium of that affection visions a cleaner, more honorable and happier future life. Tangled in the skein of a game that knows no honesty, hatred for his calling comes into his heart when, in a match he did not want to take, he kills his idolized mentor.

Built up, via those media of skulduggery which seem to be common to the modern conduct of the manly art, he becomes a contender for championship laurels. He is also part of a "sucker game" gambling coup in which he participates willingly but not without a few conscientious qualms. When caught between two menaces, both of which jeopardize his personal safety, he learns that his ne'er-do-well father has sacrificed his life in slaying criminals who had kidnapped the girl he loved. He fights to victory when he sees that girl safe. Then he quits the ring.

"The Crowd Roars" features Robert Taylor as the fighter. Considerable sympathy is won for Taylor by Gene Reynolds, who portrays him as a boy. The star reveals himself not only as a fighting fighter who should not drive women away from theatres where the film happens to play, but also as an improved actor. The principal support features Edward Arnold, Frank Morgan, Maureen O'Sullivan, William Gargan, Lionel Stander, Jane Wyman and Nat Pendleton, capable players, seen in convincing and believable roles.

Based on a story by George Bruce, the screenplay was prepared by Bruce, Thomas Lennon and George Oppenheimer. Their material is a procession of action that precludes monotony. Richard Thorpe's direction was pointed to stress excitement and action both in the bruising and romantic chapters of the film.

Running time, 90 minutes. "G." GUS MCCARTHY

"Bulldog Drummond in Africa"

(Paramount)

Hollywood, July 31.—Paramount continues its "Bulldog Drummond" series with "Bulldog Drummond in Africa," but harks back to the era of motion pictures characterized by unvarnished melodrama replete with old style plot mechanics of a leering villain who behind his beard plots dire things such as cutting up the hero with a buzz saw, or tossing him to be ground up by huge mill stones. Only this time the villain, J. Carrol Naish—and really with a beard, is about to throw H. B. Warner to a hungry lion when John Howard, playing "Bulldog Drummond," crashes into his stronghold and in the fight which ensues turns the tables and throws Naish to the hungry lion.

Howard, the perennial "Drummond," is supported in addition to Naish and Warner, by Heather Angel, Reginald Denny, E. E. Clive, Anthony Quinn, Michael Brooke, Matthew Boulton and Neil Fitzgerald. The screenplay of Garnett Weston is based on the novel "Challenge" by H. C. (Sapper) McNeile, and the direction is by Louis King. Edward T. Lowe was associate producer.

Naish, international spy, kidnaps Warner, who plays the role of "Col. Neilson," of Scotland Yard, and takes him to his African hideout to force him to divulge defense secrets of England. Drummond, with his fiancee, Miss Angel; Denny and Clive follow in a plane. The quartet effect the rescue and Naish, in the climactic fight with Howard, is tossed to his pet lion.

Running time, 60 minutes. "G." VANCE KING

"Venice"

(P. P. Devlin)

The amazing city of Venice, where the only vehicles are boats, where marble castles abound on the water's edge, where innumerable small bridges form the cross-walks, and where beautiful cathedrals are numerous, forms the subject matter of this able and interesting number of the "Screen Traveler" series produced by Andre de LaVarre. Running time, 11 mins. "G."

"Toradja Land"

(Vitaphone)

This E. M. Newman "Colortour Adventure" shows the natives, peculiarities, dances and other interesting facts about Celebes, Borneo, Dyak tribesmen and the race mentioned in the title. The color seems to have suffered from the effects of tropical heat. Fair. Running time, 10 mins. "G."

Short Subjects

"Rio de Janeiro"

(P. P. Devlin)

Something of the beauty of setting on the edge of the ocean, among towering hills, of Rio de Janeiro, capital of Brazil, is caught in this "Screen Traveler" number, produced by Andre de LaVarre, in the competent and interesting fashion which has come to be expected of his travel subjects. The scenic attraction of the city, and the mode of living which characterizes it are ably pictured. Running time, 11 mins. "G."

"Cinderella Meets a Fella"

(Vitaphone)

Leon Schlesinger delivers another one of those screwball and at the same time hilarious versions of a popular classic here. The liberties taken with the Grimm tale are amazing but the comedy concocted thereby is the sort of thing that makes Academy winners. Running time, 7 mins. "G."

"Paramount Pictorial P7-12"

(Paramount)

Wheat farming on a large scale, the geysers and bubbling springs of Yellowstone Park filmed in color and the experiences of a dog on the London waterfront are covered satisfactorily and entertainingly. Running time, 10 mins. "G."

"Have You Got Any Castles?"

(Vitaphone)

Here is another cleverly handled color cartoon that burlesques a radio character, takes liberties with classical literature and, most important, gives entertainment to the last frame. It is done in the usual Leon Schlesinger "Merrie Melody" fashion. Running time, 7 mins. "G."

"Thrilling Moments"

(Columbia)

Dog racing, turf scenes, speedboating, bobsledding and a number of other sports whose chief attribute is speed are presented here in their exciting aspects. It holds interest. Running time, 9½ mins. "G."

"Porky and Daffy"

(Vitaphone)

This latest in the adventures of Porky details his activities as manager of a prize fighting duck that is as wacky as the animators' imagination can make him. A match is arranged. The fight goes on and the audience is treated to a few minutes of whirlwind action, liberally strewn with gags and slapdash comedy. It will perk up any program. Running time, 7 mins. "G."

"Screen Snapshots 17-10"

(Columbia)

There are over 40 screen personalities in this film. That is enough to satisfy the average fan. It is the usual round of Hollywood events topped off with a party at a night spot attended by still more players. Good. Running time, 10 mins. "G."

Short Subjects

"Dick Tracy Returns"

(Republic)

True to the fabric of the serial pattern, this film at the very outset hits a spectacular action pace in which all sorts of elements of a violent nature are brought into play, eventually resulting in the murder of a Federal Bureau of Investigation agent. Judging from the first installment, there should be little difficulty in selling. Nothing in the past year can quite compare with it.

Again Ralph Byrd plays the title role. Here we see him as a FBI agent who goes to California to track down a gang of racketeers. He takes David Sharpe as his assistant. Sharpe is killed in the first installment and Byrd vows vengeance. But in between there is plenty to keep the edges of the theatre's seats in a worn condition. The cast also includes Lynn Roberts, Charles Middleton, Jerry Tucker and Lee Ford. Fifteen chapters. William Witney and John English directed. First installment runs about 28 mins. "G."

"A Day at the Beach"

(M-G-M)

The Captain and the Kids are subject to all the vagaries of the sea, live lobsters and what have you in this cartoon. The animation offers some fairly ingenious variations to typical seashore business. The laughs come easy. Running time, 10 mins. "G."

"Brother Golfers"

(RKO)

The six Turnesa brothers play a friendly game against a windswept Bermuda background in this Sportscope. The golfing fraternity should be advised of its showing for it's the sort of thing, both in comment and treatment, that invigorates a program. Running time, 11 mins. "G."

"Hockshop Blues"

(Nu-Atlas-Rad RKO)

Brad Reynolds's orchestra gives an audition from a pawn shop because their instruments are in hock. While they play Carolyn Marsh sings and Wally and Verdyn Stapleton dance. Fair. Running time, 10 mins. "G."

"How to Raise a Baby"

(M-G-M)

More cleverly concocted humor in the Robert Benchley "How to" manner. Benchley enacts his talk on the raising of children and he is seen at such tasks as bathing, feeding and "moulding character" in a number of youngsters ranging in age from a few months to a few years. The action takes place in various parts of a house and as usual a big laugh is saved up for the conclusion. This is one for marquee billing. Running time, 9 mins. "G."

"Tracking the Sleeping Death"

(M-G-M)

This "Miniature" documents the expedition of Mary and Robert Bruce into the African interior in a humanitarian and heroic effort to find the cause of sleeping sickness. They learn that the tsetse fly carries the disease virus and effect a migration of native tribes from the affected areas. The film somehow follows the "Yellow Jack" motif and is tastefully handled to make an enlightening tribute to the English couple. Running time, 10 mins. "G."

"Hunting Trouble"

(RKO)

Jed Prouty and Richard Lane enact a familiar vein of comedy here as they portray a couple of Babbitts who return from a convention spree and tell their wives they were hunting. Further complications arise when the wife of Prouty's son enters the scene and makes a nightmare of the pair's hangover, with much reliance on the mistaken identity device. Entertaining and well produced. Running time, 16 mins. "G."

"Fool Coverage"

(RKO)

Edgar Kennedy is here in his familiar style of comedy, replete with father-in-law troubles and business difficulties. Kennedy is in the insurance business and his relative desires to drive the family car. There are many cleverly injected complications and no scarcity of laughs. Running time, 16 mins. "G."

Hollywood Previews

"The Chaser"

(M-G-M)

Hollywood, July 31.—This telling of the story about the ambulance-chasing lawyer and the traction company is fresh, spirited and entirely plausible. The oncoming Dennis O'Keefe plays the attorney this time, in a manner combining the best elements of a Lee Tracy performance with a matinee-idol personality, with Lewis Stone portraying the alcoholic doctor indelibly, at whatever cost to his Judge Hardy characterization. Ann Morriss is an eyeable newcomer in the romantic corner, Jack Mulhall is welcomed back to a principal assignment, Henry O'Neill and John Qualen discharge the various comedy chores of the production competently.

As produced by Frank Davis with Edwin L. Marin directing from a screenplay by Everett Freeman, Harry Ruskin, Samuel and Bella Spewack based on the original story by Chandler Sprague and Howard Emmett Rogers (not to skip anybody), the picture presents neither too grimly nor too lightly that cross-section of metropolitan life wherein operate the shyster lawyer and the culpable medico who frame damage suits against utility companies. It manages to make it plain that lawyers, doctors and utility companies in general are essentially decent, emphasizing that comfortable assurance by underscoring the exceptions chiefly depicted. The doctor in the case dies heroically and the lawyer goes straight.

In common with an increasing number of metropolitan melodramas, this one transpires in Los Angeles, although its specific locale is but incidental. The action is plentifully sprinkled with comedy. The time is now or any time hereafter.

Running time, 75 minutes. "G." William R. Weaver

"A Desperate Adventure"

(Republic)

Hollywood, July 31.—This is a modern comedy drama concerning an art-for-art's-sake French artist and wealthy Americans with whose affairs his romantic and, ultimately, social interests become entangled. It is played with a light touch, unhurriedly, with emphasis on the love interest. It opens in Paris, continues on board a transatlantic liner and ends in New York. The ending is happy, although not in the expected manner.

Ramon Novarro plays a successful Parisian artist who has painted, secretly, a striking but lightly clothed image of his dream girl. When he attends a ball and meets a young woman who looks exactly like the girl of his painting, an heiress played by Marian Marsh, friends of his, believing she has posed for the painting, steal the picture and deliver it to a gallery. Here it is acclaimed, the artist's fame spreads overnight, and when he goes to demand return of the painting he learns that an American capitalist has purchased it and ordered it delivered to him in the States. In cross-Atlantic pursuit of the painting Novarro woos the heiress, who breaks her engagement with the capitalist who has purchased the picture, to marry him, whereupon he learns that it is really her sister, Margaret Tallichet, with whom he is in love. He finally gets the right girl.

Eric Blore and Andrew Tombes supply important comedy performances. Tom Rutherford has a secondary lead. Rolfe Sedan, Maurice Cass, Erno Verebes and Michael Kent are others with speaking parts.

John H. Auer is associate producer and director. The screen-play is by Harry Trivers from an original story by Hans Kaly and M. Coates Webster. Running time, 65 minutes. "G." William R. Weaver

Levine Negotiating Three-Picture Deal

Nat Levine is negotiating a distribution deal with a major company for two or three pictures he plans to produce within the next year, according to William B. Jaffe, his attorney, who returned Friday from a three-week trip to the coast. Mr. Jaffe said the deal may be closed shortly.

While on the coast Mr. Jaffe settled Gloria Swanson's contract with Republic which called for one film with options for others. Republic had planned a high-budget picture for Miss Swanson, but she changed her mind after several delays, Mr. Jaffe said. Miss Swanson is now in New York.

As attorney for Monogram, he conferred with Scott W. Dunlap, story head, on literary properties and attended to other business matters.

Name B. F. Zeidman As Browne Executive

Hollywood, July 31.—B. F. Zeidman has been named executive vice-president in charge of production of the newly formed Malcolm Browne Pictures, Inc., which plans to make 20 for the 1938-'39 season. Headquarters are at Talisman studios.

Majestic Pictures will produce eight action melodramas for Browne, the first of which will be "Prison Train." Alvin G. Manuel will produce the series and Gordon Wiles will direct the first.

Contracts also have been signed with Sovereign Pictures, headed by George H. Callaghan and Jack Vance, to produce a series of westerns.

Close Monogram Deals

George W. Weeks, Monogram sales manager, has closed deals with the Interstate Theatre Corp. and the E. M. Loew circuit. Steve Broidy, Boston branch manager, helped on both.

Non-Profit Group To Aid School Films

The formation of the Association of School Film Libraries, a non-profit organization for the distribution of educational films, has been completed by Fanning Hearon, former director, motion picture division of the U. S. Department of the Interior.

Membership in the association will be limited to educational institutions and non-commercial distributors of educational films, Mr. Hearon said. It will obtain appraisals of available films and aid members to obtain them, but will not, itself, rent or produce films. The association, at present, is financed by a grant from the General Education Board, a Rockefeller foundation and is said to have the cooperation of more than 400 educational institutions.

Mary Losey, formerly associated with The March of Time reel, is assistant director of the new organization.

Cavorting Softball Players Cut Into Chicago's Grosses

By BILL CROUCH

CHICAGO, July 31.—Young ladies who cavort about Chicago's vacant lots in short silk panties are one of the principal reasons for the dull theatre business here this summer. Some 30,000 players indulge in softball games here nightly and about 10,000 of these are members of the fair sex who prefer to play ball rather than go to the movies with the boy friend. About 50,000 persons are staying away from theatres daily to enjoy the free games played by girl teams whose members wear about as much as chorus girls.

So much interest has developed in the games that exhibitors are investigating the possibility of having the vacant lots and parks where the softballers play licensed by the city.

The return of independent theatre leaders and their legal staff from New York after conferences with distributors will disclose whether or not action will be taken against major companies and Balaban & Katz. The filing of the Government suit delayed things here somewhat, but it also gave the local independents a lot of encouragement. Unless many concessions are handed down by the major companies and the major circuit here considerable legal fireworks are expected. The independents want duals eliminated more than anything else. If this can't be arranged they want the 10-week clearance period between the Loop openings and the first-week-of-release, shortened to five weeks.

More than 80,000 attended the Helen Jepson concert in Grant Park the other night. This is an example of some of the crowds that flock to the lake front nightly to hear the free musical concerts supplied by the park board. Many noted stars of stage, screen and radio are expected to appear during the coming weeks. Among those expected are: Gladys Swarthout, Jascha Heifetz, Albert Spaulding, Rudy Vallee and Deanna Durbin.

It's a Fact

Sydney, July 1.—As Autumn's mild temperatures give way to the chilly blasts of winter, theatre business throughout Australia starts its annual decline. This early winter setback lasts only until such time as the theatre-goer accustoms himself to the cold snap that heralds the coming of winter in June; and by mid-July box-offices return to normal activity.

This year, Australian theatres have not only the early weeks of winter to contend with, but an opposition that recurs every fourth year, the test matches in cricket between England and Australia.

Top salary for a stage engagement here, without a percentage, goes to the Ritz Brothers who open at the Chicago next week at $15,000 for the week. B. & K. expect the three comics to do plenty of business at that price, we'd imagine, because that's a terrific nut to write off on the books.

The Blackstone, favorite hostelry of the stars, is being redecorated at an expense of $235,000. At present the outside of the building is getting a "facial." The installation of new equipment and remodeling of rooms will start soon under the supervision of Ernst V. Kunz, manager.

Rudy Vallee and Phil Harris are battling it out, both with batons and at the box-office, in the Loop this week. Vallee is at the Chicago with his show and Harris is on the stage at the Palace. The result is the greatest activity in these houses in weeks.

Find Field Open in Ontario for 16 mm.

TORONTO, July 31.—In a survey of the possibilities for the exhibition of 16 mm. films in non-theatrical buildings in Ontario, Walter Kennedy, general manager of Sterling Films, Ltd., subsidiary of Empire-Universal Films, Ltd., has ascertained that the number of licensed halls in the province is 2,921. These are the community centers in which portable projection equipment can be used and for which an annual license fee of $10 has been paid to the Provincial Treasury Department.

According to the report of Chairman Silverthorne of the Ontario Censor, there are now 354 licensed theatres in the province, as compared with 329 last year, indicating that the number of places where 16 mm. shows can be presented is more than eight times greater than the total of actual theatres and the field is wide open. According to Mr. Kennedy, the possibilities for presentation of 16 mm. "roadshows" is practically limitless.

Para. Plans No Ban On Duals in Chicago

No agreement to eliminate double featuring in Chicago will be entered into by Paramount or Balaban & Katz with independent exhibitors from that city, who have made the request as a remedy for complaints against the 10-week clearance period accorded B. & K. houses, a Paramount official said Saturday.

The statement followed conferences here this week with a Chicago exhibitor committee consisting of Jack Kirsch, president of Allied of Illinois; Edward Silverman and Van Nomikos, independent circuit exhibitors, and Joseph Rosenberg, attorney for the independents.

The Paramount official said that proposals had been made to the exhibitor committee under which B. & K. would modify its existing clearance practice. It was not stated what form the modification would take, but it was emphasized that any agreement involving the elimination of double features in Chicago was regarded as being "completely out of the question" by Paramount and B. & K.

Members of the exhibitor delegation could not be reached for comment on the acceptability of the proffered clearance changes. The committee has threatened legal action in the event acceptable relief is not obtained.

'Goodbye' Top As Pittsburgh Takes Revive

PITTSBURGH, July 31.—Business, which has been in the doldrums [illegible] for some time now, picked up briskly last week. The outstanding surprise was the showing of "Always Goodbye" at the Fulton, where it accounted for an excellent $6,500, over par by $2,000.

The Stanley took a fine $19,500 with "The Cowboy from Brooklyn" and Major Bowes' third anniversary revue while the Warner likewise pulled out of the slump with $5,000 for "Hold That Kiss" and "The Saint in New York."

Total first run business was $45,450. Average is $45,000.

Estimated takings for week ending July 21:

To Retain Stage Shows

MEXICO CITY, July 31.—At least one local theatre, the historic Teatro Lirico, where Lupe Velez began her career and which was the storm center of the actors' fight to prevent the few remaining playhouses going to films is to be preserved for stage performances. Its owners have made an agreement with the actors' and stage hands unions to keep the house going and will not, at least for the present, sell it to film interests.

panied by James Mulvey, vice-president of Samuel Goldwyn, Inc.

An extension of the Selznick International distribution deal with United Artists was advanced during Mr. Silverstone's stay on the coast, as well, it was reported also. Formal closing of the deal, however, is said to have been delayed by discussions which may result in David O. Selznick's relinquishing the production of "Gone with the Wind" by disposing of the property outright to M-G-M. Discussions of this proposal are expected to be continued by Mr. Silverstone here this week.

Mr. Silverstone will conduct the negotiations here with John Hay Whitney, Selznick International chairman, who has been in New York for the past week, and L. F. Altstock, Selznick International comptroller, who is scheduled to arrive from the coast Wednesday. Loew's home office officials may also figure in the discussions.

time of 1,211,464 shares of common stock, or about 47 per cent of the total outstanding, and $9,786,655 face amount of debentures, or 84 per cent of the total outstanding. The option price was $11,000,000. In October, 1935, Atlas acquired one-half of these holdings for $5,000,000 cash and also obtained an option on the remainder for $6,000,000. The latter option expired last Dec. 31, at which time Atlas acquired one-twelfth of the remaining holdings for $500,000 cash for a six-month extension of the option on the balance, with the alternative of extending it for another six months from June 30 by acquiring another one-twelfth for $500,000 during July.

Unofficial statements concerning Atlas's reasons for permitting the option to lapse were that RCA had refused the investment company's request for negotiation of a new purchase price.

Mexico to Halt Pirating

Mexico City, July 31.—Pirating of made-in-Mexico films, an evil that has increased of late, is to be made next to impossible by action the Government's publicity department has taken. The plan demands registration of the original film and all copies of it. Producers must advise the department of all exports of film. Such film will be sent abroad with an official certificate to the effect that it is the property of the exporter and that it has not been pirated.

bolstering the bands and solo artists. The bands will be on an elevated pit and not on the stage, as at the Paramount.

The Strand's price scale will remain virtually the same, with a 75-cent top weekdays. The weekend and holiday top will, however, be raised from 85 cents to 99 cents.

Warners believe that there will be little competition for talent between the Strand, Paramount and Loew's State, as there is a sufficient supply of name bands and entertainers. The Strand probably will not duplicate a Paramount stage attraction for a year, it is said.

Reports that the Capitol is planning a return to stage shows in the fall are still denied, but this theatre and others on a films only policy are considering adding stage attractions next year in order to cash in on the expected World's Fair crowds.

Mexico City, July 31.—The 45 Mexican producers will turn in 110 feature pictures by Dec. 31, a check of the studios indicates. That will be the greatest number of pictures made by the Mexican industry in any one year since the domestic industry started in 1929.

the "Motion Pictures' Greatest Year" campaign, said Saturday. Eighteen regional meetings have been scheduled for the next two weeks, with definite dates to be decided today.

Mr. Schaefer will attend the Boston meeting early this week, which will be in charge of Committeeman N. Yamins. In Denver, the meeting will be conducted by Rick Ricketson and A. P. Will Show "Daughters"

Warners will hold trade shows of "Four Daughters," based on a Fannie Hurst novel, in key cities some time this month. The screenings will be in the mornings at theatres in the larger cities and at Warner exchanges in the smaller spots. A national campaign will be put on for the film, with stress on two new personalities, John Garfield and Jeffrey Lynn, who are being groomed for stardom.

RKO Buys Warner List

The RKO circuit has closed for Warners' entire output for 25 theatres in Syracuse, Rochester, Cleveland, Detroit, Columbus, Cincinnati, New Brunswick and Trenton. The deal was consummated by Roy Haines, Warners' eastern and Canadian sales head, with Fred Meyers and Max Fellerman acting for RKO.

20th-Fox Sets Expansion in South Africa

franchises to various allied groups who are building 50 theatres at a total estimated investment of $6,000,000.

Aside from an investment of $200,000 in a first run in Johannesburg, which will cost more than $1,000,000, 20th Century-Fox will have no financial stake in the circuit. The theatres will obtain outside revenue through a deal with the Alexander Film Co. for the exhibition of short-length advertising films. The latter organization is already functioning in Johannesburg.

The 20th Century-Fox "invasion" marks the first attempt to offer strong competition to the Schlesinger interests, which control 300 of the present 350 theatres in South Africa.

Norman Lourie, a representative of the Johannesburg syndicate and a member of a large diamond and importing firm there, has been in New York conferring with Sidney R. Kent and Mr. Hutchinson. It is understood that Jack Schneider, who was here several months ago and obtained African distribution for independent companies, is a member of the group and will be interested in two or three theatres.

Mr. Hutchinson is due back late in December. He will survey Colombia, Ecuador, Peru, Chile, the Argentine and Brazil and then sail for Johannesburg. When he has completed this trip, he will have covered every foreign office. With the setting up of its own South African unit, the company is now represented in all parts of the world.

Warners Close Big Film Deals Abroad

Several important product deals have been closed by the Warner foreign department, according to Sam E. Morris, vice-president in charge of foreign distribution. A contract has been signed by J. H. Mason, managing director of the J. C. Williamson and Fuller-Hayward circuits in New Zealand. The deal covers all Warner product for one year.

With a 10-year deal recently signed with Hoyts circuit of 110 theatres in Australia, Warners now has the best representation in Australia and New Zealand that it ever had.

In Italy, the Leoni and Enic circuits, operating key city theatres, have bought the 27 features the company will release in that territory in the coming year. The films will be dubbed in Italian with a new process which improves synchronization.

Other deals are a two-year contract with the Tuschinski Circuit of Amsterdam and Rotterdam and with the Forum and Corso first runs in Budapest.

Wilsey Buys Iowa House

George, Ia., July 31.—W. P. Wilsey has purchased the new Avon here. It was recently remodeled and new sound equipment installed. The theatre has changed hands a number of times in the past few months.

Propaganda Is Losing Out in Latin America

that propaganda, no matter how palatable or benevolent, still was propaganda, and would not be relished by the Latin American governments.

That explains why the attempts of the Nazis and Fascists to penetrate Latin America with their ideologies have begun to backfire badly. When Latin Americans are told seriously, as they repeatedly have been and still are, that Adolph Hitler and Benito Mussolini are angelic apostles engaged in spreading the spirit of peace and international understanding throughout the world, they may take it or leave it. Currently they are leaving it.

U. S. Programs Increase

From reports coming to the American networks engaged in shortwave operations, programs from the United States are increasingly growing in favor, primarily because the United States broadcasters have been too smart to "lay it on thick." American broadcasters wisely are sending out programs of entertainment or of news value, and are leaving the propaganda to the German and Italian broadcasters.

As an executive of a network summed it up yesterday: "Propagandistic broadcasts stir up more antagonism than enthusiasm."

Principals engaged in shortwave broadcasting here are CBS, with W2XAL; NBC with W3XAL; Westinghouse with W8XK and W1XK, and General Electric with W2XAD. The latter two are interested in shortwave principally to promote the sale of sets. Others in this country engaged in shortwave are Crosley Radio Corp., with W8XAL; Isle of Dreams Broadcasting Corp., with W4XB; WCAU, Philadelphia, with W3XAU, and World Wide Broadcasting Corp., Boston, W1XAL.

Operate on Two Beams

All are engaged in a daily operating schedule, operating on two beams, Latin America and Europe. CBS, for example, operates week days, from 7:30 A. M. to 12:30 A. M., and Saturdays and Sundays from 8 A. M. to 12:30 A. M. The broadcasts until 6 P. M. are beamed toward Europe, from that time on until close, toward Latin America. NBC operates daily from 9 A. M. until 1 A. M. The broadcasts are in English, Italian, German, French, Spanish and Portuguese.

NBC and CBS each has approximately 35 persons working in the short wave departments. Elizabeth Anne Tucker is in charge for CBS, while Frank Mason heads NBC's short wave division.

Germany has 11 shortwave stations broadcasting on all beams daily. The principal stations are DJE, DJB and DJQ. All the German stations operate under the official Government title of Reichs Rundfunk Gessellschaft. They come in powerfully practically throughout the world. The German programs, while sprinkled with music and sports are devoted mainly to propounding Nazi ideas, giving glowing pictures of daily life in Germany, the absence of unemployment, contentment of the people under Hitler, German progress, etc., etc.

Those who tune in in this country are frequently startled to hear, from Berlin, the gutteral English of a German announcer calling "Nord America," and addressing specifically by name and address a person or organization in this country, adding personal messages from Nazi officials. This writer, not long ago, heard Berlin calling a German club in Milwaukee, giving the names of all the members and greetings to each, and a talk on the economic progress of Germany since Hitler took hold. The German programs wind up with the Nazi "Marching Song" and "Deutschland Uber Allies."

American Shows in Demand

CBS and NBC receive heavy mail, principally from the Latin Americas, Germany, Italy and some of the Balkan nations, most of which beg for more and more news broadcasts and for broadcasts giving editorial opinions of America's great newspapers on the regimes of their nations. One letter is typical: "Please send us more news and editorials from your newspapers, as yours is the only news we can trust."

No estimates are available as to how much it is costing Germany, Italy or the United States broadcasters to reach the ears of listeners beyond their borders, but the sum for the former two must total millions by now, while no doubt the cost to American broadcasters must run into several hundred thousands of dollars yearly. The F.C.C. permits no commercial shortwave broadcasting, so the cost comes out of the pockets of the networks.

Sets Comparatively Few

The Latin Americas are the principal targets for the broadcasts, yet surprisingly enough there are but slightly more than 2,000,000 sets of any kind now in use in the Latin Americas. Costa Rica has 15,000; Cuba, 150,000; Dominican Republic, 7,000; El Salvator, 10,000; Guatemala, 12,000; Haiti, 2,500; Honduras, 15,000; Mexico, 250,000; Nicaragua, 4,000; Panama, 8,500; Argentina, 1,000,000; Bolivia, 20,000; Brazil, 420,000; Chile, 75,000; Colombia, 58,000; Ecuador, 6,500; Paraguay, 10,000; Peru, 40,000; Uruguay, 125,000, and Venezuela, 26,000.

Confirmation of the report that Charles Chaplin has concurred with other United Artists owners on the plan for permitting company producers to share in profits and for according them reduced charges for world distribution was given yesterday by Murray Silverstone, chairman of the United Artists executive committee, on his arrival in New York from the coast.

Questioned concerning Mr. Chaplin's earlier objections to the proposals, which were adopted by four United Artists owners at meetings which Mr. Chaplin did not attend, Mr. Silverstone said, "Mr. Chaplin is in full accord with company policy."

The executive committee chairman was reluctant to discuss the subject and, in fact, refused to admit that any

ZANUCK DEFENDS TALENT EXCHANGE

Why Should Others Share Except on Equality Basis? He Asks

A defense of major studio "swapping" of talent, one of the industry customs attached to the Government's anti-trust suit, was given by Darryl F. Zanuck, 20th Century-Fox vice-president in charge of production, on his return from an eight-week European trip yesterday on the Normandie.

The Government asks the Federal courts to permanently enjoin the major producers from borrowing, loaning or otherwise making available their contract talent and technical personnel among each other. The Government contends that the majors have a monopoly on the production of quality films through talent pools, to the detriment of independent producers who have no access to the "big names" until they have depreciated in box-office value.

Asked for comment, Mr. Zanuck said: "It is true that such an interchange exists. But why should we

K-A-O, Keith 6-Month Net Is Under '37

For the 26 weeks ending July 2 Keith-Albee-Orpheum Corp. and subsidiaries showed a net profit after all charges of $388,194.41. During the same period the B. F. Keith Corp. had a net after all charges of $254,538.01.

Both totals are sharp reductions under the same period last year. The 26-week figure for K-A-O was equal to $6.04 per share on the 64,304 shares of 7 per cent cumulative preferred stock.

For the 52-week period ending July 2 it is estimated that the K-A-O net will be $1,013,767.08 after all charges, except surtax on undistributed profits applicable to the 26-week period ending Dec. 31, 1937. This will be equal to $15.76 per share on the 7 per cent preferred. These figures are subject to audit at the end of the calendar year.

For the same 52-week period the B. F. Keith net is estimated at $790,839.03, except for the surtax covering the last six months of 1937. These figures are also subject to audit at the end of the calendar year.

Ban on "Wreckage" Upheld by Regents

Albany, Aug. 1.—Upholding Motion Picture Director Irwin Esmond, the State Board of Regents has rejected an appeal by Cinema Service Corp. on "Human Wreckage." The film had been turned down April 15 by Mr. Esmond. It was screened by Regents George J. Ryan, Gordon Knox Bell and Chancellor Patrick J. Mangan early in June.

Mr. Esmond banned the picture on the grounds within section 1082 of the Education Law, it was "extremely disgusting and nauseating." The petitioner, Morris Dichter, alleged exhibition of the picture would be helpful in the national campaign against social diseases.

Since taking over appeals on pictures from Education Commissioner Frank P. Graves, the Board of Regents and its sub-committee have reviewed a half dozen films and in each instance have upheld the original action by Mr. Esmond.

Otterson States 90 To Use French Films

With 90 theatres already selected for the showing of French films in the eastern area, Inter-Allied Films expects to line up a total of between 150 to 200 houses for the project, John E. Otterson, head of the company, said on his return on the Normandie yesterday.

All theatres will be "selected" and exhibition will be on a class basis, he stated, the houses including "art" and similar operations. Mr. Otterson brought with him 12 French features as the first consignment of about 25 which he and Harry Lachman, his adviser, selected in Paris. Operations are scheduled to start Oct. 1, with distribution headquarters in New York.

Mr. Otterson does not anticipate many remakes of his French pictures in America because "only a few are susceptible for remaking," he said. The main purpose is to present the films with English subtitles.

The 90 theatres already assured are in Greater New York, Connecticut, New Jersey and Pennsylvania, all within 100 miles of Manhattan. These include houses in the Brandt and Trans-Lux circuits and others.

Mr. Otterson said his venture is strongly backed by a Paris group headed by Marc Lauer, who is active in film and financial circles. Corniglion Molinier, Mr. Otterson's original associate in the importing project, is affiliated with the new group—to be known as Franco-Americaine—but has no financial interest in it, Mr. Otterson said.

Mr. Lachman, who accompanied Mr. Otterson abroad, is remaining in Paris another week or two in order to complete the selection of films. A number of shorts are also being brought over by the Otterson group.

Mr. Durante, who sought the dismissal on the ground that the plaintiff had failed to diligently prosecute, is charged with failing to pay commission to Mr. Milman for allegedly securing 24 weeks' booking as a radio performer for Mr. Durante.

Saying that Mexico had been harmed abroad, particularly in the United States, by distorted films, Vicente Lombardo Toledando, secretary general of the Confederation of Mexican Workers, this country's strongest labor organization, declared that the full weight of his party would be brought to bear to assure films that are fair to Mexico.

Gabriel L. Pascal, independent British producer, arrived with Dr. Giannini from London and will accompany the latter to the coast after screening his film, "Pygmalion," based on the George Bernard Shaw play. Mr. Pascal will offer the picture for major company distribution. He said he plans to make another Shaw play, "The Devil's Disciple," in Hollywood, since it has an American background, and also has scheduled "Caesar and Cleopatra" and "Nelson," to star Leslie Howard, who is featured in "Pygmalion." Mr. Pascal said the latter film cost $625,000. Dr. Giannini is advising him on the American market and will represent him in the negotiations.

Silverstone Says Chaplin In Agreement

differences of opinion between Mr Chaplin and the other company owners, had been in existence. His comment on the subject was confined to the single statement.

Mr. Silverstone intimated that discussions of a renewal of the Selznick International distribution deal would be resumed here this week with John Hay Whitney. He reported the negotiations to be "unchanged" as a result of his coast conferences. The Selznick International contract with United Artists does not expire until the end of the year, Mr. Silverstone said.

Asked whether there was any possibility of United Artists distributing "Gone with the Wind," Mr. Silverstone observed that no releasing deal for the picture has been closed yet and added, "Whoever gets it will be lucky." He said there was a possibility that pictures made by the Myron Selznick-Ernst Lubitsch combine might be distributed by United Artists but added that no deal had been made.

Board Meets This Week

Although stating that George J. Schaefer's new contract with United Artists is "all agreed on," Mr. Silverstone was non-committal when asked if it would be signed this week.

A meeting of the United Artists board of directors will be held Thursday or Friday. The executive committee chairman said that nothing "important" was scheduled for action and that none of the company owners was expected at the meeting.

Mr. Silverstone was in Hollywood for two weeks. James Mulvey, vice-president of Samuel Goldwyn, Inc., returned to New York with him. The two were a day late arriving as a result of having missed the Century out of Chicago Sunday. At the station to meet them were Charles Schwartz of Schwartz & Frohlich, a member of the United Artists board and attorney for Mr. Chaplin; Arthur Schwartz of the same law firm, and Emanuel Silverstone, brother of Murray and American representative for Alexander Korda.

Zanuck Comes To Defense of Talent Loans

make our talent available to the [illegible]ler studios? What have they to offer?

"The only reason we let other studios have our actors or writers is because they have other talent to give us in return.

"What have the independent producers that we want? Money? We have plenty of money. We will give them our talent if they can offer us something valuable in the way of creative talent in return. I have four assistants who started with me as office boys. There are fine writers among them. We have developed them over a period of years. Why should we make them available to another studio that can give us nothing of value?"

See U. K. Production Jump

Another significant statement by Mr. Zanuck was that 20th Century-Fox plans a progressive increase in its British production. Starting with three films for the 1937-'38 season, the company will make six in England this year and plans nine for 1939-'40.

This year's films to be made in England will all be designed for triple quota credits. The budget is $2,500,000. There will be another Gracie Fields picture, as well as "So This Is London," based on a successful play, and "Hangman's House."

"We are watching the trend of the market on British films and do not intend to expand our British production too quickly, because you can expand your self out of business," Mr. Zanuck commented. He said this year's films will be intended for the world market and intimated that the rate of increase in British output will depend on the extent to which the world market can absorb it.

No Budget Increases

Mr. Zanuck said that he obtained options on stories and negotiations were started for fresh talent, including an unnamed English actress.

There will be no increases in the company's Hollywood budget for the new season, beyond the $3,500,000 boost already made known, Mr. Zanuck said, and there will be only two Technicolor films, "Jesse James" and "Kentucky," with no color production in England this year.

Mr. Zanuck was impressed with the strides made by French studios, observed during his visit in Paris, but his thought is that since they are only in the French language, their consumption is limited and American companies have little or nothing to fear from that direction.

Speaking for Movietone News on shipboard before the Normandie docked, Mr. Zanuck said: "I am very happy to be back in America and to report that American films are more popular abroad than ever before. I know this is true because of the plans being made by every company for pictures that will have an appeal for world consumption."

"Alexander's Ragtime Band" has been booked for a 12-week run at the Odeon Theatre in London's West End, opening in September, Mr. Zanuck reported. He attended a private screening of the film at the American Embassy in London and Ambassador Joseph P. Kennedy and the British diplomats present applauded the picture, he said.

Mr. Zanuck will speak on the CBS salute to "Alexander's Ragtime Band" tomorrow night and after conferences with Sidney R. Kent and other home office executives will leave for Hollywood Friday night, arriving there Monday. He was accompanied on the trip by Mrs. Zanuck and their three children.

Eddie Cantor also returned, with his wife, eldest daughter and son-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Metzger, and young daughter, Janet. He reported that he collected $550,000 in England for the rehabilitation of European refugee children in Palestine.

J. H. Moskowitz in Party

Joseph H. Moskowitz, assistant to Joseph M. Schenck, returned with Mr. Zanuck after a vacation. He said that Mr. Schenck is now in Carlsbad with Lord Castleross and expects to be back here in three weeks.

Another returning traveler was E. I. Sponable, 20th Century-Fox technical supervisor, who conferred abroad on release prints arrangements.

Charles E. McCarthy, 20th Century advertising and publicity director; William Dover, assistant to Mr. Zanuck at the studio; Leonard Gaynor, A. A. Brown and others from the home office went down the bay to greet the production chief. Another group of company executives met Mr. Zanuck at the pier.

Hollywood Letter

Dear Editor:

Farther than a good deed in a naughty world doth shine a good idea in Hollywood. Not just production ideas, either, although some of Darryl Zanuck's have flung quite a glow. The idea just now bathing this town in shimmering radiance is that one of Will Hays' about exploiting this as the Motion Pictures' Greatest Year. Everybody's talking it, thinking it and—more important—living it.

Optimism, a dead weed in these parts 90 days ago, blooms on every countenance. Hollywood isn't expert in economics, and the mere expenditure of a million doesn't throw the picture population into spasms of expectancy, but the spectacle of all the studio publicity men, customarily pitted against one another in catch-as-catch-can battle for the breaks, now standing shoulder to shoulder instead of toe to toe is somehow terrifically tonic in its influence. Write me off as a B prophet if the campaign doesn't net a million in terms of studio morale alone before the first paid copy breaks in the papers.

If you happen to be one of those who believe formal announcements made by successful business men, in which case you'd be likely to risk a small sum that says Myron Selznick and Ernst Lubitsch will go into production before snow flies, you will be told that "it's all a gag." You will hear that producers have been trying to get some of Selznick's big stars to take less money for their labors, that Herr Lubitsch hasn't had a job since Paramount decided to get along without more of his artistic contributions a few months back, and that it is keen strategy for the agent, and no expense to the director, to set up a paper machine (well, threat, to be blunt about it) which potential employers of Mr. Selznick's distinguished clients might contemplate fearfully when they sit down to discuss wages with him.

If, on the other hand, you are one of those who agree that this theory has the ring of rightness about it, you can find plenty of people to argue that (1) it's an especially appropriate time to break into big league production, what with United Artists offering a favorable releasing deal and the government likely to readjust the industry one way or another before it gets through, (2) that Myron, reputed to have been earning from $5,000 to $10,000 a week for several years, and Ernst, doing quite nicely, thank you, for long and long, can well afford to tinker around with this or any idea for a while, particularly if the writers and actors take the gamble with them, and (3) that Myron is a son of the late Lewis J., who taught his boys the business he wanted to see them carry on in, and that such a son of such a father, even as his brother David, could be quite logically expected to cherish a wholly natural and admirable ambition to fulfill what he might very properly consider the family destiny.

Those are the principal theories. You pays your money and you takes your choice. If you'd care for a small mental wager, I'll give you the customary 8 to 5 that Myron comes through with some pictures.

Don't be misled as to why so many companies are trying to develop new marquee names. It isn't because they're tired of the old ones. There's no shortage of box-office personalities, except leading men, and it isn't because top salaries have reached prohibitive levels. That story got a lot of circulation, but there's not much to it.

The trouble is that the really top bracket people can make about as much money out of two pictures a year as they can out of four or five, on account of the kangaroo tax take, and there's no point in risking their popularity more often than is necessary. They'd be glad enough, most of them, to give the Government what they might draw down for a third and fourth picture, because they're practically unanimous for Roosevelt and they regard the tax measure as his child, but they well know that if the third and fourth picture happened to flop they wouldn't have any pictures to make next year. They love to gamble, these fabulous folks, but not that much.

If Hollywood people had to vote on the star most thoroughly entitled to the money he makes, Edgar Bergen would win by a landslide. The artists call him artist. They turn out like kids to every function he attends. They mobbed the preview of "A Letter of Introduction" and went delirious when he introduced Mortimer, the new dummy, which they recognized instantly as No. 2 in a probably inexhaustible sequence of brand new personalities Bergen can summon into being as, if and when his fan mail seems to indicate he may need them. The years have no terrors for Bergen. He is the wish-fulfillment of every star in Hollywood.

If you've been keeping up to date on your newsreels you've had a pretty good look at Yosemite National Park lately. So did I. I saw the falls over President Roosevelt's right shoulder and they don't look real. Too perfect. So I'm going up and investigate them personally. That'll take about a fortnight.

HUMOR is a quality that has been sadly lacking when the networks, as is their wont from time to time, brag about the accomplishments of their special events departments. Yesterday CBS figuratively unloosed its corset strings and delivered a ukase to NBC which is as deliciously unrestrained and as Bronx-cheery as CBS writing talent could make it. Of course it was only intended for private perusal by the powers-that-be at NBC, but a copy of the dispatch has reached this desk.

Headed as coming from the "gee whiz ain't we great network," the CBS gag release was composed in answer to a general NBC release which boasted six exclusive "beat" broadcasts for that network's special events department. The CBS boys, reading what NBC was boasting about, characterized them as "so what?" broadcasts, and their answer resulted, to wit:

"Six exclusive broadcasts, all of them quote firsts unquote, and each a litle jim-dandy, is the record of the WPA project of the Columbia Broadcasting System in the four days from July 26 to July 27 inclusive, and of course EXclusive.

"Dog sled, wireless and wig-wagging by Scoutmaster Paul White (not to be confused with A. A. (Grade A) Schecter) were used as the CBS network hastily flung together a block-to-block hookup to report to each patron of Joe's Bar and Grill what was going on in Patagonia (this was EXCLUSIVE), Walla Walla (this, too), Radio City (but definitely) . . .

"CBS laid 4,007,234¼ miles of wire to say nothing of quite an egg for the annual tiddle-winks championships at the Patagonia Stadium. For eight years CBS kept its listeners informed as the tiddlewinks flew in gay confusion. (This was EXCLUSIVE). Joe Rerl, CBS office boy, was responsible for the CBS exclusive when the 7:17 train arrived on time at the Walla Walla station. Suspecting something like this might happen from the Wabash timetable he hastily tossed together three executives, 8,000,475 miles of wire and a pint of Old Overholt, and another exclusive was recorded.

"The Radio City scandal was another scoop for CBS, 485 Madison Ave., New York, N. Y., common shares 26¼, preferred 28.. Suspecting that an NBC executive was NOT grateful to the sponsors of (and this is better than one—and exclusive as hell) Charley McCarthy, Columbia quickly laid a silver plated line from its office to a spot under the left eyebrow of Prometheus, where a cowering NBC executive, brass buttons shining, was discovered slobbering over a cup of Maxwell Coffee. It wasn't a pretty sight, but CBS was brave and carried on.

"And little Chippewahahaha Valley. The joint was lousy with bullets as John Allen Wolf, John Allen King, John Allen Husing and John Allen Trout and three layoffs from Radio City told a waiting world, exclusively over CBS, the story of those whistling bullets. It was quite a story and was heard exclusively over CBS. The 'whistling bullets' were signed to a CBS contract. Mack Davis set the deal."

There was more in a like vein, but enough has been lifted to indicate what the release was like. How those NBC eyes must have popped when the special messenger showed up at Radio City with a copy for each of the important officials there. And the hearts of those whose eyes popped must be thirsting for r-r-revenge.

Baseball Broadcast Fight Before Court

Vacuum and NBC, before Judge F. P. Schoonmaker in Federal Court here last week. The court is expected to hand down a decision in a few days.

KQV claimed they obtained their play-by-play information from vantage points outside Forbes Field and not from within the park. In behalf of the station, Elder W. Marshall said: "The question involved here is whether a person shall be restrained from seeing things while he is on his own property and not be permitted to tell about the things he witnesses. That is a right from which we cannot be deprived."

Attorneys for the plaintiffs charged that the station "unlawfully obtained information for baseball broadcasting in four ways, by Western Union subscribers, spectators in the park, authorized broadcasters in the park and spies on the outside."

The decision was made on condition that the defendants consent to an immediate trial of the suit before a referee.

Mr. Bestor claims that a contract which he made on Feb. 5, 1937, with the defendants, giving them the exclusive agency, should be canceled because of an alleged breach on their part.

Director Unit Files Bargaining Charges

Hollywood, Aug. 2.—In a surprise move, the Screen Directors Guild today filed before Dr. Towne Nylander, regional director of the National Labor Relations Board, charges of failure to bargain collectively against 10 studios. Dr. Nylander immediately cited the producers to appear Friday to answer the charges, this action taking precedence over the original N.L.R.B. action of the guild asking for certification as collective bargaining agency for directors, assistants and unit managers, hearing on which had been set for Aug. 22.

The studios cited are Loew's, Inc.; Selznick International, Warners, Paramount, Samuel Goldwyn, Universal, Wanger, Columbia, RKO and 20th Century-Fox.

It is understood that Dr. Nylander will sound out the producers on their stand concerning the directors' petition in view of the recent N.L.R.B. decision under which the industry is declared to be in interstate commerce and therefore under the jurisdiction of the Wagner Act.

Frank Capra, president of the guild, signed today's complaint. Twentieth Century-Fox is the only studio thus far to file an answer to the original petition of the guild. In its answer the studio declared the N.L.R.B. has no jurisdiction over the industry.

Conciliation In Contracts Is Rejected

Kent's Committee Turns Down Suggestion

The Kent committee drafting a trade practice program has rejected a proposal for a clause in exhibition contracts which would provide for the adjudication of exhibitor grievances by conciliation, it is learned on good authority.

At recent meetings of the working committee the idea was broached for a contractual provision by which, if the exhibitor so elected, complaints pertaining to trade practices in a territory would be submitted to the conciliation boards which are projected for individual areas.

The idea was, presumably, that submission of grievances would be entirely voluntary on the part of the exhibitor. Compulsory arbitration was held illegal some years ago.

Considerable difference of opinion and some opposition to the proposal arose in the committee, it is understood, and after long discussion the committee failed to agree that the idea had merit.

"Texans" Held After Rolling Up $41,000

The Paramount and Strand came through with smashing grosses in the week ending last night. Business is good generally at the major Broadway first runs.

"The Texans," with Gene Krupa and band on the stage, gave the Paramount $41,000. The attraction is being held, to be followed by "Give Me a Sailor" and Chick Webb and his orchestra.

"The Amazing Dr. Clitterhouse" netted the Strand $31,000 in a second week, after the first week's $44,000 The film will go a third stanza.

The Criterion will hold "Booloo" a second week, following it with "Army Girl."

Ascap to Ask For New Term Pacts Shortly

Five-Year Agreements to End Oct. 1, 1939

Ascap in the near future may request exhibitors to delegate national representatives to meet with officials of the music licensing society to discuss new long term contracts.

Indications are that the same procedure will be followed in effecting new contracts with radio broadcasters.

Current theatre and radio contracts with Ascap were made for a five-year term in 1934. They expire Oct. 1, 1939. At this stage it is, of course, too early to predict whether or not Ascap will ask for increases in the prevailing license fees. However, it is known that the society is not disposed to grant reductions. It is believed probable in some informed quarters that the prevailing rates may be maintained and contracts for 10 years or longer may be offered to Ascap's licensees.

Before long term contracts can be offered to licensees, however, Ascap itself must renew its contracts with

Cohen Returns After Italian Film Study

Emanuel Cohen returned to New York yesterday on the Aquitania after several months spent in the various European capitals during which he was reported to have made a survey of the feasibility of American participation in Italian film production for Floyd B. Odlum of Atlas Corp.

Mr. Odlum's investment company, through its interest in Italian investment and utilities organizations, has "frozen" credits in that country which he has considered utilizing for film production. Mr. Cohen is understood to have undertaken a study of the practicability of the plan on Mr. Odlum's behalf. As the latter went to Washington from New York yesterday, it is not believed that Mr. Cohen had an opportunity to discuss his findings with the Atlas head during the day.

"Test Pilot" Action Delayed to Sept. 20

Application for a temporary injunction against M-G-M Pictures, Inc., M-G-M Distributing Corp., Loew's, Inc., and Culver Export Co. by Dolores Lacy Collins, as administratrix of the estate of James H. Collins, was adjourned yesterday to Sept. 20 by mutual consent.

Under the terms of the consent M-G-M Pictures must furnish to the plaintiff before Sept. 20 what the defendants claim to be the original story, dialogue continuity, all copies of publicity and a copy of the exploitation book of "Test Pilot." Suit was brought for an injunction against the exhibition of the picture "Test Pilot," damages for $1,000,000 and an accounting of profits for the alleged plagiarism by the picture of the book of the same name written by Jimmy Collins.

Mulhollands Sue Keith

B. F. Keith Corp. was named defendant in a $10,000 damage suit filed yesterday in the N. Y. Supreme Court by Sarah and George Mulholland, owners of property adjoining Keith's Prospect Theatre at 329 Ninth St., Brooklyn.

The plaintiffs charge that they were compelled to move from their home because the condenser of the cooling system in the Prospect Theatre allegedly caused unusual noises and vibration while in operation. The defendants will apply today to Justice Ferdinand Pecora to dismiss the complaint claiming that a similar suit in Brooklyn by the same plaintiffs had been previously dismissed after trial.

New Canada Games Ban Put Into Effect

Toronto, Aug. 2.—Effective today under the new provisions of the Criminal Code of Canada, all slot machines and all games of chance, such as Bingo, Bank Nights, Housie-Housie, etc., which have provided stiff opposition for theatres in recent years, are illegal, and police departments throughout the Dominion have been instructed to enforce the terms of the revised clauses of the code.

Teeth have been supplied to the criminal law by amendments adopted by the Parliament of Canada by designating as "a common gaming house" those premises where machines or games are played and stiff penalties, including both fine and prison terms, have been laid down for proprietors, operators and patrons on conviction in local police courts.

Further, municipal governments are in the position of having the privilege of cancelling, following conviction, the annual licenses of proprietors or operators for the sale of tobacco, soft drinks, refreshments or other commodities which are regulated by permit because the place of business or public hall has been proven to be a common gaming house.

Louis Hyman on Coast

Hollywood, Aug. 2.—Louis Hyman, in charge of distribution for Principal Productions, returned today from New York after setting a tentative deal for the distribution of "The Terror of Tiny Town" and other midget films. M-G-M Buys Sayers Nove

Hollywood, Aug. 2.—M-G-M has acquired the film rights to Dorothy M. Sayers' mystery novel, "Busman's Holiday."

Short Subject

March of Time, No. 13

(RKO)

"Man at the Wheel," the first subject in this issue, is an exposition of the highway traffic problem and presents exploitation possibilities for exhibitors in the way of tieups with civic groups, city and state officials, etc. With the nation becoming tra[illegible]-safety conscious, this dramatization [illegible] the hazards of the road is sure to have wide appeal. The enforcement, educational and engineering phases of the problem are dealt with interestingly. Authenticity is evident.

The second topic graphically describes the growing threat to Britain's Gibraltar from the increasing menace of the Fascist ring centered in Tangier. Though in officially neutral territory, agents of Mussolini and Franco have succeeded in gaining the upper hand politically and Tangier looms as a foreboding threat to Britain's dominance of the Mediterranean. The action and narration are absorbing. Running time, 18 mins. "G."

Columbia Signs Two Circuit Franchises

Two-year franchise deals were closed by Columbia yesterday with the Feiber & Shea and Milgrim & Schwartz circuits. The deal with the former is for the company's entire schedule for both years in 29 theatres of the circuit. The other is for the complete schedule for 13 theatres.

The negotiations were handled by Louis Weinberg, circuit sales head for Columbia, and E. C. Grainger and Richard Kearney for Feiber & Shea, and H. E. Weiner, Philadelphia branch manager for Columbia, and C. M. Felt and R. Schwartz for Milgrim & Schwartz.

Home Office Takes Stand on Licensing

By AUBREY FLANAGAN

London, Aug. 2.—A significant lead on the possible future attitude of the Home Office in the overbuilding situation is given in a letter from the Home Office to the Wiltshire County Council asking guidance on the Barnstable decision.

Under the 1909 Act, the Home Office warns, it has power to refuse licenses on the grounds of public safety or undesirability of licensees and on no other grounds.

The deduction from this is that licenses cannot be refused on the ground that there has been overbuilding.

Quebec Renews Fight On Admitting Youths

Montreal, Aug. 2.—War on theatre owners who admit children under 16 years of age to their shows has been declared anew by the provincial attorney general's department. Summons were served today on four operators.

Since the law was passed several years ago following the Laurier Theatre fire when more than 70 children lost their lives, children under 16, whether accompanied by parents or not, have been barred from picture shows except on rare occasions.

First Regional Ad Meet on at Detroit leader, in conducting the meeting there. He will continue to Chicago, where the third regional meeting, at which Edwin Silverman, independent circuit operator, will preside, is scheduled for Friday. Independent exhibitors are asked to contribute to the campaign fund on the basis of 10 cents per seat.

A purchasing committee for the campaign, consisting of Agnes Mengel, chairman, of Paramount; Jerry Loeb of Warners and Ida Garretson of United Artists, was named yesterday by George J. Schaefer, director of the campaign.

Canadians to Join Big U. S. Ad Drive

nating in the United States under the direction of the Joint Committee for Motion Picture's Greatest Year of which George J. Schaefer is chairman.

The reason for the switch in arrangements, which is yet to be officially sanctioned by the Canadian committee, is obviously that a united campaign coordinating with that in the States would have advantages in the use of extensive advertising material under preperation, while announcements in publications having circulation in Canada, together with appropriate radio programs, would be applicable to the Dominion without change.

The proposal now under consideration here would bring about the advancement of the campaign opening to Sept. 1, or more than two weeks prior to the hitherto scheduled Canadian date. Moreover, the campaign would not be confined to the one week, although there has been comment locally that the drive should not cover a lengthy period for the sake of making it pointedly effective.

The Canadian committee has been in touch with Chairman Schaefer for the purpose of working out a cooperative advertising arrangement.

Set Coast Drive Bureau Unit

Hollywood, Aug. 2.—Gabe Yorke, chairman of the Hollywood committee for cooperation in the industry's national advertising and business building drive, today stated that George Thomas, Joe Shea and Bob Burkhardt have been engaged to head the clearing bureau for the studios' participation. Offices have been opened at 6331 Hollywood Boulevard.

Webber Hopeful Over Conciliation Boards

Kansas City, Aug. 2.—"The Government's suit against the major companies should not prevent the industry from establishing conciliation boards, or delay the move," says E. E. Webber, Jr., president of the I.T.O. of Kansas City.

"Conciliation boards will be a good thing for the industry generally," he believes. "They won't solve all the problems, but they will go a long way toward it by establishing friendly relations between the exhibition and distribution branches. The industry should be able to take care of at least part of its own troubles."

Michalove to Start On Survey Aug. 17

an assistant to Spyros Skouras. Their return is scheduled for early in January.

Mr. Michalove's trip results from a request by Hoyts for an additional investment of $1,000,000 by the National Theatres interests. The Australian group, in which National has substantial holdings, operates 120 theatres. It is Australia's dominant circuit.

On Mr. Michalove's recommendation will depend the extent of National Theatres' further capital investment in the Australian holdings. Hoyts' large expenditures for theatre reconstruction has prevented it from paying dividends, and the requested capital would permit completion of the renovation program as well as ease the circuit's present financial situation, it is understood.

Mr. Michalove will decide the type of improvements to be made. This is the first time that such a study has been undertaken by National Theatres.

He will also study the theatre situation in its relation to distribution, and it is possible that National Theatres' participation in the operaton of Hoyts may be separated from the 20th Century-Fox distribution organization in Australia.

Loew's Going After Some New Customers

A campaign to convert non-filmgoers is being conducted by the Loew circuit, as a challenge to a recent magazine estimate that there are 50,000,000 persons in the United States who never or seldom attend film theatres.

Newspaper tieups on the campaign have to date been made in Cleveland, Houston, Washington and on Long Island. Readers are asked by the film critics to write in and explain why they are infrequent filmgoers or abstainers. The letters are published, and local Loew managers attempt to convert the non-filmgoers by inviting them to see a current attraction.

While the idea is aimed to promote interest in the screen generally, Loew theatres are tying it in with current films. Oscar A. Doob, Loew's advertising head, devised it.

Ascap to Ask For New Term Pacts Shortly

publishers, composers and authors who are members of the society, as these organizational pacts also expire at the end of 1939.

The proposal of the society to deal with an exhibitor's—and, probably, a broadcasters' — negotiating committee prior to drafting new long term contracts for licensees, is believed to be the result of Ascap's 1934 experience in arbitrarily announcing a new schedule of license fees which, exhibitors claimed at the time, represented an increase in the music tax of from 300 to 1,000 per cent. The society's action brought about a coalition of all national and local exhibitor forces, Allied States, M.P.T.O.A., regional and unattached exhibitor organizations, affiliated and independent circuits, to combat the proposed increases.

Change Per Seat Charge

The fee up to that time had been a flat 10 cents per seat. The proposed new rate was equivalent to the highest night-time admission charged by the theatre, in some instances as high as $1 per seat. The exhibitors formed a national emergency committee, laid plans for raising a war chest to combat Ascap in the courts and retained George Z. Medalie, New York attorney. At this juncture, the Government filed its still untried anti-trust suit against Ascap, the exhibitors dropped their litigation plans and a compromise establishing the present music tax fees was reached.

The present rates are five cents per seat for houses under 800 seats, performing three days or less per week; 10 cents per seat for houses performing over three days weekly; 15 cents per seat for houses from 801 to 1,599 seats, and 20 cents per seat for houses over 1,600 seats.

Dionnes Not to Quit Films, Says Manager

Toronto, Aug. 2.—F. K. Munro, business manager of The Dionne Quintuplet Guardianship, has officially denied published reports that the quintuplets were to appear in no more films and that they were not to be featured any longer in commercial advertisements of commodities. This puts at rest the rumors engendered by newspaper stories that the Dionne babies would retire from the screen.

"Our advertising contracts are continuing uninterrupted and I am making every endeavor to get it across to the public that the children are not going into seclusion," declared Mr. Munro, spokesman for the Guardianship. "There is not the slightest suggestion that the children will be withdrawn from publicity schemes; they are such public figures."

America Meets the American Farmer

Seven Times a Week on CBS

"THE FARMER TAKES THE MIKE" Sundays, 4 to 4:30 P.M.*

"R. F. D. No. 1" Monday through Friday 12:15 to 12:30 P.M.*

"FOUR-CORNERS THEATRE" Tuesdays, 8 to 8:30 P.M.*

*Eastern Daylight Saving Time

For years, everybody has talked to and about the American farmer. But the farmer, himself, has never had the time or the place to talk back to the rest of the nation. Beginning last month, the farmer gets both time and place on the facilities of the Columbia Broadcasting System. CBS announces the inauguration of three new programs, by and for the farmer, yet informative and entertaining to city and country listener alike. These programs—which bring to America the voice and culture of the American farmer—make radio broadcasting more truly representative of the entire nation radio serves.

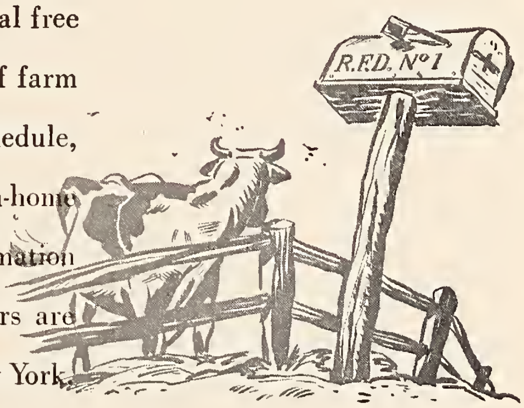
The Columbia Broadcasting System

"The Farmer Takes the Mike" The corn farmer, the wheat farmer, the cotton and tobacco farmer, cattle rancher and dairy man, truck farmer and duck farmer—from every rural section of the United States, every type of rural American will be "cast" in THE FARMER TAKES THE MIKE. This new program was given its initial broadcast July 17, to take the air regularly thereafter on Sundays, 4 to 4:30 P.M. Farm owners, farm wives, farm tenants, and farm children gather round the CBS microphone to tell the nation about their fun, their worries, their jobs and their ambitions. The schedule, which opened in Iowa's corn belt, is arranged to cover a different rural locality each week.

"R.F.D. No. 1" On July 4, Irene Beasley opened a new farm-home series on CBS from "R.F.D. No. 1" New York City, the only official rural free delivery box in Manhattan. Her listeners—Columbia's vast audience of farm women—have already become familiar with the program's daily schedule, Monday through Friday, 12:15 to 12:30 P.M. Miss Beasley's own farm-home background largely determines the selection of entertainment and information which are included in the daily programs. In addition, rural listeners are invited to the microphone to speak to the nation, whenever they visit New York.



"Four-Corners Theatre" Up went the curtain July 19 on the first of a weekly series of rural dramas, presented by CBS at 8 o'clock Tuesday evenings, in the FOUR-CORNERS THEATRE. First on the playbill was "Aaron Slick of Punkin Crick," an epic which has played to more people in more performances than the most popular Broadway play on record! This third new CBS farm program offers the best from a large collection of rural and small-town drama—plays of native American life, which millions both east and west of the Hudson have never before had opportunity to hear and enjoy.

Wells Takes Shot at Short Wave Program

Linton Wells, newspaperman and radio commentator, who has just returned from a 30,000-mile, four-month trip through South and Central America in behalf of RCA, yesterday informed listeners at a luncheon in his honor in the Rainbow Grill of chaotic conditions of radio in the Latin Americas, and cited violations of international radio procedure. He also scored the type of programs now being shortwaved to those countries by the American chains, stating that the American programs were losing out to those of the Fascists and Nazis because Germany and Italy are broadcasting programs of a type calculated to appeal to South Americans, whereas our broadcasters were not.

Mr. Wells, describing what transpired while he was in Buenos Aires June 25 to listen to President Roosevelt's talk of that day, said: "The preliminary announcement came through clearly and we were ready to listen to the President, when suddenly a German station boomed in with a program of a piano recital, drowning out the President's talk."

Mr. Wells indicated that the interference of the German station, coming in on the same wave as RCA's, was in violation of all international radio conventions.

He said that radio operations in many of the Latin American countries are in a bedlam, due to an over-abundance of stations in operation.

Ascap Not to Ask Increase In Music Tax

E. C. Mills Says Members Consider Scale "Fair"

Ascap will ask for no change in the prevailing music taxes paid by theatres when the society's five-year guaranty against a change in the theatre levy expires next year, E. C. Mills, chairman of the Ascap administrative committee, said yesterday.

Mr. Mills said that the sentiment within Ascap is that the existing theatre license fees are "fair" and that no increase in the present schedule should be sought. He also said, however, that Ascap also felt that no decrease in the schedule was warranted either.

The society's five-year guaranty against a license fee change was given in October, 1934, to the national exhibitor emergency committee of which Walter Vincent was chairman. Members of the committee included Sam Dembow, Jr., L. E. Thompson, Ed Kuykendall, Harry Pimstein, Milton C. Weisman, Leopold Friedman, Leon Netter, Sidney Justin and Edward G. Levy. The guaranty by Ascap followed the compromise on the 1934

Justice Dept. Denies Suits To Aid Probe

Admits Requests for Law Changes May Result

By BERTRAM F. LINZ

WASHINGTON, Aug. 3.—Department of Justice officials today denied that current anti-trust cases, including the film suit, are "trial balloons," but readily admitted that they will show definitely whether the present monopoly laws are adequate.

Reports that the cases were designed to provide a demonstration for the Administration monopoly committee of just what is needed in the way of anti-trust law reform were refuted at the Department, where it was pointed out that the investigations leading to the suits were initiated long before the Monopoly investigation was proposed.

There was no hesitancy in admitting that if the cases fail the matter will be taken to Congress with an appeal for changes in the monopoly laws, and, in fact, that intention was voiced last

Lawyers to Ask Time for Study of Long Brief

The first answers of defendants to the bill of complaint in the Government's anti-trust suit against the organized industry will not be filed until after Labor Day, according to opinion prevailing in home office legal quarters.

The first defendants were served with subpoenas by the U. S. Marshal's office here 10 days ago and their answers will be due Aug. 15. Meanwhile, the Government completed service on virtually all New York corporate and individual defendants during the past few days. Of the 167 defendants named in the anti-trust suit, fewer than 30 remain to be

Hawkins, White Win Dismissal of Suit

N. Y. Supreme Court Justice Edward J. McGoldrick yesterday granted the application of Maxwell Hawkins and Norman C. White, defendants in a $100,000 libel suit brought by Walter O'Keefe, to dismiss O'Keefe's complaint on the ground that it was insufficient in law. The suit was an outgrowth of a previous one brought by Mr. Hawkins and Mr. White against O'Keefe, Nelson S. Hesse and William McCaffrey, his literary agents, and RKO Radio Pictures, Inc, charging the defendants with having plagiarized a story by Mr. Hawkins in O'Keefe's story, "The Rolling Stones," which was purchased by RKO. This suit had been dismissed and O'Keefe's action charged that suit with having libeled him.

N. Y. Supreme Court Justice Ferdinand Pecora yesterday reserved decision on the application of B. F. Keith Corp. to dismiss a $10,000 damage suit brought against it by Sarah and George Mulholland, adjoining property owners of Keith's Prospect Theatre in Brooklyn. What Key City Critics Say . . .

Following are excerpts from the reviews of new films by film critics of key cities:

"The Amazing Dr. Clitterhouse"

Los Angeles Evening Herald— . . . Fast-moving crook melodrama . . . an abundance of good acting . . . superior and different picture.

Los Angeles Times— . . . Trick mental melodrama . . . enthralling every foot of the way. Edward G. Robinson makes Clitterhouse a 1938 Jekyll-Hyde.

Boston Globe—Sure to create a new type of mystery film and is equally certain to remain unsurpassed . . . entertainment of the almost flawless variety . . . story holds interest long after one has left the theatre.

Boston Evening Transcript—The sort of film that cannot disappoint the most mixed audiences. It has action, which all enjoy. . . . There are both the fantastic and the comical.

"Love Finds Andy Hardy"

Chicago Tribune—This latest film in the "Judge Hardy's Children" series is a humdinger. . . . Dialogue is effectively written and here and there you are handed a surprise—which sort of thing always scores high in a movie's hit parade.

Boston Globe—These Judge Hardy pictures have blossomed into class A films. . . . The production has been given an elaborate and expensive background. . . . Miss Garland shows she is an excellent actress as well as a singer.

Boston Evening Transcript—Master Rooney is in fine fettle. . . . One of the best adolescent comedies Hollywood has produced. . . . It ranks with Booth Tarkington's Penrod stories.

"Little Miss Broadway"

Los Angeles Examiner — Shirley Temple is back in another captivating filmusical that permits the wonder child once again to dance, sing and coquette her way into every heart.

Los Angeles Evening Herald—In her new picture Shirley Temple keeps the kind of company that brings her screen talents out best. . . . There are plenty of excitable hilarity and sentimental scenes typical of the Shirley Temple plots.

Los Angeles Times—An unpretentious comedy with music. . . . Irving Cummings keeps the direction on a "human" plane.

"The Crowd Roars"

Los Angeles Examiner—Robert Taylor gave the preview audience the surprise of its life. The audience voiced appreciation of the tale by long continued applause. . . . Taylor never seen to better advantage.

Los Angeles Times—A hard driving melodrama. . . . Boosts Taylor along the more heroic and vigorous course. . . . Will justify itself very successfully with audiences.

Los Angeles Evening Herald—A knockout fight film. "The Crowd Roars" should make any audience roar with approval.

Lloyd's Staff Film Rarity; Sticks for Years and Years

By IRENE KUHN

It's an axiom that nobody takes a funny man seriously except himself. Harold Lloyd, who's made a fortune being funny, smashes that axiom, for everybody takes the comedian seriously except himself.

There's a reason for it. Steadfast in a restless world loaded with insecurity stands Lloyd and his picture-making corporation in which nobody who gets a staff job ever loses it, and where he's never made a feature picture which has grossed under a million and a half.

Eight of Lloyd's close associates—he doesn't like calling them employes—have been with him a total of 136 years. This includes even his cook whom he has had for a decade. His publicity man, Joe Reddy, has been on the job 18 years; his general manager, William R. Fraser, 17, and his production manager, John L. Murphy, 17. Creed Neeper, his New York manager, has been with Lloyd since 1924; Jack McVeigh, his auditor, 12; Frank Hampton, who runs his house, 15, his attorneys, 15, and his secretary, Joe Brooks, 18.

"Human," Says Reddy

Joe Reddy, who goes back to Pathe days when Harold Lloyd was making one-reelers, says it's a matter of a man's acting human which has put Lloyd where he is as a prime example of personal and professional success.

"He's a plain man who's never lost his head, always kept his balance, and is as shy about publicity today as when he started in the business. He wears no jewelry. Up until a few years ago he had only dark suits in his wardrobe and wore only white shirts and black ties.

"The reason the people who work for him don't have job worries is because he believes it's poor economy to keep changing. So he's careful at the beginning when he's hiring and when he's sure he's got a man with both ability and loyalty that man has a job for life. He's been wrong a couple of times but he doesn't brood about it.

Lloyd is the last independent-star-producer except Chaplin. He's as full of drive and energy as in 1919 when he first saw his name in lights on Broadway, in two theatres at once, in the two-reeler named, appropriately enough, "Bumping Into Broadway."

He's off on something new now between his own pictures. He's negotiating with William C. Fields to make pictures he'll direct and produce in which Fields will star. Here again is an old friendship; here again Lloyd believes—and Fields agrees—that a partnership of interests will do them both good. The deal isn't closed yet, but chances are it will be before long, and the Fields brand of humor will go to town under Lloyd's direction.

Passport Trouble

The Normandie was agog before sailing yesterday over Simone Simon's lost passport. To an immigration officer, she explained, with adequate French gestures: "Honest, mister, I don't know where is my passport. I gave a man to bring my tennis racket and five baggages, and the passport it must be in one of the baggages. I don't want to sneak out of this country. If I don't find my passport when I get over there, they will send me back, and I don't want to come back here."

The official took her word—or words — for it and asked her to sign a paper.

Hollywood Preview

"I'm from the City"

(RKO)

HOLLYWOOD, Aug. 3.—This Joe Penner starring picture has its amusing moments, moments which may have greater audience value when, if the film is returned to the cutting rooms, some of the unnecessary stuff is removed. The piece is built on a good entertainment idea, one that is rife in exploitation possibilities. It's well acted with Penner, Richard Lane, Lorraine Kruger, Paul Guilfoyle, Lafe McKee, Katherine Sheldon and Ethan Laidlaw checking in commendable performances. There's nothing the matter with Ben Holmes' direction when it concerns itself with gag comedy and action.

As in the case of Dick Powell in "Cowboy from Brooklyn," Penner is mortally afraid of animals, particularly horses, until he is hypnotized. With the aid of a petrified acorn, Lane, who makes himself the comic's manager, can do just that, and, with the wave of a hand, Joe becomes a sensational circus bareback rider.

Out west two ranchers are accustomed to holder a cross-country race. Miss Sheldon hears about Penner and teams up with Lane to have him ride for her against McKee, rival rancher. Romantic conflict between Penner and the other rider, Guilfoyle, has its innings during which some pretty funny stuff is developed, and Penner, like all screen cowboys, takes to crooning. Just before the race, however, Lane loses his acorn and can't hypnotize his stooge. But the show must go on and the race follows, in which a pig and duck get mixed up. Joe wins it after much mad excitement and, of course, the girl's affections are his prize. Running time, 70 minutes. "G."

Ascap Not to Ask Increase In Music Tax

music tax increase which established the present music fees.

Asked whether exhibitor committees would be free to petition a decrease in the tax next year, Mr. Mills replied that he would listen carefully to what they might have to say and, if they could show him that they were using less music than formerly or that it was of less importance to their programs, he would give "careful consideration" to their request for a lower license fee.

Mr. Mills denied a current report that Ascap would offer long term contracts, of 10 years or more, to exhibitors and broadcasters when the agreements expire at the end of 1939. He intimated that such contracts would be regarded by Ascap as of greater value than the present ones and higher fees probably would be asked for them, in any event.

He pointed out that Ascap's current contracts with exhibitors incorporate many of the benefits of long term deals now, in that they renew themselves automatically every year unless cancelled by either party.

The negotiations with Mr. Fields also may be concluded within a day or two, he said, and will include rights to the Fields story, "You Can't Cheat an Honest Man," which will star the comedian.

Additional productions of this calibre will be added to Universal's new season schedule as opportunity affords, according to the company head.

tone Music Corp. for failure to carry out a contract.

The plaintiffs also seek an injunction to restrain the defendants from carrying out a subsequent contract allegedly made with the Robbins Music Corp. whereby the latter would exploit the 20th Century-Fox musical compositions. The plaintiffs also seek to void the dissolution of Movietone Music Corp. and ask that the court fix damages for their alleged losses between 1935 and 1937 by reason of the conspiracy and any subsequent losses that might arise in the future during the life of the music copyrights.

The suit alleges that in 1931 the plaintiffs arranged with 20th Century-Fox to exploit its musical business for a period of 20 years. In August, 1935, the plaintiffs claim, Loew's and Robbins induced 20th Century-Fox to breach the contract and to sign with Robbins. The plaintiffs ask for an accounting of all moneys made through the contract by Robbins since 1935.

Yesterday an application was filed by the plaintiffs for an order which will be heard on Aug. 15 before Justice Edgar J. Lauer for an examination before trial of Sidney R. Kent, president of 20th Century-Fox; W. C. Michel, vice-president; Edwin P. Kilroe, also a vice-president; Joseph Schenck, Darryl Zanuck, William Goetz, executive vice-president, and William Dover, also an executive vice-president.

The Capitol took $20,000 in the second week of "Love Finds Andy Hardy." The first week's gross was $30,000.

"Crime Over London" slumped at the Rialto at $5,000 in five days. Another disappointment was "Treasure Island," M-G-M reissue, which was pulled at the Globe after four days at $3,000. The film was described as unsuited to the house.

The only other transactions reported were the acquisition of 200 Universal Corp. common voting trust certificates by Daniel M. ALBANY, Aug. 3.—Shortly after announcement by friends of Senator John J. Dunnigan that the pari-mutuel bill would not be pressed for passage in the Constitutional Convention, word leaked out that efforts to legalize dog racing would not be brought to the floor.

served, it was learned. These are either California residents or person who are out of the city on vacations or business. A few of those named as defendants are no longer identified with the companies named in the complaint and will contest their service, it was said.

Federal Judge John W. Clancy yesterday signed an order authorizing the Government to join RKO and Irving Trust Co., as trustee of RKO, as defendants in the anti-trust suit. The approval of the Federal court was necessary inasmuch as RKO and Irving Trust are under the jurisdiction of the court in reorganization proceedings. The Government's petition was pleaded by Lamar Hardy, U. S. attorney, who stated that the alleged violations of the anti-trust laws were committed by RKO both before and after Sept. 7, 1934, the beginning of the company's reorganization proceedings.

Irving, RKO to Accept Service

Irving Trust and RKO as a corporate defendant will accept service in the proceeding immediately as a result of the signing of the court order. Individual defendants in RKO were served earlier.

As the legal machinery in the proceeding begins to function it is apparent that the industry's largest array of legal talent brought together in a single proceeding to date will engage in the cumbersome court battle. The house counsel of all major company defendants, personal attorneys for individual defendants and special outside counsel for corporate defendants will be enlisted. In addition, an outstanding law firm may be retained to coordinate and direct the defense.

Attorney List Impressive

Paramount will be represented by its special counsel, Simpson, Thatcher & Bartlett, in addition to the company legal staff headed by Austin Keough and Louis Phillips. United Artists will be represented by O'Brien, Driscoll & Raftery; Columbia by Schwartz & Frohlich; 20th Century-Fox by Dwight, Harris, Koegel & Caskey, in addition to the company legal staff headed by Felix Jenkins; Loew's, probably by John W. Davis in addition to the legal staff headed by J. Robert Rubin, Leopold Friedman and Isidor Frey; RKO by Donovan, Leisure, Newton & Lumbard, counsel for Irving Trust Co., and the company staff headed by William Mallard, Gordon Youngman and William Whitman, with, perhaps, Cravath, de Gersdorff, Swaine & Wood as special counsel; Universal by Charles D. Prutzman and the office staff headed by Adolph Schimel; Warners by special counsel to be designated and the home office legal staff headed by Robert Perkins.

Willard S. McKay, Samuel Spring and Saul E. Rogers may be among other industry attorneys who will represent individual defendants.

Morton G. Thalheimer, Richmond, independent circuit operator, was added to the list of exhibitor contributors to the campaign fund yesterday. Banner LINES

THE promotional output devoted to boosting Jimmy Fidler occasionally has stressed that it requires the aid of dozens of persons for "one-man Jimmy" to prepare his column and broadcasts. Perhaps Mr. Fidler has the aid of too many persons.

The other day his column in the Mirror had Evelyn Keyes in a Hollywood studio . . . "and in trying to bring out the true loveliness of her face the director kept ordering more and more lights until the sound stage glowed like the inside of a blast furnace," he wrote. The same day Mr. Fidler was reporting Miss Keyes in a scorching Hollywood studio, Screen Commentator Sam Taylor was interviewing the actress in the air-cooled studios of WHN in New York.

A recent broadcast of "Big Sister," sponsored on CBS by Lever Bros., featured an emotional scene between lovers. The climax was reached when the Boy offered the Girl his most hallowed possession, a bracelet which formerly belonged to his mother. "Priceless, priceless," murmured the Girl, gazing at the bracelet. Here the action faded out and Fred Utell, the announcer, broke in with a statement that "Big Sister" had a message to deliver to the audience.

The message: For 15c—in cash, not stamps—and a box top, the listeners might have a copy of the "precious" bracelet. Canadian listeners must pay five cents more, she specified.

As Skolsky might put it: But don't get me wrong, I love radio.

Not many people look a gift horse in the mouth, but some do, as Stan Shaw, who conducts the all-night "Milkman's Matinee" on WNEW, has learned. To celebrate an anniversary of the program, Mr. Shaw yesterday tendered a party, attended by the radio press and radio entertainers. Among the various commodities sold on the "Milkman's Matinee" is a certain brand of cigarette. Inviting one of the attendants over to the mike, Mr. Shaw asked him to sample a cigarette and tell the air audience what he thought of the smoke.

The ingrate took a puff at the weed and calmly told the listeners that it tasted just like dried macaroni.

'Alexander's Ragtime Band' A Hit as Air Show Material

new picture should, if it were to follow the usual bent in describing a theatrical opus, concern itself first with the aura of tinsel which goes with such an event; it should tell of the hordes of fans who crowded about CBS Playhouse No. 1 on West 45th Street who came to view and participate in the broadcast; it should quickly and reverently introduce those celebrities by name. It should concern itself with a number of other accepted matters in treatises such as this—but the thought expressed in the very first sentence refuses to wait upon such inconsequentialities. The all-important factor is that thirty million Americans listened to a motion picture sales message. Moreover, the program was broadcast on sustaining time, which means that, save for some production expenses, it did not cost 20th Century-Fox any money.

Carried by 116 Stations

The broadcast, aired over the entire CBS network — 116 stations — from 9:30 to 10:45 P.M., was unquestionably the most elaborate radio promotion in behalf of a motion picture ever aired. It culminated weeks of advance effort, during which time the airwaves vibrated with frequent admonitions to listeners to set their dials for the broadcast of "Alexander's Ragtime Band," and with frequent renditions of songs from the picture. The radio effort cannot but help having a decidedly salutary effect on the boxoffice when the picture is nationally introduced, beginning with tomorrow's opening at the Roxy in New York.

Details of the broadcast were in the hands of Charles E. McCarthy, 20th Century-Fox's advertising and publicity director.

Industry attendants spotted in the audience last night included Darryl Zanuck, Herman Wobber, C. C. and Joseph Moskowitz, Joseph Bernhard, William Sussman, William Geiger, Leon Netter, Sidney Kent, Ralph Cohn, Jesse Lasky, John O'Connor, Joe Vogel, Spyros Skouras, S. Barret McCormick, Sam Harris, Max Gordon, Truman Talley, Major Albert Warner, W. C. Michel, Merlin Aylesworth, William Kupper and Herman Place.

Zanuck and Berlin Heard

Appearing in the broadcast from New York were Mr. Zanuck, Irving Berlin, Walter Winchell, John Steele, Al Jolson, Eddie Cantor, Tyrone Power, Sophie Tucker, Ben Bernie, Lew Lehr, Al Goodman and orchestra, the Brox Sisters, Connie Boswell, Ethel Merman, Ted Husing, Paul Whiteman and Louella Parsons. From Chicago Rudy Vallee's band was cut in; from Hollywood Alice Faye was heard, accompanied by Tommy Dorsey's orchestra.

Miss Parsons, in an interview with Mr. Zanuck, drew from him the details of the making of the motion picture. The idea for the picture, Mr. Zanuck said, came to him more than two years ago while lunching with Mr. Berlin, to whose career the picture is devoted.

Asides observed at the broadcast: Irving Berlin, his thin face showing the effects of the tribute to him, kissing Mr. Zanuck; Walter Winchell, Sophie Tucker and Al Jolson, almost burning his nose against Ben Bernie's cigar, following the end of the broadcast. Miss Parsons, also after the broadcast, leaning over the footlights to whisper to a friend in the front row: "I was terrible, but wasn't Mr. Zanuck marvelous?"

The broadcast, originally scheduled to last 60 minutes, ran over another 15 into the time of the Household Finance Corp. program. Ted Husing announced that the Household Finance management had notified 20th Century-Fox that it would not charge the picture company for the time, that it could be considered that company's contribution to Irving Berlin, and the announcement drew a burst of applause from the audience.

KVOO to Celebrate

A special broadcast hailing the full-time affiliation of KVOO, Tulsa, Okla., with NBC, will be broadcast Aug. 9, from 9 to 10 P.M. Lenox R. Lohr, president of NBC, will participate in the show.

Two Seek Approval For New Stations

WASHINGTON, Aug. 3.—Authority to construct two new broadcasting stations has been asked of the Federal Communications Commission.

Applications filed with the commission included requests of John F. Colan for permission to build a 1,310-kilocycle, 100-watt daytime station at Steubenville, O., and of the Bowling Green Broadcasting Co. to build a station at Bowling Green, Ky., to operate on the same frequency with 100 watts night, 250 watts day.

The commission announced that authority had been granted to WGRM, Grenada, Miss., and WKAT, Miami Beach, Fla., to increase their day power from 100 to 250 watts.

A number of examiners' reports were received by the commission, including one in which Examiner George H. Hill recommended the granting of the application of KATE, Albert Lea, Minn., to increase hours of operation from day to unlimited with 100 watts power night, 250 watts day.

Other reports recommended dismissal or denial of applications of Anne Jay Levine for a 1,370-kilocycle station at Palm Springs, Cal.; State Broadcasting Corp. for a 1,370-kilocycle station at Gretna, La.; Kammeraad-Smith Broadcasting Co. for a 1,200-kilocycle station at Holland, Mich., and WKEU, Griffin, Ga., for change of frequency from 1,500 to 1,310 kilocycles, extension of hours from day to unlimited and increase of day power from 100 to 250 watts.

O'Keefe Wins a Point

On application of Walter O'Keefe, plaintiff in a $48,750 damage suit, N. Y. Supreme Court Justice Peter Schmuck yesterday ordered the examination before trial on Aug. 11 of Chester LaRoche, as president of Young & Rubicam, Inc., and of an officer of the Packard Motor Car Co., defendants in the suit. At the same time Justice Schmuck denied the request of the defendants to strike out O'Keefe's reply to the defendants' answer.

O'Keefe is suing on a contract made in November, 1937, whereby he was allegedly hired to broadcast for 22 weeks beginning Jan. 1, 1938. He claims that he was unlawfully discharged on March 1, and has asked the court to fix $48,750 as his damages.

Independents To Sue B & K, Distributors

Clearance, Duals Talks Are Abandoned

CHICAGO, Aug. 4.—All attempts to eliminate double features or change the clearance schedule to five weeks between Loop openings and the first week of release having failed, independent theatre men of Chicago, through their attorney, Joseph Rosenberg, tonight announced they will file suits under the anti-trust laws against B. & K. and major film companies, for injunctions and damages, and will likewise call to the attention of the Department of Justice and Federal Court instances of alleged violation by B. & K. of an injunction (consent) decree entered by Judge Woodward in 1932 in an equity suit brought by the Government against the same defendants, which violations allegedly constitute contempt of Federal Court.

This action comes after weeks of negotiations between independent film companies and B. & K. Mr. Rosenberg wrote the distributors on June 18

TRADE PRACTICE TALKS SUSPENDED

Anti-Trust Suit Makes Study by Lawyers Necessary, Says S. R. Kent—Will Decide After Labor Day

The industry may be forced to abandon its efforts toward development of a plan of self-regulation of trade practices as a result of the Government's anti-trust suit, Sidney R. Kent, chairman of the distributors' negotiating committee, said yesterday. In any event, Mr. Kent said, a self-regulatory program can not be placed before exhibitors until after Labor Day, when a legal study of the situation will have been completed.

Mr. Kent's statement follows:

"I have been in the city for the past few days meeting members of the committee appointed to develop a program for a solution of trade problems within the industry.

"I am informed substantial progress has been made, but it now seems definite that meetings with exhibitors cannot be held until after Labor Day. The problems facing the various companies which now can only be met after consultation with their counsel because of the Government's suit are so important that they must be studied carefully before anything is done.

"Right after Labor Day, and after counsel have given their opinion, it can be said definitely what the position in regard to meetings with exhibitors will be, or it can be said whether conditions, because of the pendency of the Government's suit, make it impossible to meet the exhibitors at all."

Mr. Kent plans to return to his vacation home at Rangely, Me., tonight.

Today the films of the city's tumultuous welcome will be combined with yesterday's coverage for stories varying with the newsreels from 175 to 400 feet and will be delivered to Broadway houses early in the evening, unless plans go awry. Opera House, Face Lifted, Given Gala RKO Opening

By IRENE KUHN

With bright lights beating down on a Chelsea neighborhood crowd of 3,000 which five police sergeants and fifty patrolmen kept in order, RKO last night rededicated the oldest and most romantic theatre in New York, the old Grand Opera House at 23rd St. and 8th Ave., 70 years young.

In its new dress—for Charles Lamb, architect, has remodeled the entire theatre—the historic old place which knew fabulous Jim Fisk, Jr., and Jay Gould, which cradled all the early song and dance shows of George M. Cohan—makes a bid for bigger and better box office in an old family neighborhood, coming into its own once more.

All RKO turned out. John O'Connor, general manager, beamed and greeted theatre men and executives from other companies and their wives.

At 6 p.m. a line of fans waited at the box office, Mr. O'Connor said, to see Ginger Rogers in "Having Wonderful Time," "Sky Giant" and several popular stars who came down to give a show. Commissioner Paul Moss, representing Mayor LaGuardia, dedicated the theatre after Martin Starr's introduction.

Capacity Audience

Before that, milling through the lobby admiring the simplicity of line and the harmonious and rich blending of color, were film men and their wives and neighborhood patrons who filled the house to its 1,800-seat capacity when the show got under way at 9 p.m.

Huge baskets of flowers sent by well wishers were stripped of cards early by wide-eyed souvenir-hunting kids. One, Sam Frudakis, 274 Ninth Ave., proudly exhibited Ticket 00002 to Mr. O'Connor and Fred Meyers.

"I bin here since 11 o'clock," he said. "I wisht I could have got ticket number 1 but that's for the box office. Mr. Embe says he's framing it."

Mr. and Mrs. Jim Brennan came in from Trenton for the opening. It was their 24th wedding anniversary. Mr. Brennan is Washington district manager for RKO and has been with the company 20 years.

Clarence Wallen, who opened the famous old Proctor's on 23rd St. years ago, sat on a divan before screen time and reminisced with the former owners of the opera house, Abe Flaum and Leo Harrison.

Mr. Leon Goldberg chatted with Mr. and Mrs. Al Dawson of Forest Hills; Joe DiLorenzo of New Rochelle and "Dynamite" Louis Goldberg, RKO junior circuit manager, exchanged trade notes and congratulations with other company officials. Larry Gribe, of RKO's 86th St. and 58th St. theatres, looked a shade envious of the spanking new attire of the old opera house. Charley Oelrich of Mt. Vernon smiled at the flashlights popping to catch Leon Goldberg of RKO.

Compliment Architect

Irving Wormser of Columbia, Joe Felder of Monogram, Jack Bowen of M-G-M studied the interior interestedly and complimented Mr. Lamb. Marvin Schenck explained that his boss, C. C. Moskowitz of Loew's had to be out of town. Larry Beattes from Loew's was on hand, however. The golf tournament at Gloversville claimed many who would otherwise have been at the opening.

Major and Mrs. Leslie Thompson chose balcony seats after greeting Jack Pegler and other friends and complimenting Russ Embe, RKO division manager, Mr. O'Connor and Mr. Lamb.

The crowd saw a double feature in the new theatre, Gene Krupa, king of swing; Mary Small, Jimmy Scribner, Jerry Cooper and Roy Smeck, all from the airwaves.

And the street crowd that saw the fortunate first nighters in waited for them to come out. The lights went out on the opera house last night before the streets were cleared of a shirt-sleeved premiere that augurs prosperity for RKO's new 23rd St. theatre.

RKO Re-signs Marcus

Short Subjects

"The Magician's Daughter"

(M-G-M)

The application of a number of camera tricks to this light musical story gives it refreshing and lively values. There is effective music also and the better sort of boy-meets-girl acting. Frank Albertson, a photographer, is assigned to get debunking pictures of a clever vaudeville act. He cannot go through with it once having met the performer's daughter. There follows a number of clever situations with the magician's family and the two-reeler concludes with all the camera's tricks in the photographer's bag brought into play. First rate entertainment. Running time, 18 mins. "G."

"Strange Glory"

(M-G-M)

This "Historical Mystery" concerns itself with the problem of the woman who conceived the Tennessee plan during the Civil War and how, long after, she sought to gain recognition for her work toward ending the war from a dubious government body. It is good story material but not up quite to the other "mysteries." Running time, 11 mins. "G."

"Anaesthesia"

(M-G-M)

The various aspects of the discovery and application of the anaesthetic in medicine are treated in good Pete Smith style here. He skips lightly from the serious to the jocular and intersperses his enlightenment with laughs. The production has good atmosphere shots and is easy to take. Running time, 10 mins. "G."

"A Criminal Is Born"

(M-G-M)

The problem of juvenile delinquency and the influence of parental neglect on adolescents is treated in this "Crime Does Not Pay" number. As is usual in this series the story is realistically treated and directed with force. The treatment of the thrill content is tempered with moralizing. Running time, 21 mins. "G."

Mexican Product Is Gaining, Says Deane

Product made in Mexico is going over with audiences below the Rio Grande by leaps and bounds, according to Al Deane, Paramount foreign publicity manager. And with the improved product has come an advance in showmanship, as proved by the fact that six Mexican-made pictures are opening simultaneously with the release of "Tropic Holiday" in Mexico.

Finske, district manager; Jimmy Burge, exploitation manager; E. A. Patchen, advertising manager, and David Goodman, manager of the Midwest. The classes will cover house maintenance, personnel, exploitation and allied subjects.

Hollywood Previews

"In Old Mexico"

(Sherman-Paramount)

Hollywood, Aug. 4.—For those to whom the "Hopalong Cassidy" films are interesting as well as those who appreciate the entertainment values of a well mounted outdoor action adventure picture "In Old Mexico" should prove attractive screen merchandise. All the elements common to westerns have been retained, but this one includes more romantic love interest and suspense is developed more through a battle of wits than by physical conflict.

This time a mysterious message takes William Boyd across the border. As a Mexican friend is killed, he suspects that his own life is in danger. Although George Hayes and Russell Hayden wish to plunge into action at once, Boyd prefers to play a waiting game. Brought into romantic association with Jane Clayton, sister of the slain man, wily Boyd, knowing things he will not reveal to his pals or the girl, becomes involved in a cat-and-mouse game with Betty Aman. Eventually suspecting that Miss Aman is in league with the killer, he permits her to lead him into a trap which brings him face to face with Paul Sutton. But when things look most perilous for him, wounded Hayes rides to Trevor Bardette's ranch to rally help. Meanwhile Hayden and Miss Clayton have gotten into a precarious situation, but the arrival of the cowboys beats off the threat to their safety and Boyd personally accounts for Sutton.

As usual Boyd, Hayden and Hayes turn in realistic and convincing performances. In the person of Miss Clayton, producer Harry Sherman seems to have discovered a promising new screen personality. The balance of the compact cast contribute workmanlike performances.

Based on a Clarence Mulford story, the screen play was prepared by Harrison Jacobs and the production was directed by Edward D. Venturini.

Running time, 60 minutes. "G."

"Gateway"

(20th Century-Fox)

Hollywood, Aug. 4.—As this picture concerns itself with a series of more or less related episodes, its entertainment value rests more upon the appeal of interesting characterizations and situations than upon story strength. Two locales are used, a transatlantic liner and the immigrant detention station at Ellis Island where the principal action and most of the romance, comedy, melodrama and their substantiating qualities take place.

Aboard ship Don Ameche leads Arleen Whelan into an innocent but thrilling temptation which culminates in a scandal that threatens to bar the immigrant girl from the United States. The girl, along with a much divorced women suspected of moral turpitude, a political refugee, a radical, a gangster, a peasant family and Ameche, who contrives to have himself included, are detained for examination. As incidents portraying the heartbreak, joy and tragedy of those who either permitted or denied entry into the country ensue, during which Gregory Ratoff, Binnie Barnes, Gilbert Roland, Maurice Moscovich, Fritz Leiber and Eddy Conrad appear to the film's advantage, Ameche dedicates himself to securing permission for Miss Whelan to land. Trying to clear the girl he now loves and save her from marriage to a worthless cad, he messes things up. But in preventing the escape of a gang of deportees lead by John Carradine, he wins the gratitude of Commissioner Harry Carey and the sympathy of the girl who in marrying him automatically becomes an American and entitled to all the country's legal liberties and privileges.

The story is by Walter Reixh. Lamar Trotti adapted it and Alfred Werker directed.

Running time, 70 minutes. "G."

Twin City Ad Meet Set for Wednesday

Exhibitors in the Minneapolis territory will be asked to support the industry's cooperative national advertising campaign and better business drive at a meeting next Wednesday in the Nicollet Hotel. W. A. Steffes, Minneapolis independent exhibitor leader, and A. W. Smith, Jr., of United Artists, will conduct the meeting.

Detroit exhibitors, at their meeting Wednesday, tentatively pledged about $10,000 for the drive. The 200 theatres represented at the meeting are expected to give final approval following a meeting of the cooperative booking agency in Detroit next Tuesday. Following that session, a statewide campaign to aid the drive will be organized by H. M. Richey, regional chairman, with the cooperation of Detroit exchanges.

To Produce Short Subject

The short feature which will be distributed to theatres participating in the drive early in September will be written and produced by Herman Hoffman of the M-G-M advertising department, and Lou Harris of the Paramount advertising department. Frank Whitback, M-G-M writer, will supervise. The subject has the tentative title, "Five Hundred Million People Can't Be Wrong," and will convey a comparison of the value an average man and his family derive from their expenditure for film entertainment with that derived from an equal sum expended on other forms of diversion.

Campaign headquarters here reported yesterday that George Thomas, Joseph Shea and Robert Burkhardt had been added to the Hollywood staff for the drive and will work on publicity and stills for campaign use under the direction of Gabe Yorke. One of their assignments will be to obtain 100 articles signed by leading stars for use in campaign publicity.

Indications yesterday were that Republic and Monogram will accept invitations to participate in the campaign.

Cleveland Theatres Pledge Ad Drive Aid

Cleveland, Aug. 4.—About 125 independent and affiliated exhibitors today met with Gradwell L. Sears and M. B. Horowitz and pledged their cooperation in the industry's national advertising and business building campaign. Harry Reinhart, owner of the Mozart, was first to sign the contest pledge.

Out-of-towners unable to attend wired assurances of their cooperation. Mr. Sears predicted complete success of the campaign in this area.

London, Aug. 4.—Resolutions sponsored by the Association of Cine Technicians demanding fair wages for members will be considered by the British Trade Union Congress at its meeting to be held next month.

Mr. Silverstone said that the negotiations for renewal of the Selznick International distributing agreement are in an "active state," but that no decisive development has occurred since his return to New York from the coast. John Hay Whitney, Selznick International chairman, has gone to Saratoga from New York. Mr. Silverstone, however, said that he is "in constant touch with the Selznick organization."

The United Artists board of directors held a brief meeting yesterday. Company officials said that "nothing of importance" was acted on.

which is to be turned over to the Administration's monopoly investigating committee, some of the high officials of the office have been asked to forego their vacations.

The report which is to be prepared is expected to show the number of patents which have been acquired by various large concerns in certain industries and may also disclose the methods adopted to keep research scientists from taking out patents in their own names and other monopolistic devices.

It is understood that a large number of film patents may come under scrutiny.

On the basis of the Patent Office findings, it will be possible for the monopoly committee to make an investigation to determine the extent to which patents have been acquired and suppressed by big corporations. The alleged shelving of inventions was one of the bases for legislation sought at the last session of Congress for mandatory licensing of patents.

Kalmus Reports Move For European Plants

The establishment of Technicolor plants in Paris, Berlin and Rome was advanced by Dr. Herbert T. Kalmus, president and general manager of the company, during a trip to Europe from which he returned yesterday.

He said "great interest" has been displayed in color plants and negotiations are in progress. The Technicolor laboratory in London is making "good progress," he reported, with three color films now in work. These are Korda's "Four Feathers," "The Mikado" and "Sixty Glorious Years," a Herbert Wilcox production.

Mr. Kalmus was gone two and a half months. He will confer at headquarters here and, following a vacation, will return to Hollywood in about a month.

Newsreel Parade

Coverage of Douglas Corrigan's arrival was listed in all the newsreel continuity sheets yesterday, but was not actually in the reels. The material obtained on the Manhattan yesterday was sent out by airplane as fast as available during the night, and other shots to be taken today of the city reception will be included.

The bulk of the material included in the regular shipments yesterday was a cross-section of stories that have been occupying front pages for the past few days. It included international events, fashions, sports and specialties.

The synopsis of the reels follow:

Movietone News: Corrigan reception. Howard Hughes returns to Los Angeles. Unveiling of monument to late King Albert in Belgium. Hindu fakir walks over hot coals in New York. Henry Morgenthau, Jr., in Paris. Darryl F. Zanuck returns from Europe. Governor Winship of Puerto Rico escapes assassin. Coney Island bathing beauty contest. Railroad ties journey down Wind River in Wyoming. Lew Lehr comments on a robot lawn cutter. Gold Cup regatta in California. French "Tour de France" bicycle classic.

News of the Day: Corrigan arrival and reception. Heat wave in New York. King Albert memorial. Mexico City police in pistol marksmanship demonstration in Los Angeles. Hindu fire walker. Fur fashions. Hearst Gold Cup speedboat regatta.

Paramount News: Corrigan story. Riots in Palestine. University of Wisconsin summer music class. Brazilian naval training ship aground off Puerto Rico. Japanese attempt to stem floods in Kobe. Washingtonian a father at 82. Hindu fire walker.

RKO Pathe News: Corrigan reception. King Albert memorial. Talk by recently appointed Federal Labor Standards Administrator, Elmer Andrews of New York. Demonstration of tear gas use in preventing auto theft. Flight test of new DC 4 airplane in California. Gooney bird sanctuary on Midway Island in Pacific. Hindu fakir demonstrates his "X-Ray eyes." Test fast-opening parachute in Colorado. Coney Island bathing beauty contest.

Universal Newsreel: Corrigan arrival. Washington resident a father at 82. Training ship aground at Puerto Rico. West Pointers at Fort Benning, Ga., infantry school. Howard Hughes in Los Angeles. Hindu fire walker. Coney Island "Venus" contest. English racing car uncrated in Utah. Buffalo wrestling match. Outboard motorboat race in California.

Miller on New York Trip

therefore, there will be no scoops as far as time element is concerned.

It was no easy job for the 50 newsreel men who were assigned to the story. Difficulties ranged from a delay in boarding the Manhattan past Quarantine to the pressing crowds and aggressive newspaper photographers who were begged, cajoled and threatened by police officers, members of the Mayor's reception committee and the reels' contact men to "give the sound newsreels a chance."

The enterprise of which the newsreels are capable was given full play in handling the most momentous ship arrival since Charles Lindbergh's historic return from his long hop in 1927. Paramount and Universal sent advance crews aboard a trawler at New Bedford on Wednesday, by arrangement with NBC and CBS, which chartered the vessel. The newsreel and radio men boarded the incoming liner at Nantucket Light at 5:30 A. M. yesterday.

Newsreel crews were also on one of the two Coast Guard cutters which put out yesterday afternoon. Good shots were caught of the water spectacle, and amid bedlam, as boats of every description raced to escort Mr. Corrigan. The first glimpse of him showed him enjoying the hullabaloo hugely from the captain's bridge.

Once aboard the liner from the cutter, camera and sound men had to wait until newspaper photographers got their fill of Mr. Corrigan. Grinning from ear to ear, he glibly answered all questions for the newsreel "mikes."

"Are you going to accept any motion picture offers?" was one query.

"I seem to be accepting a lot right here," he quickly replied, with a broad smile.

Later he told MOTION PICTURE DAILY he did not know whether he would become a "movie actor," that he would have to consider all offers, but that his future is in aviation.

In dead earnest he reiterated that he "flew the wrong way." "There's no other story to tell," he insisted.

Silent or sound cameras were at various vantage points ashore and on the water, on boats escorting the liner to port, at the pier and atop the Whitehall Building. A Paramount plane circled the Manhattan and the water procession for overhead shots. Movietone News, with 15 men, had the largest number on the assignment. The others had from nine to 12 men each.

question whether he thought the investment company might again seek to negotiate a purchase, Mr. Yandell said: "Anything might happen. But you know the state of the motion picture industry."

Queries regarding the number of members RCA will seek to have on the RKO board following reorganization and their identity were answered by Mr. Yandell with the statement that "David Sarnoff is the only man in RCA who can tell." The president of RCA sailed Wednesday for Europe.

Mr. Yandell's comment on reports Nelson Rockefeller will represent Rockefeller Center on the new RKO board was that "it sounds plausible."

Though he is a defendant in the Government's anti-trust suit, Mr. Yandell said he was not worried. He said the three months he spent abroad were devoted to an investigation of financial matters for the S.E.C.

Paul Buchanan Back

Paul S. Buchanan, in charge of foreign versions for Walt Disney studios, returned last night on the Manhattan after five months abroad during which he arranged for dubbing "Snow White" in nine languages.

These are in addition to the French and Spanish versions, which were made in Hollywood by special permission from the respective Governments.

The versions completed are for major markets on the Continent. Mr. Buchanan also appraised the possibilities for additional foreign sound tracks, including Arabic and Greek. The film will open in Stockholm Sept. 15. Mr. Buchanan will leave for the coast Sunday.

demanding relief against what he termed the intolerable competiti[illegible] situation here. This letter resulted [illegible] conferences in New York between Mr. Rosenberg, the late Aaron Saperstein, Edwin Silverman and distribution officials.

This week independent leaders, B. & K. executives and Austin Keough of Paramount spent three days in discussion. The independents' demands that duals be eliminated and clearance cut to five weeks was declined by B. & K. but that company did offer to drop duals in all its houses except their "A" week theatres if all independents would drop duals. This "concession" was not accepted as independents felt it wouldn't help any since B. & K. through this plan would continue to "milk" big pictures as has been charged.

No other concessions were offered, according to Mr. Rosenberg, who stated that B. & K. and the distributors offered their willingness to make concessions when meetings started. He pointed out that independents had tried their best to work with the distributors for a voluntary correction of abuses but that when concessions were asked no cooperation was given.

AGAIN Jimmy Fidler needs to be reprimanded. Last Tuesday evening the commentator, who has earned a reputation for giving vent to thoughtless remarks, told his air audience something about the co-operative advertising campaign about to be started by the motion picture industry to stimulate the "sale" of pictures to the public. The official slogan for the campaign, he explained, was to be "Movies Are Your Best Entertainment." Whereupon Mr. Fidler cynically added that the first letters of each word of the slogan spelled out the word "Maybe."

A wisecrack is a wisecrack to Mr. Fidler, even though it tends to jeopardize a million dollar campaign by the very industry that supports him in fine style.

In the rush to get the story of the broadcast of "Alexander's Ragtime Band" in under a deadline, we neglected to say something about the perfect production job turned in by Billy Bacher. We hasten to make up for the oversight. A 75-minute program, with cut-ins from New York, Chicago and Hollywood, with a cast as big and as great in name value as this one was, is at best an unwieldy affair, but "Alexander's Ragtime Band" moved with military precision, under Mr. Bacher's command.

Television—Reade Says It's Er- er! And McNeil Disagrees

Television in its present state isn't worth a tinker's darn, in the opinion of Walter Reade. It has reached a stage of importance sufficient to cause apprehension to exhibitors, says R. A. McNeil.

These varying observations were reported by the circuit heads on their arrival yesterday on the Conte di Savoia. Both investigated the possibilities of the audio vision medium while in London.

"Joseph M. Schenck, with whom I went across, Mr. and Mrs. Darryl F. Zanuck and I attended a demonstration of television reception put on by Sir Albert Sterling, head of General Music Industries, which is marketing receiving sets," Mr. Reade related.

"The reception was on a screen 24 by 24—inches, not feet—and it was lousy. It was so bad Mrs. Zanuck wanted to throw a brick at it. I wouldn't give a nickel for television."

A contrasting picture was painted by Mr. McNeil, who is general manager of Golden State circuit of 76 theatres in northern California, with headquarters in San Francisco.

"Television is everywhere around London and is an accepted development, although still in quite an experimental stage," he said. "They have television reception in the cafes and department stores and the Londoners seem to like it. The pictures are good.

"The telecasting range, however, is limited. As long as television remains confined to a limited area, it will not hurt the theatres much. But if they develop it to a point where television will become available everywhere, I am fearful of what will happen to the exhibitors' business."

Mr. Reade, who operates about 30 theatres in New York and New Jersey, said he investigated television for the possibilities of installing it ultimately in his circuit and also for the possibilities of marketing receiving sets here. He was on a vacation in Europe with his wife and daughter. Mr. McNeil's interest was in the effect it will have on theatre business. Sets can be bought for $250 or $300, he said.

The Californian, with his wife and daughter , Peggy, were gone four months, visiting England, France, Switzerland, Germany, Hungary, Jugoslavia, Czechoslovakia, Italy, Syria, Egypt and Palestine. William Wobber, brother of Herman Wobber, 20th Century-Fox distribution head, and his wife accompanied them as far as Rome.

Commentators Under Watch Of New Deal

By BERTRAM F. LINZ

WASHINGTON, Aug. 4.—New Deal officials, said to be annoyed by the alleged one-sidedness of radio commentators, are keeping a close watch upon broadcasting activities, and conduct of the stations between now and the November elections may determine whether an effort will be made next year to revive the plan for a Government transmitter, it was learned today.

The situation was disclosed when officials, in private conversations, charged that political pressure had been exerted on Tennessee broadcasters by the "wrong" political faction. A private survey of all news broadcasts is said to have been made at the instigation of high New Dealers to ascertain whether comment is biased, which is said in informed quarters to have disclosed no basis for charges of partiality.

There has been no threat of forthright action against the broadcasters, but it has been pointed out that there are other ways of meeting the situation, such as the establishment of a Government station, the idea of which was in Secretary Ickes' mind when he arranged for commodious studios in the new Interior Department Building.

'Ragtime Band' Gets Off in Terrific Rush; Record Set

"Alexander's Ragtime Band" scored the biggest opening in the history of the Roxy, with a total of 29,614 admissions recorded on Friday. Backed by a heavy exploitation campaign, the film is expected to set a record during its scheduled four or five-week run. Weekend attendance maintained this pace, Saturday's business appearing to be ahead of Friday's.

Despite oppressive heat and the counter-attraction of the Douglas Corrigan parade, the film opened at 8 A. M. to a line of more than 700 persons. At 2:35 A. M. a party of four took their places, to be the first in line. By 11 A. M. there were 7,500 in the theatre, including lobby standees, and the line was a block long. S.R.O. was the rule all day.

"The biggest thing in the book," commented Irving Lesser, manager of the Roxy. Absolute capacity for the house for seven shows is about 42,000, but that figure has never been reached. The house record prior to the current attraction was held by "The Cockeyed World," which clocked 27,299 admissions on the opening day. That was 10 years ago. Other big openings were chalked up with "One

Bad Business Is Worrying Australians

Melbourne, July 15 (By Airmail via London).—Lack of product, taxation and poor business are forcing an economy wave on exhibitors.

Product is definitely under fire—especially big expensive pictures. More simplicity, more down-to-earth pictures with story content appealing to the masses is wanted, exhibitors claim.

Another factor in the current slump, it is asserted, is the spread of the cash order system — installment buying — which keeps most people concentrating on meeting payments instead of spending in theatres.

Public finances are in the same condition. The recent Commonwealth Loan was under-subscribed and the Commonwealth Bank was obliged to make up the difference. The outlook

Union Asks Probe of Fires in Film Labs

A "rigid investigation" of all film laboratories in the metropolitan area has been asked of Fire Commissioner John McElligott by John H. Rugge, president, Motion Picture Laboratory Technicians' Union, Local 702.

The request, which was authorized by the executive board, followed the explosions at the Warner Bros. Cellulose Products reclaiming plant in Brooklyn early Thursday. A watchman was killed and the building was partly wrecked.

Mr. Rugge's letter to the Fire Commissioner called attention to this occurrence and a similar explosion last

Lawyers Asked Time to Study Trade Changes

Feared Effect of Quick Action on Trust Suit

Legal apprehension over the possibility that major distributors may jeopardize the defense of the Government's anti-trust suit by entering into agreements for the self-regulation of trade practices is one of several factors involved in the current study by company attorneys which has delayed the submission to exhibitors of a trade practice plan until after Labor Day and which will decide the fate of that procedure, it was learned over the weekend.

Several company attorneys, it is said, have expressed the belief that the granting of trade practice concessions to exhibitors at this time might create a situation which would complicate the defense of many of those named in the Government's complaint. It has been pointed out, according to report, that the granting of concessions relating to any of the trade practices complained of in the Government proceeding could be construed and advanced by the Depart-

Conciliation Vital, Asserts R. A. McNeil

Conciliation boards or similar tribunals for the airing of exhibitor grievances are a vital necesity and if established and operated efficiently would prevent much of the agitation for Federal supervision of the industry, in the opinion of R. A. McNeil, general manager of the Golden State Theatre Circuit of San Francisco.

Before leaving with his wife and daughter last night for home, after a four-month European trip, Mr. McNeil said that as an independent exhibitor he disapproved of the Government's anti-trust suit, but added that

'Crowd Roars' and 'Carey' Well Received in New York

"The Crowd Roars" is virile melodrama which points up Robert Taylor in a strong role and "Mother Carey's Chickens" is charming entertainment for the family, in the opinion of New York newspaper critics. Excerpts from reviews follow:

"The Crowd Roars"

Mirror—Very well made, well played and credible melodrama. . . Mr. Taylor's performance is very good.

News—"The Crowd Roars" cinches Taylor's election as a man's man and provides Capitol audiences with capital entertainment. . . Drama with speed, excitement, romance and a lot of human interest.

Herald Tribune—Mr. Taylor plays a tough guy with considerable persuasion. . . The film has little novelty.

Times—Good cinema. . . The story has a surprising amount of content and characterization for a picture involving Mr. Taylor.

Sun—The story . . . is fast-moving, humorous and fairly bursting with melodrama. . . . An entertaining film.

Journal-American—A thoroughly entertaining prizefight drama. . . . Plenty of action. . . . Taylor checks in a convincing performance.

Post—A rousing fight flicker . . . has skeptic males rooting for Robert Taylor. . . . This one was definitely planned to please America's boy friends, and so it will.

World-Telegram—The film is good. It is exciting, well directed and well played. The prizefight pictures are excellent.

"Mother Carey's Chickens"

Times—Right down to its pinfeathers, "Mother's Carey's Chickens" is a good show. . . A rollicking, folksy comedy for all its vintage . . . delightful.

Mirror—A diverting and charming little comedy for all the family. . . It has the charm of quaintness . . . substantial drama . . . delightful cast.

Herald Tribune—At best, wholesome entertainment . . . sympathetic oldsters surely will applaud the film.

News—Warmly human . . . sincerity . . . simplicity . . . comedy of hilarious proportions.

The World-Telegram—Something to tell your friends about. . . . There is sadness in the film, but it isn't overdone.

Post—Tears and laughter, wholesome fun, villains discomfited and a happy ending. . . . No reason to find fault with the excessive sentiment.

Journal-American—The story is unfolded with a quiet charm. . . . Pleasantly pastoral settings. . . . The cast acquits itself ably.

Sun—The audience seemed to like the picture, enjoying it perhaps as a grown-up rereading a favorite juvenile yarn.

Two SDG Petitions To Be Heard Aug. 22

Hollywood, Aug. 7.—After representatives of 10 major studios flatly denied the asserted National Labor Relations Board jurisdiction over the industry, Dr. Towne Nylander, NLRB director, over the weekend issued complaints against them charging violation of the Wagner Act because of their alleged refusal to bargain collectively with the Screen Directors' Guild. Hearing on complaint will be consolidated with the Guild petition for certification as collective bargaining agency for directors, assistants and unit managers Aug. 22 before a special trial examiner here.

Jurisdiction Denied

At a closed meeting which lasted one hour attorneys for the studios declared that the board has no jurisdiction in the industry, the guild as now constituted is not the proper bargaining agency for assistant directors and unit managers, and directors are independent contractors not employees within the meaning of the Wagner Act. The studios' stand makes it obvious that the Screen Writers' Guild case in which the NLRB ruled the industry engaged in interstate commerce and was amenable to Wagner Act terms and that writers as employees would be carried to U. S. Supreme Court.

The Directors' Guild case is the first instance of the filing of a complaint against film studios here over alleged Wagner Act violations. Named in complaints are Warners, Loew's, Samuel Goldwyn, Wanger, Paramount, Columbia, RKO, Selznick, Universal and 20th Century-Fox.

Lombard and Powell For Lubitsch Film

Hollywood, Aug. 7.—Carole Lombard and William Powell will be co-starred in the second of Ernst Lubitsch productions to be financed by Myron Selznick. The pair are to be teamed together for the first time since "My Man Godfrey" and will receive no pay for work but a straight percentage of profits.

Meet on 20th-Fox Drive

Headed by H. H. Buxbaum, branch manager, and Joe Lee, sales manager, the staff of the local 20th Century-Fox exchange will meet at 9 A. M. today for the last of the series of meetings held throughout the country by James P. O'Loghlin, S. R. Kent Drive leader. This will complete an eight-week tour of branches by Mr. O'Loghlin, who is Canadian district manager. Another is to be started shortly.

Goldwyn Fetes Personnel

Hollywood, Aug. 7.—Samuel Goldwyn over the weekend inaugurated a new system of contacting his department heads and executives by taking the entire group to dinner and the Rosenbloom-Pastor prizefight. Mr. Goldwyn plans a social gathering with his aides at least once every two weeks.

United Artists will be the third in the lower section of the city.

Hollywood Previews

"The Gladiator"

(D. L. Loew-Columbia)

HOLLYWOOD, Aug. 7.—The story and production material of "The Gladiator" is of the kind that first zoomed Joe E. Brown to popularity. It includes a lot of comedy and hokum, a dash of romantic love interest and a dab of sentimental human interest. Nevertheless, the picture is a related series of gags, all of which have much audience amusement and commercial exploitation value.

Winning a Bank Night prize, Brown, an orphanage attendant, returns to college. He is hazed by Robert Kent, football hero, and Coaches Donald Douglas and Lee Phelps. His humiliation wins the sympathy of June Travis. Lucien Littlefield, eccentric professor, gives him a dose of a formula that makes him a super-human strong man, able to wreck the football team. Needing money to adopt Dickie Moore, a waif, he turns wrestler and goes into the ring with Man Mountain Dean. Their hokum-packed bout, full of make-believe brutality, is a riot of fun. Brown gives Dean a merry going over until the effect of the formula wears off, whereupon he takes a terrific beating himself. He wins the bout by a trick, however. He also wins Miss Travis and is able to adopt the boy.

Naturally Brown and later Dean are the whole show. Still Miss Travis, Moore, Littlefield, Kent, Ethel Wales, Douglas, Phelps and Eddie Kane, in a cleverly turned bit as an excited manager, contribute much to the production's fast-paced merriment.

Based on a Philip Wylie novel, the screenplay by Charles Melson and Arthur Sheekman together with adaptation by James Milhauser and Earle Snell plus added dialogue by George Marion, Jr., makes it one of Brown's best pictures in months. Edward Sedgwick's direction keeps things moving every minute.

Running time, 70 minutes. "G." McCARTHY

"Painted Desert"

(RKO)

HOLLYWOOD, Aug. 7.—It is safe to assume that RKO's signing of George O'Brien for six pictures for the new season, thereby increasing the annual allotment by two, was based on executives' appraisal of "Painted Desert," the last of the 1937-'38 series. The picture contains more action, more plausible situations and possibly more entertainment value than any of its predecessors, and is a thoroughly rounded out piece of film fare, containing suspense, humor, melodrama, and the requisite movement of this type of offering.

O'Brien is supported by Laraine Johnson, Ray Whitley, Stanley Fields, Maude Allen, Fred Kohler, Sr., Lloyd Ingraham, Harry Cording, Max Wagner, Lee Shumway and William V. Mong. Bert Gilroy produced and David Howard directed, and incidentally this producer-director team will handle the new series. John Rathmell and Oliver Drake wrote the script of Jack Cunningham's story.

O'Brien, a young rancher, buys a mine on his leased grazing land to prevent its being worked and interfering with his cattle. However, assays show a valuable mineral deposit, so he, with Miss Johnson, whose grandfather has been tricked out of the mine by a crooked financier from whom O'Brien purchased the mineral rights, start to work it. The financier, played by Kohler, schemes to get the mine back by placing obstacles in the path of the pair, but is killed by the dynamiting which he inspired.

Running time, 59 minutes. "G." VANCE KING

Circuits and independents are wrestling with the economy problem. In some instances advertising budgets have been halved.

One of the current problems facing distributors is the rejection privileges gained by exhibitors in New South Wales and Victoria, with the prospect of legislation designed to help exhibitors.

The Victorian Exhibitors Association has definitely shelved the move to increase admission prices and is now trying to bring about an abolition of the ticket tax.

Recently a delegation, which included employes' representatives, interviewed Premier Dunstan on this subject and argued for a licensing system similar to that in force in Australia and New Zealand. The deputation informed the Premier that Victoria was the only state in Australia which taxes tickets as low as six pence. The lowest priced ticket taxed in any other state is the tax on nine-pence tickets in Western Australia. In Queensland no tax is levied on tickets under three shilling, six pence.

Spokesmen for the exhibitors claimed that the removal on the tax on six penny tickets would cost the Government less than £20,000 per year. Since the amount of entertainment tax now collected by the Government was £55,000 more than it received in 1933, it would still be receiving over £30,000 in excess of what it had been receiving in that year.

the company defendants "brought it on themselves" by failing to give "the little fellow a break."

"A lot of the independents are in the wrong," he said, "but the fact remains that when they complained to the film companies, right or wrong, they got no attention. The executives were afraid that if they answered the exhibitors' letters they would say something that would later be held against them. The exhibitors have had no place to go with their grievances since the NRA boards went out of existence."

Mr. McNeil said that his Northern California circuit of 76 theatres will probably participate in the industry's promotion campaign, but that a decision will be made later.

New York Previews

"Barefoot Boy"

(Monogram)

Here is a picture for the juvenile-family trade and it should find its mark there with little difficulty. It's earthy stuff about plain people and youngsters with effective dramatic tones and comedy moments. The accent for the most part is on juvenile doings and childish romance. Character building also has a fair part of the story as it tells of the regeneration of a spoiled, headstrong youth by his father.

Mainly the story concerns Ralph Morgan, a banker, who is released from prison after serving a term for a crime of which he is innocent. His wife is about to divorce him and he goes with his spoiled son to live with a kindly farmer and his family. There the boy is brought into contact with other children and becomes involved in their enthusiasms and escapades.

At length they descend on a supposedly haunted house and discover stolen bonds which would vindicate Morgan. But the real culprits come upon them and scare them away. Young Jackie Moran, however, and Marcia Mae Jones in a roundabout way and after much action and excitement eventually corral the bandits. Moran is slightly wounded in the ensuing scuffle, but the bonds are recovered and everything is set to rights.

Young Miss Jones is the outstanding personality in the film. Other good performances are turned in by Moran, Claire Windsor, Helen MacKellar and Matty Fain. Earl Brown directed. The story is credited to John T. Neville.

Running time, 63 minutes. "G." JOSEPH PRIORE

"Time Out for Murder"

(20th Century-Fox)

This film has the stuff that makes thrillers what they are. It has that vital quality that hits off well with all audiences. Various facets of modern life and its accessories and people are worked into the story and the final result should do the trick at the box-office.

It's a murder mystery that involves newspapermen, a feminine employe of a collection agency, gangsters and the telephone company's time-telling service. It switches from the light, breezy and comical to the dramatic with the ease of telephonic connection. The dialogue keeps pace with the staccato trend of the story.

The featured players are Michael Whalen and Gloria Stuart. The former enlists the aid of the girl when he sets out to pin the murder of a demi-mondaine on a gangster. They have a harum-scarum time chasing down clues, questioning suspects and becoming involved in all sorts of ticklish situations which ultimately result in the uncovering of the murderer. The climax is good for 10 minutes of suspense with the reliable chase device and the knocking off of the killer as he seeks to make a getaway. The concluding romantic sequence also defies expectation. Miss Stuart departs leaving Whalen to reform his ways before she's interested.

H. Bruce Humberstone directed. Jane Darwell, Chick Chandler, Douglas Fowler and Jean Rogers are in the support.

Running time, 70 minutes. "G." JOSEPH PRIORE

"Heroes of the Hills"

(Republic)

"The Three Mesquiteers" undertake the problem of penal reform in this latest film detailing their entertaining exploits. The story is unusual for this type of picture, but it satisfactorily blends with the outdoor action and the talents of the featured players. There are few moments devoid of action.

Following a prison break the boys undertake an experiment with a prison farm in order to save the country the expense of a modern jail. They take a number of convicts and put them to work on their ranch. But the construction company that had submitted a juicy bid for the new jail learns of this and proceeds to make things difficult. Murder is done. An attractive miss, Priscilla Lawson, lures Robert Livingstone from his duties and the gang gets its dirty work in. Eventually the tables are turned and the trio corrals the guilty parties. The dialogue is snappy and the production is handled in good style.

George Sherman directed. Livingstone, Ray Corrigan and Max Terhune deliver the stuff. Miss Lawson is a refreshing change from the ordinary western leading lady. The support includes Carleton Young, LeRoy Mason, Forrest Taylor and Roy Barcroft. William Berke is listed as associate producer.

Running time, 55 minutes. "G." JOSEPH PRIORE

Lawyers Asked Time to Study Trade Changes

ment of Justice as an admission of guilt, similar in flavor to the implications of a consent decree. The prosecution could not be relied upon to accept the promulgation of a trade practice program at this time solely as a voluntary effort to adjust internal industry grievances and complaints, according to the opinion of some industry counsel.

The legal study of the situation now in progress and referred to in the statement issued by Sidney R. Kent, chairman of the negotiating committee, will weigh the merit of views such as these, and, in the event they are substantiated, will explore means of effecting self-regulation of trade practices other than that of a procedure by joint action such as is now being attempted, it was said. For example, individual company action in inaugurating trade practice revisions might answer some of the objections being advanced to the present procedure, in the opinion of some attorneys.

However, inability to discover an approved formula for procedure would be almost certain to result in the abandonment of attempts at self-regulation of trade practices while the Government proceeding is pending, it was said.

As stated by Mr. Kent, the legal study which is expected to determine these questions, will be completed shortly after Labor Day.

In a Million," which drew 26,404 persons, with a New Year's Eve thrown in; "Four Sons," which drew 25,981; "Street Angel," 24,171, and "What Price Glory," 23,221. The latter four openings were on a Saturday.

For the first two days the Roxy set a running time schedule of 18 hours, from 8 A. M. to 2 A. M., with the feature presented eight times daily and the stage show seven. During this week opening time will be 9 A. M., with an earlier schedule probable over the weekend.

At least one Broadway house made a switch in booking to overcome the heavy Roxy draw this week. The Rialto is holding over "Booloo," although it did only $7,200 last week, rather than risk a heavier attraction.

"The Crowd Roars" at the Capitol is a strong attraction, having opened within a few dollars of "Test Pilot," according to M-G-M. "Little Miss Broadway" did $30,000 in its second week at the Roxy.

Challenge Dupont "Cavalcade" Claim

The U. S. Government has challenged the claim of E. I. Dupont d Nemours & Co. that it has a propert right in "Cavalcade of America," titl of the company's series of weekl broadcasts over CBS which will be resumed in the fall after being off th air for the summer.

Nevertheless, the title of the featu film that will be shown at the Federa area of the World's Fair has bee changed from "Cavalcade of America" to "Cavalcade of the United States," as a result of Dupont's objection. Th film will have "Highlights of th United States History" as a sub-title

Commenting on a letter fron Brooks Darlington, radio manager fo Dupont at Wilmington, Theodore T Hayes, executive assistant commissioner of the U. S. Commission fo the Fair, said: "The words of the titl in question really belong to the natio at large, it seems to me, and hardly t any one concern. There is at presen a feature moving picture ("Alexander's Ragtime Band") which is subtitled "An American Cavalcade." Th Government should certainly feel fre to use any combination of words t christen a collection of its own historical experiences in the interest o promoting patriotism without the restraining hand of a private enterprise."

Mr. Hayes conferred at the Attorne General's office in Washington an was informed that no infringement o title would occur. Actually, he said "the name was changed because th subject matter will deal exclusivel with events in this country and it wa felt that the word 'America' migh mistakingly be considered as referrin to the entire western hemisphere."

Buying Into DuMont Lab Which Makes Tubes

Paramount has completed arrangements to purchase an interest in the Allen B. DuMont Laboratories of Passaic, which manufactures cathode ray tubes, with a view to the use of motion picture film in television broadcasting.

Barney Balaban, president of Paramount, said that the arrangement with the laboratories provides for advances of funds for television development. The DuMont company is setting up an experimental transmitting station and Paramount engineers are cooperating.

A Paramount official stated that DuMont is in a strong position in the general television situation because of its manufacture of parts necessary in television, chiefly cathode ray tubes.

"These tubes are the most essential and unusual parts of television transmitting and receiving, as the art is now developed in England, on the Continent and in this country," Mr.

A two-year deal for all RKO product to play the 350 theatres in the National Theatres circuit was signed yesterday. Final details were consummated by Jules Levy, RKO distribution head, and William T. Another Record

Everything's happening at the Roxy this week. Irving Lesser, manager of the theatre, yesterday received a letter from D. S. Radzely of Brooklyn relating that he and his wife were expecting a baby, but despite her condition she insisted on seeing "Alexander's Ragtime Band" Saturday afternoon. While in the theatre, Mrs. Radzely's condition changed and she was rushed to her physician. The baby arrived shortly after at Beth Israel Hospital. Mr. Lesser says he's going to suggest they call her Alexandria.

20th-Fox Has 5,500 Sales Pacts Signed

A total of 5,500 product contracts have been obtained to date by 20th Century-Fox, this representing fully 50 per cent of the salcs possibilities of the company, which is leading all others in the number of deals closed for 1938-'39.

The increase over last year at this time is reported as in the neighborhood of 10 or 12 per cent. Selling started as early as last February and has been pushed since. The release this month of "Alexander's Ragtime Band" and the sixth annual S. R. Kent Drive, which will start Aug. 14, will give the sales effort strong impetus, it is expected.

The company has discarded roadshows for its big pictures in favor of pre-release and regular runs backed by big exploitation campaigns. Herman Wobber, distribution chief, feels that extended roadshows are unfair to the subsequent runs and make them wait

"Wind" Will Not Be Sold, Says Selznick

HOLLYWOOD, Aug. 8.—David O. Selznick says "Gone with the Wind" is not for sale and that he has turned down an offer of $1,000,000 for the story property.

"Selznick International is not interested in selling the film rights to any company at any price, contrary to all reports," he said.

The announcement also stated that Selznick International will produce the film without any supervision from other studios, the only arrangement to be a releasing deal to make possible the obtaining of proper players for the cast.

The $1,000,000 offer was believed here to have been made by Warners following conversations concerning the release of the film which began when Norma Shearer refused to play the "Scarlett O'Hara" role. It was first believed that M-G-M had an inside track on the release. Such a deal was unofficially confirmed at Selznick International several weeks ago. However, no papers had been signed. Selznick International's deal with U. A. concludes with the delivery of two pictures. One "The Young in Heart," is finished.

Drop Protest Plans On New Orleans Tax

New Orleans, Aug. 8.—All protest over payment or collection of the recently-enacted one per cent city and state exhibition tax on films has been abandoned by New Orleans exchanges, but may be contested in courts by the Saenger Corp.

Exchanges are billing exhibitors for the one cent state tax and one cent city levy in New Orleans. Saenger, however, informed exchanges they would pay the tax directly to the city and state under protest as a basis for possible court action.

Paramount and Grand National began billing exhibitors for the tax last week. Saenger declined to say when and whether action to contest the tax will be filed.

El Paso Has Big Time Opening 'Old Mexico'

El Paso, Aug. 8.—This town is recovering from a three-day "wild west" celebration over the premiere of "In Old Mexico," which was attended by Harry Sherman, producer, and members of the cast, including William Boyd, George Hayes, Russell Haydon and Jane Clayton.

The opening was featured by a parade of the Hollywood personalities to the Plaza Theatre, escorted by state, county and city officials of New Mexico and Texas, with hundreds of others participating. The Chamber of Commerce of Tularosa, Miss Clayton's home town, attended the opening in a body and brought a brass band of 75 pieces and 1,000 residents of the surrounding vicinity. The ballyhoo got the film off to a big start.

Warner Oland to Be Interred in Sweden

Stockholm, Aug. 8.—Funeral services and interment for Warner Oland who died of pneumonia Saturday will be held in Umea, the town of the actor's birth, according to arrangements made here yesterday.

Upon being informed of the death of Warner Oland, S. R. Kent, president of 20th Century-Fox, who is vacationing at Rangeley, Me., issued this statement:

"We are all shocked and deeply grieved over the sudden death of Warner Oland. Millions of people all over the world will regret his passing as his characterization of Charlie Chan has won a unique spot in their hearts."

Rites for Blystone Will Be Held Today

Hollywood, Aug. 8.—Funeral services for John G. Blystone, a director formerly with 20th Century-Fox, will be held here tomorrow afternoon. Burial will be at Valhalla Memorial Park in Burbank. Mr. Blystone died Sunday of a heart attack. He was 47.

Mr. Blystone entered motion pictures as a property man in 1916. He later became a director with Fox Films and was with that company when it became 20th Century-Fox. During his career he directed over 60 features. He resigned in 1936 and handled directorial assignments last year from Grand National and Universal. He is survived by his widow and two daughters.

Plan 31 Showings on "You Can't Take It"

Columbia will hold trade showings of the Frank Capra production, "You Can't Take It With You," in 31 key cities prior to its general release Sept. 29. Dates and places of the showings will be designated in the near future, and exhibitors will be acquainted at the same time with the national magazine advertising campaign and promotional plans for the picture.

The picture will play a pre-release engagement at the Music Hall Aug. 25, but will not be roadshown.

File Anti-Trust Suit Against L & J Circuit

Atlanta, Aug. 8.—Mr. and Mrs. Fred Wise, owners of the Savannah Theatre Co., have filed suit for $654,000 against Lucas & Jenkins, Inc., operators of 50 theatres in Georgia, charging the defendants had violated anti-trust laws and wrecked their theatre business. Arthur Lucas and W. K. Jenkins, operators of the circuit, and nine major producing companies were named individually as defendants.

It is charged that Lucas & Jenkins joined with distributors in attempting to monopolize the motion picture theatre business in the cities of Savannah, Macon, Augusta, Gainesville, Athens, Barnesville and other towns.

The plaintiff figured his actual damage at $218,000, claiming he had suffered a $40,000 yearly gross loss in business, plus a $40,000 loss through depreciation in the value of the property and a $13,500 shrinkage in the value of equipment. He claims, under the terms of the anti-trust laws, three times this figure, plus costs. The petition was filed by John I. Kelley, attorney.

Essaness Will Seek First Run at Woods

Chicago, Aug. 8.—When Essaness take over the Woods Theatre Sept. 4 the present "C" week dual feature policy will continue, Emil K. Stern, Essaness executive, stated today. However, as soon as suitable product can be secured the house will change over to a first run policy, it is understood. This would put Essaness in a competitive position with B. & K. in the Loop.

The Woods Theatre which has 1,300 seats was purchased from the Marshall Field estate on a 99-year property lease arrangement. The rental for the land will amount to $4,700,000 plus a percentage over a certain figure if conditions warrant. It is also reliably reported that B. & K. also sought to get the property. The advent of Essaness into the Loop area will make changes in the release system, it is said, as Essaness has 24 neighborhood houses to augment its Loop house.

New York's Reviewers Call "Ragtime Band" "Terrific"

"Terrific," "grand" and "very big" are superlatives used by New York newspaper critics in appraising "Alexander's Ragtime Band," first 20th Century-Fox release of the new season. Excerpts from reviews, appearing over the weekend, follow:

Times—Demands recognition as the best musical show of the year . . . a long, elaborate, handsomely produced musical review . . . Mr. Berlin's 26 (songs) are decidedly worth hearing again.

World-Telegram—A terrific and nostalgic musical panorama, a musical history of the most exciting 20 years in American life . . . The music alone carries it along . . . It's grand!

Post—Here is a big, big picture . . . There are many things to please many people . . . The production is lavish.

The Sun . . . So rich in entertainment its mere existence should help the entire movie industry. . . . For straight musical entertainment the show is tops.

The Daily News . . . It's a grand show, an exciting parade of memorable events . . . will be playing for what promises to be a record run.

Long Island to Get First Drive-In Spot

The first drive-in theatre in New York State will be opened tomorrow night near Rosedale, L. I., on the Sunrise Highway. The project occupies a 12-acre site and the season for the theatre is expected to run from April 15 to Nov. 1 under normal circumstances.

The "house" is called The Sunrise Drive-In Theatre and will be operated by Max Rothstein who has been connected with similar enterprises in Boston. The theatre was designed by Irwin S. Chanin.

Jessel Going Abroad

George Jessel, who has formed an association with Alex Yokel to produce several shows in New York next season, will sail on the Queen Mary tomorrow for a week's look-see at current offerings in London and Paris.

Mr. Yokel, who produced the successful "Three Men on a Horse," has another "horse show" in prospect, probably figuring on luck repeating itself.

The World's Fair will also get Mr. Jessel's attention, for he has arranged a concession there, "Little Old New York," a replica of downtown Manhattan in the gaslight era of Jenny Lind, Chuck Connors and similar characters.

They pointed out that it would be next to impossible to complete answers to so voluminous a complaint even though the usual additional 20 days for filing answers was granted by the court, and that an agreement on a reasonable period of time would save considerable trouble for the Federal court here and for the Government and defendants by eliminating the necessity for repeated appearances of attorneys for the 167 defendants to petition additional time for filing answers.

The first batch of answers is due next Monday, 20 days after the date of the first service.

When the proposal is in formal order, Mr. Wright said, it will be resubmitted to Grand National creditors for their approval, as they gave only tentative approval to the proposal when it was outlined to them informally last week in Los Angeles. If approved by the creditors it will then go to the Federal court for final approval. The deal could be placed in effect before the end of September, barring unforeseen complications, a principal in the negotiations said last week.

Hollywood Previews

"Sing You Sinners"

(Paramount)

Hollywood, Aug. 8.—"Sing You Sinners" is a human story of a family which is well worth seeing. It blends comedy, drama, romance, pathos and music. While Bing Crosby's singing in one of the highlights an unexpected departure is made in that Bing is presented as more of a dramatic character than ever before. He handles the role in a way that augurs well for future similar appearances. As Crosby hits a new peak, so does Fred MacMurray. Donald O'Connor is one of the most appealing personalities to hit the screen in months.

The plot is simple. Because Bing, who is always waiting for a chance to make a big cleanup, won't work, MacMurray, who wants to marry Ellen Drew, must remain the family breadwinner. A sore trial to his mother, Elizabeth Patterson, and sometimes a pain in the neck to O'Connor, young brother who worships him, Crosby leaves home. In Los Angeles, following some amazing luck at the racetrack, he buys a swap shop, wires for his mother and young brother to join him and advises MacMurray to marry. Before they arrive he swaps the swap shop for a racehorse. When the household is reduced to eating beans, MacMurray and Miss Drew arrive to encounter disappointment. Following a brawl, Miss Patterson takes charge and makes her brood become entertainers again. Nevertheless Bing's horse runs. A crackerjack race is followed by a knock-down-drag-out fight in which the two mature brothers whale the tar out of a pair of double crossers. With the purse, plus the money won on bets in the hands of Miss Patterson, the trio resume its career as entertainers and the way is cleared for MacMurray and Miss Drew to marry.

It should appeal to every member of the family. It seems headed for highly profitable grosses. For side bits, sustaining the work of the principals, Irving Bacon, as a lecturer, and Tom Dugan, as a race track fan, are good for dozens of laughs. Besides transforming Crosby into a dramatic actor, Director Wesley Ruggles has taken full advantage of all the material made available in Claude Binyon's original screenplay and the talents of the players. Music numbers by Hoagy Carmichael and Frank Loesser and James V. Monaco and John Burke, one a Crosby solo and the others sung by the brother trio, are important in embellishing the story, but they are secondary to the basic romantic, dramatic, comedy theme.

Running time, 85 minutes. "G." McCarthy

"Safety in Numbers"

(20th Century-Fox)

Hollywood, Aug. 8.—Sound entertainment pointed at every member of the family, "Safety In Numbers" continues the class established by prior episodes in the Jones Family series. Short in running time, yet laden with romantic comedy and action, the film parades the familiar cast in characterizations up to expectations.

The film is based on a lively original by Dorothy Manney and Zena George and the screenplay is by Joseph Hoffman, Karen DeWolf and Robert Chapin. It is full of peppy dialogue and situations. Malcolm St. Clair made good use of suspense in holding the plot together.

Though Lucy Jones wins a radio contest for describing her mother as the world's best, Spring Byington gets a radio job sponsored by a crowd which is going to market mineral water to give advice to worried wives and mothers. Meanwhile the slick promotors, headed by Henry Kolker, plan to fleece the town by selling stock in the proposed company. As Jack Jones falls in love with Iva Stewart and they plan to elope, Miss Byington unwittingly gives advice recommending such course. Meanwhile Billy Mahan and Marvin Stephens, after a citizens committee headed by Jed Prouty has begged to be permitted to invest $100,000 in the company, discover the water is no good. They rush their information to Prouty and that worthy is about to be subjected to dire treatment at the hands of his fellow partners until Miss Byington broadcasts a ruse that brings Kolker back to town. An exciting chase follows before the money is recovered, peace is reestablished in the family, and Mayor Jones is again everyone's friend.

Running time, 55 minutes. "G." McCarthy

Short Subjects

'The Memory Lingers On'

(Screen Memories, Inc.)

The producers of this short have hit upon an idea that, while it is not new, is a clever treatment of the days gone by adage. They have culled the film libraries and assembled a noteworthy assortment of clips that strike a pleasant note in memory. Such per[illegible] and events as William S. Hart, [illegible] Armistice, the Dempsey-Willard fight, "Fatty" Arbuckle, Mabel Normand, Enrico Caruso, Charles A. Lindburgh and a dozen other worthies flash on the screen in brief episodes.

An audience at the Music Hall received the film enthusiastically. Running time, 9 mins. "G."

"Pudgy the Watchman"

(Paramount)

Betty Boop's pup lets the mice situation in his mistress' house get out of control. Consequently she calls in a cat and Pudgy goes into a blue funk. The cat is a raffish fellow, who, after he captures the rodents, takes a liking to the cider barrel in the cellar. He gets plastered. The mice make their getaway and proceed to give their captor his lumps. Miss Boop becomes nervous and excited and Pudgy comes to the rescue. The animation is clever and the laughs are plentiful. Running time, 7 mins. "G."

"Moments of Charm"

(Paramount)

This is a musical short that definitely commands attention. Phil Spitalny's orchestra of accomplished girl musicians and singers appear here amid Technicolor surroundings of sheer beauty. The musical content is also noteworthy with its fresh instrumental arrangements and finished performance. It shows a marked departure from accepted form. The showman, really has something distinctive and tasteful here to offer his patrons. Running time, 10 mins. "G."

Restrain KQV from Airing Ball Games

PITTSBURGH, Aug. 8.—An injunction restraining KQV from broadcasting accounts of the home baseball games of the Pirates was granted Socony-Vacuum, General Mills and NBC in a decision handed down here today by Federal Judge Schoonmaker, who said that the action of KQV in placing observers at vantage points outside the baseball park constituted a violation of property rights. Exclusive rights to these broadcasts had been sold previously by the Pirates to Socony-Vacuum and General Mills. KQV claimed the right to report what it saw as long as it did not plagiarize other news agencies.

Judge Schoonmaker held that the fact that the KQV broadcasts were unsponsored made no difference since the station was trying to create good will with the public in this way and thus enhance its chance to acquire additional advertising revenue.

St. Louis Stations Clash with A.F.R.A.

ST. LOUIS, Aug. 8.—Actors sometimes serve as announcers and announcers at times double for actors in St. Louis, Allen Anthony, chief announcer for KWK, testified at a National Labor Relations Board hearing to determine the correct bargaining unit for announcers, singers and actors.

Anthony's remarks, similar to testimony given by other witnesses, was in support of the claim of the American Federation of Radio Artists that freelance performers, announcers, and other entertainers should belong to one unit. About 131 are involved.

KSD, KMOX, KWK and WEW contend that there is little similarity of interest and functions among the groups and have raised the question as to the appropriate bargaining unit for announcers. The hearing, conducted by Trial Examiner J. J. Fitzpatrick, will continue for at least possibly another week.

Originally, the union had demanded that local outfits be employed half of the time.

Only the William Penn hotel escapes the terms of the settlement. It will continue to use out-of-town name bands, drawing the dispensation on the grounds that it employs local musicians regularly at its Continental Bar.

Ad Campaign Pledges Rise To $850,000

Approximately $25,000 Is Raised in a Week

The "Motion Pictures' Greatest Year" campaign fund passed the $850,000 mark with pledges received from U. S. and Canadian exhibitors up to yesterday.

Approximately $25,000 was pledged during the past week for a total of $100,000 from independent sources since the drive for contributions was launched at the Astor here July 27. The pledges of exhibitors in the Detroit area are not included in this tabulation as it was computed in advance of final action by the Detroit exhibitors' booking cooperative.

Less than half of the regional meetings to acquaint exhibitors with the details of the campaign before soliciting their participation have been held. Because of this campaign directors are confident that the independent exhibitor quota of $250,000 will be fully subscribed before the start of the campaign Sept. 1.

The Atlanta regional meeting was set yesterday for Aug. 15 at the Ansley Hotel. The meeting will be

For the last six years Mr. Kamen has had exclusive representation for all commercial and licensing activities in connection with the Disney name and characters. Government to Grant 60 Days In Trust Case

All Requests for Time On Answers Honored

By BERTRAM F. LINZ

Washington, Aug. 9.—Defendants in the Governments' anti-trust suit are being given ample time in which to file their answers to the Department of Justice complaint, it was made known today by department officials.

Under the law, it was explained, a defendant is given 20 days in which to file his answer after being served with a copy of the petition. Not all the defendants in the film case have been served, it was said, but a number of those who have been reached have asked for an extension of 60 days, which has been granted in every case. Accordingly, it was said, it is unlikely that answers to the complaint will be filed before November.

Department officials pointed out that 20 days is a very short period in which to make an adequate defense to the voluminous petition filed by the Government and that it was felt only fair that the additional 60 days should be granted. A similar course is followed in practically every suit, it was said.

INDUSTRY DEFENSE BY RADIO PLANNED

Academy Group Decides Against Sponsor for Proposed Series

Hollywood, Aug. 9.—The film industry may eventually have a radio program to answer blasts of critics and clear up misinformation spread by commentators, columnists and others. This appeared possible following a meeting of leaders of the Academy and talent groups until an early hour today over reorganization of the Academy at which it was decided that the proposed radio program of the Academy, "Cavalcade of Hollywood," would not have a commercial sponsor when it makes its bow on a national network this fall.

Meeting at the home of W. S. Van Dyke, chairman of the reorganization committee, 55 leaders representing various industry branches unanimously approved the work of the Van Dyke group and adopted a policy of refusing for the time being commercial sponsorship of the contemplated broadcast series, which, it was announced, both CBS and NBC are willing to take on a sustaining basis. The possibility that a sponsor might dictate

Republic Shift Makes Siegel Top Producer

Hollywood, Aug. 9.—Realignment of the production setup at Republic by Herbert J. Yates today placed Moe J. Siegel, president of Republic Productions, Inc., as only executive producer on the lot. Charles E. Ford, who had the title of executive producer in charge of westerns and serials, and Sol Siegel, who had the title of executive producer in charge of features, have become associate producers handling their own series of pictures.

The former lineup is said to have been merely an experiment. Mr. Ford and Mr. Siegel, the studio declared, asked for the present status.

Mr. Yates will be here for another week.

Los Angeles, Aug. 9.—Production expenditures will set an all-time high during the period of the "Motion Pictures' Greatest Year" campaign, Darryl F. Zanuck said today on his return to the 20th Century-Fox studio following his recent European vacation.

Lohr Asserts Radio Freedom Is Essential to Democracy

In a surprising address over his own network last night, President Lenox R. Lohr of NBC entered a vigorous defense of the American system of broadcasting, saying its maintenance was essential in our form of democracy. Mr. Lohr's broadcast was made in connection with the inauguration of KVOO, Tulsa, Okla., as a full-time NBC station, and his text occasioned surprise because addresses of welcome to stations are usually confined to salutations.

Mr. Lohr pointed out that any infringement upon the freedom of the

Loew's Disregards Roadshow Picketing

Loew's executives yesterday were paying no attention to pickets in front of the Astor and the Loew's State Bldg. carrying signs demanding that members of the Theatrical Managers, Agents and Treasurers Union be employed for the Astor roadshow of "Marie Antoinette," which will open next Tuesday.

Lodewick Vroom, president of the union, said the picket lines were posted because Loew's and M-G-M officials have failed to answer the T.M.A.T.'s demands for recognition and employment. He said the union regards film roadshows in the same category as stage shows and the union claims jurisdiction where reserved seat tickets are sold.

Mr. Vroom said that wherever film roadshows operate, in New York or elsewhere, the union will demand employment of its members, crews to consist of two ticket sellers, a manager and a press agent. Additional staff members in the same classification will also have to be union members, he said.

The T.M.A.T. some months ago obtained a basic agreement with the stage producing managers in New York, but there has been no move for a similar pact with film circuits.

Wright to Talk with Alperson on GN Deal

After completing discussions today on Educational's proposal for a merger with Grand National, Loyd Wright, co-trustee of the latter company, will leave New York tomorrow for Chicago where he will confer with Edward A. Alperson on the results of the discussions here.

Mr. Wright declined to comment last night on the status of the proposed merger after five davs of conferences with Earle W. Hammons, Educational president. He had predicted completion of the final work on Educational's proposal by last night or early today, but when queried on the progress made yesterday he stated, "I will have no comment to make until after I have conferred with Mr. Alperson in Chicago on Friday."

Principals in the negotiations denied that any "hitch" had been encountered, but no forecasts were made yesterday as to when the proposed merger might be consummated. Mr. Alperson will go to Chicago from Hollywood for the Friday conferences with Mr. Wright.

Laboratories Safe, McElligott Asserts

The city's fire laws make adequate provision for safety at laboratories, and the places where film is stored are subject to constant inspection, according to Fire Commissioner John J. McElligott.

This is the commissioner's reply to the request of Motion Picture Laboratory Union, Local 702, for a "rigid investigation" of all film laboratories in the metropolitan area, made following the fatal explosion at the Warner Bros. Cellulose Products reclaiming plant in Brooklyn late last week.

No changes in the city's regulations are needed to cope with the situation, Commissioner McElligott indicated. He has referred the union's letter to the Fire Prevention Bureau.

Hollywood Preview

"Four Daughters"

(Warners)

Hollywood, Aug. 9.—From Fannie Hurst's story "Sister Act," Warners have evolved a photoplay of exceptional merit. It is bound to strike a responsive and appreciative chord in the hearts of any audience no matter how widely tastes and preferences may differ. It has prestige value and withal is a commercial attraction, and when placed in the hands of the exhibitor it should yield handsome returns. Seldom has a picture so charmed an audience as this one did at a preview at the Warner Hollywood Theatre here.

This picture is no ordinary film. Furthermore it is one which went without excited advance exploitation and clamor. An understanding adaptation, masterful direction, talented players and the whole roster of the production staff down to the humblest company attache all contributed to the admirable transition from script to screen.

"Four Daughters" is rich in homey, human entertainment essentials, whether they be romantic, dramatic or humorous, which strike a note of frustrated pathos or are tragic. Although it is sometimes perplexing, it has the fascinating power to hold attention, and create the illusion that the spectators are actually living with and undergoing the experiences which are the lot of the characters.

The story is a melodrama of love sacrificed. The four daughters, Priscilla, Rosemary and Lola Lane and Gale Page live for the happiness of each other and that of their uncle, Claude Rains, and their aunt, May Robson. Priscilla, the youngest, and Miss Page, the oldest, pledge that neither will marry, but will continue to live as a happy family. Then comes Jeffery Lynn to set their hearts aflutter. As Miss Page hides her disappointment he becomes engaged to Priscilla. As Rosemary leaves to pursue a music career no one can foresee the complications that will ensue when Lynn's cynical friend, John Garfield, in spite of himself, falls in love with Priscilla. For him she deserts Lynn at the altar and Lynn, stunned, leaves the house of happiness broken in spirit. Miss Page finds comfort in the affection of Dick Foran, a small town florist. The married life of Priscilla and Garfield is bravely pathetic. At a Christmas homecoming she and Garfield both realize how a home has been shattered and how many lives have become snarled by their rash act and its effect. But Garfield's sacrifice, as bitter as the way life has treated him, untangles the skein. Time re-knits the threads of romance between Priscilla and Lynn and joins Miss Page with Foran. Life is newer, sweeter and bigger for the four daughters, Rains and Miss Robson.

In addition, the film offers the talents of Julius J. Epstein and Leonore Coffee who adapted the story, direction by Michael Curtiz and production by Hal B. Wallis.

Exhibitors and patrons have three new personalities in Miss Page, Lynn and Garfield to extend a warm welcome. Audiences are already familiar with the capabilities of the Lane sisters, Miss Robson, McHugh, Foran and Rains.

"Four Daughters" is a show audiences must see and one which demands that exhibitors exert all their showmanship acumen to see that they do.

Running time, 85 minutes. "G." G. McC.

Overseas Previews

"St. Martin's Lane"

(Mayflower-Association British)

London, Aug. 1.—There are two immediate points of appeal in this second creation of the Pommer-Laughton team—the half section it opens on, a slice of London's low life, and the performance of its star. Despite a certain fidelity to subject and setting, despite revealing glimpses of the world of London's curbstone entertainers, and the lamp-lit nightlife of the Metropolis, the subject matter is reminiscent of the molehill rather than the dramatic mountain, and interest revolves rather on Laughton's performance as Charlie the busker.

The star has never done better in sympathetic characterizations, making a strangely fascinating figure of this lumbering dog-like fellow, who develops a street waif to stardom to find only that the glamorous world of the stage claims her rather than his own half adult devotion. It is a clever conception etched with studied strokes, at times crudely funny, at others poignant. Sympathy is with him all the time, despite the physical repulsion, rather than with Vivien Leigh's somewhat unconvincing Cockney whose actions and accents have ever the underlying groundwork of over refinement.

Tim Whelan's direction is both sympathetic and sensible, and the settings for the most part reminiscent of the London original. The script is from an original by Clemence Dane. Erich Pommer produced.

Running time, 85 minutes. "G."

"Alf's Button Afloat"

(Gainsborough-General Film)

London, Aug. 1.—Designed as a vehicle for the London Palladium's celebrated "Crazy Gang"—Flanagan and Allen, Nervo and Know and Naughton and Gold—this very free variation on the theme of Darlington's best seller lacks nothing in inconsequential and crazy comedy. Its laughs, built for the most part on native humor, came so fast and so frequently that the premiere audience was literally unable to keep pace with them. Sheer clowning from beginning to end, with its gags, dialogue and slapstick paced at a feverish rate, it is probably as successful a British comedy as yet has been achieved, a triumph as much for scenarist and director, as for the six comedians.

The whole comedy centers on the possession of a button, made from a portion of Aladdin's lamp, getting the most from the situation, obtaining crates of beer, getting a court martial translated into a material tribute to their service and—thanks to the Genii's misunderstandings of English—having supplied for the hunt a bevy of circus horses who persist on going into their ring routine at the wrong moment.

Marcel Varnel directed, with an undercalculation of its laughter stimuli; the script was brilliantly written by Marriott Edgar and Val Guest, and Arthur Crabtree handled the excellent camera work.

Running time, 89 minutes. "G." Aubrey Flanagan

Hollywood Preview

"Rich Man, Poor Girl"

(M-G-M)

Hollywood, Aug. 9.—M-G-M has brought forth a family drama in "Rich Man, Poor Girl" which, judging from the audience reaction at the preview, will bring satisfaction to the patrons and the showmen. Reinhold Schunzel had this as his first American directorial assignment. Featured are Robert Young, Lew Ayres, Ruth Hussey, Lana Turner, Rita Johnson, Don Castle, Guy Kibbee, Sarah Padden, Gordon Jones, Virginia Grey and Marie Blake. It's a new twist to the old story of rich man and the poor girl who wants to be sure it's really love.

Creditable performances are turned in by the dependable Mr. Young and the regenerated Mr. Ayres whose role in Columbia's "Holiday" re-established his popularity. Two newcomers—the Misses Hussey and Turner—captivate the audience with their portrayals of a rich man's secretary whom he desires to marry, and her sister, who is anxious to leave the slums for the gilded circle of "society." Miss Turner's emotional outbreak upon learning that her hope of leaving a tawdry tenement house have been blasted away, is a classic.

The screenplay by Joseph A. Fields and Jerome Chodorov heightens the poignancy of Edith Ellis' play, "White Collars," and the story by Edgar Franklin. Schunzel, a recent European import, makes the most of its comedy and heart throbs. Edward Chodorov produced the film.

Running time, 65 minutes. "G." Vance King

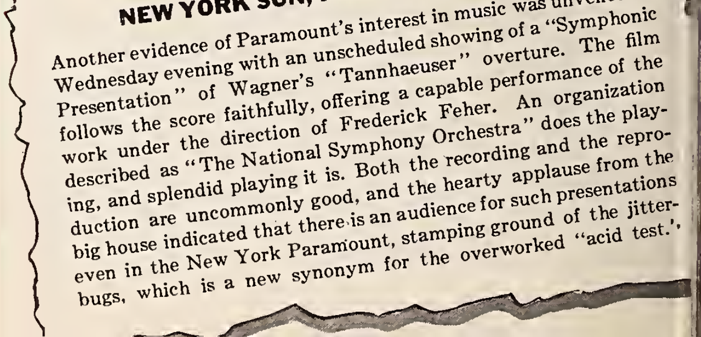
Paramount Pictures

FIRST ALL COLOR BIG TIME BAND SHORT . . .

Ever out to improve the box office value of Paramount's 100 percent box office tested shorts, Paramount comes through with the ac popular music short of the year. Starring Phil Spitalny and his all-girl orchestra, featuring such radio favorites as Maxime and the Three Little Words, the combine which took the No. 1 prize for the best short subject of the season just passed, this two-reeler adds the audience appeal of full color to make this a sure-fire winner. "Moments of Charm" will be included as part of your Headliners without extra charge.

FIRST BIG TIME SYMPHONIC ORCHESTRA SHORT

Symphony orchestras have been cheered when appearing on the screen as parts of feature pictures. Here is Paramount bringing you a complete symphonic rendition of a popular favorite, the "Tannhaueser" overture, played by the largest symphony orchestra ever assembled for a picture, in a short which has been proved guaranteed box office. Below you see a typical reaction of critics and public alike. Preview audiences, at the New York Paramount, home of the swing music fans, and Grauman's Chinese, in Los Angeles, not only liked this short, they raved about it, cheered it, wanted more...It's another prize winner for Paramount, another proof you can't beat box office tested shorts.



NEW YORK SUN, FRIDAY, JUNE 3, 1938

Another evidence of Paramount's interest in music was unveiled on Wednesday evening with an unscheduled showing of a "Symphonic Presentation" of Wagner's "Tannhaeuser" overture. The film follows the score faithfully, offering a capable performance of the work under the direction of Frederick Feher. An organization described as "The National Symphony Orchestra" does the playing, and splendid playing it is. Both the recording and the reproduction are uncommonly good, and the hearty applause from the big house indicated that there is an audience for such presentations even in the New York Paramount, stamping ground of the jitterbugs, which is a new synonym for the overworked "acid test."

B.&K. Expected to Lease the Oriental

By BILL CROUCH

CHICAGO, Aug. 9.—Indications are that Balaban & Katz will sign a new lease for the 3,490-seat Oriental and open the house about Sept. 2. The Oriental, second largest Loop theatre, has been dark for three months due to disagreements over the rental. Reports that B. & K. will place Benny Goodman and his band on the stage for the opening week have not been confirmed or denied by B. & K. executives. It is expected that the theatre will run on a stageshow policy as in the past. Top admission, which was formerly 75 cents, is expected to be nearer 50 cents.

Chicago's latest gift to Hollywood, News Commentator Truman Bradley, is headed for film fame, according to reports received here from M-G-M. "Brad" is slated to be Metro's next big "discovery," it is said. Humorous slant on this situation is that Bradley's friends here had to plead with him for weeks to get him to accept Metro's offer for a series of screen tests.

"Marie Antoinette" is slated to open as a roadshow here about August 28. The premiere will be at the Erlanger, according to current reports.

Perhaps the greatest reception ever given a local trade showing was the midnight preview of "Alexander's Ragtime Band" at the U. A. theatre the other evening. The demand for preview tickets was exceeded only by the tremendous reception given the picture. The opening of the film is set for Friday at the Chicago and it is expected that it will run for not less than three weeks.

Papers are expected to be signed this week which will bring about the establishment of a theatre in the Merchandise Mart. Space on the first floor will be utilized to make an arena shaped theatre to be used by the Federal Theatre Project and will seat approximately 500. Some months ago plans were discussed for establishment of a newsreel theatre in the Mart, but these were abandoned.

James Luntzel, former B. & K. press representative, has turned to free-lance publicity and has started his own firm.

Business comes first to Herb Elisburg, Essaness publicity director. Herb spent his time at the Michael Reese Hospital last week awaiting the arrival of a son, by contacting the local press regarding the meeting to raise funds for the film advertising drive. He called this correspondent 10 minutes after the son's arrival—and he told about the meeting before he announced the birth.

Pascal Sold Shaw Film Idea After All Others Had Failed

By IRENE KUHN

It took Gabriel Pascal, a Hungarian without a cent to offer, but with the courage of his conviction that he could make a Shaw play into a better film than anyone else, to succeed with the Irish genius where others with millions had failed.

Mr. Pascal, who calls himself a "hobo producer," is here now with the print of "Pygmalion," a Cinderella story of a flower girl who became a duchess.

Shaw's material is entertainment for the masses, says Mr. Pascal.

Mr. Pascal is managing director of Pascal Film Productions, Ltd., London, and has produced with his own units in France and Italy. He has options on two more Shaw plays, "The Devil's Disciple" and "Caesar and Cleopatra." He will make "Devil's Disciple" in Hollywood, do the exteriors for "Caesar and Cleopatra" in Italy and the interiors at Pinewood.

"But I will not make any more pictures without American cooperation," he said. "If we foreign producers can't get American cooperation we may as well just make 'B' pictures."

Leslie Howard co-directed "Pygmalion" besides starring in it.

The producer is conducting American distribution negotiations under the guidance of Dr. A. H. Giannini. He has gone to Hollywood but will return to Europe for the Aug. 28 opening in Venice, coming back to America directly afterwards.

Canada Holds Second Advertising Meeting

Ottawa, Aug. 9.—The second of a series of trade rallies in eastern Canada in behalf of the industry's big advertising campaign was held here today with a large attendance of local and district theatre owners and circuit managers.

The meeting, which was held in the Chateau Laurier, was addressed by N. A. Taylor, president of the Motion Picture Section of the Toronto Board of Trade, and Gordon Lightstone of Toronto, Ontario branch manager of Regal Films, Ltd. Details of the campaign to cover the four months ending Dec. 31, including newspaper displays, theatre banners, window cards, heralds and trailers were described and an outline was given of the theatre question contest on new season product.

Ottawa exhibitors signed pledges to pay 10 cents per seat as their share of the campaign cost. Prominent in the discussions was P. J. Nolan of Ottawa, owner of the Avalon, Rexy and Nola.

Shift "Antoinette" Plan

Cleveland, Aug. 9.—"Marie Antoinette," originally scheduled for local roadshowing at the Hanna, will, instead, play Loew's State early in September at popular prices. Under consideration is a plan to open the Mayfair Casino, immediately adjoining the State, for a display of the "Marie Antoinette" Museum now showing in New York.

National Film Buys Resume After Meets

National Theatres' negotiations for United Artists, Universal and Paramount product for 1938-'39 will be resumed following the circuit's regional meetings, which will be concluded in Los Angeles Aug. 17. Spyros Skouras and William Powers, chief film buyer, are attending the sessions.

The two product deals closed by the circuit to date have been for two years. These are with 20th Century-Fox and RKO. Two-year contracts were negotiated with M-G-M, Columbia and Warners last year and are in effect for the coming season. Whether the deals with the remaining three companies will be for one or two years is uncertain, this depending on the kind of deal that can be made.

Twentieth Century-Fox is not making any deals for more than one year, it is said, and the National Theatres two-year contract appears to be an exception.

J. J. Sullivan, Fox West Coast film buyer, who has been here working on new deals is attending the Kansas City and Los Angeles meetings of National Theatres and will probably remain on the coast for a month before returning here.

National to Help in "Ad" Drive—Skouras

Kansas City, Aug. 9.—As its form of participation in the industry's national advertising and business building drive, National Theatres will spend more on advertising, it was stated here today by Charles P. Skouras in a speech delivered at the annual meeting of the circuit being held at the Hotel Muehlebach. Mr. Skouras declared that pictures this year look better than for several years in the past and added that business will improve materially following the last week of August.

The industry's advertising drive is one of the important subjects of discussion at the convention, which is being attended by Spyros Skouras and all division managers of the circuit.

Film contracts and showmanship generally also were treated at today's session.

Rodgers to Attend Meet

William F. Rodgers, M-G-M distribution chief, and E. M. Saunders, western sales manager, are due in Kansas City tomorrow to attend the National Theatres' regional meeting. They will also attend the Los Angeles sessions, starting next Monday and continuing for three days. Earlier this week they were in Detroit on product deals with George Trendle and Cooperative Theatres of Michigan.

Labor Board Says Writers Guild Won

wood producers. The board, however, refused to extend the authority of the guild to the screen writers in five companies where no collective bargaining representatives were elected, dismissing a petition filed by the guild.

While officials of the board refused to comment, today's action in certifying the results of the elections was seen as forecasting an unfavorable decision on the producers' protests against the elections, based on allegations that they had been given no opportunity to verify the employment of the writers who voted.

Guild Support Listed

Voting to select between the guild and the Screen Playwrights as collective bargaining representatives, the board announced, the former received a majority vote from the screen writers employed by Loew's, Selznick International, Samuel Goldwyn, Inc., Republic Productions, Columbia Pictures, Paramount, RKO, Universal, 20th Century-Fox, Warners, Hal Roach Studios, Monogram and Darmour, Inc.

The guild petition which the board dismissed sought to include the writers in Grand National, Trem Carr Pictures, Major Pictures, B. P. Schulberg, Inc., and Walter Wanger Productions in the group which it is to represent. The board, however, pointed out that no votes were cast in the case of four of these companies and but one in the case of Walter Wanger Productions, and held that the principle of collective bargaining presupposes that there is more than one eligible person who desires to bargain. However, it was added, a single employe has the right under the act to designate a representative to act for him.

Associated British Expansion Finished

By AUBREY FLANAGAN

London, Aug. 9.—At the annual meeting of Associated British Pictures Corp. today Chairman of the Board John Maxwell said the objectives of the directorate had been achieved and that the company's policy is now being directed toward consolidation of the present position. He said expansion had been carried out conservatively out of profits.

Another good year for theatres was forecast with the outlook for improvement over present figures which represented a profit of £1,302,000, an increase over last year of £37,000.

The net proceeds of January's £1,000,000 issue have been used to pay off the floating debt of the company, it was stated. The general reserve is now £2,425,000, plus £200,000 set aside for addition. Liquidation of subsidiaries has progressed, the stockholders were informed. Income and national defense taxes took £315,738. Total assets of the corporation are now nearly £17,000,000.

Esmond, motion picture director. On appeal, Frank P. Graves, Commissioner of Education, viewed the picture and listened to arguments by opposing counsel, subsequently upholding Mr. Esmond in his rejection. Shortly thereafter, during the storm of protests over the rejection, the board of regents amended their rules, taking over appeals on the banned film.

The American Society for Maternal Welfare next appealed to the board of regents, which had already seen the film on December 8, 1937. Decision was withheld until mid-April, when the board as a whole voted against licensing the picture. Appellants, through Ellis Staley of Albany, their counsel, contend in the certiorari proceedings that the picture is educational in nature. Seemingly, action will go to the Appellate Division and possibly later to the Court of Appeals, as did both "Ecstasy" and "Tomorrow's Children."

air would be as serious as an infringement upon the freedom of speech and press to the political philosophy upon which this country was founded. He added:

"Radio in America is not a channel for propaganda. The American audience is not compelled to listen to one program, dedicated by a Government agency. The listener has the right to select any of the wealth of programs offered by the keenly competitive system of American broadcasting. The thumb and the forefinger on the dial becomes a censor that, under our commercial system of broadcasting, cannot be disregarded. We could not long remain a free people if these fundamental rights were nullified. Our form of Government demands freedom of expression for survival."

Continuing, Mr. Lohr said that since the beginning of this nation "Americans have guarded their fundamental rights of freedom of speech and freedom of press. Now we have a new right—freedom of the air. It is only by the jealous guarding of these rights that advances . . . are made possible. We must continue to guard them if our form of Government is to survive."

He stated that American broadcasters have been "conscious for many years of their obligations for public service."

MAJORS DROP ALL ROADSHOW PLANS

"Marie Antoinette" Sole Two-a-Day in Sight; Seek Quick Profit

That roadshows are virtually a closed chapter at present in picture business is exemplified this year with only M-G-M's "Marie Antoinette" scheduled for two-a-day showings with no other company planning to release films other than through the usual channels. In 1937-'38 there have been nine two-a-day or roadshow films.

A number of factors are militating against two-a-day de luxe runs at increased box-office prices. The chief one seems to be a policy on the part of the companies to obtain as many runs as possible in a short time in order to boost the revenue record. Another reason is the belief that the public is highly show-wise and fan interest in a film mounts during its production, reaching a peak upon its completion. Unless this interest is capitalized quickly, it will diminish, according to some film executives.

It is also maintained that the ballyhoo given a roadshow opening cannot

RKO Gives 26 Titles in New Season's List

Several Features Ready, Depinet Points Out

RKO Radio's production schedule for the 1938-'39 season will consist of 48 features, six westerns and 199 short subjects, including 104 issues of the RKO Pathe newsreel, Ned E. Depinet, vice-president in charge of distribution, revealed yesterday. The schedule is numerically the same as that for the season just closing. The final release of the company's current season program is the Fred Astaire-Ginger Rogers-Irving Berlin musical, "Carefree," scheduled for Sept. 2. Twenty-six titles are given.

The late announcement of the company's new season production plans finds more pictures either completed or in work for early fall release than the company has ever had at the time of

Closing Trend Ends; Autumn Openings Set

A generally optimistic outlook for fall business is expressed by circuit executives as they prepare to reopen theatres which were closed for the summer. A survey at circuit headquarters here discloses only a small percentage of increase in theatres darkened during July and August as compared with last year. The larger circuits will be operating full strength by Labor Day or shortly after.

John J. O'Connor of RKO stated that his circuit had six theatres dark the summer of 1937, and 15 this year.

Starting the reopening today, the seven RKO houses in the metropolitan area will be in operation by Sept.

Censor Amendment Again Voted Down

ALBANY, Aug. 10.—An attempt to revive the amendment designed to abolish film censorship was defeated, 62-28, by the Constitutional Convention today. The motion to bring the measure out of the Bill of Rights Committee was offered by Henry Hirschberg, its sponsor. The committee previously had tabled the measure.

As phrased, the proposal would have extended freedom of the press to radio, films, stage and "all other mediums for the dissemination of ideas."

Warners to Use Air On Series Pictures

HOLLYWOOD, Aug. 10.—Warners, for its new season, is embarking on one of the most extensive radio exploitation campaigns ever given low budget productions. Three radio programs patterned after the characters in three of the four series of pictures contemplated are being offered by Transamerican to prospective air sponsors, while the fourth series already has a companion program on the air.

The air programs now being prepared parallel the "Torchy Blane," "Secret Service," and "Nancy Drew" series, and the one already on the air is "Jane Arden" on CBS for Ward Baking Co. in the east.

Glenda Farrell "Torchy Blane"

The three Transamerican shows will have the Warner actors of the roles in the radio parts. Glenda Farrell and Barton MacLane will play the top roles in the "Torchy Blane" radio program. Ronald Reagan, who will be starred in the "Secret Service" films, will be in the radio program of that name, with W. H. Moran, retired head of the U. S. Doob Pinch Hits

Washington, Aug. 10.—When Andrew R. Kelley, dean of local drama editors, was on vacation his column was written by show world personalities. One of the pinch-hitters was Oscar Doob, Loew's director of advertising and publicity.

Closing Trend Ends; Autumn Openings Set

1, and the out-of-town theatres between Aug. 18 and Sept. 10. Mr. O'Connor said prospects for fall are good.

"I base my optimism on reports coming to me from all over the country reflecting a general improvement in business conditions," he said. "The picture output looks far better for the first fall quarter than for the spring quarter, too."

While RKO, Loew's and Skouras closed more theatres this summer than last, the increase is not great. Five Skouras houses will reopen soon at a date not yet announced; Loew's seven local houses will reopen Aug. 25, and its one out of town closing early in September, probably.

Warners closed only six over the entire country and these will reopen about Labor Day. Leonard S. Schlesinger was optimistic about fall business and mentioned the new Strand Theatre policy, which includes a stage show, as indication of better business prospects.

Paramount Closings Few

Paramount's 35 summer closings, less than five per cent of its entire national group, represents only a few above last year's figure. Reopening dates will be set soon.

Randforce will reopen three after Labor Day, as will National Theatres.

The only varying note came from Consolidated Amusement, which said it has no plans to reopen the Ascot, 2301 Grand Concourse, closed July 14, and may even darken four or five others.

Circuits which have announced early reopenings are: Brandt, six houses; Century and Cocalis, each with one theatre resuming. Circuits reporting no theatres were: Interboro, Walter Reade, Prudential & Playhouse Operating Co.

Majors Drop Their Plans on Roadshows

sustain itself until it reaches the subsequent runs.

On the other hand, it is pointed out that where a picture is of a type that merits a roadshow, the distributor can, by proper handling, derive considerable revenue in excess of the normal total. This was the case with "Romeo and Juliet," it is said, 18 two-a-day runs of the film in large centers having grossed $1,780,000. A total of 420 subsequent roadshow engagements in smaller spots returned approximately $1,860,000.

The experience of 20th Century-Fox with its roadshows of "In Old Chicago" early this year convinced the company's sales executives that it is more beneficial to the distributor and exhibitor to release big pictures without two-a-day runs.

When it came time to plan for "Alexander's Ragtime Band," 20th Century-Fox developed a "showmanship" campaign to take the place of two-a-day ballyhoo. It encompassed nationwide exploitation designed to impress the millions with the film's appeal and was planned to surpass that usually given a roadshow because of the greater revenue immediately available with which to recoup costs.

M-G-M has no two-a-day scheduled beyond "Marie Antoinette," which will close the company's 1937-'38 season. In the last year M-G-M has also roadshown "The Good Earth," "Captains Courageous" and "Firefly" on Broadway.

"Antoinette" Release Aug. 26

"Marie Antoinette" two-a-day runs will be limited to the Astor on Broadway, opening next Tuesday; the Geary, San Francisco, starting Sept. 4, and at the Carthay Circle, Beverly Hills, where it has been since July 8.

With the exception of these three territories, the national release date on "Marie Antoinette" is Aug. 26.

In addition to M-G-M's four, films given two-a-day runs in selected key cities or more extensive roadshows during 1937-'38 were: "In Old Chicago" and "Lloyds of London," both 20th Century-Fox films; U. A.'s "Hurricane"; Columbia's "Lost Horizon" and Warners' "Life of Emile Zola."

No Fanfare

"All the traditions having to do with the premiere of a feature picture will be ignored" when M-G-M opens the two-a-day run of "Marie Antoinette" at the Astor Tuesday night, according to a release from Howard Dietz.

"Despite the brilliance of the production, there will be no exploiting of society names, no emphasis on the appearance of celebrities and stars, and none of the ostentation that makes theatre lobbies inaccessible at events of this sort. Instead, simplicity will characterize all arrangements."

Council Intervenes In WNYC Court Move

Richard J. Barry, counsel to the Councilmanic Committee to Investigate Relief, yesterday applied to N. Y. Supreme Court Justice Peter Schmuck for permission to intervene in the argument to be held today before Justice Kenneth O'Brien on the right of the City Council to investigate WNYC, the municipal station. Mr. Barry contends that the effort to block the WNYC inquiry is designed primarily to block the relief inquiry.

The City Council committee met yesterday but did not have an opportunity to question Morris S. Novik, director of the station, who failed to answer a subpoena. Mr. Novik, meanwhile, was conferring with Mayor LaGuardia at the summer City Hall on the World's Fair grounds. Questioned there, he expressed surprise that the committee had been expecting him because of the order obtained by the Corporation Counsel compelling the committee to show cause why the subpoena should not be vacated.

Device to Measure Audience Perfected

A new device for measuring the radio audience has been perfected and will be placed in use in about two months by the A. C. Nielson Co., research organization of Chicago. Called the Audimeter, the device, a box-like affair, is attached to the radio set and records through a perforated tape the periods when a set is in use, and when it is turned off.

The Nielson Co. shortly will make a test survey by placing 5,000 of the machines in as many homes for an indefinite period, while about 1,200 additional Audimeters will be shifted throughout the country. The present method employed by most program rating organizations, including the one most generally used in radio, the Cooperative Analysis of Broadcasting, is to telephone the homes of set owners and asking those called what programs they have listened to.

Goebbels Says Reich To Lead U. S. on Air

Berlin, Aug. 10.—Speaking at the opening of the annual radio exposition here, Paul Joseph Goebbels, Propaganda Minister, asserted that Germany will oust the United States from first place in the field of radio. He also voiced opposition to private ownership of radio, and said that broadcasting "imperatively demands leadership by the state itself." Radio, he declared, "must be one of the most decisive means in the hands of the state for leading the people." Germany, with 9,500,000 radio subscribers, leads Europe in the number of radio listeners.

in the interests of the campaign. He has met with the circuit's district managers, advertising and publicity men in Chicago, Milwauke and Washington, and will hold meetings in Philadelphia and Newark next Tuesday, in Pittsburgh on Wednesday and Cleveland on Thursday.

"We are absolutely pledged to work cooperatively with all theatres in the coming campaign," Mr. Goldberg said. "We expect our exhibitors to take a major part in the committees formed in various cities for community campaigns and the response on their part has been absolutely enthusiastic."

All sales of accessories, contest booklets and other campaign materials for the drive will be on a strictly cash basis, Mr. Schaefer stated yesterday. The procedure will save time, facilitate distribution of the material and conserve the campaign funds for the primary purposes of national advertising and conducting the prize contest for patrons, he pointed out.

"To avoid setting up extra bookkeeping and accounting arrangements, the executive committee feels that you will heartily approve its decision to make all orders for 'movie quiz' booklets and other campaign accessories a strictly cash with order transaction. All sales will be final. Only in this way can we devote the full amount of our campaign fund to the objective for which it was intended," Mr. Schaefer's message stated.

Trailers on the campaign are now available from National Screen Service. The major circuits have started to ship them to their first run houses throughout the country.

The Strand is the first theatre on Broadway to plug the contest in outside displays. "You must see this picture if you plan to enter," says a sign in the outside lobby.

Murray and J. Earl Hayes of the Fox Midwest Division, Ember Brennan, Lowell Parmentier, Gene Kilburg and Harold Knudson of the Wisconsin Division, and Don Dugan, Harold Jones, Jack Copeland and Harry Ashton of the Intermountain Division.

Herman Wobber, general sales manager of 20th Century-Fox, and H. E. Jameyson, district manager for Fox Midwest, deplored the activity of radio commentators and newspaper columnists.

All those attending were guests at dinner of E. C. Rhoden of Fox Midwest tonight. Departmental meetings will be held tomorrow and the convention will close Thursday night with a banquet and show.

Almanac Finds Attendance at 83-88 Million

Annual Gross Runs Close To Billion Mark

Weekly attendance ran from 83,000,000 to 88,000,000 last year and the gross from this in the United States was between $900,000,000 and $1,000,000,000, according to statistics compiled in Motion Picture Almanac, the annual issue of which will appear next week.

The Almanac also reveals that the average admission price is 22 cents; that there were 17,541 film theatres last year in this country with a seating capacity of 10,924,484; that 16,251 were open and 1,290 closed, and that the number of new theatres constructed from June, 1937, to June, 1938, was 440.

It is estimated that the total payroll in the United States includes 282,000 individuals; that the Hollywood

Theatre Managers Share Big Contest

Managers of all theatres in the United States and Canada participating in the "Motion Pictures' Greatest Year" campaign will be eligible for a $2,100 prize contest to be conducted by the campaign committee for the best advertising and exploitation conceived by individual theatres during the drive, it was learned yesterday.

While details of the prize contest for theatres have not been completed yet, it is known that there will be con-

Plan "Bandfest" for Blind Musicians Aid

Plans are under way for a blanket broadcast of a series of "bandfests" to be given at Randall's Island Stadium on Aug. 24, Sept. 1, 7 and 14, for the benefit of blind musicians. The project hopes to include all available bands in the New York area and broadcast a half-hour from each concert.

The benefit is being worked out at present with the cooperation of Local 802 of the Musicians Union and the sales departments of the networks and local stations.

Key City Grosses Showing Steady Mid-Season Upturn

Key city grosses have shown an upturn for three consecutive weeks and are running ahead of June and July, it is shown by reports received by MOTION PICTURE DAILY from first run houses in 23 spots. The total for the week ending Aug. 4-5 was $1,219,473. The previous week the total was $1,203,373.

Both of these totals are ahead of any computed since the first week in June, when the total was $1,237,740, following the Memorial Day weekend impetus. At that time reissues began to make their appearance in the absence of strong first run product and a decline set in which continued for the rest of the month. Since then there has been a gradual pickup.

The latest total is regarded as particularly encouraging, because the number of first runs in operation at present is at the summer low—132. Last winter there were 150 first runs open in these cities. Observers expect the gain to become accelerated during the remainder of August, in spite of the heat, because strong new-season product is coming out.

Raft Is Suspended For Refusing Role

HOLLYWOOD, Aug. 11.—Paramount today suspended George Raft from the contract list for his refusal to report for work in "St. Louis Blues," it was announced by Adolph Zukor, chairman of the board. Mr. Raft, through his agent, Myron Selznick & Co., refused to start work in the film after having signified his approval of his part in the final script, the courtesy of such approval having been extended to him by the company, notwithstanding that his contract does not require such approval, Mr. Zukor said.

The picture was originally scheduled to start Aug. 1, at which time Mr. Raft signified his readiness to start work in the leading male role. A temporary postponement of approximately 10 days then became necessary as a result of an emergency ap-

Lee Says G.B. Will Try Television Here

Gaumont British is planning to extend its television operations to the United States and Canada and may enter the North American field commercially within the next year, it was learned yesterday. The company controls the Baird television patents.

Word of the company's intention of entering television activities here was first given by Arthur Lee, G-B general manager for America, during his recent western tour. Mr. Lee left yesterday for Montreal, where he will meet Arthur Jarratt, head of Gaumont British theatres, who will arrive there tomorrow from England aboard the Empress of Britain.

In Mr. Lee's absence, no statement could be obtained from the company's offices here as to whether or not Mr. Jarratt's visit is associated with the company's television plans.

Studio Labor Pact Talks Begin Monday

Major company heads will meet the presidents of the five international unions which are signatories of the five-year basic labor agreement with studios on Monday to discuss wage revisions, Pat Casey, studio labor representative, said yesterday.

The producing companies have requested a 10 per cent reduction in union scales, it was learned, and other revisions of the agreement of a minor nature. It was also reported that the discussions may consider the possible effects on the basic agreement of the Government anti-trust suit. Official comment on this report could not be obtained, however. What subjects the unions will propose for consideration were not made known.

The five international unions which are signatories of the agreement are

Allied to Ask N. Y. Ascap Control Law

A bill limiting Ascap's activities, patterned on the legislation recently upheld in the state of Washington, will be sponsored by Allied of New York in the next legislature, which will convene in January.

The directors of the organization have authorized Harry G. Kosch, Allied's general counsel, to draft the bill. Mr. Kosch believes it will have a good chance for passage in view of the rejection of Ascap's appeal on the Washington statute by a three-judge Federal statutory court. That law prohibits blanket licensing of the use of music and provides for individual licenses with the copyright owners.

Allied's board also approved the proposal to hold its first annual convention jointly with that of New Jersey Allied Oct. 19-21 at the Ritz Carleton in Atlantic City.

Educational, G.N. Merger Details Set

Signing Expected Today; Creditors Must Act

The proposal for the merger of Educational and Grand National was placed in final form here yesterday and is expected to be signed by the principals today.

Final details of the proposed merger were completed shortly after the arrival in New York yesterday of Edward Alperson, co-trustee of Grand National, who arrived from the coast by plane one day ahead of schedule. The agreement followed a week of conferences between Earle W. Hammons, president of Educational; Loyd Wright, co-trustee of Grand National, and Clinton Latourette, counsel to the Grand National trustees.

In the event the agreement is signed today as scheduled, the Grand National officials will leave for the coast tonight to re-submit the proposal to Grand National creditors for formal approval. The creditors already have given their tentative approval to the substance of the plan.

Kansas City, Aug. 11.—The convention of National Theatres closed today as William F. Departmental meetings of bookers, district heads and division managers were held this morning. This afternoon Spyros Skouras brought the sessions to an official termination with an address in which he said that the quality in current releases is so high in entertainment value that theatre men should feel an increased responsibility toward the building of the pictures' success.

Thomas Claims Reds Run Federal Theatre

Washington, Aug. 11.—Communistic influence in the Federal Theatre Project, long a subject of controversy, today was dragged out into the light by Representative J. Parnell Thomas of New Jersey, member of the House committee investigating un-American activities, who announced he would seek a separate investigation of the project by that committee. He demanded the resignation of officials responsible for the situation.

Congressman Thomas charged the project has proven a "patronage vehicle" for Reds and that, although sponsored for the benefit of unemployed professional actors, it has been supplying jobs to Communists without experience. So complete has been the infiltration of Reds, he alleged, that Communists now dominate the project.

What Key City Critics Say . . .

Following are excerpts from the reviews of new films by film critics of key cities:

"Professor Beware"

Los Angeles Herald and Express— . . . The best he (Lloyd) ever made. . . . There isn't a doubt that this film will have an important influence on Hollywood production.

"Mother Carey's Chickens"

Boston Evening Transcript— . . . An appealing film. . . . It is a sentimental story drawing its entertainment value from the unaffected tale of a family which has no permanent home. Miss Weidler is exceptional.

Boston Globe— . . . It is refreshing to find a picture like "Mother Carey's Chickens." . . . Fay Bainter is especially fine. . . . Every child ought to see it. Adults also will probably want to stay over for a second show.

"Gateway"

Los Angeles Times— . . . In preview form moves at a slow pace until a riot scene picks up the tempo. . . . Judicious cutting would seem to be required before general release. . . . Interesting characterizations.

"Painted Desert"

Los Angeles Times— . . . Evidently working on the principle that if one menace makes a western good, six will make it perfect. . . . They fail in their purpose.

"Little Tough Guy"

Chicago Tribune— . . . Just another "Dead End" and "Crime School" so far as story, motif and players are concerned. . . . "Dead Enders" are splendid. . . . Has several dramatic and extremely moving sequences.

"I'll Give a Million"

Boston Evening Transcript— . . . A gay, entertaining bit of nonsense, brimming over with good comedy. . . .

"Letter of Introduction"

Los Angeles Times— . . . Ten strike for Edgar Bergen and Charlie McCarthy. . . . It will prove tops. . . . Many adroit interludes. . . . Has moving qualities, and is rich and rare entertainment.

Los Angeles Examiner— . . . To a capacity preview audience at the Hollywood Pantages, "Letter of Introduction" scored a tremendous hit. . . . Was acclaimed as the happy combination of being "arty" and supremely box-office.

"Smashing the Rackets"

(RKO)

Another interesting cycle has descended on audiences and exhibitors if this is any indication. The special prosecutor and his cleansing of metropolitan vice and extortion is dramatized here and will provide thrill-entertainment of a reliable sort. This film does that, and very well, too. The opportunities for vivid exploitation are rife.

Chester Morris, a G-man turned assistant district attorney, is later made special prosecutor by a civic-minded body. His opponent is Bruce Cabot who rises from mouthpiece to dictator of a mob. Rita Johnson and Frances Mercer are the women in the case. The former kills a racketeer who attempts to knock off Cabot, her heart interest, and Miss Mercer, her sister, is the girl Morris marries after he has put the criminal syndicate away. In between the romantic moments there are revelatory sequences portraying how racketeers function and how they make their fatal mistakes. The characterizations are colorful and the dialogue utilizes much tight-lipped delivery. The high points of the story will be familiar enough once the action gets going, having been played up all over the front pages of the nation's press at one time or another. This particular story is based on a series of articles by Forrest Davis.

Lew Landers directed and delivered a production with the right elements properly mixed. Lionel Houser handled the screenplay. Also featured are Ed Pawley, Walter Miller, Edith Craig and Theodore von Eltz.

"Man from Music Mountain"

(Republic)

HOLLYWOOD, Aug. 11.—Gene Autry rides, shoots and fights again in "Man from Music Mountain." The story is more modern than most western pictures and lends itself to exploitation in situations other than those normally played by outdoor action films. The Boulder Dam water and power lines to surrounding communities are the background of the picture, with Autry successfully preventing the cheating of investors who have bought lots in a ghost town on the premise that water and power lines would be put through that vicinity.

Supporting Autry are Smiley Burnette, Carol Hughes, Sally Payne, Ivan Miller, Edward Cassidy, Lew Kelly, Howard Chase, Albert Terry, Frankie Marvin, Earl Dwire, Lloyd Ingraham, Lillian Drew, Al Taylor, Joe Yrigoyen and Polly Jenkins and Her Plowboys. Joe Kane directed from the script of Betty Burbridge and Luci Ward, based on an original story by Bernard McConville. Charles E. Ford was associate producer.

Autry, a rancher, discovers that some swindlers are selling lots in a ghost town with the promise of water and power from Boulder Dam. Added inducement to investors are free shares in a supposedly defunct gold mine. After rows with the promoters and their henchmen and logs figuratively tossed in Autry's path by Miss Hughes, the love interest, the complexion of the townspeople's troubles clears when gold is discovered in the mine.

Victoria Exhibitors May Increase Prices

By CLIFF HOLT

SYDNEY, July 15 (By Airmail via London).—Victorian exhibitors are debating the advisability of increasing admission prices.

At present a minimum price of one shilling exists throughout Australia. In Victoria this price carries a tax of one penny and there is an additional half-penny tax for every six pence or part thereof by which the price of the ticket exceeds one shilling. Accordingly, if the price of a shilling ticket is raised to one shilling one penny the cost to the public becomes one shilling 2½ pence.

Supporting the proposal to increase admission prices, Robert McLeish, president of the Victoria C.E.A., said that exhibitors had recently been faced with a tremendous load of increased expenditure, to balance which there had been no corresponding increase in theatre admission charges. On the contrary, they were lower than for many years past.
